The third annual rally was held in Memorial Hall last Friday evening, and proved itself one of the most notable occasions held at Bowdoin for a long time. A large number of Bowdoin's best known and most loyal alumni were on hand and these with the student body and a number of preparatory school men made the gathering a large and enthusiastic one.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flags of many colleges, fraternity banners and other decorations, all of which were arranged about the hall in a most artistic manner. Music was furnished by the college band and the Glee Club and this part of the program gave a pleasing variety to the evening.

One of the attractive things of the rally were the souvenirs, which consisted of printed copies of some of the Bowdoin college songs. On the outside cover was a fine picture of the Hubbard Library and the college seal, together with the date of the rally. Altogether the souvenir was one of the most pleasing that could have been devised and reflects great credit upon the committee.

Like its predecessors, Friday night's rally was delightfully informal. The Freshman and the "old Grad" met on equal grounds and like true Bowdoin men, they felt that it was as it should be. Speeches were made, the band played, refreshments were served and from the time Chairman Hawkesworth introduced the first speaker until the close, the occasion was one of delightful informality and good fellowship. Surely the rallies are one of the great events of the college year.

The speaking was of the best. There was wit and fun mingled with more serious things touching the policies of the college and its varied interests; and more than that, the speeches all had the ring of the Bowdoin spirit.

The first speaker introduced by Chairman Hawkesworth was President Hyde, who responded in his usual happy manner. He said, among other things, that Bowdoin was always celebrating, and this time it was the 100th anniversary of the first Commencement. He also stated that he was pleased to announce two gifts to the college. The first was a present from the Class of '73 and was a trophy to be presented annually to the class among the alumni that was most largely represented at each Commencement. The second gift announced was from a number of the alumni who had subscribed $5,000 to make up the deficit in the running expenses of the college for the coming year. President Hyde then touched upon the topic of "The College Man in Business," and in a brief but forcible manner showed that there was a constantly growing demand for the college man in this field.

The next speaker was Judge Clarence Hale, '69, of Portland. Judge Hale responded to the subject "The Atmosphere of the College." His speech was exceedingly humorous and was one of the happy responses of the evening.

Dr. Daniel Robinson, '73, of Bangor, was the next speaker, and his address was both eloquent and brilliant. He responded to the subject "Bowdoin Spirit" and told of his first impressions received at the fiftieth anniversary of the Class of 1825, at which Lafayette was present. He also spoke of an incident of the college days of Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard who got into a dispute with a railroad man and which ended somewhat disastrously for the general's antagonist. Dr. Robinson referred very eloquently to the heroism of Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, The Hero of Little Round Top; to William Pitt Fessenden, the statesman; to Charles Jameson, Class of '76, who led a forlorn hope in the Boxer uprising, and to Commander Peary now on a dash for the North Pole.

Franklin C. Payson, '76, was the next speaker. Like all of Mr. Payson's speeches, his remarks were bright and humorous. He said that the only speaker in his class was Charles T. Hawes of Bangor, who was also present. He stated that the 100th anniversary, to which President Hyde had referred, was merely an incident and that the real significance of the occasion was in the fact that it was the 30th anniversary of the Class of 1876.

Charles T. Hawes, a graduate member of the Athletic Council, came next. He spoke on "Bowdoin's Present Athletic Policy," and among other things said: "It is our policy to maintain our present freedom and avoid all entangling alliances with other colleges of the State. Football will be played at Bowdoin next year, no matter what other colleges do. The outlook in track and baseball is encouraging and all hope for a clean record of Bowdoin victories."

Coach Smith and Captain Tobey of the track team spoke of the track situation and urged upon the students the necessity of hard work. Coach Irwin and Captain Hodgson of the baseball team spoke of the baseball situation. They stated that the prospects for a good team were encouraging.

Captain Drummond of next fall's football team stated that a system of graduate coaching would be inaugurated with the next college year and that Laferriere, '01, would be the head coach.

Other speakers were Harry L. Webber, '03, of Auburn, and George E. Fogg, '02, of Portland. The meeting concluded with the college yells, songs and cheering, ending an event that all who were present will long remember.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The first production of "The Rivals" will be given in the Brunswick Town Hall next Friday evening, April 27. The club has been handicapped by several of its members, being forced to drop out. Only this week Estes, '09, who was to take part of "Julia," has left college to teach. Nevertheless, Simmons, '09, will fill his place, and everything points to a good production next Friday. Ever since the spring term began, rehearsals have been held daily, and the competent coach, "Gus" Huse of Bath, has pronounced the cast to be even better than it was last year. "The Rivals" is a comedy, and although it has been on the boards many years, it is just as full of fun and just as laughable to-day as it was a hundred years ago.

The Dramatic Club needs the support of the whole student body this year, for the cost of the staging of such a play as "The Rivals" amounts to a large sum. The costumes and wigs are of the period of the Revolution and can only be hired at large expense. Furthermore, "The Rivals" is a play which calls for much good acting, and consequently considerable time and money have been spent at the rehearsals, for which one of the best coaches in the State has been employed. The production of an annual college play will become an established custom at Bowdoin, if the play is a success this year, but if "The Rivals" is not a success it is probable that dramatics will have to be given up. To make the play a success every man in college can help by being present. The seats cost but 50 cents, and every one that comes is guaranteed his money's worth. The plan for the sale of tickets is as follows: Checks will be sold this week to every one who intends to attend the play, and these checks, which cost 50 cents apiece, can be exchanged for seats when the seats go on sale at Shaw's Book Store at 8 A. M., Monday, April 23.

Admission tickets will also be sold at the door on the evening of the performance, but seats will probably not be obtainable then.

MUSICAL CLUB CONCERTS

Manager Andrews has completed arrangements by which the postponed concerts at Thomaston and Camden are to take place Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25. The Tuesday evening's concert will be at Thomaston and that of Wednesday evening at Camden. The concert at Thomaston will be given under the auspices of the Junior Class of the High School, instead of the Senior Class, as had been previously arranged.

The date of the annual Brunswick concert will be Monday, May 7.
THE TRACK OUTLOOK

This year Bowdoin faces one of the hardest battles in the history of her track athletics. With the graduation of Captain Deming of last year’s team, the college lost its great individual point winner, and the loss is not easily replaced.

Nevertheless, there are some very encouraging features of the present situation and the men are developing splendidly under the efficient coaching of Mr. Smith. In the jumps especially, there seems to be a remarkable amount of new material, all of which is developing rapidly. In the distance runs Bowdoin should have strong candidates for the leading positions. The men who have done such good work in the past two years are in good form again and will doubtless give a good account of themselves. In the pole vault and half mile the prospects do not appear so encouraging, although they may improve before the meet.

Not much is known about the new material for the sprints, as the muddy condition of the track up to the middle of the week had prevented a good tryout. Captain Tobey is in fine form for the hurdles and there are some other men who are working out well in these events.

A good word should be said for Coach Smith. He is working hard and conscientiously with the men and is not only taking careful pains with the sure point winners, but also with the men who may not accomplish much the present year, but who are to count in the years to come.

The following men are candidates for the different events:

Half Mile—Holman, Blair, Chadbourne, Hughes, Brewer, Morrison, Timberlake.

Broad Jump—Purington, Whitemore, Minch, M. C. Webber, Pennell, Thaxter, Crowley.

High Jump—Thaxter, Pennell, Atwood, Bridgham, Sanborn.

Pole Vault—Winchell, H. Burton, Gastonguay.

Discus—Adams, Webber, Thomas, Stacey.

NOTICE.

Coach Smith wishes all who are trying for the field events to come out between 10 and 12 o’clock in the morning.

HARVARD SECOND GAME

Manager Wilson of the baseball team, announces that he has arranged a game with Harvard Second for June 2. This is the date when the proposed game with Dartmouth would have been played, and will complete a schedule of the usual number of games. The game will be played on the Whittier field.

DR. SACHS’ LECTURE

Dr. Julius Sachs spoke in Memorial Hall last Monday evening on “Teaching as a Profession.” Dr. Sachs is connected with the Department of Education at Columbia University and is one of the leading educators of the country.

He said in part: “Every student as he approaches the end of his college course naturally turns his mind to thoughts of his future work. In a great measure the decision of this question should depend upon himself, yet the advice and counsel of his professors will often aid greatly in shaping his future course. Opinion is prevalent at the present day that the profession of teaching is over-crowded, and so it is, but by men of inferior ability. For the right kind of man approaching it in the right spirit it offers an attractive field and the difficulty at present is that there are not enough competent men to fill places.

"Men should not elect teaching for the good it does them, but for the good that they can confer upon humanity. Mere college training is not a fit for teaching, but simply a basis upon which the teacher can build. The two requisites necessary for a successful teacher are scholarship, and study of methods. In the first of these the student should avoid the dangers of specialization, and endeavor to procure a good general education, and develop keen reasoning powers. In methods of study mechanical methods alone cannot bring success, they should be accompanied by tact and skill, qualities which every teacher should make strenuous efforts to acquire. You who would be teachers, neglect no opportunity to broaden, extend your knowledge along social as well as literary lines, disregard those who advocate specialization in the earlier part of the college course and utilize every opportunity to strengthen and fortify your position as a teacher.”

Concerning Ourselves

With this issue the ORIENT passes into the hands of the new editorial board. It is with a keen sense of responsibility and with some knowledge of the difficulties connected with the work that the new board enters upon its duties. It is not too much to say that the task of getting out a representative weekly in a college of Bowdoin's size is one of the most difficult duties connected with the various fields of college activities. The man who labors in athletics has the constant inspiration of an enthusiastic student body behind him; the same is true to a great extent of the debater; and in either case their work is largely confined to a season. It is different with the men on the college paper. They get but few kind words (if they are fortunate enough to deserve them), and they are sure to get unkind ones. They must labor each week through the college year and at the end should consider themselves fortunate to have escaped with their lives.

With these things in mind the new board asks for the assistance and co-operation of the student body and faculty. If it is felt that the college weekly may be improved, take active steps to help us make the change. This can best be done by coming to the members of the board with an honest, frank criticism, rather than by unkind words behind our backs. The college weekly deserves the active assistance of the students and faculty and we respectfully request the same.

The new board plans no radical departures for the coming year. Perhaps the most important innovation will be the attempt to run a college calendar each week. In this, too, we must have the assistance of the students and faculty, especially the managers of the various college organizations. If they will kindly inform us of coming events in their departments, it will make it possible for a reliable calendar to be printed each week. The calendar will be in charge of J. S. Stahl and H. H. Burton, the two new members of the board, who will endeavor to see the managers and members of the faculty each week.

The ORIENT also hopes to print a Faculty department more regularly than in the past. In this the co-operation of the faculty is absolutely necessary. All items concerning the members of the faculty are always of interest to the students and alumni, and such a department should be a distinct help to the paper.

Contributions from the alumni will always be welcome. There are few ways in which the college paper can be made more attractive than by contributions from outside sources. Communications are especially solicited. The opinion of the graduates on college matters is of interest and importance to the undergraduate body and the ORIENT will welcome the opportunity of bringing about the closest relationship.

In closing, we simply wish to say that we ask for the help of the students, alumni and faculty. Without it we shall be seriously handicapped. With it we pledge our efforts to publish the best possible paper.
Sympathy  Men in college will extend heartfelt sympathy to William J. McDougall, '06, in the sudden death of his father, which occurred recently at his home in Rockland. Mr. McDougall had been a resident of Rockland for many years, where he was well known. He is survived by a wife, one daughter and three sons.

Pleasing Gifts  All friends of the college were pleased to learn at the rally last Friday of the new trophy that is to be given each year to the class having the largest number of graduates present at the annual commencements. The gift is both novel and appropriate and will be an added impetus to the class reunions each year. The plan is to reckon by the percentage of living members in each class, thus giving all an equal chance in the competition. The gift is made by a member of the Class of '73 in behalf of that class. It has not been decided as yet as to exactly what the trophy will be.

Another pleasing incident of the rally was the announcement of the pledging of $5,000 to meet the current expenses of the college. It has been one of the sources of regret for some time past that there should be an annual deficit and for some of the alumni to take charge of the matter for the current year is a source of keen pleasure to the friends of the college. Both this and the trophy are appropriate and timely gifts and are another evidence of the splendid loyalty of Bowdoin's graduates.

Graduate Coaching  Beginning with next fall, Bowdoin will inaugurate the graduate coaching system in football. For some time past the matter has been under consideration by our Athletic Council and the action has been taken only after mature deliberation. The system is now in vogue in a number of large colleges, including Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth and is apparently an unqualified success. It is believed that there are a number of advantages in the system that can be gained in no other way, important among which will be that with the same head coach year after year the teams will be coached in the same methods of playing the game each season. This is a most desirable result. Under the old system of a different coach nearly every year men have been obliged to adapt themselves to varying methods of playing with the result that they never mastered any of them well.

Another gain is that there will be more coaches. The advantages of this are evident. It will give the individual player an attention which he has never before had and as a result will permit of the rapid development of green material. Men who make good coaches for certain positions can be secured from the alumni and work on candidates for that particular position. In the past it has often been the case that the coaches secured have been fine men for training the candidates for particular positions, but have been useless for others and the elimination of this defect by graduate coaching will be no small advantage. The expenses of the new system will be somewhat heavier, but it is believed that the advantages accruing will more than commensurate for the increased outlay.

NOTICES  All Seniors appointed on the provisional list of commencement speakers are required to write commencement parts. These parts, which should be not more than twelve hundred words in length, will be due, Monday, May 14.

The Hawthorne Prize is forty dollars, given by Mrs. George C. Riggs (Kate Douglas Wiggin) and is awarded annually to the writer of the best short story. The competition is open to the members of the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Classes. The stories offered in this competition must be not less than fifteen hundred words in length, must be typewritten, and must be left at Room 3, Memorial Hall, not later than May 14.

The subject assigned for the competition for the Pray Prize in English Literature and composition is "The Tragedy of Macbeth. Its Material, Dramatic Art, Poetry, and Moral Teaching." Due June 5.

Six copies of the catalogue of the Art Collections of Bowdoin College are wanted. For these, the regular price—twenty-five cents—will be paid. They may be left with the Librarian.

GREAT BASEBALL VICTORY  There was great rejoicing on the campus, Wednesday night, as the result of the victory over Brown by the score of 7 to 5. The victory was a most unexpected one, as the team has had little practice and was weakened by the absence of Greene and Abbott. A bonfire was indulged in, after which a procession was formed and calls made on several members of the faculty. The Orient will give an account of the game next week.

College Notes
BOWDOIN VS. EXETER TOMORROW.
April 26 is Fast Day and a holiday.
Haley, ’08, is teaching school at Harpswell.
Richardson, ’09, is teaching school at Topsham.
Jesse Wilson, ’03, is visiting his home in Brunswick.
R. K. Eaton, ’05, is visiting his home in Brunswick.
Ray Pettengill, ’05, was a recent visitor at the college.
Millard Chase, ’04, was a visitor at the college last week.
H. S. Pratt, ’09, will not return to college until next fall.
A. W. Merrill, ’08, was in Portland last Saturday and Sunday.
The Zeta Psi Fraternity will give its house party Wednesday evening, May 2.
Harold Kirkpatrick of Phillips-Andover, was a recent visitor at the college.
R. H. Remick, Wesleyan, ’08, was visiting friends on the campus, last Saturday.
General Chamberlain gave a lecture in the Congregational Church last evening.
Manager Wilson is distributing neatly printed copies of the season’s baseball schedule.
Atwood, ’09, has returned after an absence of over a week on account of sickness.
Stacey, ’09, has returned to college after a week’s visit to his home in Somerville, Mass.
The members of the D. K. E. Fraternity dined at the Rossmore last Saturday evening.
The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity sat for pictures at the Webber studio, last week.
Burton, ’07, was in Portland, Saturday, on business connected with the printing of the next Bugle.
Captain Schumacher of the Bates football team visited friends in college during the latter part of the week.
Cole, ’09, returned to college last Monday after an absence of many days on account of the illness of his mother.
E. O. Beane, ’04, who was captain of the football team in the fall of that year, was one of the visitors at the college last week.
John M. Bridgham, ’04, was a visitor at the college during the closing days before the recess. He is teaching at the Groton School, Groton, Mass.
Estes, ’09, will leave Friday for South Thomaston, where he has a position as principal of the South Thomaston High School.
A meeting of the Junior Class was held on Wednesday of last week. The principal business was the appointment of a committee to collect funds for the payment of certain bills.
Bowdoin is represented in the Cooper murder trial, which is now attracting so much notice in the papers, by H. M. Heath, ’72, counsel for the defense, and by Mr. Heath’s able assistant, A. M. Goddard, ’82.
Gammon, '09, has returned to college after an absence of about six weeks on account of illness.

Upton, '07, returned to college the first of the week after a prolonged absence caused by illness.

Beginning with this week, Sunday chapel will occur at 5 o'clock through the remainder of the year.

Pennell, '08, will be out of college during the spring term, being engaged in work at his home in Portland.

Prof. Sachs who spoke in Memorial Hall last Monday evening, attended the chapel exercises last Tuesday morning.

There have been several fraternity baseball teams organized and quite a number of games are soon to be played on the Delta.

The paths on the campus are being made over with the ashes taken from the furnaces which supply the college buildings with heat.

The debating team is busily at work preparing for the debate with Clark next Friday evening. The team will leave Brunswick next Tuesday evening.

A dancing party was given at the Theta Delta Chi house, Wednesday evening, in honor of several young ladies from the Burnham School, North Hampton, Mass.

Favinger, '06, has accepted a position as instructor in Latin and Greek at Tome Institute, a Southern school and one of the largest secondary schools in the country.

The announcement has recently been made that the employees of the Lewiston, Bath & Brunswick Railway are to receive a 10 per cent. raise in wages under the new management.

A considerable number of Freshmen have been visiting the dissecting laboratory of the Medical Building this week, and there has been the usual failing of appetites.

There is a great opportunity now for the man who is seeking to put his money where it will do the most good. The opportunity is in the hands of the managers of the various college teams.

Many of the fraternities have lately caused their members to draw lots for seats in their dining rooms, in order to enable members of the different delegations to become better acquainted.

O. A. Pike, '07, sang a solo, entitled "Alleluia," at the Central Congregational Church of Bath, on Easter morning, and repeated it in chapel on Easter afternoon, giving it a very beautiful rendering.

Briggs, '07, had the misfortune to throw his left arm out of joint at the shoulder in the baseball practice of Monday afternoon. The injury will cause him great inconvenience for some time to come.

During the vacation Mr. Marquardt, of one of the Maine forts, spoke at a meeting of the Parish Club of the First Congregational church. Professor W. B. Mitchell presided at the meeting, and Dr. Elliott of the medical faculty was one of the chafing dish artists. Mr. Marquardt spoke before the Bowdoin Y. M. C. A. last January, when his story of his experiences at the battle of Manila was much appreciated.

This has been a busy week for Freshmen—on the tennis courts.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Riggs (Kate Douglass Wiggins) sailed for Italy April 3. They will visit Rome, Florence and later England, after which they will return to Hollis, Me. They expect to return in June.

Easter Sunday in Brunswick was far from pleasant, the rain falling in torrents during the greater part of the forenoon. However, nearly all the students attended services either in Brunswick or neighboring cities.

Joe Drummond, '07, and Holt, '07, attended the annual banquet of the Alpha Phi Fraternity of Portland High School last Monday evening. Drummond acted as toast-master of the evening, and Holt was one of the speakers.

The Bugle Board sat for pictures on Friday of last week. This is the last picture taken that can be inserted in the coming issue of the Bugle, and had been greatly delayed because of the absence of Upton, who has been out of college.

A delightful informal dance was given by the Psi Upsilon Fraternity Wednesday, February 28. The attendances were Mrs. William A. Houghton and Mrs. Allen Johnson. Refreshments were served and a most pleasant evening passed.

Gerald G. Wilder, assistant in the college library, who is secretary of the Maine Library Association, has recently sent out the preliminary announcement of the eleventh annual meeting of the State Association, which is to be held in Auburn, April 25 and 26.

A good word should be said of the work of the college band last Friday evening. This is one of the college organizations which is essential to the success of many of our college functions and is especially entitled to the thanks of the students for its work last Friday.

Subscription papers have been the disturbers of the peace during the past ten days. With baseball, track, tennis, debating and rally papers following each other in rapid succession, most of the fellows have a worried look. Still, it is the man who has to do the collecting that is entitled to the greatest sympathy.

The students were somewhat surprised last Saturday afternoon to hear the vigorous ringing of the chapel bell. As there was no known cause for such an occurrence an investigation was started, and after keys had been secured it was found that Pike, '07, and Rogers, '06, were confined within, where they had been inadvertently locked up by those in charge of the building.

THE FACULTY

Professor George T. Little of the college library, will be one of the speakers at the meeting of Maine Library Association, which will be held at Auburn April 25 and 26. His subject will be "Some Glimpses of Foreign Libraries."

In the recently issued edition of "American Men of Science," a biographical directory of men distinguished for their scientific attainments, Bowdoin is represented by the following men: President, William DeWitt Hyde; Professor Charles C. Hutchins of the chair of physics; Prof. Leslie A.
Lee, of the chair of geology and biology; Professor William A. Moody of the department of mathematics; and Professor F. C. Robinson of the chair of chemistry and mineralogy. The medical staff is represented by Professors Frederic H. Gerrish, E. J. McDonough and H. A. Burnett.

Professor Moody attended a meeting of the New England Association of Mathematical Teachers, which was held at the Brookline High School, Brookline, Mass., on Saturday, April 14.

President Hyde gave an address last Wednesday before the Lexington Historical Society. The address was delivered in the old Belfry Club House, and on the anniversary of the eve of the Battle of Lexington.

Next Thursday President Hyde will give a lecture on "The Contagion of Character," before an assembly of Congregational ministers from all over the State, which will be held at the Bangor Theological Seminary.

Professor Woodruff, during the vacation, was at his home in Burlington, Vermont, where he was called by the sudden death of his mother.

On next Saturday evening Professor Woodruff will give an illustrated talk on "My Winter in Greece," at a Greek entertainment to be given at 7.30 p.m. in the vestry of the Congregational Church in Brunswick. Refreshments will be served by young ladies in Greek costume. An admission fee of 25 cents is to be charged.

Dr. Burrett has been offered the head of the department of psychology in a New England College of about a thousand students; but he has declined the invitation and will remain at Bowdoin.

Professor Chapman on April 4, read a paper entitled "Old 'Flood' Ireson," at a meeting of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society at Boston. On the following Saturday, April 7, he was present at the meeting of the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Boston and Vicinity.

Professor Allen Johnson took a trip to North Carolina during the Easter recess. Professor Johnson is writing a book on Stephen A. Douglass, and he went South to look over the family papers of Lincoln's great opponent, and to interview his son, Judge Douglass, who now has the care of his father's belongings.

Professor Foster on April 2, presided at a banquet of the Roxbury Alumni Association.

Dr. Alfred Mitchell, Dean of the Medical Faculty, spoke on "Rational Medicine" at a recent meeting of "The Gentlemen's Club" of Brunswick, held at the home of Hon. Barrett Potter, '78.

Dr. Whittier is still busy with the Cooper trial, in which he has been of much service as an expert witness.

Professor McCrea and Professor Ham have planned to go to Germany this summer, and consequently will probably close their courses in the early part of June.

Professor McCrea was in Boston during the Easter vacation, making researches in the State House Library. The researches were to aid him in writing some long treatise which he now has under way.

Dr. C. T. Burnett has been invited by the Harvard Philosophical Club to deliver an address on "The Art of Misleading" at an open meeting of the club in Cambridge, on April 27.

LIBRARY NOTES

Very recently Mr. W. J. Bowdoin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has very kindly presented the library with a valuable set of photographs, which were taken in Italy, of the newly discovered sketches of Michael Angelo very soon after their discovery. In the current issue of "The Independent" these six photographs are reproduced, and an interesting article by Helen Zimmern, a great art critic, accompanies the sketches.

There has also been received a large engraving entitled "The Most Eminent Living Americans in 1906," which contains the portraits of 264 of our nation's greatest men. This interesting collection of portraits is now being presented to each of the 100 great libraries of the world, among which the Hubbard Library holds no mean place. Among the men in the engraving Bowdoin is represented by President Hyde, Senator William P. Frye, '39, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, '53, and General Thomas H. Hubbard, '37. This engraving is to be put on exhibition in the periodical room.

Among the books lately received may be mentioned a "Life of Charles Lamb," by E. V. Lucas; "Early Western Travels," by R. G. Thwaites; "Philippine Islands," by Blair & Robertson; "Seats of the Mighty," by Gilbert Parker; "The Philistines," by Arlo Bates, '76, and also "The Mystery of Sleep," by John Bigelow, L.L.D.

ART BUILDING NOTES

On Thursday, the 12th, Dr. E. B. Mason rendered the seventh musical recital of the series now being given in the Bowdoin Gallery. A good audience was present, and the music was much appreciated. The general subject of the recital was "The March," the program being as follows:

1. Witches' Dance.—McDowell.
2. March of the Dwarfs.—Moszkowski.
3. Fatinitza March.—Suppe.
7. Dance Caracteristique.—Tchaikowsky.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon, the eighth recital was given. The general topic dealt with was "The Symphony," and the program which Dr. Mason made use of was as follows:

Il Trovatore—Fantaisie.—Sidney Smith.
Symphony No. VII.—Beethoven.
(a) Poco Sostenuto—Vivace.
(b) Allegretto.
(c) Presto.
(d) Allegro con brio.
Spring Song.—Henselt.
Polacca de concert.—Tchaikowsky.

The same recital will be repeated next Sunday at 3:30 p.m. It was omitted last night on account of Gen. Chamberlain's lecture in the Congregational Church.

The ninth recital, "The Waltz," will be given in the Bowdoin Gallery next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the same music will be played again on the following Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The omission of the evening recital is due to the holiday on Thursday, which is Fast Day. This recital will be the next to the last one, and it seems that the series will finish much stronger than it started, which is a source of much gratification to those concerned, and which gives promise of a like series being given next year.

Last Monday, Mr. George W. Hammond, A.M., Bowdoin, '00, added several valuable coins to the collection, with which he has already presented the Art Building. The coins are as follows: Ten and 25 sous (paper) Assignato; two lire (paper) from Italy; three Moorish copper coins; one silver piece of the time of Philippus V.; one nickel 20 centesimi from Italy; and ten other coins from the same country. But most interesting of all, is a silver Denarius of the time of Emperor Tiberius of Rome. This valuable coin is in excellent condition and was presented to Mr. Hammond by Dr. Long of Constantinople, who is an authority on coins and vouches for its genuineness.

There are now on exhibition in the Bowdoin gallery a set of nearly 100 photographs illustrating French Art in Paris. This is an unusually good collection of photographs, and is loaned by the Library Art Club for exhibition until Monday, April 23d.

THETA DELTA CHI HOUSE PARTY

The annual reception and house party of Eta Charge of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity was held Friday, March 30, at the fraternity house on Maine Street. The reception took place from 3:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon and proved itself a most delightful society function, there being about 175 guests present. The greater part were from Brunswick, Lewiston, Portland, Westbrook, Bath and Augusta. The patrons were Mrs. William DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Wilmot B. Mitchell, Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, Mrs. Franklin W. Sherry, all of Brunswick and Mrs. F. J. C. Little of Augusta.

In the evening dancing was enjoyed by about 25 couples, the same ladies acting as patrons in the evening.

Music for both afternoon and evening was furnished by an orchestra led by Francis J. Welsh, '03, of Portland.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, smilax, potted plants and cut flowers, and these with the beautiful costumes of the ladies made the occasion a brilliant one.

Among the young ladies present were Miss Anna Percy, of Bath, Miss Dacie Hubbard, Miss Sue Winchell, Miss Edith Woodruff, Miss Edith Weatherill, Miss Helen Johnson of Brunswick, Miss Bernice Ham, Miss Lena Paul of Lewiston, Miss Margaret Kent of Westbrook, Miss Tillie Rolfe of Somerville, Mass., Miss Gladys Brown, Miss Pheiffer of Wellesley College, Miss Helen Jewell of New- ton, Mass., and Miss Frances Skofield, Miss Lena Reddon and Miss Hattie Brazier of Portland.

The delegates from the other fraternities were Harry Leslie Childs, '06, of Alpha Delta Phi, Walter Bradon Clark, '06, of Houlton from Psi Upsilon, Arthur Otis Putnam, '06, of Houlton from Delta Kappa Epsilon, Asa Osgood Pike, '07, of Freeburg from Zeta Psi, Harold Everett Wilson, '07, of Newburyport, Mass., from Delta Upsilon.

and Ralph Grant Webber, '06, of Augusta, from Beta Theta Pi.

Alumni Personal

A pamphlet has recently been received at the library, containing the great tribute paid by Justice D. J. Brewer of the United States Supreme Court to Rev. Stephen M. Newman, D.D., '07, at the time of his recent retirement from the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Washington, D. C., after filling the position for 21 years in a matter of which the congregation all feel proud.

C. D. Jameson, '76, who was spoken of at the Rally as one of Bowdoin's illustrious alumni, has very recently had the honor of being put in general charge of all the construction work, or in fact, all important foreign enterprises undertaken in China.

Obituary

Rev. Thomas S. Robie, A.M., '36, died in Chicago on Sunday, March 25. For several months Mr. Robie had been very ill, having, however, borne his illness with courage and patience. He was born at Gorham, Me., in 1835, and prepared for college at Gorham Academy. He entered Bowdoin in 1852, joined the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, and graduated with high honors in 1856, later receiving the degree of A.M. Immediately after graduation he entered the Bangor Theological Seminary and again graduated among the first of his class in 1859. After leaving the Theological Seminary he was ordained pastor of the Congregational Church at Waldoboro, Me., and since then has held various pastorates in Connecticut, New Hampshire, Maine, and Massachusetts. In 1859 Mr. Robie married Virginia D. Pendleton of Gorham, and she now survives him with a son and daughter.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1936 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or about July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

The Kappa Chapter of Psi Upsilon mourns the loss of Thomas Martin Giveen of the Class of 1863 who died at his home in Topsham on March 28. Mr. Giveen was a native of Brunswick and a prominent lawyer here. As a young man he studied and practiced law in Portland for several years. Later he removed to Brunswick where he practiced for more than thirty-five years, winning for himself a large circle of friends. The Chapter mourns with the bereaved relatives and friends and extends to them its deepest sympathy.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

BOWDOIN 11, EXETER 1

Bowdoin had the satisfaction of paying off a portion of her old debts in baseball, Saturday afternoon, when she defeated the Exeter team, for the first time in several years. The score was 11 to 1. As the figures indicate, the game was a one-sided contest, but this fact rather added to the pleasure of the game from the Bowdoin standpoint.

This was the first game that Bowdoin has played on the Whittier field this season, a fact which gave the contest an added interest. The result was all that the enthusiasts could desire. Bowdoin showed up in splendid form in every department of the game, and when the earliness of the season is considered it may be said that Bowdoin has every reason to feel pleased with its prospects.

The Exeter team was much weaker than those of recent years. The fielding was poor and the men were absolutely unable to connect with Files. However, after the first two innings the visitors improved considerably and Bowdoin did not score as easily as in the earlier part of the contest.

The feature of the game was the splendid fielding of Bowdoin. This was where the greatest contrast was seen. Bowdoin played practically an errorless game, while Exeter made many errors and some of them were decidedly costly. If Bowdoin continues to play the fielding game of Saturday through the season, she should be able to hold her opponents down to very small scores, even if her hitting should not be sufficient to warrant victories.

Files' work in the box was another feature of the game. He had the visitors at his mercy throughout and it was not until the latter part of the contest that they were able to secure even a single hit. Judging from Saturday's game, he is in even better form than last year, and if he continues the work he has done thus far this season, he may be considered one of the best men among the New England colleges.

It is hard to make individual mention of players, for each man of the team played with the team work and snap that wins games. Blair and Hodgson did especially good work, their fielding being of the very best. Pike, on first, also showed up very strongly. This is a new position for him and had he played a far inferior game, it would have been pardonable, but instead he played in the form of a veteran and showed that Bowdoin has not reason to worry about first.

Bowdoin did not hit hard, but what she did get counted to excellent advantage. Streuble, who started in to pitch, was wild and it was this rather than Bowdoin's ability to hit him that caused his removal. He was replaced by White, who pitched a first-class game. Bowdoin's best hitting was done by Sparks, who drove out a double very opportunely in the second and also secured another good single.

The greater part of Bowdoin's scoring was done in the first two innings. In the first Blair and Abbott both secured a base on balls, and Files was safe on an error at right; then Sparks hit for two bases, scoring Blair and Abbott, and Files. Bower hit, as also did McDade, which allowed Sparks and Bower to score.

The scores in the second innings were secured by errors at first and short, allowing Abbott and Stanwood to secure their bases, and a long drive to Files in which he circled the bases and scored the men before him. Bowdoin's other runs were secured in the third, fourth and ninth innings. Exeter secured her only run in the seventh, when with two men retired, Cooney and Barry both hit for two bases, which allowed the former to score.

BOWDOIN 7, BROWN 5

Bowdoin went to bat first. Neither scored in the opening inning, but in Bowdoin’s second time at the bat Hodgson got a free pass to first; a hit by Lawrence advanced him a base, after which he stole third, and came in on a long hit by McDade. Brown did not score in their half. In the third Stanwood added another run, scoring on a hit by Hodgson. Brown in her half scored two runs. Dennie got first with a base on balls, and stole second; Adams got his base on an error and then both scored on a hit by Jones. In the first half of the fourth, with two men out, Blair got a single and was scored by Stanwood with a long three-base hit. In Brown’s half Paine started off with a three-base hit, and after two men were out, got home on a single by Elrod. In the fifth inning Brown substituted Newse as pitcher. For the next four innings the score remained 3 to 3. In the last half of the eighth, Brown secured two runs on two singles and an error. Thus the score stood 5 to 3 when Bowdoin came to the bat for the last time. For the last inning Tift was put in for Brown. Tift gave three bases on balls in succession. A wild throw to the plate brought in Pike and Stanwood and tied the score.

An error put Files on first and then an error and wild throw by the first base man gave Bower and Files a chance to add two runs. The score now stood 7—5. Brown failed to score in her half and thus it remained. The summary:

BOWDOIN ORIENT

BOWDOIN 7, BROWN 5

Bowdoin opened her baseball season with Brown on Andrews Field at Providence, April 18, and started most auspiciously with a well-earned victory. The Bowdoin team was weakened by the absence of two of her regular players, but the men played together well and showed up in first-class style in spite of the short time of practice. Files pitched for Bowdoin and was in fine form and remarkably steady throughout the game. For Brown, Adams, Newse, and Tift followed in succession.
TUFTS 13, BOWDOIN 2

Bowdoin lost her second game of the season to Tufts on Tufts Oval, April 19. In the first three innings Sparks was wild and aided with a number of bad errors Tufts secured eleven runs. Bowdoin secured one run in the fifth and one in the sixth and Tufts got two more in the eighth. Watson pitched a fine game for Tufts. Bower made some fine catches at center field for Bowdoin. The summary follows:

Alpha Delta Phi Convention On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week will occur the seventy-fourth annual convention of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity at Portland. During these three days it is expected that many members of the fraternity will visit Bowdoin, and on Thursday afternoon the entire party will come to Brunswick. Seldom has it been Bowdoin’s privilege to extend its hospitality to so large and distinguished a body of guests as will doubtless come to Brunswick on that date. With this fact in mind all men in college, individually and as members of fraternities, should vie with each other in showing the visitors every hospitality. Let each student see to it that the hand of good fellowship is extended to all who may visit us, and that they go away with pleasant remembrances of Bowdoin, not only to their fraternity brothers, whose special guests they will be, but to every other Bowdoin man as well.

Good fellowship among college men is coming to be more and more recognized under the fraternity system. Bowdoin students will have a rare opportunity to illustrate it next week. Let us do so. One of the fraternities has already voted to keep “open house” during the visit of the delegates and doubtless all others will follow the example. In such action each fraternity will be doing credit to itself and to the college.

Bowdoin-Clark Debate The Bowdoin debating team will meet Clark College to-night for the first debate ever held between the two institutions. Every Bowdoin man hopes to see our team win; whether it will or not is another question. In any event we may be sure that Clark will have a good team. The college is one of the coming institutions of New England and the work done there is rated with the best of the colleges. Her debating interests are not neglected, and there is reason to believe that her team has been working hard in preparation for to-night’s contest. She also has had the advantage of faculty coaching to a certain extent, although the scope of this assistance has been materially limited by the debating agreement. Her men, again, will have the inspiration of an audience made up of fellow-students.

On the other hand Bowdoin students may feel well pleased with her representatives. The team has been carefully selected and since the arrangement of the debate each member has been working with untiring zeal. If hard work will win the contest Bowdoin should have good prospects. Again the men have had splendid training. One of the number was a member of last year’s team; another has taken active part in the college debating work for two years, and while the third man is less experienced he has proven that he has the qualifications of a strong debater. On the whole it would seem that Bowdoin has a strong, well balanced team and one that should at least make an excellent showing.

Debates are uncertain, however, and the winner will not be known until the judges make their announcement, and it would not be surprising if even they would have a hard problem to settle. Be this as it may there is no doubt that there will be a fine contest at Worcester to-night and Bowdoin has a team there which every student believes to be a representative one.

Concerning Track

Bowdoin men need to put in the hardest possible work during the next two weeks in preparation for the annual track meet. There is no question but the meet will be the most closely contested of any held since the formation of the association and it is safe to say that the outcome will depend on the second and third points taken. For this reason it behooves every man in college to get out and work for some event. In every meet yet held, men have unexpectedly taken second and thirds, and in some cases firsts. There will be such occurrences this year, and upon these contingencies will depend the outcome of the meet. It is for the student body to see that these point winners are Bowdoin men.

Thus far this season the number out at work has not been as large as the situation demands. There is some first-class new material and the older men are also working faithfully. The second and third men, however, must be developed. The meet is but two weeks away, and all should turn out each day. It is possible that one man with the taking of an unexpected third may win that meet. Such a man will be the hero of the day. Let every man in college work for the coming fortnight with these things in mind.

Taxing College Property

Several New England newspapers recently criticized President Eliot because of his opposition to the attempts that have been made to bring about the taxation of college property in Massachusetts. That there should be an attempt on the part of any individual to bring about such taxation, or an endorsement of such an attempt, by the press, is one of the surprising things of the day. Were colleges unworthy of assistance, justice would demand that the privately endowed college, in its relation with the State endowed institution, should not be taxed. That they are worthy of all assistance has long since been recognized; it is in accordance with this very recognition that our government, both State and National, has founded the State College and University; and although there are cases where the wisdom of the taxation of the people to support them might well be raised, it is nevertheless in the nature of things that such publicly endowed institutions should be founded. But any state or municipality, in the face of this condition, should undertake to tax any property whatever of a privately endowed college or university, and that such a movement should find supporters among the press, is a thing that cannot be easily understood.

If it should ever become necessary for any community to raise revenue by an attack on its educational institutions, let it first make an alteration of policy toward its publicly endowed institutions. To lay tax on what benevolent men have endowed for the help of young men and incidentally the State, is the last thing a state or municipality should undertake, whatever the exigency in which it may be placed.

That such a movement will ever attain any prominent importance may be questioned; that it has been raised at all is, however, surprising.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BASEBALL LEAGUE

Manager Wilson of the baseball team is completing arrangements for the Bowdoin Interscholastic Baseball League. There has been considerable difficulty in arranging a league this year, because of unpleasant feelings between some of the teams. A number of the teams composing the last year's league refused to enter the league if Portland was included, and for this reason Portland had to be dropped out. So far four teams are in the league. They are Edward Little High School of Auburn, Lewiston High School, Leavitt Institute and Gardiner High. It is possible that Thornton may enter later.

Although the league is small, it should be a successful one. The difficulties of a large league are many, as past experiences have shown, and the management believes a small league is to be preferred. The four teams represented are considered among the strongest High School terms in this section of the State, and the rivalry will doubtless be keen. Judging from what is known of the relative strength of the four teams, there should be some exciting contests.

College Notes

Warnings were out last Wednesday.
Saturday’s game will be called at 2 o’clock.
Prof. Cary of Harvard was in town last week.
Henry Evans, ’03, was on the campus last week.

The Brunswick Gun Club held a shoot yesterday.
Messer, ’09, was visiting relatives in Augusta last week.
Professor Moody is having his house re-shingled.

Bowdoin vs. Maine on the Whittier Field, Saturday afternoon.
Marsh, ’09, was at his home in Deering the latter part of the week.

Roland E. Bragg, ’01, of Bangor, was a visitor at the college last week.

“The Real Widow Brown” was the attraction at the Empire Thursday evening.
Hacker, ’07, has returned to college after an absence at his home in Fort Fairfield.

Clarence Robinson, ’08, passed last Saturday and Sunday at his home in Portland.
Owing to press of matter the review of the last Quill will not appear until next week.
A party of students known as the “Logical Club” dined at the Inn, Saturday evening.

The Colby Second baseball game was cancelled, owing to Colby’s inability to play on that date.

Those trying for assistant baseball manager are Tefft, Kane, Benner, Koughan, Twing and Drummond.

Manager Voorhees of the track team was in Lewiston, Tuesday, on business connected with the coming meet.

The Orient may be delayed this week because of the fact that Fast Day was observed as a holiday at the printing office.

The selectmen of Brunswick have recently taken action forbidding the placing of posters on the trees of the town. The action is a most commendable one.

The Oracle, the Bangor High School paper, has an extended article in its last issue from the pen of Cushing, ’09, on the subject of “Bowdoin College.”
Smith, '06, has been confined to his room for over a week because of illness.

Sunday saw a number of visitors at the college as a result of the beautiful weather.

The fire at the Eagle Hotel called many of the students downtown Saturday night. The fire was not serious.

The snow of Tuesday was a most unpleasant visitor, it being especially unwelcome to the track candidates.

Morris B. Campbell, '05, now of the Harvard Law School, was a visitor at the college the first of the week.

Allen, '07, returned to college the first of the week after an illness, during which he was at his home in Portland.

All the Economics quizzes that were to have been held on Saturday of last week, were postponed until last Tuesday.

It is stated that the plant of the Androscoggin Pulp Co., which was recently destroyed by fire, will not be rebuilt.

Elder, '06, passed Saturday and Sunday at his home in Portland, where he was called by the serious illness of his sister.

The Brunswick Golf Club was scheduled to hold its first tournament at its links yesterday. There are now 71 members in the club.

Next Sunday Mr. Jump preaches at Amherst College, and his place here will be filled by Professor Eugene Lyman of the Bangor Theological Seminary.

All students were glad to greet "Pop" Williams last Saturday. He is coaching the Exeter team this year, and accompanied the nine to Brunswick for Saturday's game.

"Jim" Clarke, captain of last year's Bowdoin ball team, will probably play with the South Portland team a portion of this season. "Pop" Williams is to manage the team.

Rev. Herbert A. Jump has very recently been asked to consider a flattering offer from a church situated in a rapidly growing section of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Jump has not given his answer.

On Monday, the sixteenth, Paine, '06, won first in the roll-off with a score of 293 and Childs, '06, tied for second with 267. In the bowling match between Westbrook and Brunswick on April 17, Paine bowled the best string for Brunswick, with a score of 278; nevertheless Brunswick lost.

Extensive repairs are being made about the dining-room at the Alpha Delta Phi house. Among other changes will be the installation of a new hardwood floor.

A party of 12 members of T. W. Hyde Camp, Sons of Veterans, in uniform, attended the lecture given by General Chamberlain at the Congregational Church last Thursday evening.

Brunswick tied for first place in the State bowling championship Monday evening, by winning from Lewiston. Paine and Childs of the Senior Class were on the team representing Brunswick.

Gardiner Heath, '09, was at his home in Augusta the latter part of last week, where he listened to the closing pleas in the famous Cooper trial, his father being senior counsel for the defense.

Bowdoin students have a great deal to think about to-day and to-morrow with the Clark debate at Worcester and "The Rivals" this evening, and the first of the Maine college games coming to-morrow.

The members of the Exeter ball team were entertained at the various fraternity houses when in Brunswick last Saturday. They were not accompanied by rooters, as is often the case when they come to Brunswick.

It is learned that S. C. W. Simpson, '03, was in San Francisco during the recent disastrous earthquake and that he was located where the greatest destruction took place. It is stated that he has not been heard from as yet.

H. C. Blake, Dartmouth, '07, was a recent visitor at the college. Mr. Blake is one of Dartmouth's best known athletes, taking third in the shotput at the Worcester meet last spring; and playing guard on the football team last fall.

Manager Wilson has made arrangements with Carrigan of Lewiston, to umpire all the Varsity games on the Whittier Field this season, with one exception. It is understood that he will also act as Bates' umpire for the season.

P. F. Chapman, '06, assisted in the entertainment given under the auspices of the Animal Rescue Society in Portland last Friday and Saturday evenings. The event was one of the society events of the season in that city. Mr. Chapman played a mandola solo.
The ball team left for Burlington, Vt., at 8 o'clock last Monday morning. Besides Manager Wilson, the following men were taken: Files, Sparks, Lawrence, Pike, Hodgson, Blair, Stanwood, McDade, Bower, '07, with Bower, '09, as substitute. The team returned to Brunswick last night.

Messrs. Burns and Favor, under whose auspices "King Pepper" was presented by college talent a year ago, will produce the opera in Gardiner in the near future, and have made arrangement for four Bowdoin men in the cast. They are the Gumbel Brothers, Neil Cox and Frank Mikelsky.

The first turbine steamship ever built in the United States has been named the "Governor Cobb." The launching took place at Chester, Pa., last Saturday. The craft is built for the Eastern Steamship Co., and will run between Boston and Maine ports. Governor Cobb was present at the launching.

The Brunswick G. A. R. Post has secured Hon. Herbert M. Heath, '72, of Augusta, to deliver the annual Memorial Day address. Mr. Heath is considered one of the ablest speakers among Bowdoin's alumni, and students who are in Brunswick that day will have the opportunity of listening to a fine speaker.

The Zeta Psi Fraternity of North America met in New York last Friday, with Governor Cobb, '77, as the principal guest. Governor Cobb was some time since elected "Phi Alpha" of the fraternity. Among other business was the sending of telegrams of sympathy to the chapters of the fraternity at the University of California and Leland Stanford University. The fraternity had planned to hold the annual convention of the fraternity in San Francisco next September.

NOTICES

The essays written in competition for either the Class of '75 Prize in American History or the Philo Sherman Bennett Politics Prize will be due on May 1.

All students having scholarships will please sign for them at the Treasurer's office before April 28 (to-morrow).

The Justin Winsor prize of $100, offered by the American Historical Association for the encouragement of historical research, will be awarded for 1906, to the best unpublished monograph in the field of American History that shall be submitted to the committee of award, on or before Oct. 1, 1906. For further particulars see circular on, Library Bulletin Board.

The following reports in English 4, are yet due: "Ruskin," April 28; "Hawthorne," May 5; "Emerson," May 12; "Stevenson," May 19.

FACULTY NOTES

Professor Mitchell, last Saturday, attended a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, which was held in Augusta.

On the afternoon of May 4, Prof. Mitchell will address a convention of the Sagadahoc County Teachers, at Richmond. The subject of his address will be "The Teaching of English Composition."

Prof. Houghton was in New York last Wednesday evening, and attended a reunion of the "Senior Society," of which he was a member while at Yale. The society is the "Scroll and Kye," and Prof. Houghton was one of the members who was taken in from the Class of '73.

Prof. Woodruff's lecture entitled "My Winter in Greece," which was given last Saturday in the Congregational Church vestry, was attended by many students, and several members of the faculty, as well as a large number of townspeople. The lecture was very interesting, and the pictures thrown on the screen were excellent. After the lecture a Dionysial passed through the audience, and later those who took part in the procession served the refreshments. Before and after the lecture the Alpha Sigma Mandolin Club, made up of Brunswick High School boys, played several very good selections.

Prof. Lee lectured before the State Street Parish Club at the Falmouth Hotel in Portland the latter part of last week. His subject was "The Straits of Magellan," and was illustrated with stereopticon views.

ALPHA DELTA CHI CONVENTION

The seventy-fourth annual convention of the Alpha Delta Chi Fraternity will be held in Portland, Maine, on May 3, 4 and 5, under the auspices of the Bowdoin Chapter. The headquarters of the convention will be at the Falmouth Hotel.

The delegates will assemble on Wednesday evening when an informal smoker will be given to all the visitors. On Thursday the convention will officially commence, with the first business meeting at the Falmouth. Thursday afternoon, after another short business session, the delegates and friends will take a special train to Brunswick and visit Bowdoin College. An informal reception will be tendered at the house of the local chapter, and the convention picture will be taken at the Art Building. The delegates will return to Portland late in the afternoon. On Thursday evening at 7:45 a short order of public literary exercises will be given, after which comes the Convention Ball at the Falmouth.

Friday morning will be devoted to convention business sessions. Friday afternoon a sail is to be taken down Casco Bay through the islands, returning in the evening. At 9 p.m. will come the Convention Banquet. Saturday will be devoted to adjourned business meetings, if necessary.

About two hundred visitors are expected, among the many noted men, as Hamilton W. Mabie, Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, Prof. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, of Columbia; Edward Everett Hale; Dr. D. A. Robinson, of Bangor; General John Marshall Brown; Hon. Charles F. Libby; Bishop Codman; Prof. Chapman; Prof. Moody; Prof. Robinson, and others.

The Orient wishes all success to the gathering, and extends from the college to all visitors, a hearty welcome to Bowdoin.

SOPHOMORE THEME SUBJECTS

The third theme of the semester for Sophomores not taking English 4, will be due Tuesday, May 1. Subjects:

1. The College Rally.
2. Teaching as a Profession for College Men.
3. "The Man with the Muck Rake."
4. Governor Cobb's Speech at Riverton.
5. Esperanto—A Universal Language.

REDUCED RATES TO COMMENCEMENT

Dr. Burnett has just received word that all the railroads belonging to the New England Passenger Association will sell return tickets at reduced rates to anyone who attends the Bowdoin Commencement this spring. The price of return tickets will be one-third of their regular cost, but a fee of twenty-five cents must be paid to the special railroad agent of the roads. There will be no reduction on tickets to Brunswick.

This reduction will affect those who come to the commencement from outside the State, as the reduced rates will extend as far as New York and Albany, as well as to New England cities and towns.

OFF FOR WORCESTER

The Bowdoin debating team left yesterday forenoon for Worcester, where it will meet Clark College this evening. The party consisted of Mitchell, '07, Redman, '07, Hupper, '08, the three regular debaters, and Snow, '07, the alternate. Prof. Wm. T. Foster and W. B. Drummond, '07, accompanied the party and will listen to the debate this evening.

The judges of the contest are Dr. T. N. Carver, professor of economics at Harvard University, Hon. H. J. Parker, ex-attorney-general of Massachusetts, and Charles W. Bartlett, late democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

DRAMATIC CLUB

"The Rivals" goes on to-night, for its first appearance. The management and those taking part have worked hard and faithfully. A good show is guaranteed. It is hoped that the whole college will turn out. For the last two years the college dramatics has been one of the events of the year, and it is hoped that the same will be true this year. The cost of producing such a play as "The Rivals" is very heavy, and on the success of this presentation, depends the prosper of its being repeated Ivy week, or in any places outside of Bruns-

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1908 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

HISTORY CLUB MEETING
The members of the History Club enjoyed a rare treat last Saturday evening, when they had the privilege of listening to a historical paper by Gen. Chamberlain. After the reading of the paper a general discussion was indulged in and a most delightful evening passed. The club met with Voorhees, ’07, at the Theta Delta Chi house. Gen. Chamberlain was made an honorary member of the club.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

Have your dealer order it for you.

THE BOWDOIN-CLARK DEBATE

Before an audience of over one thousand people, in the Gymnasium of Clark University last Friday evening, Bowdoin and Clark contended for forensic honors. The question was "Resolved, That the United States Government should inaugurate a movement to bring about reforms in the Congo Free State." Clark's representatives were L. D. Hadley, G. H. Mirick and Jacob Asher with W. L. Osborn as alternate; Bowdoin's were H. E. Mitchell, R. H. Hupper and F. J. Redman with A. W. Snow, alternate. Hon. Charles G. Washburn acted as presiding officer, and the judges were Dr. T. N. Carver, Professor of Economics at Harvard; Hon. H. J. Parker and Gen. Charles W. Bartlett of Boston.

The affirmative case was opened by S. H. Hadley of Clark, who dwelt upon the cruelties enacted under the Leopold regime in the Congo. Mr. Mitchell opened the case for Bowdoin by minimizing the cruelties, showing that they were confined almost exclusively to that part of the Congo ruled over by the Concessionaire companies. He further showed that Leopold himself was attempting to reform the existing evils.

Mr. Mirick of Clark showed that it was possible for the United States to inaugurate the proposed movement and proved his point by numerous quotations from International law.

Mr. Hupper began by analyzing the case as it stood, and contended that action by the United States was at this time unfair and unwarranted.

Mr. Asher reviewed the two points of his colleagues, and showed how the proposed action would be expedient for the United States. He also showed how the United States was the only world power which could at present step in and demand a reform of Congo conditions.

Mr. Redman proved that the principle and practice of international law was against the practicability of the proposed action; also that the movement was unexpected and contrary to our traditional foreign policy.

The rebuttal speeches were in the main used to re-enforce the points previously made. Bowdoin showed herself superior to Clark in rebuttal, but the final speech of Mr. Asher was a masterpiece of persuasion.

The judges were unanimous in giving Bowdoin the decision. Bowdoin's case showed careful team work, was well built, and was constructive from first to last. Clark, on the contrary, did not have a constructive case, did not attempt to show any movement that might successfully be inaugurated, and did not seem to fit their material into a harmonious whole. From the standpoint of persuasion, however, the Clark men evinced a superiority.

Review would be incomplete without reference to the cordial hospitality of Clark men. They met our contingent at the train, conducted them to the banquet hall and did everything possible to make the trip one of pleasure. They were broad enough "to be outvoted with a smile," and by their friendly and courteous treatment earned the good will and hearty respect of our team.

THE APRIL QUILL

To evince such genuine appreciation of the charm of Miss Austen as does the author of the opening essay in the April Quill is completely to disarm criticism. For grasp of the author's peculiar spirit and power is the heart of the matter in good literary reviewing, and the present Quill writer seems to have caught not only Miss Austen's humor but something of the very ease and quiet flow of her style.

Miss Austen has been much loved and much neglected, and this careful, penetrating study of her work should not only delight the few who love her deeply, but it should also appeal to the unfortunate ones who have not come to feel how completely refreshing are her little pictures of commonplace people in the quaint setting of the quiet English country life of her day.

The writer of this essay on the novels could give us another pleasing paper on the Society of Miss Austen's day—the much-talked of parties, the mild gayeties of the Pump Room, the interminable walks when things invariably happened, the tea-drinkings always attended with prodigious possibilities in the novels, a fascinating study at close range into the manner and customs of those heroines whom our essayists put second to Shakespeare's. And well he may! They certainly are more spirited than Dickens's, more true and equable than Thackeray's types, and far above the dead level of inanity in Howells' women-characters. How very slight must seem our few objections, when we say, for one, that to us the attachment of Captain Renwick and Louisa seems to show Miss Austen's keen insight into the human heart. We are somewhat offended by the bringing in of the long-suffering quotation, "sweetness and light" (for plain "perspective" or "sense of proportion"), and "In these days of the psychological novel" sounds a bit trite, like some undergraduate formulas for beginnings.

The "Lines to Day" show a true poetic sense, and a feeling for natural beauty—which saves the verses from the usual fate of a much-used subject. They have, too, sincerity and directness of expression. "Nature awakes to travel on her whispering way" is rather an inexplicable line.

"And night is lonely watchet till the morn" is good and pleasing.

As a piece of well-written narrative "The Hermit of Black Ledge" is admirable in language and composition; it is beautiful in its touches of natural description and it is a good record of life apart from social ties. But it is practically devoid of incident; or is it that although there are incidents they don't happen vividly or are merely points in the smooth telling of the tale? Technically its form is nearly faultless although such a sentence as the following shows undue haste: "So now he met the friendly urgings of the storekeeper to remain, by a disdainful silence."

The description of the succession of images in the delirious man's brain is a particularly good bit of realism. In endeavoring, however, to specify the nameless lack which the reader feels in this sketch, one is tempted to resort to a very mean and mercantile criterion (which may help, withal!): Would this story, unrelieved by any greater play of imagination, sell, and where? It needs condensation; bar-ren exactitude of detail is fatal to the artistic effect that needs only apt suggestion.

The "Vision of Sir Launcelot" is content presumably to be a fairly good imitation. The concept of the vision has significance and beauty, although the hermit's response adds little. Certain lines are obtrusively weak, or have the dangerous exactness that leaves them correct but unpleasing. The few verses of natural description, the six closing lines, for instance, are among the best. A very little of such imitative work in fields pre-empted by writers of eminence is advantageous.

Power comes with courageous handling of original themes.

The "Goose Tracks" is well written, very spiritedly indeed, but what is it all about?
Either the reviewer is very stupid in interpreting or she is not supposed to understand the cult.

It occurs to her that there might be a temptation for a skillful and unkind outsider to parody it.

Ye Postman's contribution is most creditable, exceedingly well written, and with just enough characterization of the several selections to convince us that he chose excellently and to make us think the exchanges worth reading.

How heartily we agree with the editor's general thesis in his ringing cry for finer literary feeling and greater willingness to follow the pursuit of "mere literature"!

But hope lies in the very fact that such as he and not alone the older representatives of the rich earlier culture, the Charles Eliot Nor-tons and the William Everetts, can protest against commercialism and uncompromising practicalness even in our colleges. It is ground where feeling can run high and tense, and our editor's justifiable dissatisfaction must have led him to speak of an "exasperating" dearth of articles where "lamentable" would have been safer; and he would prefer "quiet period" to "still period," would he not? And we are hardly "a commercial college on a magnificent scale," actually or rhetorically, although the scale of 'values' favors the practical and the American method of many enterprises,—supposedly quick roads to "culture"— leaves little time to "loaf and invite the soul."

BASEBALL

Bowdoin, 6; Maine, 3.

Bowdoin played the first game in the Maine
Intercollegiate Athletic series with Maine last Saturday, and won by a score of 6 to 3. The game was well attended by the student body, although there were not so many out-of-town people as will doubtless be on hand later in the season.

The game was interesting for the most part, although there was not much doubt as to the result after the second inning, when Bowdoin secured five of her six runs. The home team secured her other run in the ninth. Maine secured two of her runs in the fourth and the last one in the sixth.

Bowdoin showed up strongly, the pitching of Files being the feature of the game, he holding Maine down to three scattered hits, one of which was of the scratch order. Bowdoin showed rather more fielding at times, and had it not been for this Maine would probably have been shut out. There were not a remarkable number of them, but they were all costly. They were doubtless due in a large measure to the earliness of the season.

Among the men who played an especially strong game were Hodgson, Abbott, McDade, Bower and Sparks, all of whom did some effective stick work, while the two former did some fine fielding. For Maine Frost pitched a good game outside the second, when three singles and a double gave Bowdoin her five runs. Burns also showed up well in fielding and hitting.

The summary:

[Vermont 10; Bowdoin, 6.]

The first of the two games with the University of Vermont was played on April 24. The contest was close until the last of the fourth when two passes, four hits, and a number of errors gave Vermont nine hits, which, added to the one they made in the second, gave her ten points. Bowdoin secured three in the third, one in the fourth, and two in the seventh. Sparks pitched for Bowdoin and Campbell for Vermont.

Baseball

This year’s base-ball team has already made a greater reputation than any team Bowdoin has had for several years. Its work outside the State has been especially commendable. Only two home games have been played thus far, and although both of these have been important games the attendance, especially of undergraduates, has been by no means large.

The amount of the subscriptions so far signed in is very far below what was signed last year and since the coaching expenses are considerably heavier than they were at that time, it will be practically an impossibility for the Association to come out square unless the undergraduates give the team more loyal support, both in subscriptions and in attendance at the games. The next home game after to-morrow will come on the 9th of this month, when the team plays Colby. There will not be another home game this month, so that this is the last opportunity the students will have to support the team in the matter of attendance for some time. It is, therefore, right-fully expected that everybody will turn out to these two games, and that from now on a little more cordial support will be given in subscriptions. It is hardly to the credit of the Freshman Class, the largest class in college, that they have given less than any other.

Musical Clubs Concert

The last Musical Clubs concert for this year will be given next Monday evening in Memorial Hall. The clubs, this year, have been pronounced the best in a number of years, and the reception accorded them on all their trips has been evidence that the club is a credit to the college. The concluding concert, as in past years, is given for the purpose of securing money to pay debts the clubs have contracted during the season, and it is hoped that every man in college will attend and help out the organization. The concert will be worth listening to, and more than that the organization is worthy of all support. The expenses this year have been unusually heavy, and for this reason alone all students should attend.

Football Rules

The committee on football rules has at last completed its work and now the friends and enemies of the sport are busy expressing their opinion of what has been done. On the whole, the result seems something of a compromise, and like most compromises, it does not fully satisfy either side. Men like President Eliot of Harvard feel that sufficient change has not been made. Again the friends of the old game feel that too much has been done.

However, the real test will come with the fall season. While all can theorize as to just how the changes will affect the game, it will not be until the teams are lined up and the practical workings of the new rules are seen, that the extent of the changes can be judged. If the game has not been sufficiently reformed, as President Eliot believes, then there will be another opportunity for an arbitration board. If it has, all well and good.
In either case, however, it is safe to say that the committees will never go back to the game as it has been played in the past.

The Debate

Bowdoin may well be congratulated on the outcome of the debate of last Friday night. The result showed a number of things that are highly satisfactory to friends of the college. In the first place our team met a strong team from a representative college; for this reason the result was pleasing. But in a broader sense also the outcome of the debate was pleasing. It shows that our team was able to deal with what may be safely termed the unpopular side of a great question in a way that is attracting wide attention. The fact that the Belgian minister in Washington has asked for the text of the debate is good evidence of this. Still another pleasing result of the debate is in its proof that our debating department is among the strong things of the college. Our intercollegiate debates may well be continued, if not increased in their scope.

Bowdoin, 5; Vermont, 4.

On Wednesday, April 25, Bowdoin turned the tables on Vermont and won by a score of 5 to 4. It was a cold, rainy day and quite unsuitable for baseball. Files pitched for Bowdoin and played a fine game. Vermont made one in the first, third, fifth and seventh. Bowdoin secured one in the second, three in the eighth, and one in the ninth.

KAPPA SIGMA DINNER

The 12th annual dinner of Alpha Rho Chapter of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity of Bowdoin was held in Portland last Saturday evening at the Falmouth Hotel. The dinner was a happy occasion, there being about 50 members present, made up of undergraduates and alumni.

Several representatives from other chapters were in attendance as guests, among the number being F. D. French of Psi Chapter of the University of Maine, W. C. Campbell of Beta Kappa Chapter of the New Hampshire State College, and G. H. Stickney of Lynn, Mass.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BANNER

At the meeting of the Aroostook Club held at New Meadows Inn, Saturday evening, it was voted to offer another banner this year, for the championship of the Aroostook Preparatory Schools. The banner offered this time will be awarded to the team that first wins the championship for three years. This does not mean three consecutive years, but merely the team which shall have first won three championships. The champions for each year will hold the banner until some school obtains permanent possession of it. Last year the club gave a banner for that year only, which was won by Caribou High.

NOTICES

All candidates for the position of college organist for the ensuing year are requested to report their names to the undersigned on or before May 14. The organist's year begins with Ivy Day.

F. E. Woodruff,
Chairman of Music Committee.

We can furnish employment to several well recommended men. This may be for the balance of the year as well as the summer months. Write about yourself, stating your business experience.

The Home Educator Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Mr. A. S. Pond, Jr., representing the New York office of Hapgoods, the national organization of employment experts, will be at the Eagle House today and to-morrow to secure a number of Bowdoin College Seniors for good positions in business or technical work. All men who are interested in securing the right opportunities immediately after graduation or in the early fall should not fail to see him.

Students who desire to apply for positions to teach in Porto Rico will please apply for information and blanks at the Registrar’s office.
College Notes

Glee Club Concert Monday Evening.

Arbor Day to-day.

Hichborn, '07, was in Boston the first of the week.

Webber, '06, visited his home in Augusta the first of the week.

Pitcher Johnson of Bates witnessed the Maine game, Saturday.

Archibald, '04, was a visitor at the college the first of the week.

Cox, '08, is out of college this week because of the death of a relative.

Redmond, '07, is making a short visit with relatives in Massachusetts.

The Brunswick concert of the Glee Clubs will be held next Monday evening.

The Penobscot County Club met at New Meadows Inn last Saturday night.

Roger Wattles, of Canton, Mass., was the guest of Jenks, '06, the first of the week.

Every tennis court on the campus has had considerable work put on it this spring.

It is expected that Junior marching will begin either to-day or the first of the week.

Adjourns were given in Dr. Burnett's courses last Saturday, because of his absence in Cambridge.

Saunders, '08, has been obliged to go on crutches for the past week as the result of water on the knee.

Announcement is made that Payne's Second Regiment Band of Lewiston will furnish music for Commencement.

"Jim" Clarke, '05, is credited with winning Portland's game last week with a timely two-bagger in the last of the game.

G. G. Wilder of the College library, was re-elected secretary of the Maine Library Association, which met in Auburn last week.

One week from to-morrow is the date of the track meet at Lewiston. The campus will doubtless be deserted that day.

Hull, '07, has just received a call from his Freeport parish to remain the pastor for the next year, and has decided to accept the same.

A. C. Denning, '05, reached here last Tuesday, and has been coaching the men on the track team, who are going into the field events.

Two thunder showers have passed over Brunswick during the past ten days. Near Augusta some farm buildings were struck by lightning and burned.

Last week Westbrook won a bowling match from Brunswick by the narrow margin of three pins, but taking two out of the three strings. Paine, '06, and Childs, '06 bowled for Brunswick.

The Kirk Brown repertoire company, which is claimed to be one of the best on the road, will be the attraction at the Empire, Saturday night, May 12. The manager of the house has offered to reserve a section for Bowdoin men, if they care to have it, but it is probably yet too early for definite steps to be taken.

Bowdoin vs. Bates Tomorrow Afternoon on the Whittier Field.

The Aroostook Club dined at the Inn last Saturday night.

J. C. Minot, '06, of Augusta, was at the college the first of the week.

Harold S. Stetson, '06, has accepted a position with the International Banking Co.

The members of the debating team returned from Worcester on the midnight train, Sunday.

Charles P. Kinsman, ex-'07, was among the visitors who witnessed the game last Saturday.

Second Baseman Burns of the Maine team passed Sunday in Brunswick as the guest of Hacker, '07.

The Harcourt Company is the attraction in the Town Hall the last three evenings of this week.

Arnold Cayting, University of Maine, '07, was the guest of Collins, '07, last Saturday and Sunday.

J. S. Stahl, '09, will be out of college during the remainder of the term and will teach in Lincoln Academy.

One of the students has recently calculated the number of stars painted on the ceiling of the chapel to be 1268.

It is expected that Henry D. Evans, '01, State bacteriologist, will address the Chemical Club some time next week, the exact date of which has not as yet been fixed.

The date of the Interscholastic track meet will be May 26. The date given on the baseball program is given as the 29th, through an error on the part of the printer.

The Maine team left for Medford on the 4.48 train Saturday afternoon, where they played Tufts Monday. The team played Harvard Second, Tuesday, and Wesleyan, Wednesday.

The Alpha Delta Phi Convention opened yesterday and included the visit to Brunswick during the afternoon. An account of the convention will appear in next week's issue.

Winslow, '06, has been out of college this week, moving household goods from Gardiner to Portland, where he will take up his residence after graduating. He will enter the employ of the Maine Central.

The Second team lost its game with Bates Second on the Whittier Field, Wednesday afternoon, by the score of 4 to 2. Bowdoin's battery was Harris and Lawrence. The game was a most interesting contest.

A party of five students of the forestry department of the University of Maine are in Brunswick and are engaged in work under the charge of Prof. Carey on the Harpswell road. They arrived the first of the week.

The second team won its first game of the season from Leavitt Institute last Saturday. The game was played at Turner, and the score was 17-5 in Bowdoin's favor. The Bowdoin team was made up as follows: Manter, p.; Greene, c.; Piper, tb.; Ellis, lb.; Hayes, Capt., 3.; Dresser, ss.; Morrell, If.; Harris, cf.; Hughes, ri.
It was noticed last Saturday that the new large flag was flown over Memorial Hall; it added much to the appearance of the campus and it is hoped that it will be in position more frequently than during the winter months.

The Orient is unable to give an account of the Zeta Psi reception and dance until next week, owing to the date of going to press. The committee in charge was composed of Hatch, '06; Hall, '06; Erskine, '07; Kilborn, '08; and Kane, '09.

Rev. Herbert A. Jump and Mrs. Byron Stevens have been appointed by Governor Cobb as two of the delegates from Maine to the 33rd annual session of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, which is to be held in Philadelphia May 9-16.

The Musical Clubs returned from their trip to Thomaston and Camden on Thursday of last week. Although the clubs were handicapped by the absence of some of the best talent, they nevertheless gave some satisfactory concerts and also enjoyed a good time.

The national convention of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity is being held with Trinity College at Hartford, Conn., this week. The representatives from Bowdoin Chapter are Robie R. Stevens, '06; James W. Sewall, Jr., '06; and Paul D. Blanchard, '07. They left for Hartford the first of the week.

"King Pepper" was presented in Gardiner last Monday evening, and in Augusta on Wednesday evening; it is understood that it will also be presented elsewhere in the State. Beside Mikelsky, Cox and the Gumbel brothers, mentioned in last week's Orient, Bowdoin was represented by Greene, '08.

Although Bates declined Bowdoin's challenge for a debate, this year, yet Bowdoin men figured prominently in the Bates-University of Vermont debate in Lewiston's City Hall, April 25, which was won by Bates. The debate was presided over by Judge Franklin M. Drew, Bowdoin, '58; the prayer was offered by Rev. Percival F. Marston, Bowdoin, '88, and two of the three judges were Hon. O. D. Baker, Bowdoin, '68, and Chief Justice Wiswell, Bowdoin, '73.

The following concerning Leo Hafford from the "Fall River Globe," will be interesting reading for Bowdoin students from more standpoints than one: "Hafford is a tall young man with a boyish face, yellow-judice hair and freckles, writes Charley Power in the Pittsburg Dispatch. It is not recorded that he ever won any medals at a beauty contest, although while pitching for Bowdoin College he was popular with the ladies who were wont to flock to the college campus and there watch the giddy boys doing things athletic. But Hafford can pitch. He has a side-arm delivery that is effective, and the best the Pirates could do in nine spavined innings was five hits—two doubles and three singles—and they were lucky to escape being smeared with a coat of kalsomine."

HISTORY OF CLASS OF '96

The secretary of the Class of '96, John Clair Minot of Augusta, has just issued the decennial record of the class. It is a neat little volume of 135 pages, bound in the class colors of crimson and silver gray, and contains both the detailed story of the four years as undergraduates and individual sketches of the members of the class for the ten years since leaving college. The class had 58 men when it entered and 47 at graduation. Only one member has died, J. H. Libby, a young Fort Fairfield lawyer who died in 1903. There are only 16 of the class now in Maine, and the rest are scattered over the world as follows: Six in Massachusetts, five in New York, three in Chicago, three in Connecticut, two in New Hampshire and one each in California, District of Columbia, Nebraska, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, China, New Zealand and the Philippines. The class has 11 lawyers, eight teachers, seven physicians, three bankers, four merchants, three newspaper men, two clergymen, one insurance man, one publisher, one mill superintendent, one government scientist, etc. Thirty-one of the 46 are married and they have 28 living children, 13 boys and 15 girls. The class has had a dinner and reunion at each commencement since graduation with an attendance varying from a dozen to 20. This year, being the 10th anniversary of graduation, unusual efforts will be made to secure a large attendance and over 30 have written the secretary that they will be present.

FIFTH FRESHMAN DEBATE

Debate for Division A on Wednesday, May 9, at 2:30 P.M.; for Division B on Thursday, May 10, at 8:30 A.M. Briefs and forensics due on Wednesday, May 2.

Question: Resolved, That the refusal of employers to recognize labor unions is unjust.

H. M. Heath, '72, TO SPEAK

There will be an open meeting of English 7 this month, probably on Thursday, the 17th, at seven o'clock in Hubbard Hall. At this meeting, Hon. Herbert M. Heath, '72, of Augusta, who won the case for the defense in the recent trial of Mrs. Cooper, will speak on "Debating as Training for Public Service." Gold medals will be presented at this time to the victorious Bowdoin debaters.

COLLEGE BOOK STORE SOLD

It is stated that Mr. Stevens has sold the College book store and that the new proprietor is Frank Reynolds of Brunswick.
FACULTY NOTES

Dr. Burnett will be Bowdoin's representative at the annual meeting of the New England Entrance Certificate Board which is to be held in Boston on May 11.

Prof. Foster on last Friday afternoon gave an address at the Roxbury High School. The subject of his address was "The Man Who Thinks."

Dr. Whittier will attend a meeting of the Bowdoin Club of Boston, to-morrow evening. Henry Chapman, '06, will accompany him.

Prof. Henry Johnson has just been appointed a National director of the American Free Art League.

On Thursday, April 16, Prof. Little addressed a meeting of the Maine State Library Club, taking as his subject, "Glimpses of Foreign Libraries." Several members of the faculty attended this meeting.

Prof. Little was in Boston, last Wednesday to personally examine a valuable series of books to be sold at auction that day. Prof. Little also expected to attend the meeting of the Massachusetts Library Club which was to be held last night in Boston.

Prof. Robinson was in Portland last Friday and Saturday.

CONGRATULATIONS ON DEBATE

Prof. Foster received the following telegram immediately after the Clark Debate:

Baltimore, Md. April 27.
Professor William T. Foster:

Congratulations. Will you give me the text of the Bowdoin debate with a view to publication. Your victory will be communicated to Brussels with the details.

James Gustavus Whiteley,
Consul-General Congo Free State.

TOMORROW'S GAME

Following is the make-up and batting order of the two teams, as given the Orient by the respective managers:

Last Saturday evening the Massachusetts Club held a very successful and pleasant meeting at the Delta Kappa Epsilon house. There were about eighteen members at the meeting, and President Hyde gave a very interesting talk on how the Massachusetts Club could best serve its purpose, which is to induce more Massachusetts men to come to Bowdoin. Incidentally President Hyde spoke of some of the special features of Bowdoin, among which he said that Bowdoin had nothing in her cat-

"THE RIVALS"

Last Friday night the Dramatic Club staged "The Rivals" with more success than the club has ever had at its first performances. The audience did not fill the hall, but it amply sufficed to pay the club's expenses, and gave the club a slight surplus which may be used to pay several small debts left by last year's management. The real success of the club was in the acting. From start to finish everything went along finely, and each member of the cast carried out his part very successfully. The ladies on the cast were better made up, and were more taking than ever. "Jim" Bartlett was even better than last year, and did the leading lady's part of "Mrs. Malaprop," fully as well as any girl could have done. The heroine, "Lydia," though she carried out her part well, and very much took the eye of "Capt. Absolute" and "Sir Anthony," was really surpassed in beauty by her younger dark-haired friend, "Julia," and her pretty maid, "Lucy," also came in for her share of the kisses. "Bob" Acres, who took the leading man's part, did excellently, and certainly had the house with him when he played his duel scene. The other rival was Captain Absolute who also portrayed his character very well indeed, playing his part as became an officer, and an "obedient son."

The gouty "Sir Anthony" was also much appreciated, and Fred Piper certainly kept up his reputation as an actor when it came to the scene, where he swore that he would "never call his son Jack again."

Marsh, '09 did very well indeed with "Sir Lucius O'Trigger," and spoke a good brogue throughout the See Me About a Position play. The other two parts, "David" and "Tag," were played by Fox, '06, and Atwood, '09, who played them to perfection.

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1908 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Much credit is due to the coach, Mr. H. A. Huse, Jr., who has given the club a great deal of his time, and to Fred Piper, who managed the whole production. Piper has just given notice to the Orient, that he will soon go around among the students to get as many pledges as possible from those who would attend the play if repeated on the night before Ivy. When "The Magistrate" was produced in June, last year, it was presented with even greater success than the first time, and if the play is given again this year on the night before Ivy, it will probably become a custom to produce it then, the earlier production being in Bath or some other place than Brunswick.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 23/4 inch or 21/4 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and good shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

ALPHA DELTA PHI CONVENTION

The 74th annual convention of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity was held at Portland on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, and proved itself a grand success in every way. The convention was held under the auspices of the Bowdoin Chapter and those in charge of the arrangements, as well as all members of the fraternity, succeeded in making the convention an unqualified success.

Delegates were present from all the leading colleges and universities of the country, and it is estimated that the attendance was fully as large as that at the conventions held in more central parts of the country. Over 200 delegates were on hand at the opening session.

The convention began Wednesday evening with an informal smoker at the Falmouth, but the real opening came with the first business meeting of Thursday morning. This meeting was held at the same hotel and lasted until 12:30, when lunch was served and arrangements made for the visit to Bowdoin.

The special train reached Brunswick early in the afternoon and for two hours the delegates visited the college and the various fraternities, all of whom kept “open house” during the visit. The trip was a most delightful one and all expressed themselves as highly pleased with Bowdoin. The party returned to Portland at 4:30 o’clock.

Thursday evening came the public literary exercises in Kotzschmar Hall. The chief feature of the evening was the oration by Hamilton W. Mabie, LL.D., editor of the Outlook, whose subject was “The Heart of the College.” The address was one of the most notable made in Portland in a long time and was listened to by a large gathering of people. The ode was given by Prof. Arlo Bates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Immediately after the public exercises the convention ball was held at the Falmouth, the patronesses for the occasion being Mrs. John Marshall Brown of Portland, Mrs. John F. Thompson of Portland, Mrs. Franklin C. Robinson of Brunswick, Mrs. Charles F. Libby of Portland, and Mrs. Henry L. Babcock of Boston.

Business occupied the attention of the convention, Friday, until 3:30 p.m., except for the lunch hour. At that time the visitors and local members of the society went to Custom House Wharf where the steamer Merryconceag of the Casco Bay Steamboat Company was boarded and a sail of several hours’ duration was enjoyed about Casco Bay, the weather being excellent for the season of the year.

One of the most brilliant affairs of its kind that has taken place in years was observed at the Falmouth Hotel, Friday evening, when the annual banquet of the fraternity was given. To the strains of the “Alpha Delta Phi March,” the members entered the hall, after which prayer was offered by the Rev. John Gregson of Rochester, N. H. Collin Armstrong of New York presided in the absence of Mr. Mabie. The following toasts were given: “The Fraternity,” Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain; “The Fraternity and the Student Opinion,” Prof. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge; “The Fraternity in College and After,” Prof. Henry L. Chapman; “The Fraternity and Christianity,” the Rt. Rev. Bishop Robert Codman; “The College Man in Practical Life,” the Hon. Charles F. Libby; “Cui Bono,” Dr. Daniel Robinson. Dr. David M. Beach of Bangor read an original ode.

The convention closed, Saturday morning, with a brief business session, after which the greater part of the delegates left for the various homes, after one of the most successful conventions ever held by the fraternity. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the Friday business session: President—Talcott Williams, Philadelphia, Pa., Editor Philadelphia Press. Vice-President—Collin Armstrong, New York. Secretary—Robert A. Gunn, New York.

BASEBALL

Bowdoin, 2; Bates, 3.

Bowdoin lost its first game with Bates, last Saturday, by a score of 3 to 2 in an exciting 11-inning contest. The game was delayed somewhat at the opening because of a steady downpour of rain, and the grounds during the earlier part were very damp. This contributed to make the game less cleanly played than otherwise would have been the case.

The game was a pitchers' battle in which both men did splendid work. For Bowdoin, Files pitched one of the best games seen on Whittier Field for a long time, while Johnson did excellent work for Bates. In fielding, however, Bowdoin did inferior work, and this inferiority was what gave the honors to Bates after Bowdoin had apparently won the game. Had any one of the last few errors not been made, the game would have been Bowdoin's.

The best work for Bowdoin, in addition to the splendid work of Files, was done by McDade, who had five put-outs to his credit, as well as securing one of Bowdoin's hits and scores. The work of Bowdoin's infield was brilliant a portion of the time and at others was very erratic. This doubtless was due in a large measure to the condition of the field, and for that reason is partially excusable. It is, however, a thing in which the team is showing up surprisingly weak this year.

Bowdoin secured her first run in the sixth, when a base on balls and two sacrifices brought in Blair. In the eighth came another, when a single by McDade, a base on balls, a man hit by a pitched ball and a drive to the outfield, brought in Bowdoin's remaining run. Bates secured her first run in the eighth by a base on balls, a passed ball and an error. She tied the score in the ninth on an error at second and a two-base hit. In the eleventh the game was won by a hit and two errors with no one out. The summary:

Bowdoin, 6; Colby, 7.

Bowdoin lost its championship game to Colby last Wednesday by the score of 7 to 6 in an exciting contest. Bowdoin batted Coombs hard, but lost, largely because of costly errors. The Orient will give an account of the game next week.
ZETA PSI HOUSE PARTY

The annual reception and ball of the Lambda Chapter of the Zeta Psi Fraternity was held at its chapter house on College Street on Wednesday afternoon and evening of last week, and proved itself a most delightful occasion.

The reception was held from 3 to 5 in the afternoon, and was attended by about 200 guests. During this time light refreshments were served and delightful music was furnished by an orchestraled by Francis J. Welch of Portland. In the evening the annual ball was held and the entire lower house was given to dancing. The patronesses were Mrs. William DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Hartley C. Baxter, Mrs. Henry Johnson of Brunswick, Mrs. William T. Kilborn of Portland, Mrs. Fred W. Wight of Rockland, and Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Cornish. At half past 10 delicious refreshments of salads, ices, cake and punch were served.

Among those present were Miss Helen Thaxter, Miss Louise Edwards, Miss Amy Anthoine, Miss Elizabeth Bates, Mrs. Walter Edwards, Mrs. Champlin of Portland, Miss Eleanor Dunlap, Miss Sarah Merriman, Miss Lula Woodward, Miss Florence Allen, Miss Grace Crawford, Miss Dasie Hubbard, Miss Christiue Pennell, Miss Bertha Stetson, Miss Alice Knight, Miss Evelyn Stetson, Miss Margaret Sutherland, Miss Sue Winchell, Miss Ethel Purinton, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Mynee Owen of Brunswick, Miss Martha Cobb, Miss Alice Webb of Rockland, Miss Louise Richards of Farmington, Miss Nellie Avery, Miss Evelyn Thompson of Bath, Miss Hubbard of Skowhegan, Miss Johnson of Gardiner and Miss Helen Weeks of Wiscasset.

The delegates from the other fraternities were E. R. Hale, '06, from Psi Upsilon; F. L. Bass, '07, from Delta Kappa Epsilon; G. W. Tuell, '06, from Theta Delta Chi; C. C. Holman, '06, from Delta Upsilon; E. Otis, '07, from Kappa Sigma; W. S. Linnell, '07, from Beta Theta Pi, and L. H. Fox, '06, as the non-fraternity delegate. The committee of arrangements consisted of G. U. Hatch, '06; C. C. Hall, Jr., '06; L. M. Erskine, '07; K. B. Kilborn, '08; and H. F. Kane, '09.

TOMORROW’S MEET

The following is the correct list of Bowdoin’s entries at to-morrow’s meet:

ALEXANDER PRIZE SPEAKING

The following named men have been chosen to take part in the Trial Competition for the Alexander Prize Speaking. This Trial Competition will be on Tuesday, May 22.

Freshmen—Atwood, Cole, Gastonguay, Ginn, Goodspeed, Harris, Marsh, Rich, Sheehan, Stetson.
The Orient cannot refrain from speaking of the embarrassing incidents of last Friday’s chapel exercises. For a part of it no one was to blame; for another part a few fellows were responsible. We refer to the “wooding.” To those who could see the expression on the faces of the visitors it was no hard task to read their feelings of keen embarrassment when the demonstration took place; and throughout the exercises it was evident that they felt that the situation was anything but what it should have been—that of a pleasant visit to the chapel exercises. It is probable that a portion of the men began “wooding” for the baseball men; others, the Orient knows for a fact, did so from motives which we will not attempt to name. As it happened, the guests were the principal, teachers and students of one of Maine’s larger preparatory schools, and there is every reason to believe that their remembrance of Bowdoin will be both unpleasant and lasting.

To be a gentleman is always expected of a college man; those few who failed to be such Friday morning were guilty of a thoughtlessness of which few college men would care to be guilty. And more than this, there is a practical aspect to such incidents. Those who come to us as visitors usually have friends who are to go to college, some have children and all have friends. Those of last Friday, however, as teachers and educators, are placed in a position of unusual influence in this connection. After their visit is there any doubt as to their position in regard to one Maine college? A few men misrepresented the college in a way that others will have to work hard and long to offset.

The same thing applies to all misconduct of college students. A few men who are thoughtless, or something worse, are frequently misrepresenting the college. This is particularly true of conduct about the railroad station. As a concrete illustration, the following incident may be mentioned. The editor of a certain Maine newspaper a number of years ago passed through Brunswick and saw some ungentlemanship conduct on the part of some students, and from that time on, in his conversation and through the columns of his newspaper, he has been careful to show no favors to Bowdoin. It was a case where one or two men misrepresented their college in a way that has ever since continued to react against Bowdoin.

Another illustration of the same thing came under the observation of the Orient. In a certain Maine preparatory school last June two bright men graduated. Both are of the Phi Beta Kappa type and men with bright futures before them. When approached on the subject of college it was found that they could not be induced to come to Bowdoin because of one of these railroad station incidents. They had no affiliations for other colleges in Maine. They wished to go to a first-class college, but despite all some loyal Bowdoin men could do, they went out of the State. Here again some fellows who would probably be very indignant if accused of disloyalty to the college, have inflicted a real and lasting injury to its interests.

Thousands of people pass through Brunswick during the year, and with the majority of them what they see at the railroad station is their only real impression of the college. The conduct of men may not be representative, even of the individual himself, but the effect is just as harmful. Can it be said that the man who misrepresents Bowdoin to these people is loyal to his college? The answer would seem to be in the negative. There is a greater and more influential college loyalty than that displayed on the baseball and football field.

The Orient does not wish to be understood as asserting that other colleges do not have to contend with these things, but such incidents as that of Friday impresses the necessity of guarding against them.

From week to week the Orient is obliged to omit matter, the importance of which would seem to warrant its appearance in the college weekly, but which lack of space prevents. Were it possible to secure sufficient advertisements to permit additional pages during the spring term this could be done; the money available, however, will not warrant such a step, and the Orient asks that all bear with it for the non-appearance or delay of matter that at first sight would seem ought to appear in its columns.

Singing by Proxy All colleges know what it is to take exercise by proxy, to stretch at ease in the grandstand while a few of their fellows have the struggle and the fun, and develop the sound and vigorous frame in the field below. Bowdoin has gone a step beyond that. She does her singing by proxy. Her students line the chapel benches, rows of silent mouths, while up in the choir loft a few representatives of those silent mouths make the music for the remainder. One of the pleasantest memories that a visitor carries away from a college is that stir and sweep of many voices singing together. No memories of that sort can be borne away from our chapel now. We do not sing and yet we can sing. One almost never hears a song floating across the campus. Rare and welcome are those exceptions made by the Glee Club coming away from a rehearsal, and especially by the several fraternities on the night of initiation. If the fraternities can do it once why can they not do it many times? If the fraternities find voice for themselves why must the college sit in tuneless silence?

There seems to be no reason why it should not be possible, pleasant and profitable to the college to remedy this state of things by invoking a little class rivalry in the interest of all the classes. As the warm days of late spring and early summer come on it would seem as though one of the pleasantest things that a class as a body could do would be to gather on the steps of the Art Building for some singing. To stimulate rivalry and so increase the activity perhaps some of the classes already graduated, say the present decennial class, might find it worth while to give a prize to the winning class,—a prize that should take into account both excellence in singing and the excellence of the songs, if they were original. And here would be just the place and just the stimulating conditions to bring forward new Bowdoin songs. The college has too few of these.

Then the social side of such an occasion would be highly enjoyable. All the college would gather in a pleasantly informal way for an event in which all would be both spectators and actors. Friends from the town would join the number. Sub-Freshmen might stray in.

There is, of course, no reason why one night should begin and end the pleasure of all this. The preliminary practicing, except perhaps in its earliest stages, might occur out of doors; and so the college and its friends get into the way of spending the early hour of the mild summer evenings in June on the campus. Would not the memories of such evenings linger long with us after the last festivity of Commencement had flickered out?

FACULTY NOTES

Next Sunday President Hyde will preach at Mount Holyoke in South Hadley, Mass. On the following Monday, he will attend a dinner given by the Alumni of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, and on Tuesday will be present at a meeting of the Grenfell Association in Boston. He will also give a lecture at Pittsfield, Me., on Friday, the eighteenth.

Prof. Ham will attend a meeting of the Maine Modern Language Association which is to be held at the Edward Little High School at Auburn, Me., on Friday and Saturday of next week.

At the same time that the meeting of the Modern Language Association is going on, Prof. Mitchell will preside at a meeting of the English Department of the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools. This meeting is also to be held in the Edward Little High School, and a very interesting program has been arranged. Among the speakers will be Prof. Roberts of Colby, Prof. Hartshorn of Bates, Principal Stevenson of Coburn Institute, Miss Hodsdon of Hebron, Miss Johnson of the Cony High School of Augusta, and Prof. Foster of Bowdoin, who will take as his subject: “Argumentation in the Secondary Schools.” Prof. Mitchell will also address the meeting and state work of the Committee of Eight, of which he is a member, and which has been appointed by the New England colleges to consider the questions arising in regard to entrance examinations.

Dr. Whittier, last Tuesday, completed the course in Surgical Pathology which he has been giving to the third-year medical students in Portland.

College Notes

Track Meet Tomorrow.

The Garnet has opened for the season. Junior marching began last Tuesday noon. A meeting of the college jury was held Monday evening.

Prof. Baker of Harvard will speak before the Ilium May 23.

Adjourns were given in the history courses Monday morning.

Williams, '06, passed Saturday and Sunday with friends in Saco.

Hugh Quim, '03, was at Alpha Delta Phi house, Saturday and Sunday.

The State tennis tournament will begin Monday forenoon at Colby.

Some one rung the college bell a little too early last Saturday afternoon.

President White of Colby, was the guest of President Hyde last Wednesday.

There have been some beautiful evenings this week; also some less beautiful.

"Don" White, '05, was among those who witnessed the game last Saturday.

Workmen are engaged in getting Merrymeeting Park in condition for the season.

Editor Robinson of the Colby Echo made a pleasant call on the Orient this week.

Upton, '07, was in Portland last Saturday, where he took part in a golf tournament.

George Craigie, '07, passed Saturday and Sunday at his home in Cumberland Mills.

Bavis, '06, who has been out of college during the past two weeks, returned last Monday.

Workmen are engaged in grading and turving the grounds about the Kappa Sigma House.

The visiting Alpha Delts were enthusiastic in their praise of Bowdoin and its hospitalities.

Early breakfasts will be the order to-morrow, in order to catch the 8 o'clock train for Lewiston.

Rev. Mr. Sewall of the examining board conducted the chapel exercises last Friday morning.

The Y. M. C. A. elections were held yesterday, but the Orient is unable to print them until next week.

Lewiston is to have a Sunday paper beginning next Sunday. It is to be published by the Daily News Company.

Henderson, Med., who is now at Portland, was at the game Saturday. He will take part in the meet Saturday, being entered in the dashes.

Adjourns were given in the chemistry courses last Friday because of the absence of Professor Robinson, who was one of the expert witnesses in the Maloney murder trial at Rockland.

Lyman A. Cousins, '02; Edward S. Anthoine, '02; and Alfred G. M. Soule, '03, of Boston; and J. A. Clarke, '05, were among the Zeta Psi men who were present at the house party last week.

To-morrow is the date of the great meet. Edward Patten of Brewer, was the guest of college friends this week.

Coach Smith attended the Maine-Tufts dual meet at Orono, last Saturday.

Harry Lewis, '05, was present at the Bates-Bowdoin game last Saturday.

Carpenters are engaged in making repairs on the piazza of the residence of Prof. Little on College Street.

The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity were excused from recitations during the convention at Portland.

The second team will leave for Kent's Hill on the 8 o'clock train to-morrow morning, where it will play in the afternoon.

The first band concert of the year occurred last Tuesday evening, and was very enjoyable—for those who had their overcoats.

Pictures of Maine College athletes have been occupying prominent positions on the sporting pages of Maine dailies during the past ten days.

Mikelsky, Med., was in Hebron, last Friday evening, where he gave a reading before the students for the benefit of the Athletic Association.

Charles K. Harris, the proprietor of the Harcourt Company, and who plays the leading role, is a brother of William Harris of the Freshman Class.

The street musicians have arrived. There have been several in Brunswick during the past few days, one of whom made a round of the different fraternity houses.

At the time of going to press the Orient was unable to learn whether there would be adjourns Saturday or not. It is believed, however, that such will be the case.

Rev. H. E. Dunnack of Augusta, was among the visitors in Brunswick, Wednesday. Mr. Dunnack is a great lover of baseball, as well as being a very loyal Bowdoin man.

Carpenters are at work constructing a barber shop next door to the bowling alley which will be occupied by Mr. Soule, who now occupies the shop next the Kennebec Fruit Co.'s store.

Rev. John S. Sewall of Bangor, Rev. Edgar M. Cousins of Thomaston, John A. Morrill, Esq., of Auburn, and Charles T. Hawes of Bangor, of the examining board, visited the college the latter part of the week.

There will be no interscholastic tennis meet this year. Manager Mincher has been in correspondence with several preparatory schools, but has been unable to secure assurances from a sufficient number to warrant the arranging of a meet.

Students will sympathize with Harold S. Elden, '06, in the death of his sister, which occurred at her home in Portland, last Wednesday, after a long illness. He had been out of college several days, being called home by her critical condition.

The Seniors have appeared in caps and it is planned to attend Sunday chapel in both caps and gowns during the remainder of the year. The custom is in vogue in most colleges and has been formerly carried out at Bowdoin, though in recent years it has been given up.
COMMENCEMENT RATES

Dr. Burnett has completed arrangements whereby reduced rates to Bowdoin’s Commencement have been secured over the three passenger associations of the eastern states, instead of merely the New England, as has been previously announced. The new arrangement secures rates over the lines of the Trunk Association, the Central Association and the New England Association, and embraces places east of St. Louis. One of the great advantages of the arrangements is that 100 tickets over all three of the associations, instead of one, is all that will be required to secure the reduced rates. This arrangement will be an added impetus for the alumni who wish to attend Commencement and will help to swell the various classes in the competition for the trophy that is to be offered for the largest attendance.

TENNIS TRIALS

The tennis trials for the selection of the team that will represent Bowdoin in the Maine tournament, was held last Tuesday, and resulted in the choice of Tobey, '06, and Paine, '06, in the singles; and Tobey, '06, Paine, '06, Johnson, '06, and Roberts, '07, in the doubles. Paine and Tobey did not enter the tournament, as the latter is very busy this week with track and there is no doubt of their ability.

The results of the tournament were as follows: Ham, '08, and Briggs, '07, defeated W. Drummond, '07, and J. Drummond, '07. Roberts, '07, and Johnson, '06, defeated McMichael, '07, and Haines, '07. Linneli, '07, and Hughes, '06, defeated Robinson, '08, and Timberlake, '09. Clarke, '06, and Lombard, '09, defeated J. Woodruff, '06, and Soule, '06.

In the semi-finals Roberts, '07, and Johnson, '06, defeated Briggs, '07, and Ham, '08. Linneli, '07, and Hughes, '09, defeated Clark, '06, and Lombard, '09.

In the final Roberts, '07, and Johnson, '06, defeated Linneli, '07, and Hughes, '09. Linneli and Hughes are entered as substitutes in both singles and doubles.

The tournament to select the team which Bowdoin will enter against Vermont was to have been played yesterday.

The Maine Tournament will open at Colby Monday forenoon.

DAVID SEWALL PREMIUM

The faculty have recently decided to award the sum of ten dollars known as the David Sewall Premium, to the member of the Freshman Class who shall hand in the best translation of an assigned passage from Latin, Greek, German, or French. The translation must be given to Professor Mitchell on or before May 14, and the assigned passages are given below. The Sewall Premium has for several years been awarded to members of the Sophomore Class for excellence in Oratory at their annual Prize Declaration,” but it is changed this year owing to the receipt of the Alexander Prize in oratory, which will be open to competition among members of the three lower classes.

The David Sewall Premium has a long history back of it, which it may be of interest to cite here. As early as November 4, 1795 (the fall after the incorporation of the college) a letter from Judge David Sewall was read at a meeting of the Boards. This letter enclosed ten dollars, and from a later letter, dated October 9, 1821 (and still preserved in the Treasurer’s office) we learn that it was the Judge’s purpose to establish an annual prize of ten dollars to be awarded to some undergraduate for excellence in oratory or as the college authorities should otherwise see fit. For this purpose Judge Sewall had at some time given the college a fund, the interest on which would furnish the prize money. In some way, however, this sum later disappeared from the Treasurer’s books, and it was not until 1899 that the attention of the Boards was called to the omission. In 1899, accordingly, it was voted to withdraw from the general fund a sufficient amount to replace that lost, and it is with the interest on this money that the “David Sewall Premium” will be awarded next June.

Judge Sewall himself was a man of some note. He received the degree of A.B. from Harvard in 1775. Later his Alma Mater gave him the degree of A.M., in 1812 Bowdoin presented him with an L.L.D., and he served on our Board of Overseers from 1794-1815. He held at one time the position of Judge of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, and he also served as United States District Judge of Maine.

The assigned passages for translation this spring are as follows:

Greek: Odyssey, Book IV. Lines 219-331.

German: Scheffel’s “Ekkehard,” Vorwort, through the words “aus dem Gebiet unserer deutschen Vergangenheit.”

French: Charles Rollin’s “De l’Utilite de l’Histoire found in “La France Litteraire” (p. 405) by Herrig et Burgny.

The French and German books are reserved in the Library.

C., on the matter of getting a forest reserve for the White Mountains and the Appalachian range.

Obituary

Rev. Ellis R. Drake, D.D., passed away at his home in Denver, Colorado, on March 10. His death was due to pneumonia, and though for several years he has been unable on account of his ill health to attend to his ecclesiastical duties, he is greatly mourned in Denver by the parish of the Villa Park Church, the pastorate of which he held from 1866 to 1902. Mr. Drake was a native of Maine, having been born at Garland, Maine, in 1840. He graduated from Bowdoin in 1862, and for the next two years was principal of the Bluehill Academy. During this time he had been studying law, and was admitted to the Suffolk County (Mass.) bar. He practiced for only a short time, abandoning the law for the ministry. He attended the Andover Theological Seminary and graduated from there in 1868. Since then he has held pastorates in the Congregational churches in Wayland, Middleboro, Quincy Point and East Northfield,
Mass., and later in Eureka, Kan., and in Denver.
Col., the latter place being his home at the time of his death.

THOMAS M. GIVEEN, '63.

Thomas M. Giveen, '63, died very suddenly, at his home in Topsham on the 28th of last month.
Mr. Giveen was a prominent lawyer of this district, and for several years has acted as moderator at the Topsham town meetings. He was born in Brunswick in 1841, and received his early education at the Brunswick High School, the College du Havre, France, and Andover Academy. He then came to Bowdoin, graduated with the Class of 1863, and later received the degree of A.M. After leaving college he studied law in Portland, in 1867 was admitted to the bar, and in 1868 to practice in the United States Circuit and District Court. After practicing a few years in Portland, he returned to Brunswick, where he has remained for the last 32 years. Besides several minor offices he has been Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Maine. He is survived by a wife and four children.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke broad should be used for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

THE TRACK MEET

The twelfth annual track meet of the four Maine colleges was won by the University of Maine on Garcelon Field, last Saturday, with a score of 51 points, to 39 for Bowdoin, 22 for Bates and 14 for Colby. This is the second time that Bowdoin has lost the meet in the twelve years of track athletics in the State.

While the outcome was something of a disappointment, it was not altogether a surprise. It had been felt from the first that the loss Bowdoin sustained in the graduation of Capt. Denning and Everett was one that could not be easily replaced and that the new material must come largely from the Freshman Class. That there was considerable new material there was no doubt, but it could not be sufficiently developed to secure many points was greatly feared, and the outcome of the meet justified the fear.

There was a large attendance of college men and others. The entire Bowdoin student body turned out en masse, as did also the students from University of Maine, and Bates, together with a number from Colby. The day was pleasant, although somewhat cold, and with the presence of two bands, the occasion was one of interest and enthusiasm.

But one record was broken at the meet. Bosworth of Bates, captured the two-mile race and succeeded in taking several seconds from the State record. Shorey for Bowdoin fought hard and had not his opponent taken such a long lead in the early part of the race, it is safe to say the contest at the finish would have been very close indeed. Capt. Tobey equalled the State record in the 120-yard hurdles in a great finish.

Several of the events were hotly contested, but there was not much doubt as to the outcome of the meet after the early part of the day, as the trials showed that Maine had a fine team. Bowdoin fought hard, but one or two events in which some hope was entertained, went to Maine, and after this there was no doubt as to the result.

In the 100-yard dash, Doherty and Hanson of Bowdoin, and Porter and Harlow of Maine were qualified in the trials. In the final heat Porter was the winner, Doherty second and Hanson third. The race was a very interesting contest for second and third places, Doherty, Hanson and Harlow being very closely bunched at the finish.

In the quarter St. Onge of Maine won out with Wyman second and Kimball of Bowdoin, third. This race was also an interesting contest and was closely contested from the first. Kimball ran a fine race, leading a great portion of the distance, but was unable to retain his position in the stretch.

In the mile Robinson and Shorey were again the winners for Bowdoin. In the hurdles, Capt. Tobey of Bowdoin again won two first in splendid form.

In the 220-yard dash Porter of Maine was the winner, while Doherty and Wyman had a great contest for second place, Doherty finally winning out.

In the high jump, Meserve of Maine finally won out, with Pennell of Bowdoin and Higgin of Maine, tied for second place. Atwood and Thaxter jumped well but were unable to keep up. In the broad jump Currier of Maine won over Atwood of Bowdoin, while St. Onge of Maine, took third.

In the pole vault Bates took first, to the surprise of all. This event had been conceded to Rogers of Maine, but Wiggins led him at the close. Skolfield of Bowdoin took third in a plucky fight.

Nearly all the weight events went to Bates and Colby. Maine took three thirds, but the remaining points went to the other two colleges.

The summary of the meet was as follows:

Half-Mile Run—Won by Bierce, Maine; Blair, Bowdoin, second; Phillips, Bates, third. Time—2m. 10 1-5s.

440-Yard Run—Won by St. Onge, Maine; Wyman, Maine, second; Kimball, Bowdoin, third. Time—52 2-58.

100-Yard Dash—Won by Porter, Maine; Doherty, Bowdoin, second; Hanson, Bowdoin, third. Time—10 1-58.

Mile Run—Won by Shorey, Bowdoin; Robinson, Bowdoin, second; Potter, Maine, third. Time—4m. 49 2-58.
120-Yard Hurdles—Won by Toby, Bowdoin; Currier, Maine, second; Fraser, Bates, third.

220-Yard Hurdles—Won by Toby, Bowdoin; Clayton, Maine, second; Harlow, Maine, third.

200-Yard Dash—Won by Porter, Maine; Doherty, Bowdoin, second; Wyman, Maine, third.

BOWDOIN ORIENT

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Bowdoin won the Maine college tennis championship at Waterville on Monday and Tuesday of this week, the team defeating the men representing the other Maine colleges. Bowdoin has particularly strong men this year in Tobey and Paine, both of whom are veterans at the sport.

The summary of the doubles was as follows:

Semi-Finals—Tobey and Paine, Bowdoin, beat Guptill and Dunn, Colby, 6-3, 6-4. Lovett and Tabor, Maine, beat Jordan and Austin, Bates, 6-3, 8-6.

Final Round—Tobey and Paine, Bowdoin, beat Lovett and Tabor, Maine, 6-1, 6-0.

The summary of the singles was as follows:

Tobey of Bowdoin defeated Jordan of Bates, 6-2; 6-0.

Lovett of Maine defeated Stevens of Colby, 6-0; 6-2.

Tabor of Maine defeated Palmer of Colby, 6-3; 6-3.

Paine of Bowdoin defeated Austin of Bates, 3-6; 6-4; 7-5.

In the first match of the semi-final round Tobey of Bowdoin defeated Lovett of Maine, 7-5; 6-4.

The second match of the semi-final round was won by Paine of Bowdoin who defeated Tabor of Maine, 6-4; 9-7.

This gave the tournament to Bowdoin without the necessity of playing the final round, and Bowdoin retains possession permanently of the cup in singles, this being the third year it has been won by that college. This closed the tournament. A match between Paine and Toby of Bowdoin to determine the championship of the State in singles will be played at Brunswick later.

BASEBALL

COLBY, 7; BOWDOIN, 6.

Bowdoin lost its game with Colby on Wednesday of last week by a score of 7 to 6. The attendance was the largest of the year and the enthusiasm was at a pitch seldom seen at a baseball game. Colby was accompanied by the greater part of the student body, and a band, the party arriving in Brunswick by special train shortly before 2 o’clock. A large number of baseball lovers from various parts of the State, were also present.

The game was not especially well played because of the high wind that blew across the field, which made fast fielding very difficult. As a result of this, both sides made a large number of errors. The feature of the game was the batting of the Bowdoin team, the team securing 12 singles with a total of 15 off Coombs’ delivery.

Colby secured a lead in the early part of the game and kept it throughout. Bowdoin, on the other hand, gained in the later innings, and several times it seemed as though the score would be tied. At these critical times, however, Colby steadied down and at the end the visitors lead by a single score.

Files pitched a fine game for Bowdoin, despite the high wind, while the hitting of the whole team was most commendable. Coombs pitched well for Colby at critical times, despite the way the Bowdoin batsmen hit during the greater part of the contest. Shaw, at center, played a fine game for Colby, his catches not only being brilliant, but coming just at the times when hits meant runs.

Bowdoin, 5; Andover, 2.

Bowdoin defeated Andover, Wednesday afternoon, by the score of 5 to 2. The Orient will give a more full account next week.

HARVARD SECOND GAME CANCELLED

Manager Wilson has received notice from the Harvard management that the Second team will be unable to play here on June 2, as had been arranged. The reason given is that the date comes in the midst of their examinations and the Athletic Council of the college has refused to permit the men to leave. Manager Wilson is endeavoring to secure another game, but the lateness of the season makes it a difficult task.

ENGLISH 7 AT NEW MEADOWS

The first annual banquet of the Debating Council was held at New Meadows Inn last Tuesday evening and proved a most delightful occasion. Nearly all the members of the course were present and after a fine shore dinner had been enjoyed, came the after-dinner speaking. All of the speakers acquitted themselves with great credit. The preparation and delivery of the speeches is a part of the regular work in the course. George C. Soule, ’06, presided as toast-master, and the following toasts were responded to:

“My Noblest Tribute to English 7,” L. M. Erskine
“The Moral Significance of Football,” G. U. Hatch
“Bowdoin Men in Public Life,” C. J. Fernald
“The Advantages of Being a Failure in Athletics,” F. A. Burton

LEWISTON JOURNAL PRESS

Vol. XXXVI. MAY 18, 1906 No. 5

The Orient would suggest to the consideration of the Athletic Council the matter of granting "B's" to members of the track team that take third place in the annual State meets. It is certainly true that the time has come in Maine College athletics when to take third place deserves its reward. In years past, when Bowdoin took nearly all the points in the meets, it was perfectly correct that only the first and second men should be given their letter. Now, however, the situation is vastly different. The three other colleges, as shown by the recent meet, are more and more inclined to enter into track activities, and to gain a third, in view of this situation, is something that would seem to entitle any man to a "B."

The track man receives the smallest amount of pleasure of any athlete. Few of them get more than one trip a year, and that a short one. He is obliged to train more than any other athlete. And more than that, his contest is not of the pleasurable kind of the baseball or football player. His game is one of nervous strain and tension almost as much as ability in the sport. He fights alone and the matter of "nerve" is a big factor. In most cases it is also the hardest kind of work. Who struggles more for his college than the man in the mile or two-mile run or even the dashes? The man who secures a point in them under present conditions certainly deserves recognition.

Track is becoming of more and more interest in the college world, and for this, as well as for many other reasons, it would seem that the man who secures even one point should be remembered.

The Track Meet

The loss of the track meet was something of a disappointment to many who had cherished hopes of a victorious team. To those familiar with the situation, however, the outcome was no great surprise. With the losses Bowdoin sustained by graduation last June, and with the men our opponent had been developing for the past two years, the result could not have been different. Bowdoin cannot expect to win every meet without a break, and we may well feel proud of our past record, and feel sure that next year our team will be stronger than was that of this year.

Concerning Dogs

One of the nuisances about the college at the present time is the presence of dogs. There are several of these four-legged students who seem determined on taking a college course whether they are properly admitted or not. Hardly a day goes by but what one or more of them appears in chapel or class-room and often they prove themselves a disturbing element in a way that is neither entertaining nor interesting. It is hard to suggest a remedy for this nuisance other than a shotgun, and even that might not be proper in the case of dogs belonging to people who really try to care for their pets.

The fact is that in many instances the dogs or their owners are not to blame. Fellows about college take pleasure in speaking to the dogs and encourage them to enter class. The result is, the canine thinks himself highly popular in college and immediately resolves to take a course at Bowdoin. Was the college intended to be a training school for canines, this attitude would be highly commendable. As it is, the wisest thing in this connection is to cease treating the dogs with all the favors of a sub-Freshman. Dogs are agreeable company in their place, but that is certainly not in chapel or the class room, and students should bear this in mind.

Despite the outcome of the track meet and the somewhat gloomy baseball prospects, Bowdoin can find some consolation in the outcome of the tennis meet at Waterville, in which our team scored a signal victory. The work of the men was highly commendable and the Orient congratulates both the members of the team and the college. The victory gives Bowdoin permanent possession of the cup for singles, which it obtains as a result of having won the championship for three successive years. The cup for doubles will be held temporarily at least, Colby having had that honor in the past two years.

The attention of the students should be called to the annual Interscholastic Meet, which will take place on the Whittier Field one week from to-morrow. As in the past, this will be the day of all the year for the entertainment of preparatory school men, and the students should make preparations to give the visitors a good time on the occasion of their visit.

It is not known at present just how many schools will be represented. Five will certainly be on hand, and it is probable that there may be others. Those who are certain to send teams are Bar Harbor, Portland, Westbrook Seminary, Coburn Classical Institute, and Hebron Academy. It is also possible that Kent’s Hill and Brunswick High will be represented.

BATES FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Sept. 22—Fort Preble at Lewiston.
Sept. 29—Exeter at Exeter.
Oct. 6—Hebron at Lewiston.

Oct. 20—Colby at Waterville.
Oct. 27—Bowdoin at Brunswick.

College Notes

Piper, ’07, is visiting his home this week.
Senior marching began last Monday noon. The Second team will play at Kent’s Hill to-morrow.

Bowdoin vs. Bates on the Garcelon Field, to-morrow afternoon.

Frank Clark of Fort Fairfield visited friends at the college last week.

Rupert M. Much, ’05, who is now in New York, has recently visited in this vicinity.

The Bates baseball team played the Holy Name nine at Portland, last Wednesday.

A number of trees have recently been set out on Maine Street just west of the college.

Arrangements have been made for make-up work in Chemistry 2 to-day and again the first of the week.

An opportunity is being offered to make up work this week between the hours of 5 and 6 p.m.

The members of the tennis team returned to Brunswick, Tuesday night, after their victory at Waterville.

On May 16, the Class in Education visited the schools of Portland, and took dinner at Riverton Park.

Hichborn, '07, has been at his home in Augusta for the past ten days, where he is confined by illness.

Adjourns were given in the Freshmen English classes the latter part of the week because of the absence of Professor Mitchell.

Fryeburg Academy played Leavitt Institute on the Whittier Field last Saturday afternoon. The former team was victorious by a score of 7 to 0.

The ball team left on the 8 o’clock train, Wednesday morning, for Andover. Beside the regular members of the team, Morrell, ’09, and Hayes, ’08, were taken as substitutes. The former was taken as pitcher, in case Sparks was unable to pitch either game.
H. D. Evans, '01, will speak before the Chemical Club this evening at the Beta Theta Pi house. His subject will be "Drinking Water."

Ralph G. Webber, '06, was in Portland last Saturday, where he represented the Bowdoin Y. M. C. A. at the State Convention held in that city.

W. B. Webb, '05, now in the employ of the International Banking Co., passed Sunday at the college. He was also present at the track meet Saturday.

The Brunswick basketball team played the alumnæ of the High School in the Armory Hall on Thursday evening. It was the last game for the season.

A meeting of the Athletic Council was held Wednesday evening, to decide how many men could go to Worcester on the funds at the disposal of the manager.

A large half-tone picture of the Alpha Delta Phi convention delegates, which was taken at the Art building, appeared in the Lewiston Journal of last Monday.

Folders giving the exercises of Commencement Week have been printed for the use of Seniors and friends of the college and may be obtained at the library.

Doubtless a number of students will go to Lewiston, to-morrow, to witness the Bates-Bowdoin game. It is expected that Files will do the pitching for Bowdoin.

Professor Baker of Harvard will speak before an open meeting of the debating course in Hubbard Hall next Wednesday afternoon. His subject will be "Debating."

Junior marching was resumed last Monday after a suspension of several days, because of the removal of the piano from Memorial Hall. Cushing, '09, is acting as pianist.

Peaslee of the Medical School, has recently returned to college after an absence of nearly ten weeks at his home in Thomaston, where he has been detained because of illness.

A meeting of the Athletic Council was held on Wednesday of last week. The most important business was the consideration of the report of the manager of the baseball team.

The playing of the tournament for the selection of the tennis team to represent Bowdoin at Burlington next week, was completed Thursday, but the Oriental was unable to obtain the final results in time for publication.

Miss Sue Winchell of Brunswick, Maine's well-known 'cellist, will play with the Paddettes, the leading woman's musical organization of this country, for the summer season at Keith's, Boston.

Hon. H. M. Heath, '72, of Augusta, addressed the members of the debating course, last evening, on the subject of public speaking. The medals to the members of the victorious debating team were presented at this time.

The Ricker Classical Institute baseball team is scheduled to play the Second team on Whittier Field, Monday. This school has one of the strongest preparatory school teams in the State, and it is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

To-morrow evening and Monday evening, the Committee on Commencement Parts will listen to their reading in Hubbard Hall, and will decide upon the best ones. Those on the committee are Professors Moody, Foster, and Allen Johnson.

Workmen have been engaged in drilling the paint off the chapel steps, where some Freshman who had more time than brains had seen fit to paint his class numerals. The trick comes the nearest to the act of an imbecile of anything done about college for a long time.

Effort is being made to secure enough names to warrant the production of "The Rivals" the night before Ivy, and it is believed that a sufficient number may be secured. If this is not done, there is some talk of arranging a joint concert of the Bowdoin and Colby Glee Clubs on that evening.

Sparks, '09, pitcher and outfielder on the baseball team, is having a somewhat painful experience with his arm, which was recently injured by a pitched ball in practice. He accompanied the team on the Andover trip of this week, but at the time of departure it was thought very doubtful if he could pitch either game. He had been scheduled to pitch the Andover game.

On Tuesday and on the following two or three evenings, the Committee on the Alexander Prize Speaking will listen to the rehearsals of the various pieces, and will decide upon the men who will compete for the prize during Commencement Week. Those on this committee are: Professor Woodruff, Professor Mitchell and Mr. Smith.
The subject of Prof. George P. Baker's lecture in Memorial Hall next Wednesday evening, will be "Shakespeare's England." The lecture is given under the auspices of the Ibis, but will be public.

Manager Voorhees of the track team is busily engaged in making arrangements for the annual Interscholastic Meet, which is to be held on Whittier Field, May 26. So far he has received responses from five schools which have signified their intentions of sending teams, with the possibility of two others.

Several fraternity baseball games have been played of late. The Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity were defeated by the Beta Theta Pi men last Wednesday by the score of 7 to 4. On the Delta. Last Monday the A. D. 's defeated the D. K. E. nine by a score of 21 to 9. Wednesday the team again met the "Dekes" winning, 33 to 6.

Three members of the debating course will speak at preparatory schools to-day. They are Linnell, '07, who will speak at Thoron Academy on the subject of "School Spirit;" Snow, '07, who will speak at Bath on the subject of the "Congo Free State," and Roberts, '07, who will speak at Yarmouth on the subject of "Luther Burbank."

The arrangements for Ivy Day are being perfected by the committee in charge. The events of the day will not be different from those of past years. There will be the Colby game in the forenoon and the literary exercises, and Senior's last chapel in the afternoon, concluding with the Ivy hop in the evening. Pullen's Orchestra will again furnish music, this year.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Henry Johnson last Tuesday evening attended a meeting of "The Dante Club," which was held at the house of Mr. Charles E. Norton of Cambridge, Mass.

Professor Chapman will on May 26, deliver the address at the dedication of the B. H. Bartol Library, a Carnegie building, at Freeport. Professor Little will attend the dedication.

Prof. Robinson will lecture at Machias to-night under the auspices of the Machias High School. He will leave for Washington, D. C., Sunday, for a few days' absence.

No adjourns were given last Saturday, but the attendance in all of the classes was very small.

Tennis is becoming more and more popular as the term progresses. It is difficult to find a vacant court about college on pleasant afternoons.

SOPHOMORE THEMES

The fourth theme of the semester for Sophomores not taking English 4 will be due, Tuesday, May 22. The subjects are as follows:

1. The Importance of Good Second Teams in College Athletics.
2. Should College Property Be Taxed?
3. Prizes in College Work.
4. Is it Justifiable for Members of Trade Unions to Refuse to Work with Non-Union Men?
5. Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice."

$23,000 FOR BOWDOIN

By the filing of the will of the late Dr. Charles M. Cumston, last week, it was shown that he had remembered his Alma Mater with a gift of $23,000. Dr. Cumston was one of Bowdoin's most loyal alumni. It is understood that the money is to be used for scholarships for needy students.

Pleasing Remembrance

The College Treasurer has just received a check for $400, which is the second annual contribution by the Class of 1894, to the income of the College. This is to represent the interest at 4 per cent. on $10,000, and is pledged for five years.

The Class of '94 sets a good example well worthy of imitation.

FOR THE NEW ENGLAND MEET

The team that will represent Bowdoin in the New England meet left on the 8 o'clock train yesterday morning, for Brookline, Mass., where the meet will be held on the Tech. grounds for the first time.

But five men were taken, because of the small amount of money at the disposal of the manager. They were Capt. Toby, Dorothy, Robinson, Shorey, and Kimball.

NOTICE
A notice has just been received by Professor Woodruff stating that there is to be a dress rehearsal of the annual Harvard Greek Play on June 14 at 2:30 P.M. This rehearsal will be given outdoors in the stadium, as will the regular performance on June 16 and 19. (In case of rain the rehearsal will be postponed until June 15, and the other performances until the 18th and 19th.) No seats will be reserved at the dress rehearsal, but tickets admitting to any part of the enclosed portion of the stadium, will be sold at the entrance for one dollar each. Such tickets may be obtained before June 10, by writing to Dr. George H. Chase, 24 Grays Hall, Cambridge, Mass., enclosing the price of the tickets, and an addressed, stamped envelope. Attention is called to the fact that this rehearsal comes the day after the Bowdoin-Harvard game. For further information in regard to the plays see Harvard Graduates’ Magazine for March.

ART BUILDING NOTES

Thursday, April 26, at 4 o’clock, although it was a holiday, a number of people attended the ninth musical recital. The general topic was “The Waltz,” and the very enjoyable program arranged by Dr. Mason was as follows:
1. Symphonie Pathetique Finale.—Tchaikowskii.
2. Valse de Concert.—Wieniawski.
4. Valse Poétique.—Gottschalk.
5. Valse Mignonne.—Moszkowski.
6. Valse de Concert.—Wieniawski.
7. S. Puritani, Fantaisie.—Sidney Smith.

This recital was not repeated in the evening, because many of the students were away, but was given again on Sunday afternoon at 3:30.
A circular has recently been received at the Art Building, containing an outline of the work of an Art School which is to be carried on at Boothbay Harbor, from July 9 to August 11. Classes in painting, dancing, and applied design will be held under the instruction of Mr. Henneman, a Belgian artist, Mr. A. G. Randall, Dartmouth, '92, and Mrs. Randall, Pratt Institute, 1900. Further information can be obtained by consulting the circular, or addressing Mr. Randall at Fitchburg, Mass.

On Thursday, May third, Dr. Mason gave the tenth and last of the series of musicals to be given in the Art Building. The general topic of the musical was the concert, and the excellent program arranged and played by Dr. Mason was as follows:

1. Danse Créole.—Chaminade.
2. Concerto in A Minor.—Grieg.
   (a) Allegro, molto moderato.
   (b) Adagio.
   (c) Allegro Marcato.
3. Concerto in C Minor.—Beethoven.
   Allegro con Brio.

Many thanks are due to Dr. Mason for so kindly arranging for, and playing these recitals in the absence of Prof. Hutchins, who started what may now be called the custom of having such a series of musicals every year. The college also is indebted to the kindness of Messrs. Cressey and Allen for the loan of the excellent ivers and Pond Princess Grand Piano, and Cecilian Piano-Player that have been used in the Art Building this winter.

The Art Building has recently received three samples of Lőess from the cave-dwellers' houses in Houan, and one sample of brick and mortar taken from the great wall of China at Shan-hai-kuan. These specimens are the gifts of Mr. Charles F. Gannon of Tien Tsin, who used to reside in Portland, Maine, and who has already presented the Art Building with a collection of articles taken in China during the Boxer uprising.

There was recently on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery, an exceptionally good collection of 78 photographs illustrating all the masterpieces of John S. Sargent, R. A. These photographs were loaned by the Library Art Club, and remained on exhibition until May 14.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless and black powders and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

BASEBALL

Bowdoin, 6; Bates, 1.

Bowdoin won the third game of the Maine College series at Lewiston last Saturday, defeating Bates by the score of 6 to 1 in an interesting game.

Bowdoin played fast ball from the first, the team showing up in the best form of the season, and playing a remarkable game in both fielding and hitting. The latter was a feature of the contest, the team connecting with Johnson for 13 hits, a large portion of which were bunched. The work of Abbott, Files, Bower and Greene was particularly strong in this department.

Files pitched, and, as usual, played a splendid game. The fielding of the team was of the best, the work of the entire infield being as near perfect as one could ask. The outfield also played in its usual fast form.

The game was a very close contest during the first six innings. Bates got one run in the first inning, and Bowdoin secured one in her half of the second. In the seventh, however, Bowdoin began her batting. With two men retired, Bower singled, stole second and scored on a three-bagger by Abbott.

In the eighth Bowdoin secured another run. Sparks singled, followed by another by Greene. Hodgson reached first in a fielder's choice and Sparks took third, after which Blair singled, scoring Sparks. In the ninth three more runs were secured on clean hitting and good all-round playing. Bowdoin secured three singles and a triple in this inning.

BOSTON COLLEGE, 7; BOWDOIN, 5.

Bowdoin lost to Boston College on Thursday of last week by the score of 7 to 5. Both teams played a loose fielding game, and this contributed largely to the loss of the game. Morrell pitched the first three innings, but retired in favor of Sparks. After that time Boston College secured but one run.

BOWDOIN, 5; MAINE, 2.

Bowdoin won a great victory over Maine at Orono last Wednesday by the score of 5 to 2. It was an interesting contest and was witnessed by a large crowd of people, it being the Junior week at that institution. An account will appear in the next issue.

THREE ADDITIONAL BALL GAMES

Manager Wilson completed arrangements last Monday to play the Holy Name team of Portland in that city June 2. This is the date recently cancelled by Harvard Second. It had been hoped that this date could be secured for a game in Brunswick, but owing to the financial condition of the association, sufficient guarantee could not be offered.

Arrangements are also being completed for a game with the South Portland team for June 9 in that city and a return game at Brunswick during Commencement week. In the arrangements that are being made it is stated that "Pop" Williams is to pitch the Brunswick game, which will be an added attraction for Bowdoin men.

NEW ENGLAND MEET

The annual track meet of the New England colleges was held on the Tech. field at Brookline last Saturday and resulted in a victory for Dartmouth. Bowdoin was represented by five men and succeeded in capturing five points. It was hoped that Capt. Tobey might score for Bowdoin, but the fact that he has been playing tennis a great deal of late proved a great handicap. He, however, qualified for the semi-final heat before being beaten. Kimball succeeded in capturing second in the quarter in a great race, and Robinson took third in the two-mile. The summary of the meet was as follows:

100-Yard Dash—Won by Risigari, Tufts; Porter, Maine, second; Swasey, third; Jordan, Dartmouth, fourth. Time—10 1-5s.

220-Yard Dash—Won by Porter, Maine; Risigari, Tufts, second; Swasey, Dartmouth, third; Jordan, Dartmouth, fourth. Time—24 4-5s.

440-Yard Dash—Won by Mowe, Technology; Kimball, Bowdoin, second; Wyman, Maine, third; Honiss, Brown, fourth. Time—53 3-5s.

880-Yard Run—Won by Thrall, Dartmouth; Wilson, Technology, second; Shipley, Dartmouth, third; Harris, Dartmouth, fourth. Time—2m. 4 3-5s.

One Mile Run—Won by Tucker, Brown; Wright, Brown, second; Grey, Wesleyan, third; Buckingham, Technology, fourth. Time—4m. 27 3-5s.

130-Yard High Hurdles—Won by J. H. Hubbard, Amherst; Shaw, Dartmouth, second; Griswold, Williams, third; Grey, Dartmouth, fourth. Time—15 4-5s.

220-Yard Low Hurdles—Won by J. H. Hubbard, Amherst; Shaw, Dartmouth, second; Pond, Trinity, third; Griswold, Williams, fourth. Time—25 1-5s.

Two-Mile Run—Won by Tucker, Brown; Bonner, Williams, second; Robinson, Bowdoin, third; Gal'lip, Brown, fourth. Time—10m. 19.3–55.

Running High Jump—Horax of Williams and Farrington of Technology tied for first and second places at height of 5 ft. 9 in. In jump-off for medal Farrington cleared 5 ft. 10 1–4 in. Rapelye of Technology and Reserve of Maine tied at 5 ft. 7 in for third and fourth places. Rapelye won toss for medal.

Running Broad Jump—Won by Mayhew, Brown, distance 21 ft. 5 1–2 in.; Brown, Williams, and Kent, Wesleyan, tied for second and third places, distance 21 ft. 3 in.; Morton, Amherst, fourth, distance 20 ft. 10 in.

Pole Vault—Won by Hazen, Dartmouth, height 11 ft.; Rogers, Maine, second, height 10 ft. 10 in.; Orr, Technology, third, height 10 ft. 8 in.; Horrax, Williams, Farrington, Technology, and Newton, Amherst, tied for fourth place, at height 10 ft. 4 in.

Shotput—Won by Marshall, Williams, distance 41 ft. 5 in.; Dearborn, Wesleyan, second, distance 38 ft.; 10 1–2 in.; Polhemus, Technology, third, distance 37 ft. 9 in.; Gage, Dartmouth, fourth, distance 36 ft. 8 in.

Hammer Throw—Won by Gage, Dartmouth, distance 132 ft.; Knapp, Technology, second, distance 125 ft.; Blake, Dartmouth, third distance 116 ft. 9 in.; LaMent, Williams, fourth, distance 113 ft. 2 in.

Discus Throw—Won by Dearborn, Wesleyan, distance 120 ft. 11 1–2 in.; Smith, Brown, distance 107 ft. 1 in.; Low, Dartmouth, third, distance 103 ft. 7 1–4 in.; LaMent, Williams, fourth, distance 101 ft. 6 in.

The summary of the points was as follows:

Dartmouth .................................. 36
Brown .................................... 23
M. I. T. .................................... 21 5–6
Williams .................................. 19 5–6
University of Maine ........................ 14 1–2
Wesleyan .................................. 12 1–2
Amherst ................................... 11 1–3
Tufts ....................................... 8
Bowdoin .................................... 5
Trinity ...................................... 2

Dramatic Club

During the past week the Dramatic Club has been getting pledges from those students who would buy tickets to "The Rivals," if repeated on the night before Ivy, June 7. Enough names have been obtained to give a fairly sure guarantee of expenses, so the management has decided to give the performance. A few minor details are yet to be arranged, but the presentation is assured, and it is hoped that every one will make arrangements to attend the play, and have as many as possible of their friends go with them. Not only is "The Rivals" a good play, but Bowdoin has an excellent cast in it this spring, and the club deserves the support of the college.

A Word of Thanks

The Orient has received a copy of the official directory of the 59th Congress, through the kindness of Congressman D. S. Alexander, Bowdoin, '70, and extends its thanks for the same.

Mr. Heath's Address

The Orient prints elsewhere a somewhat extended account of the address of Hon. H. M. Heath, '72, before the debating course. The address was one of the most interesting and instructive that has been delivered at Bowdoin in a long time, and the Orient commends its reading to those who did not have the privilege of listening to Mr. Heath.

Athletic Subscriptions

A word of criticism may well be said concerning the attitude of the students this spring, in the matter of athletic subscriptions. It is doubtful if there has been so much indifference among undergraduates for a long time as has existed this semester. It is far from complimentary to the undergraduate body to state that the money paid in for baseball, track and tennis has all been below recent years, and that the managers have had the greatest difficulty in being able to play off their schedules as arranged. Just why this condition exists, is hard to say, but that there is great indifference there can be no doubt.

In baseball the subscriptions signed was $750.00 as compared with $911.00 a year ago, and the amount paid in has been between $200.00 and $300.00 less. The manager this year arranged the best possible schedule and has been untiring to make the season a success. He has been particularly fortunate in the way of weather, but even under these conditions he must collect in a large proportion of the money outstanding at the present time in order to make his accounts balance. Had he not had this good fortune, it is hard to say where he would have been at this time.

The attitude toward track has not been any more creditable. The amount subscribed for compared well with previous years, but the amount paid in has been far less. Men have not met their subscriptions at the dates specified, and there is at the present time, with the season over, nearly $200.00 which has not been paid. Before the Maine meet the management made complete canvasses of the college for the funds that must be forthcoming in order to pay for the expenses of the team, and the amount resulting from a whole evening's work was in some instances as small as $4.00. As is well known, the night before the New England Meet the management were obliged to raise $72.00 in order to allow five men to take the trip, and as the money was not forthcoming the team could not go on the early morning train, and for a time it appeared as if they might not be able to go at all. And this with a large number of overdue subscriptions unpaid. It would have been desirable for more men to have gone if the students had done their duty by the team, and it is also possible Bowdoin might have secured a few more points. The same thing was true of tennis. The day before the Vermont trip it was not certain that the men could go. Men who had subscribed and named the date could not pay when the time came.

There are several ways of considering these things. If a fellow in college is unable to pay a little money to support the college teams, he is not obliged to do so. There are, doubtless, cases where this is true, although the number is probably not large. If such is the case, the student should not pay and he is entitled to all respect in his not doing so.

The student who puts his name down, however, and then does not pay, is doing a disloyal if not a dishonest act. A name on a subscription is just as binding as any contract, and the men who refuse to pay are doing wrong by the managers and by the college. Every cent that has been put into athletics this year has gone for good purposes, and to support the teams is one of the privileges of every student who can afford it. And yet there are men in college who are able to spend money freely in other directions who have stated that they could not pay their subscriptions after they have signed in for them.

One of the worst things about this condition is its contagion. Men who would otherwise pay, seeing fellows whom they know are more able to meet their subscriptions refusing to do so, think it no more than just that they should escape. There is some logic in such a conclusion, but the result is disastrous for the managers.

Bowdoin undergraduates justly pride themselves on college spirit, but when it is remembered that another college of the State paid out for a special trip for its track team, this year, half as much as our men have paid in altogether, to say nothing of much larger subscriptions for other college activities, the students have no reason to feel especially proud of their support this spring.

The Orient does not refer to these conditions as being in any way alarming or as against the college spirit in general. It is rather a temporary laxness on the part of some students which should, and doubtless will, be corrected.

Commencement Speakers

The trials for the selection of the Commencement speakers to compete for the Goodwin prize, was completed last Tuesday evening, and resulted in the selection of the following men: Philip F. Chapman, James A. Bartlett, George C. Soule, Robie R. Stevens, Oscar Peterson and Charles L. Favinger.

Mr. Heath's Address

A large number of the students and faculty enjoyed the lecture on “Public Speaking” by Hon. H. M. Heath, ’72, in the Debating Room of Hubbard Hall last Thursday evening. Mr. Heath said in part:

“It is a comfort for me to know that so many college men to-day have so much advantage. Thirty-eight years ago when I entered college, no attention was paid to English; that men had to go out into the world and get along largely by the use of their own language, was entirely forgotten.

“In the first place, I think the use of a skeleton, even, in public speaking, ought to be made a capital offense. A man should have such a command of his work as to be able to frame it, skeleton and all, upon his feet. You cannot frame good thought under the 'snow heaps' of the closet.

“The first requisite in the public speaker is to have a body of iron. No physical exercise that our athletic systems entail is any too severe. Thomas B. Reed recognized the necessity of a sound body when Speaker of the House of Representatives. At a dinner in Washington he would partake of no wine because he felt that the least bit of alcohol might impair his ability to fulfill his duty to his people in the trying time to which the Speaker is subject.

“The next study is simplicity of English. You can best get this by the study of Latin and Greek, by long training in dissecting these languages. Then learn an old English synonym for every word in your vocabulary from Latin and Greek. Thus you may bring yourself down to the plain language of the plain people. The mind should grasp the picture of the idea and not have to hunt around for its meaning.

“To attain this simplicity the first book to study is the Bible; no other piece of literature equals it. The Bible holds its power because its translators chose the simple language of the plain people. Next to this is Shakespeare; then the very best and choicest of literature with no time wasted on hastily written literature. Of the orators, study Webster of America, and next to him John Bright of England; by his plain words John Bright kept England from interfering in favor of the South in our Civil War. Then study the dictionary; Rufus Choate studied it every day, to acquire simplicity. Finally, to gain simplicity, use short words, short sentences, and short speeches. Aaron Burr, one of the greatest orators this country has known, never made his argument on a case more than half an hour long.

"The third requisite is voice training. A course in voice training should be given as much attention as any other. Nine hundred and ninety-nine men out of a thousand make a failure in their voice, in its natural state.

"The public speaker should learn to use the middle voice; public speaking should not be declamatory, and should not start on a high pitch. From the middle voice it is easy to go down to the heavy bass, then up, if necessary. Then again the middle voice is sympathetic; minds like to be fooled and the sympathetic tone makes it easier to steal the other fellow's head. Half the power of the orator is due to the proper use of the voice. Pitt at the age of twenty ruled the House of Commons with his admirable voice. Jefferson, although a master of written English, couldn't rule men because of his poor voice.

"In regard to gestures, I think every man should be a law to himself. True gesticulation is natural. In Washington I saw Camille played in Italian, not one word of which I could understand; nor had I any translation. Yet from the gestures I could follow every detail.

"The public speaker must back up what he says with character. Jurors and judges are men of blood and require character. The effective speaker must be sincere; if not his blow never strikes home.

"The next element is intensity of word and manner. If your speeches haven't fire in them, they should be in the fire. You need the power of humanity, to speak from heart to heart. This is the power which will make Lincoln's Gettysburg address live down through countless ages, long after Everett's empty rhetoric is forgotten. To help attain this, study rich poetry and good novels.

"The public speaker must accumulate the knowledge of the ages. Some day he can use it for life or death. Thus it was that Webster was enabled to reach out for his smoking thunderbolts.

"The human mind must be relieved, so you cannot neglect the study of wit and humor; a man is a failure without it. You must also use the pen. Alexander Hamilton in his great libel case, wrote out his speech the night before and then destroyed it. The use of the pen will teach you how to prune. You must make up your mind that others will not suffer your own delusion in regard to your fine sounding sentences. You should take every chance to stand on your feet and think. Get full of your subject and then there is no trouble about the words. You need to stand on your feet when you talk, for there is a multiple process going on which you cannot use in a chair.

"Without nervousness before speaking you will never be a success. Nervousness is an indication of the proper condition of mind. But you must take care to let neither your opponent nor your audience see your nervousness.

"I trust no graduate of this college will ever read his speech. No verdict ever was won in this way, and I do not believe souls are so won.

"The object of eloquence is to convince; so never try to be eloquent. If so you lose your power. Just think and speak of your cause. O'Connell said a great speech was very fine, but the verdict was the real thing. This power of eloquence is partly a gift, more largely an acquisition.

"I can summarize all I have said in one sentence: Work, fight, believe in-a future life, the survival of the fittest, be true to self, to conscience, and to God, and the battle of life shall end in victory."

At the close of the lecture President Hyde presented the debating team with gold medals, the reward of the victory over Clark College, April 27.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTIONS

The Bowdoin Y. M. C. A. held its annual election on Thursday evening of last week. The following officers were elected:

President—Neal W. Allen.
Vice-President—Felix A. Burton.
Treasurer—F. J. Morrison.
Corresponding Secretary—Carl M. Robinson.
Recording Secretary—Harold H. Burton.
College Notes

Bowdoin vs. Colby at Waterville to-morrow.

The Verein initiations will take place May 31.

Pope, '07, was at his home in Manchester last week.

The Freshman debate scheduled for this week was again postponed.

The May issue of the Quill appeared on Wednesday of this week.

James Archibald of Houlton recently passed a few days at the college.

"Dora Thorne" will be the attraction in the Town Hall to-morrow evening.

Sparks, '09, and Greene, '09, were in the Kent's Hill the first of the week.

Gen. Chamberlain will deliver the Memorial Day address at York this year.

J. B. Drummond, '07, passed several days of this week at his home in Portland.

W. A. Kinney of Kent's Hill, has been visiting friends at the college this week.

Make up quizzes in economics will be given June 2 at the regular recitation hours.

Wing, '06, M. and C. Webber, '07, and Scammon, '09, all passed Sunday in Fairfield.

The Psi Upsilon Fraternity is planning to give a house party the night before Ivy.

The Bangor News of last Saturday contained a photograph of Farnsworth Marshall, '03.

Harold Gareelon, '04, now of the McGill Medical School, has been visiting the college this week.

But few college men attended the Bowdoin-Bates game last Saturday, there being less than 40 in the party.

Gen. O. O. Howard will deliver the Memorial Day address at the National Soldiers' Home at Togus.

The Chemical Club will meet at the Beta Theta Pi House this evening. It will be addressed by H. D. Evans, '01.

Duddy, '07, was in Portsmouth the latter part of the week. He expects to be employed in that city this summer.

Professor Baker of Harvard, gave a very interesting talk on "Debating" before English 7 last Wednesday afternoon.

The Musical Clubs election was scheduled to be held yesterday, but the Orient is unable to secure the results for this week.

Open cars were run on the Brunswick and Bath electric road on Friday, May 18. This is a little later date than is usually the case.

A meeting of the Freshman Class was held on Wednesday of last week. It is understood that the matter of a class banquet was the chief business under discussion.

Last Monday the Music Committee elected the following men for next year: M. P. Cushing, '09, chapel organist; W. S. Linnell, '07, choir leader; and M. P. Whipple, '07, organ blower.

Winslow, '06, Williams, '06, and Hacker, '07, passed Saturday and Sunday in Farmington.

Elder, '06, of the Bowdoin Verein, attended the initiation of the Bates Verein on Thursday of last week.

A poster designating where the recitations of the various classes are held, have recently been placed on the bulletin board.

T. F. Sheehan, '09, was at his home in Portland during the first of the week, where he was confined with a severe sore throat.

Saunders, '08, is out of his room this week after three weeks' confinement caused by water on the knee. He is still obliged to go on crutches.

The History Club will probably hold its last meeting of the year on June 1. It is planned to hold the meeting at the home of Professor Johnson.

Kingsley, '07, has been obliged to go on crutches during the past few days, as the result of a sprained ankle, which was injured while playing tennis.

H. C. McGrath of Boston, who will act as starter at the Interscholastic Meet to-morrow acted as starter at the New England meet last Saturday.

Several of the Maine papers contained extended accounts of President Hyde's address at the Potter Committee hearing which was held last Wednesday at Portland.

Among the Bowdoin men who attended the Brookline meet were Holman, '06; Stone, '06; Paine, '07; Upton, '07; McMichael, '07; Andrews, '06; Putnam, '06.

Bowdoin will play Colby at Waterville to-morrow in the last championship game which Bowdoin plays this year. It is expected that Files and Coombs will be the opposing pitchers.

The Aroostook Club dined at the Inn last Saturday evening, where it entertained the members of the Ricker ball team. There was a large attendance and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

The Alpha Signmas of Brunswick played the Oreonta baseball team of Portland on Whittier Field last Saturday afternoon. The score was 8 to 5 in favor of the Brunswick team.

Linnell, '07, represented the Orient, and Gould, '08, the Quill, at the annual banquet of the New England Intercollegiate Press Association, held at the Copley Square in Boston last Monday evening.

The Second team defeated the Ricker team on the Whittier Field last Monday afternoon, by the score of 16 to 6. It was a rather loosely played game. The battery for the Second was Morrell and Lawrence.

The Orient is unable to secure the complete results of the Vermont tournament for this issue. At the close of Tuesday's playing Bowdoin needed to win but one event in the final doubles to secure the tournament.

The Second team lost its game with Lewiston High on the Whittier Field Wednesday afternoon, by the score of 9 to 7. The game was somewhat loosely played on both sides, the visitors winning out on bunched hits, coupled with several errors in the seventh inning. The battery for the Second was Morrell and Lawrence.
Semester reports in History 6 and 8 will be due on June 1.

Professor Baker gave his illustrated lecture on "Shakespeare's London" in Memorial Hall, last Wednesday evening. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Ibis. The Orient will give a more full account next week.

Ham and Haines of the tennis team, accompanied by Manager Mincher, left on the 4:48 Saturday for Boston, where they joined Tobey and Paine, both of whom had been at the Brookline meet. The party went to Burlington from that city, Sunday morning.

Next Tuesday a special meeting of the Trustees and Overseers will be held in Hubbard Hall to take action with reference to a resolution proposed by the Carnegie foundation, as a condition of placing Bowdoin College on its list of institutions which are to receive retiring allowances for its professors.

A. B. Parsons spoke before the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday evening, on the subject of the Northfield Conference. His talk was largely confined to outlining the work for the coming summer. Mr. Parsons' address was postponed from last week because of his inability to be present on the date first arranged.

FACULTY NOTES

Professor Foster on Wednesday, May 16, spoke before the Westbrook Seminary on "The Opportunities of College Life."

Last Wednesday President Hyde appeared before the Committee of the Legislature on the "Duty of the State to the University of Maine," at the public hearing which was held at Convention Hotel in Portland.

Professor Mitchell acted as one of the judges in the Andover-Exeter debate held at Exeter last Saturday. The other two judges were Professor Laycock of Dartmouth, and Professor Huntington of Brown. The question was: Resolved: "That interscholastic football is more of a benefit than a deterrent." Exeter had the negative, and won.

On Memorial Day Professor Mitchell will speak at Freeport, and on May 31 will go to Hinckley, Me., where he will act as a judge at the Good Will Farm Prize Declamation.

Professor Robinson left Monday for Washington, D. C., where he attended the meeting of the executive committee of the American Public Health Association, of which he is president. The next annual meeting of the association will be held in the City of Mexico in October.

TELENT TOURNAMENT

The tennis tournament, played last week for the purpose of selecting the third and fourth men for the Vermont tournament, was completed last Friday. The summary was as follows:

In the preliminary round Ham beat Craigie, 6-1, 6-3; L. Timberlake beat Wilson, 2-5, 7-5; Limnell beat Webber, 6-2, 6-4; McMichael beat Clark, by default; Hughes beat Woodruff, 6-1, 6-3; Lawrence beat Goodspeed, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2; Haines beat Briggs, 12-14, 7-5, 6-1; Elder beat Stone, 7-5, 6-3.

In the semi-final round Ham, beat Timberlake, 6-4, 6-1; Limnell beat McMichael, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6; Hughes beat Lawrence, 6-2, 7-5; Haines beat Elder, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

In the final round Ham beat Johnson and Haines beat Hughes, giving Ham and Haines the two places on the Vermont-Longswood team. Paine and Tobey did not enter the tournament.

GRADUATE TROPHY COMPETITION

The following rules will govern the competition for the trophy offered for classes having the largest percentage of living members present at Commencement:

First.—Any graduating class, except the class graduating in the year of competition, shall be eligible for competition provided it has at least ten living members.

Second.—Any class proposing to compete shall notify the college librarian of its intention so to do on or before twelve noon, Commencement day.

Third.—Any competing class may include as members any former member, provided it gives to the college librarian the names of such members at or before the time of giving notice of its intentions to compete.

Fourth.—The trophy is to be awarded to the competing class having in the year of competition the largest percentage of graduates present at Commencement day, and shall be held by such class until it is won by another class at a subsequent Commencement.

Fifth.—Competition shall close at twelve noon on the Commencement day in the year of competition.

Sixth.—The college librarian shall decide which class has the largest percentage of members present, basing his decision upon the signatures in the Alumni Registration Book, and his decision shall be final.

JUNIOR BANQUET

At a meeting of the Junior Class held last Monday it was voted to hold a class banquet in the near future, the exact date of which was left with a committee. It is planned to have a clam bake on the shore in the vicinity. The committee in charge consists of Holt, Joy and Lawrence. It is thought probable that the banquet may take place June 2.

TOMORROW'S MEET

Tomorrow is the date of the annual Interscholastic Meet on the Whittier field, and the event should be an interesting one for both college and the visitors. Six schools have signified their intentions of sending teams. They are Hebron Academy, Westbrook Seminary, Portland High, Bar Harbor High, the Abbott School and Coburn Classical Institute.

The following officials have been selected by Manager Voorhees:

Referee—W. W. Bolster.

Starter—H. C. McGrath of Boston.

Marshal—J. B. Drummond, '07.
Obituary

REV. F. H. ROWSE, EX-'81

Word has been received of the sudden death by suicide of Rev. Frederick H. Rowse at St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Rowse had been suffering from ill health for a long time, and this is said to have been the cause of his taking his own life. He was a native of Augusta, having been born there in 1859. He was the son of Edward Rowse, a well-known Augusta jeweler. Frederick Rowse entered Bowdoin with the Class of 1881, and joined the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, but at the end of his Sophomore year left college to enter the ministry. In 1882 he became pastor of the Episcopal Church at Fort Fairfield, and held this pastorate for five years, when he removed to Plymouth, Mass., where he preached until 1902. In 1902 he went to Minnesota and since his arrival he has preached at Fairbault, Pipestone, and St. Paul, where he was at the time of his death.

CHARLES FRED MOULTON, '87

Dr. Charles Fred Moulton, a well-known eye specialist of Boston, died April 24, at his residence, 75 Park Street, West Roxbury, Mass., aged 40. A widow, son and daughter survive. He was on the medical staff of the City Hospital and the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. Dr. Moulton was born at Canton, Me., June 23, 1865. He was graduated from Bowdoin College, Class of 1887, and from Dartmouth Medical School in 1890. He began practice in West Roxbury in January, 1891. In 1896 he went abroad and spent considerable time in the hospitals of London and Paris, studying the diseases of the eye. On his return to Boston he opened an office in the Warren Chambers as a specialist. In that year he was stricken with a spinal trouble which for four years kept him in his bed, but in 1902 he resumed practice. At the time of his death his office was at the Westminster Chambers, Copley Square. The cause of his death was tuberculosis meningitis. He was a member of Prospect Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Roslindale, and of the Highland Club. The death of Dr. Moulton is the fourth break in the ranks of '87, the others who have died being Robinson, Pushor and Choate.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Bowdoin, 5; Maine, 2.

Bowdoin won a decisive baseball victory over the University of Maine at Orono on Wednesday of last week, by the score of 5 to 2. The game was a most interesting contest throughout, but was clearly Bowdoin's from the start. Sparks pitched his second game of the year for Bowdoin and surely made a good beginning, the Maine team being able to secure but three hits off his delivery during the nine innings. He also played a strong fielding game.

The work of the entire infield was of the best—even better than that of the Bates game of the previous week. Every man played in remarkable form. Blair played his position in a way that was a revelation to those who have not seen him at his best, while Capt. Hodgson also did splendid work. The playing of the remainder of the infield was also commendable.

As in nearly all the games of the year, the team hit hard and effectively, ten hits being secured off Frost. Stanwood excelled in this work, he securing three out of five times at bat.

Bowdoin secured her first run in the second inning. Sparks sent a hot drive to Burns, took second on Blair's out, and scored on a single by Greene. In the third, Bowdoin secured another run. Abbott drew a base on balls, stole second and scored on a drive along the first base line by Stanwood. In the fourth, Bowdoin secured two more runs. Blair singled, and took third on a poor throw by Gordon to cut off his steal. Then Hodgson hit to Frost, but Mayo missed the throw and Blair scored. Hodgson then stole second and scored on a passed ball. Bowdoin secured another run in the seventh, Abbott securing a single and scoring on a timely hit by Stanwood.

Maine secured her first run in the third. Mayo beat out a short hit and scored on a wild pitch by Sparks. Her only other run came in the seventh, Quint securing a double and scoring on a hit by Higgins.

THE VERMONT TOURNAMENT

Bowdoin succeeded in winning a decisive victory over Vermont in the annual tennis tournament, which was held in Burlington, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Bowdoin was represented by Tobey, '06, Paine, '06, Haines, '08, and Ham, '08. All four of the men did excellent work, although the work of the first two men was the strongest, they being in a class by themselves in both singles and doubles. The total score was 11 to 7 in favor of Bowdoin.

The summary of the first day's play was as follows:

INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET

Hebron Academy won the eighth annual Interscholastic Field Meet, held on Whittier Field last Saturday afternoon, securing a total of 60 points. The other schools scoring points were Westbrook Seminary with 22: Coburn Classical Institute, 15; Bar Harbor High School, 11; Portland High, 6; and Bangor High, 3. The Abbott School of Farmington did not score.

The meet was a most successful one in every way. Four records were broken and the events were all well contested. The records broken were in the pole vault, the running broad jump, the 220-yard hurdles and the high jump. The pole vault record went to Chase of Hebron, who cleared the bar at 9 feet, 11 1-2 inches, the previous record being held by Quincy of Kent's Hill. Thomas of Portland High took the record in the high jump at a height of 5 feet, 7 1-2 inches, while McFarland of Hebron beat the record in the broad, going 20 feet, 11 1-2 inches. Abercrombie of Hebron made the 220-yard hurdles in the fastest time ever made at a Bowdoin meet.

The following is the summary of the meet:

100-Yard Dash—First heat won by Lowell of Westbrook; Evans of Bar Harbor, second; time, 10 4-5 seconds. Second heat won by Abercrombie of Westbrook; Redmond of Hebron, second; time, 10 4-5 seconds. Third heat won by Winslow of Westbrook; Redmond of Hebron, second; time, 11 seconds. Final heat won by Lowell of Westbrook; Abercrombie of Hebron, second; Evans of Bar Harbor, third. Time—10 3-5 seconds.
120-Yard Hurdles—First heat won by McFarland of Hebron; Keogh of Hebron, second; time, 17 1-5 seconds. Second heat, Abercrombie of Hebron, first; Chapman of Westbrook, second; time, 18 1-5 seconds. Final heat won by Abercrombie of Hebron; McFarland of Hebron, second; Keogh of Hebron, third; time, 17 1-5 seconds.

880-Yard Run—Won by Stinson of Coburn; Coane of Hebron, second; Hill of Bar Harbor, third; time, 2 minutes, 16 seconds.

220-Yard Hurdles—Won by Abercrombie of Hebron; McFarland of Hebron, second; Valladora of Westbrook, third.

440-Yard Dash—Won by Forham of Westbrook; Joy of Hebron, second; Bicknell of Westbrook, third; time, 1.5 2-5 seconds.

220-Yards Dash—Won by Lowell of Westbrook; Chapman of Westbrook, second; Evans of Bar Harbor, third; time, 23 4-5 seconds.

Mile Run—Won by Kenniston of Hebron; Richards of Bar Harbor, second; Winslow of Westbrook, third; time, 5 minutes, 4 1-5 seconds.

Putting 16-lb. Shot—Won by Newman of Bar Harbor; Smith of Coburn, second; Cavanaugh of Hebron, third; distance, 35 feet, 8½ inches.

Throwing 16-lb. Hammer—Won by Andrews of Hebron; Stanley of Hebron, second; Keogh of Hebron, third; distance, 102 feet, 53½ inches.

Running High Jump—Won by Thomas of Portland; Smith of Bangor, second; McKeen of Hebron, third; height, 5 feet, 7½ inches.

Pole Vault—Won by A. Chase of Hebron; Smith of Bangor, second; Hall of Westbrook, third; height, 9 feet, 11½ inches.

Running Broad Jump—Won by McFarland of Hebron; Smith of Coburn, second; Thomases of Portland, third; distance, 20 feet, 11½ inches.

“Opportunities to-day are universally compared with what they used to be. The college man is sure to get a chance. Most people do not think. When they do think they have a capacity to think wrong. The college man has a great chance to set him right. Three great resisting forces must be fought in every case, ignorance, intolerance and inertia; to meet them the student should develop the two qualities of sympathy and trust.

“From this power of creating sympathy and trust, Dean Shaler of Harvard was a born leader. You know he was sincere and that he had thought about what he said. His qualities of sincerity and simplicity endeared him. These are what the public wants.

“I do not believe college men can expect to become leaders in the first year or two out of college, but they are sure to be in demand some day. They must keep their eyes open and be active. A man should feel the possibilities of his leadership. According to the sentiment of one of President Cleveland's speeches, he should be appreciative, sympathetic, prompt and sturdy. He should get the point of view of the other side.”

“SHAKESPEARE'S LONDON”

On Wednesday, May 23, Dr. G. P. Baker, of Harvard, under the auspices of the Ibis gave a stereopticon lecture before a large audience in Memorial Hall, on "Shakespeare's London." Dr. Baker first showed pictures of and talked about the various streets of old London, then took the audience through London, over London Bridge and out to the park where most of the theatres of Shakespeare’s day were situated. After showing several views of the exterior of these theatres, Dr. Baker went into an extended account of the stage details used in Shakespeare’s day, and illustrated many of his points with pictures taken of the very carefully reconstructed Shakespercan stage of Harvard.

Interscholastic Meet

Last Saturday’s Interscholastic Meet proved itself one of the best ever held. While there was not as many schools represented as is sometimes the case, the men competing were perhaps the best ever gathered for a preparatory school meet in the State. The work in the hurdles, jumps, pole vault and weights, in particular, was of a sort that would do credit to any Maine college, and it is safe to say that the men who took the points will be heard from later in college.

It is unfortunate that there should not have been more schools represented. The Interscholastic Meet is surely the best time of all the year for the entertainment of visitors. The college is at its best and it comes at a time when all the fraternities are working to bring men to the college. Students from the various preparatory schools should work hard each year to see that their school sends a team, even if they cannot win points. It is an opportune time for the best work and another year there should be more schools on hand.

Our Debating Department

Bowdoin deserves to be congratulated on the work done in its debating department during the past year. A large number of men have taken the course, our intercollegiate team was victorious, and the course has extended its scope. The sending out of men for special addresses is worthy of special mention. Members of the course have been given real training in public speaking before general audiences and the results have been very satisfactory, both to the men and to the college. In this way the college appears before prospective students in a practical light. The fact that we have here at Bowdoin a thorough course in argumentation, credit for work in which is given towards the degree, ought to have great weight with those men in our preparatory schools who are at all interested in debating and who aim to be able to express their ideas clearly and logically. There is no other course that gives a man the power to handle himself and the knowledge he gains from other lines of study so effectively as a consistent course in debating. The banquet of the Council at New Meadows also had its practical as well as its social side, and was only one of the features of the course that is making it one of the strong departments of the college.

Musical Clubs

The season of the Musical Clubs for 1905-6 was completed with the annual election of the clubs held last Thursday evening. In every respect the season has been one of the best in years. Not only have the clubs been of a rare excellence in musical ability, but the season has been completed with a surplus of $60.00 in the treasury. The clubs have made the usual number of trips during the year, and in every place visited they were accorded a cordial reception, both in attendance and in enthusiasm. The work done by the clubs in some cities was credited with being the best ever given, and to those who have heard the concerts it is certain that the statement was no exaggeration. The members enjoyed dinner at New Meadows last Tuesday evening, where it invested a portion of its surplus in a shore dinner. The Orient congratulates the clubs and the college on the work done this year.

Class Marching and Juniors should be called to the necessity of attending the class marching. The marshals of both classes are experiencing difficulty in getting all of the men to turn out each day, and the result is that the perfecting of the marching is seriously handicapped. Several times during the past few years the class marching has not been of the best, and the cause was exactly this thing. A few men in each class, by their negligence can in a large measure spoil the work of those who turn out faithfully. There are, doubtless, times when many men find it impossible to be present, but repeated absences look more like a lack of spirit than anything else. Nearly all the members of both classes are on hand each day. The faithful work of these men should not be handicapped by a few others.

MUSICAL CLUBS DINNER

The Glee Club season came to a close last Monday night in a merry manner when the entire musical association indulged in a dinner at New Meadows Inn. A fine banquet was provided by the management, after which a jolly hour was spent in singing college and other songs. The event brought to a close, fittingly, one of the most successful years that has ever been the lot of any Bowdoin Clubs.

NEW VEREIN MEN

The men who have been elected to the Deutcher Verein for the next year, are as follows: Allen, '07; Bower, '07; Weed, '07; Chadbourne, '07; Stetson, '07; Pike, '07; Mincher, '07; Linnell, '07; Duddy, '07; Voorhees, '07; Bridgman, '08; Lee, '08; Delevina, '08; Gray, '08; Marsh, '09; Jackson, '09; Brewster, '09.

The initiation took place at New Meadows Inn last Thursday evening.

MEETING OF TRUSTEES AND OVERSEERS

Last Tuesday afternoon a meeting of the Trustees and Overseers was held in Hubbard Hall. The meeting was called to consider a resolution proposed by the Carnegie foundation as a condition of placing Bowdoin College in its lists of institutions which are to receive retiring allowances for its professors. No decision was reached in regard to this resolution, but a committee was selected to confer with the Carnegie Institute. This committee consists of President Hyde, Gen. T. H. Hubbard, Hon. C. F. Libby, Hon. J. P. Baxter, and F. C. Payson, Esq., of Portland. Several other matters were considered, but no definite action was taken on anything important.

At this meeting there was an unusually large attendance. Out of the 13 trustees, there were present President Hyde, Rev. J. S. Sewall, Hon. J. L. Chamberlain, Hon. W. LeB. Putnam, Gen. T. H. Hubbard, Gen. O. O. Howard, Rev. S. V. Cole, Hon. A. P. Wiswell, and Dr. Edward Stanwood. Of the other three, Chief Justice Fuller was presiding over the Supreme Court, Senator Frye was temporarily presiding over the Senate, and Gen. J. M. Brown was ill. Out of the 42 Overseers, 16 were present, which is a very creditable number considering the area over which the members of this board are scattered.

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the visiting committee met in Massachusetts Hall, and again at 7 o'clock in conjunction with the faculty meeting in Hubbard Hall. Of the five members of the visiting committee those present were Rev. S. V. Cole, S. C. Belcher of Farmington, G. F. Cary of East Machias, and F. H. Appleton of Bangor.

LIBRARY NOTES
During the past week many books have been added to the library, consisting principally of old volumes that have just been rebound, and presented to the Library for the first time. There also have been quite a number of books presented to the Library by Bowdoin Alumni. Among several presented by Isaac B. Choate, '62, may be mentioned "Mary of Magdala," by D. Cortez; "The Nation Builder," by Bacon and Wheeler; "Argumentation and Debate," by Laycock and Scales, and "Irish History and the Irish Question" by G. Smith. Among other gifts are four bound volumes of the "National Geographical Magazine," presented by Austin Cary, '87, and "The Development of the American Merchant Marine," presented by E. C. Plummer, '87. The library has also recently purchased a very well written and well edited book on "The Bahama Islands" by Professor G. B. Shattuck of Johns Hopkins University, and three volumes of "The Political History of England," by T. F. Tout, which is just being published in a set of twelve volumes, all of which, however, are not yet available.

MUSICAL CLUB ELECTIONS
The annual election of the Musical Clubs was held last Thursday evening, and resulted in the choice of the following men:
Manager—H. E. Wilson, '07.
Assistant Manager—A. H. Ham, '08.
Leader of Glee Club—A. O. Pike, '07.
Leader of Mandolin Club—T. W. Winchell, '07.

ALPHA KAPPA KAPPA BANQUET
The annual banquet and installation of officers of the Alpha Kappa Kappa Medical Fraternity was held at Riverton last Monday evening. About 40 members were present and a most enjoyable evening passed. Francis J. Welch acted as toast-master and speeches were made by the grand president, Dr. George Cook of Concord, N. H.; Dr. Frederick H. Gerrish, Dr. John F. Thompson, Dr. Addison S. Thayer, Dr. Edwin M. Fuller of Bath, and Dr. G. M. Elliott of Brunswick. One pleasing feature of the dinner was the presentation of a fraternity pin to Dr. Gerrish, the speech being made by Toast-master Welch.

The following is a list of the officers installed:
President, Olin S. Pettengill; Vice-President, Geo. Pareher; Recording Secretary, Willard H. Bunker; Corresponding Secretary, Arthur L. Jones; Treasurer, Sidney L. Pendexter; Marshal, Walter R. Merrill; Warden, John L. Murphy; Chaplain, Elmer M. Cleaves.
College Notes

Merrymeeting Park will open on June 11. There was no chapel exercises last Wednesday morning.

Powers, '09, has been visiting his home in Skowhegan this week.

The D. K. E. Fraternity dined at the Gurnet last Saturday evening.

Powers, '06, has been visiting at Brookline, Mass., for some time past.

The Orient will contain a review of the last Quill in its next issue.

The ball team will meet the Holy Name nine in Portland this afternoon.

The last Economics recitations for the year occurred last Thursday.

Tobey, '06, and Paine, '06, returned from Longwood last Thursday evening.

D. B. Andrews, '06, has accepted a position with the International Banking Co.

Laferriere, '01, of Hebron Academy, was in Brunswick, Saturday and Sunday.

The Orient is delayed one day this week because of the holiday in the printing office.

The second team won its game with Gardiner Memorial Day by the score of 11 to 3.

Gen. Chamberlain spoke at Freeport last Saturday at the dedication of the soldiers' monument.

The Musical Clubs dined at New Meadows last Monday evening, and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

The College Band furnished the music for the Memorial Day exercises in Brunswick on Wednesday.

The Alpha Sigmas of Brunswick will play the Bath High team on the Whittier Field this afternoon.

Principal and Mrs. Sargent of Hebron Academy, were present at the Interscholastic Meet last Saturday.

The engagement of Harvey Philip Winslow, '06, of Portland, to Miss Clara Ella Farmer of Portland, is announced.

Wednesday was a quiet day on the campus. A number of students attended the ball game at Lewiston, while a large number visited their homes in nearby places.

The Bangor Commercial of last Monday contained a photograph of Cushing, '09, in connection with a write-up concerning his appointment as chaplain organist.

Weston, '08, left this week for his home in Augusta, from where he will go into the woods for the summer. He has a position in connection with the Somerset Railroad extension.

Woodruff, '06, and Wing, '06, left this week for New York, where they will enter the employ of the International Banking Co. They took their final examinations before their departure.

The Orient is obliged to omit an account of the Longwood tennis meet in this issue. Both Tobey and Paine did fine work in the meet, and were only defeated in the semi-finals after a hard battle.

The first college sing of the year was scheduled to be held on the Art Building steps last evening. It is planned to hold another in the near future, though no date can be definitely stated as yet. Notice will be posted on the bulletin board.

The students in Philosophy 7, who are now studying insanity, made a visit to the State Insane Asylum at Augusta last Monday, through the courtesy of Dr. Burnett. This took the place of the regular Tuesday recitation.

Haines, '08, and Ham, '08, who represented Bowdoin at the Vermont tennis tournament, returned to Brunswick the latter part of the week. Tobey, '06, and Paine, '06, did not return and remained away until after the Longwood Meet.

Miss Sue Winchell played on the cello in the Congregational Church for the last time this spring on Sunday, the 27th of May. Miss Winchell has accepted a position in a Boston orchestra for the summer, and it is for this reason that she is now leaving Brunswick. She will be much missed here for her beautiful cello playing not only added much to the services at the college church, but Miss Winchell has also played at several regular college functions, where her music has always been highly appreciated.
McDade, '09, has been in Portsmouth, N. H., this week, where he is learning the work on the street railway in order to be able to accept a position there during the summer months. Among other Bowdoin men who expect to be employed at the same work are Kingsley, '07, Duddy, '07, Small, '07, W. T. Rowe, '05, and Stacey, '09.

Clark College defeated Tufts in debate in their annual contest which was held last week. The question was "Resolved. That it would be for the best interests of the United States that the Panama Canal zone should be neutralized by joint agreement of the powers." Clark had the affirmative. The contest was the second one held between the two colleges, both of which have been won by Clark.

FACULTY NOTES

On June 4 Professor Chapman will preside at a meeting of the trustees of the Bangor Theological Seminary, and on the following Wednesday will be present at a meeting of the trustees of Castine Normal School. Professor Chapman will also attend the graduation of the Farmington and Gorham academies, of both of which institutions he is a trustee.

Professor Foster today is visiting Washington Academy, which is one of Bowdoin’s special fitting schools, and is scheduled to speak there before the scholars.

Professor McCrea will leave Brunswick on Thursday noon to attend to some important business before sailing for Germany with Professor Ham on the fifteenth or sixteenth of June.

Professor Robinson returned from Washington and New York last Saturday evening. Besides attending to the business connected with the preparations for the next annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, he attended the meeting of the Chemical Club in Boston last Friday evening.

IVY DAY ARRANGEMENTS

The work of arranging for Bowdoin’s Ivy Day is now well along and the indications point to a most successful event. The evening before “The Rivals” will be presented in the Town Hall and doubtless this will bring many friends of the college to Brunswick earlier than they would otherwise come.

The play is a strong one, the cast excellent, and it is safe to predict a large attendance. The Psi Upsilon Fraternity will also entertain its friends with a dancing party this evening.

The ball game of the next morning will take place at 10 o’clock, the opposing team being Colby. Although the contest will be but an exhibition game it will be worth seeing, and as is usually the case, there will probably be one of the largest crowds of the year on hand.

The Junior exercises will be held in Memorial Hall at 2 p.m., immediately after which will occur the planting of the Ivy and the Seniors’ last chapel. In addition to the Bugle this year, will appear the Collection of Bowdoin Songs which have been compiled by Foster, ’05 and Allen, ’07. This will be placed on sale during the day and both will doubtless have a large sale. The new book is intended to be a fine collection of songs and the printing and other details are to be of the best. The book deserves a large sale. The Bugle is too well-known at Bowdoin to need an introduction.

The Ivy hop will occur at 9 p.m. The music will be by Pullen of Bangor, who will also furnish music for the afternoon exercises.

MODERN LANGUAGE COURSES

DEPARTMENT OF SPANISH.

The following courses to be given by Assistant Professor Ham:

Omitted in 1906-1907:

Omitted in 1906-1907: to be given in 1907-1908: Courses 1 and 2 are to alternate in successive years with courses 3 and 4. Courses 1 and 2 are counted for the degree of A.B. only when both are taken in the same year.

DEPARTMENT OF GERMAN.

The following elective courses for 1906-1907 will be given by Professor Files:

German 3 and 4. Advanced Prose Composition with reading. Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, at 10.30.

German 5 and 6. Reading of modern German authors with sight practice. Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, at 8.30.

German 7 and 8. Lectures on the History of German Literature with collateral reading Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday at 11.30.

German 9 and 10. Life and Works of Lessing. Students who wish to elect courses 9 and 10 must consult the instructor in advance. These courses will meet in the evening at hours to be determined later.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club met at the Beta Theta Pi House on the evening of May 25th, with Copeland, ’06. There were 14 members present. The speaker of the evening was Henry D. Evans, Bowdoin, ’01, who is State Chemist at the State Laboratory at Augusta. Mr. Evans talked on the subject of "Drinking Water." His talk was very interesting and highly appreciated by the club. He spoke of drinking water in general and more particularly of the drinking water of the State of Maine. After the talk by Mr. Evans an informal discussion ensued in which all the members of the club participated. Following this refreshments were served and the evening concluded with a hearty, social intermingling of the members.

The next meeting of the club will be the business meeting to be held at New Meadows Inn on June 11th.
BASEBALL NOTES

The baseball management has arranged for the return date with South Portland to take place on Whittier Field Wednesday, June 27. As announced last week, "Pop" Williams will pitch the game, and it is expected that "Jim" Clarke, captain of last year's team, will play left field for the visitors.

The date arranged for the postponed game with Colby at Waterville will be June 16. It is possible that the game may not be played, since if Colby wins all her other games she can claim the championship beyond dispute, and the game would not be necessary. If, however, Colby should lose any of her three remaining games, Bowdoin would have the opportunity of tying for the championship, and the game would be the most important of the season.

Coach Irwin left last Saturday, to take charge of his summer hotel business. However, he will be on hand at the Harvard game, and if it becomes necessary to play the Colby game it is expected that he will come down a short time before in order to get the men in the best possible form.

SEVENTH FRESHMAN DEBATE

Debate for Division A on Wednesday, May 23, at 2:30 p.m.; for Division B on Thursday, May 24, at 8:00 A.M.

Question: Resolved, That Arizona and New Mexico should be admitted to the Union as one state. (For Division A.) Negative: Burton, Carter, Goodspeed.

Question: Resolved, That the United States should establish a system of shipping subsidies. (For Division B.)

BOWDOIN'S MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKERS

Among this year's Memorial Day orators in Maine are noted the following Bowdoin graduates: Gen. O. O. Howard, '50 at Togus; Gen. J. L. Chamberlain, '53 at York; Col. A. W. Bradbury, '00 at Buckfield; Hon. Augustine Simons, '71 at Skowhegan; Hon. H. M. Heath, '72 at Brunswick; Professor A. E. Rogers, '76 at Bucksport; Edward B. Burpee, '87 at Rockland; Judge F. L. Staples, '89 at Bath; Prof. W. B. Mitchell, '90 at Freeport; John Clair Minot, '96 at Houlton; Rev. H. E. Dun Nack '97, at Belgrade; and Frank L. Dutton, '99 at Winthrop.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the opportunities are and for the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin
Repeating Shot Gun
New Model No. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, ease and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 22 inch or 25/10 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

To-day is Ivy Day at Bowdoin, and, like its predecessors, is one of the greatest days of the year. This afternoon occur the literary exercises of the Class of 1907, consisting of the presentations, the oration, the reading of the poem and the singing of the ode. In addition to this the day is observed by the Seniors' Last Chapel, the planting of the ivy, the appearance of the Bugle and other features. The Orient takes pleasure in presenting the oration, the poem, and the ode in this issue.

The Oration

The oration was delivered by Aubrey J. Voorhees. His subject was "The Municipal Problem," and was as follows:

Who of a century ago would recognize the modern United States? A century ago we were a small nation, with but little influence among the nations of the world, and hardly able to maintain our honor and self-respect against the aggressions of England, France and the Barbary States. To-day this condition of affairs has completely changed. Politically we have grown from a nation, despised and insignificant, into one of the Powers of the world. Economically we have become the strongest country in Christendom. Not the least of these changes have been the growth and development of the city. In New York City to-day there are more people than there were in 1776 in our whole country. In the growth of the city better chances of development—mental, physical, moral and social—have been provided, as is evidenced by the modern public school and even college; by the libraries, art buildings and museums; and by the parks, gymnasiums, and playgrounds; but on the other hand, competition has become keener and more relentless, the poor have been forced into the cheap boarding house and into the crowded tenement, and as a result we have our terrible slums, which are a blot on our otherwise fair cities. Of the back side of city life, Professor Thomas H. Huxley says: "Anyone who is acquainted with the state of the population in all the great industrial centers is aware that amidst a large and ever-increasing body of that population, there reigns supreme that condition which the French call la misère. It is a condition in which the food, warmth and clothing necessary for the mere maintenance of the functions of the body in their normal state cannot be obtained; in which men, women, and children are forced to crowd into dens wherein decency is abolished, and the most ordinary conditions of healthful existence are impossible of attainment; in which the pleasures within reach are reduced to brutality and drunkenness; in which the pains accumulate at compound interest in the shape of starvation, disease and stunted development, and moral degradation; in which the prospect of steady and even honest employment is a life of unsuccessful battling with hunger, rounded by a pauper's grave. We are confronted by a contradiction. On the one hand we see splendid chances for moral, mental and physical development; on the other hand, in the face of those opportunities, we see parts of our cities filled with ragged, dirty-faced children, unkempt, sickly, haggard women, and listless, whiskey-gorged men. Is there no remedy for this contradiction? These poor slum dwellers do not live so from choice. Is the cause of their condition to be found in our institutions; is our government at fault; have we too much democracy, and are we Americans unfitted to the task of governing ourselves?

The mass of the people in our large American cities have no voice in the government. Theoretically they have, but in practice the government of our large cities is conducted by a "privileged few." These few do not care whether Republicans or Democrats are in power. They are usually the heads of big corporations. Their only anxiety is for their dividends. Many of those men have made their fortunes out of the public through securing "privileges" in the form of franchises. For instance, on the Bronx and Manhattan, in New York, the securities for surface railways, and gas and electric lighting plants are valued at $4,000,000,000. The physical property of these corporations is worth but $126,000,000. In other words, the city has given these corporations franchises worth $175,000,000. In return for which the city has not received one cent. Nay, in return for those franchises they secured only graft and corruption. To obtain the franchises the corporations will willingly offer bribes, as in St. Louis a few years ago, when bribery entered every department of government. In St. Louis the boss was the agent of the corporations. It was the boss who organized the government of the city by dominating the caucus and the election; it was the boss who was the mediator between the dishonest city officials and the corporation, and it was the boss who grew by means of his bribes from a poor blacksmith into a multi-millionaire. In Philadelphia we have seen in the recent exposure how the "city ring" has grown until it has reached our United States Senate. The boss of Philadelphia sits in our Senate, and dictates the government of Philadelphia in the interests of the corporations. These cases are extreme, but they are typical. We Americans are notoriously easy-going. We pride ourselves on our democratic government. We will endure being ruled, as long as we do not see the hand that rules us. But our large cities are not truly democratic, for the people do not control the government, but must endure such government as the "privileged few" are willing to give them. Herein is the cause of the bad condition of our large cities. The corporations do not care for the people. Their only concern is their dividends. To make their dividends large, they do not scruple at bribery or any dishonesty; they manœuvre to keep in office officials who will be their agents and tools. The people look on and only spasmodically protest. No, we Americans are not entitled to the task of ruling ourselves. We have not all had a chance. If we shall ever solve the problem of the black side of our city life, we must have more and a purer democracy.

To secure a wider democracy, and to help the slummers, we must take from the oppressive corporations that which belongs to the cities. Transportation, light, water, heat and power, are natural monopolies, and are necessities of life. The control of these should not be in the hands of a few grasping, unscrupulous men. In many of our large cities conditions have become so unbearable that the long-suffering people have been roused from their lethargy, and have been practically forced to assume control of the light, heat, water, and power. New York has awakened and besides other municipal property, has invested profitably $200,000,000 in docks; Chicago annually receives $125,000,000 from her water works; corrupt Cincinnati, and Detroit, Wheeling and Seattle have roused themselves, and find profit in the municipal ownership of the necessities of life. In none of these instances has there been financial failure, nor has the service been inferior to that rendered by private monopolies. On the other hand, the people have taken greater pride in their city, they have become keener critics, and by their interest they have stirred the officials to a high sense of their duties.

In the discussion of municipal ownership one point has commonly been overlooked. We do not usually perceive the relationship between the slum problem and the municipal ownership of the transportation lines. Yet in the municipal ownership of the traction lines is wrapped part of the solution of the slum question. In Glasgow, Liverpool, and the other large English cities, the slum problem was formerly about the same as it is in our large American cities. In 1894 Glasgow assumed control of the traction lines, improved the equipment, and reduced the car fares thirty per cent. In spite of private opposition, and in spite of reduced fares, the Glasgow traction lines are a profitable investment to the city; London, Manchester and Leeds own all or part of their traction lines. Liverpool assumed control of hers in 1894. By 1903 the number of passengers carried increased one hundred and ninety-four per cent, and the receipts in the same time grew eighty per cent, in spite of the fact that the wages of the employees were raised, the hours of employment reduced, and the car fares cut down fifty per cent. We in America have only begun to think of the municipal ownership of the street railways. Chicago is struggling in an attempt to take over her traction lines, but the corporations are madly fighting to retain their monopoly. Yet in assuming control of the local traction lines, the English cities have commenced to solve the slum problem. By reducing the car fares the dwellers of the slums can afford to live away from the slums in the suburbs and in the country, and yet be in touch with their daily work. We will find it so in Chicago, and in all our big cities. At present the tenement dwellers cannot afford to ride daily to and from their work in the city. Yet if Glasgow could profitably reduce her car fares thirty-three percent, and if Liverpool could reduce hers fifty per cent, surely we Americans could do so. The tendency to-day is toward the municipal ownership of the local traction company. If the municipal ownership of the street railways will help the slum and tenement problem in even the slightest degree, certainly we should use our influence to hasten this desirable result.

To take over the traction companies will not be easy. The rich, influential men do not want to give up their profits. Naturally these men oppose reform. On the patronage of these men depend a large proportion of the press, many of our lawyers, and practically all the politicians. They will not offend their patrons. Thus we have a powerful class which will oppose at every turn any and all reform that hurts their dividends. Therefore it is with the educated common people that reform must begin. They, and they alone, must work their own salvation, by striking at graft and dishonesty in politics, and also by assuming control of their birthright—the natural monopoly. The struggle will not be easy. Rather it will be the hardest problem the people have ever worked out, but it must be faced. In assuming control of the traction companies, the cities will be taking a course which vitally concerns their welfare, just as in opposing municipal ownership of the traction lines, the corporations will be looking after their own private interests. It is with the people, the intelligent people, that we, the members of the Class of 1907, must ally ourselves. The college man occupies a peculiar position. For four years he studies the theories of Economics and Sociology; he learns the true conditions which exist in the slums of our large cities and he knows what causes these conditions. Moreover, by his training he learns in theory how these conditions can be remedied and improved. Surely every college man would be ashamed of joining forces with those who seek to keep in subjection the oppressed slum dweller. No, classmates, our college training must not be for naught. We must endeavor to put in practice what we have learned in theory, and by joining forces with the educated common people we must try to lift up from their deadening environment our ignorant and less fortunate countrymen.

The Poem

The poem was by Charles W. Snow, and was as follows:

O soul of song,
Unheeded in this latter day
By us who oft recall that we are clay,
We need thy power in our joyous throng.
Dark commerce clouds have brooded o'er our time
And limited the upward look sublime.
Against this sordid spirit, which entralls,
A stand is made in academic halls
To keep the fire on the altar bright,
And shed throughout the world a ray of light.
O kindly mother,
Whose bosom for a hundred years,
Has nourished warriors, poets, statesmen, seers,
Thine altar softer shines than any other.
The mystic meaning of thy lonely child
Has wreathed a halo 'round the undefiled;
The murmuring music of thy soulful bard
Has cheered our journey over many a shard;
And all thy great ones, both alive and dead,
Have laid their choicest laurels on thy head.

Now we to-day,
The heirs of all the century's store
Of priceless culture and of learned lore.
Owe thee a debt we never can repay.
The memories thronging 'round historic halls,
Commingling joy with pathos that extols,
The fragrant campus and perennial pines,
The arching elms in solemn, stately lines,—
These still, small voices of a higher life
Have made us stronger for the future strife.

But best of all
The endearing thoughts of friendly ties,
Which bid us out of narrowness arise,
And deeply feel the universal call.
As yonder elms join heads across the path
In Nature's recompense for winter's wrath,
And form a gothic archway high and grand,
So we in spring of life join heart and hand
To form an arch of beauty, love and power,
Our Alma Mater's pride, and richest dower.

Too soon they're o'er,
These happy, careless, four sweet years,
When fanes are seldom too deep for tears;
For we are children playing on the shore.
We love to hear the yeasty billows roll,
And sport with dangerous combes near the shoal.
We've caught a glimpse of ocean from the strand,
And must away from harsh, enslaving land;
We pine to be released from every rod
And sail the virgin seas which lead to God.

Wild dreams of youth,
Those blessed visions bright and dear,
Like glistening dewdrops 'neath the arc-light clear,
Appear at times to hold no grain of truth.
Yet culture's freedom through it all can find
A better social life for all mankind,
A yearning for the Eden life again,
When God in cooling gardens talked with men.
And though old progress slowly oft doth seem,
At last, at last our hope will reign supreme.

The Ode

The ode was by G. A. Duddy, and was as follows:

AIR—FAIR HARVARD,

Let the hearts that have loved thee since first they have known
The sweet care of a mother so dear,
Pledge the love that they bear the allegiance they own,
In a tribute to her they revere.

Round thy gray, hoary walls we will plant the green vine,
And the hearts of those gathered to-day,
With their protests of love let the ivy entwine,
Until all the long years roll away.

When the long years have passed with their sorrows
And joys,
And we meet as in good Auld Lang Syne,
May sweet mem'ry recall the day when here as boys
We planted the green ivy vine.
And fresh in our hearts, as the vine on the walls.
May the love of old Bowdoin still cling,
Till the last moss-grown stone of the old chapel falls,
And the chapel bell ceases to ring.

THE MAY QUILL

As compared with the April number, the May Quill has the advantage of being the work of undergraduates practically throughout. Graduate contributions, however important and desirable in themselves, cannot logically be more than an occasional feature of an undergraduate publication. On the other hand, the editors ought not to be compelled, as in this instance, to furnish nearly every article, although they can properly find their reward in the consciousness of duty well performed.

The personality and services of Luther Burbank make a fresh and interesting subject, which is treated in an unconventional way. Its author shows himself capable of looking beyond the college campus, and does not shape his ideas to conform to the regular college pattern. This freedom of thought and phrase is stimulating and attractive. More of it would be an excellent thing in the student community, and must somehow be had if college graduates are to claim the individuality which is denied them by certain eminent but ungraduated literary personages. But raggedness of form, acerbity of tone, and enthusiastic surrender to eccentric leadership are perils which seriously beset the path of those who "walk with bare feet in the presence of mightier Enlightenment." Perhaps the first peril is more immediate in the case of the writer in question. The less technical terms in chemistry and of the sciences in general, often give point to an illustration; but "valence" and "saturated characteristic" are little better than Greek to the layman. Some incongruity too suggests

Ivy Day

To the Class of 1907 and to all who join it in the celebration of its Ivy Day the ORIENT brings special greetings and congratulations. May the day prove one of happiness without alloy, and may all its time-honored ceremonies and exercises be most successfully carried out. For over forty years successive Bowdoin classes have celebrated Ivy Day until around it there have gathered many of the traditions dearest to our hearts as Bowdoin men. Many sister colleges have borrowed the custom, as they have others originating at Bowdoin, but this of course, is a compliment of which we are proud rather than an occasion for resentment. Other colleges may have such a day, but for us there is only one Ivy Day, and each class in turn is satisfied beyond any doubt that there never was, and never will be, any other Ivy Day like its own.

This day brings us sharply to the realization that the college year is almost at an end. The Seniors in particular, as they participate in the beautiful ceremony of Seniors' Last Chapel, are forced to realize that the day of separation and farewell is close at hand. That exercise is one of the finest and most impressive of all the college year, and after taking part in it "Auld Lang Syne" always has a deeper and more precious significance to the heart of a Bowdoin man. In some of its features Ivy Day has changed as the years have passed. More social functions are connected with it than there used to be, and the baseball games in the morning have been a feature for only a decade or so. In the old times there was usually a class boat race on the river in the morning, the last of these taking place in 1894. In some years the inter-class field day sports were held in the morning over on the Topsham track.

There has been practically no change, however, for more than a generation in the afternoon exercises, and the oration, the poem and the presentations, as well as the planting of the Ivy and the Ivy dance, have been established fixtures. To the alumni, Ivy Day has less interest than many other occasions during the college year, but to the undergraduates, and especially to the Juniors and their guests, it is the gala day of the year and an occasion never to be forgotten. Some of the ivies that have been planted have flourished and many others have failed to, but the memories of the day entwine themselves around the hearts of all who participate and become one of the strongest of the many ties that bind us to Bowdoin and to our classmates.

The Baseball Season

Bowdoin's baseball season, so far as championship games are concerned, is now closed, except for the one remaining game with Colby. As to whether this will be of any importance remains to be seen and depends entirely on whether the Waterville college wins her two Bates games. Be this as it may, every student believes Bowdoin has a remarkably strong team this year. The nine is one of which it may be truly said that there is no really weak place. It is very seldom that a Maine college team does not have at least one position that "goes begging." But the Bowdoin team this year has had no such position. Every man has held his place by his ability to play ball and the result is that the team has been a very strong one—perhaps the strongest in a number of years. The results of two of the games—those with Brown and Andover—showed the ability of the team when at its best. The games lost have been at times when the men were not putting up the game of which they were capable, and it is not too much to say the defeats have been in the nature of "hard luck." We may yet have a chance to tie for first place in the Maine college series, but whether we do or not, there is no reason to doubt that the team has been one of the best in recent years.

This year the Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. Work work, as a whole, did not meet with great success, although the reception to the Freshmen went off well, the hand-book was published, the gymnasium thrown open to Brunswick boys on Saturday morning, and a considerable number of successful Sunday meetings were held after chapel. Next year there is to be a decided attempt to put the association again on its feet, and have it play a real part in the life of the college.

There is now a very evident need of a better place than that afforded by Banister Hall in which to hold the meetings. Some members of the faculty have very kindly volunteered aid in this direction, and it is now hoped either to remodel Banister Hall, or to make over a large room up-stairs in the back part of the chapel, which may be devoted entirely to Y. M. C. A. purposes, an arrangement not possible if Banister Hall was used.

The general plan of work next fall is to have as many fellows as possible become members of the Association, hold regular Sunday meetings after chapel, at which prominent men will speak to the students, to hold special meetings on Thursday evenings at which any matters of college interest will be discussed, and to have the Association do more practical work along the lines followed by the Christian Associations in the larger colleges. The Y. M. C. A. a few years ago was one of the strongest elements in Bowdoin College for it was practically the only place where fellows from all the classes and all the fraternities could meet as one thinking body, and discuss any college business or projected reform. Of course the fundamental object of a Y. M. C. A. is Christian work, but in a college its work broadens, and next year it is planned to make every attempt to give to the Y. M. C. A. the broadest possible scope.

itself when a man is said "to step into his natural toga and delve with a divine spade." "A profession of his own creation and perfection" is not a happy phrase. The sentence construction, however, is terse and vigorous; and the blemishes noted are trifling matters, mere chips drifting on the strong current of a pure and refreshing idealism. Emerson, and even Fra Elbertus, are better gods to worship than the multi-millionaires.

"The Morocco Note Book" is a happily conceived and brightly told sketch of youthful friendship as affected by intercollegiate relations. The material is simple, even commonplace; but it is treated with true insight and feeling. Within the given limits the plan and thought-expression are those of college-writing at its best.

In "Carlyle's Message to the Men of To-Day" the theme is so large that the writer can do hardly more than scratch the surface in four Quill pages, and one of these is wasted on an introduction. He is right in his contention that the great hater of sham and iniquity was never more needed; but even a stenographer could not treat the subject in such narrow limits. Although the observations have truth and force, one cannot help feeling that this writer, whose stories have been a credit to the Quill, is here "writing with his left hand."

Of the three verse contributions it may be said that they reach the average mark. The lines are correctly measured, although the well rhymed "Weep No More" is somewhat irregular. "Morn and Eve" and "A Strange Dream," while quite regular in meter, are faultily rhymed in several places. The latter is also marred by slang words and phrases in a piece intended to be serious.

The editorial departments, as often, suffer from over-haste. In these the editors have a valuable opportunity to shape college opinion and to promote a fuller understanding between students and faculty; but as yet no board has lived up to its privileges in this respect. When the literary revival that we are awaiting here at Bowdoin bears fruit in an abundance of contributed papers, thus relieving the editors of the task of writing all the articles themselves, let us hope that the editorial pages will take on a wider range.

P. S. A professional conscience compels the remark that pedes frigus is too bad even for the rollicking burlesque of the festive Gander Club.

BASEBALL

HOLY NAME, 2; BOWDOIN, 1.

Bowdoin lost its game with the Holy Name team of Portland, last Saturday, by a score of 2 to 1. The game was witnessed by a large crowd of people and, as the score indicates, was a fine contest. The summary:

THE LONGWOOD TENNIS MEET

The New England Intercollegiate Tennis Association held its annual meet at Longwood, Mass., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. The meet resulted in the honors being divided between Tech. and Williams, the latter capturing the singles and the former the doubles.

Bowdoin showed up in fine form with Tobey and Paine and it was not until the semi-final rounds that they were defeated. Both these men have been doing splendid work for Bowdoin in tennis this year, they being instrumental in the winning of the Maine meet, the Vermont meet and proving a hard proposition for the other colleges in the New England meet.

The summary of the singles at Longwood was as follows:

First round:
Nicholl, Tech., defeated Hanscom, Tufts, by default.

Second round:
White, Wesleyan, defeated Wolf, Amherst, by default.
Paine, Bowdoin, defeated Burgess, Brown, 6-3.
Mclane, Dartmouth, defeated Pease, Vermont, 6-3, 6-7.
Smith, Williams, defeated Nicholl, Tech., 6-3, 6-2.

Roch, Dartmouth, defeated Wescott, Williams, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4.
Porter, Brown, defeated Gatch, Wesleyan, 6-4, 6-4.
Tobey, Bowdoin, defeated Wycoff, Tufts, 6-0, 6-2.

Third round:
Paine, Bowdoin, defeated White, Wesleyan, 7-5, 6-3.
Fanning, Tech., defeated Porter, Brown, 7-5, 6-1.
Smith, Williams, defeated McLane, Dartmouth, 6-3, 6-4.
Roch, Dartmouth, defeated Tobey, Bowdoin, 7-5, 6-0.

Semi-finals:
Smith, Williams, defeated Paine, Bowdoin, 3-6.
Fanning, Tech., defeated Roch, Dartmouth, 6-4.

In the final play, Smith played Fanning, last year's champion, and won in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6.

In the first round of the doubles, Porter and Burgess, Brown, defeated Hanscom and Hooper, Tufts, 6-2, 7-5. Smith and Wescott, Williams, defeated Sturgis and Wolfe, Amherst, by default. Tobey and Paine, Bowdoin, defeated Gatch and White, Wesleyan, 6-3, 6-2. Fanning and Nicholl, Tech., defeated McLean and Roch, Dartmouth, 0-6, 6-2.
In the semi-finals Smith and Wescott, Williams, defeated Porter and Burgess, Brown, 6-2, 6-2. Fanning and Nicholl, Tech., defeated Tobey and Paine, Bowdoin, 6-3, 6-4.

In the final round P. H. Fanning and J. S. Nicholl of Technology, defeated F. R. Smith and P. N. Wescott of Williams, in a hard-fought five set match by scores of 3-6, 6-4, 6-8, 7-5.

DEBATING COUNCIL ELECTIONS

The annual meeting of the Bowdoin Debating Council was held last Tuesday evening. The business transacted was the listening to the report of the manager and the election of officers for the next year. The following men were elected:

President—F. J. Redman, '07.
Secretary and Treasurer—W. S. Linnell, '07.
Manager—A. O. Pike, '07.
Faculty Advisory Member—Prof. W. T. Foster.

The election of an assistant business manager was postponed until the opening of the fall term, in order that it may be determined what members of the present Sophomore Class elect debating and would thus be eligible to the position.

ART BUILDING NOTES

Last week the Art Building received from Hon. H. P. Baxter, of the Board of Overseers, a very interesting collection of Egyptian antiquities. These Mr. Baxter obtained from the great Egyptian archaeologist, Professor Maspers, when in Egypt last summer. The collection is a valuable one and will be exhibited soon in a glass case in the Boyd Gallery.

Another collection of photographs loaned by the Library Art Club is now on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery. These are photographs of selected examples of Decorative Art from the South Kensington Museum in London, and they form one of the most interesting collections that have been exhibited this year. The collection will remain here until June 25.

NEW IBIS MEMBERS

At the meeting of the Ibis held last Tuesday afternoon, the following men were elected to membership from the present Junior Class: E. A. Duddy, S. G. Haley and Lester Adams.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETING

A meeting of the Athletic Council was held last Tuesday evening, Professor Moody, Dr. Whittier, with the undergraduates being the only members present. The business of the evening was to consider the preliminary report of the baseball, track and tennis managers, and the selection of nominees for managers and assistant managers for next year. The election by the student body will probably take place the first of the week. The following nominations were made:

For Track Manager—R. A. Lee, '08; H. W. Purinton, '08; for assistant manager, H. D. Benner, '08; R. O. Brewster, '09.

For Tennis Manager—K. B. Kilborn, '08; J. F. Morrison, '08; for assistant manager, J. E. Crowley, '09; O. H. Stanley, '09.

THE SPECIAL ADDRESSES

All the special addresses in English 7 have now been given. Those who delivered them are:

LIBRARY NOTES

A highly valued gift has been made to Bowdoin College Library by Dr. William C. Mason of Bangor, in a set of the silhouettes of the Class of 1825. Only one other collection of the youthful profiles taken of the famous men who graduated in this class is known to be in existence.

Among the books of interest that have been added to the library this week are seven volumes of the new Library Edition of John Ruskin’s Works. This new edition is to consist of thirty volumes, each of which is printed on the best paper and is beautifully illustrated, chiefly with reproductions of Ruskin’s sketches and paintings. Only two thousand of these sets are on sale, and it is, therefore, an extremely valuable collection of books. The library has also just received three little books by Anthony Trollope, Aristotle’s “Theory of Conflct,” and a report of the “Hearings on Hazing at Annapolis,” presented by Hon. A. L. Allen, '60.

College Notes

Ivy Day.

Nance O’Neill dined at New Meadows Inn one day last week.

Adjourns were given in Professor Chapman’s classes last Wednesday.

The baseball team plays the South Portland team, to-morrow, at Portland.

The schedule of the final examinations was posted the latter part of last week.

The members of the D. U. Fraternity dined at the Gurnet on Friday evening of last week.

Dr. G. M. Elliott of the Medical School, has been elected adjutant of the First Maine Regiment.

The last meeting of the Chemical Club is to be held at New Meadows Inn on Monday evening.

The last meeting of the Aroostook Club is scheduled for one week from to-morrow evening.

The Psi Upsilon dancing party took place at their chapter house last evening. An account will appear next week.

Professor Chapman on next Thursday will attend the meeting of the trustees of the Farmington Normal School.

Gannett, ’07, has returned to college after an absence at his home in Fort Fairfield, where he has been at work.

A. C. Shorey, '04, who is now employed by the International Banking Co., has been visiting the college the past week.

A. R. Lord, U. of M., '06, and Harradon, Bates, '06, were among the guests of the Bowdoin Verein at its initiation, last week.

Dr. Burnett last Wednesday conducted the mid-week social service at the Congregational Church in the absence of Mr. Jump.

The Orient contains an unusually small amount of College Notes in this issue, as a result of the great pressure on its columns.

The new Maine Central time table went into effect on last Sunday. A number of changes in time of arrival and departure have been made.

The last exhibition of the stereopticon pictures illustrating Mr. Jump’s travel sermons was given last Sunday at the Congregational Church.

This morning’s game started Bowdoin on her athletic career with the avowed motto of “Fair Play and May the Best Man Win,” which has been cut on the front of the grandstand, and will be Bowdoin’s motto as long as the grandstand remains.
Mr. Judd delivered the annual address of the alumni of Bangor Seminary in connection with the Commencement exercises held last Wednesday.

Colby defeated Maine at Waterville last Saturday by the score of 1 to 0. If she wins her two games with Bates the championship is settled.

Professor Woodruff will go to Cambridge on Saturday, June 16, to attend the presentation of the Harvard Greek Play to be given on that date in the Stadium.

The Junior banquet was held at the Rossmore last Saturday evening. Toasts were responded to and a pleasant evening passed. C. W. Snow acted as toast-master.

Professor Ham has made arrangements to sail on June 20, on the Holland-American line from New York. He will probably leave Brunswick on the afternoon of June 16.

Professor Foster on June 14 will deliver the graduation address at Bridge Academy near Gardiner, Maine. During the past week he has been visiting several of Bowdoin’s preparatory schools.

It is expected that Paine, ’06, and Tobey, ’06, will play off the tennis championship of the college and the State some time during the coming week, the exact date of which has not yet been fixed.

President Hyde on June 13 will deliver the graduation address at the Hill Preparatory School at Pottstown, Pa., and the following day he will deliver the address at the Middlesex School in Concord, Mass.

Dr. Whittier attended the meeting of the American Medical Association which was held in Boston last Tuesday and Wednesday. He will also be present at the meeting of the Maine Medical Association which will be held in Portland on June 14 and 15.

NEW ELIGIBILITY RULES

The following new eligibility rules were passed by the faculty at a recent meeting:

1. A student is ineligible for the College Organizations as specified in that section of the College Hand-Book when failing to receive promotion as provided under the regulations for class standing, and, in the case of first year students, during the period after receiving a minor warning.

2. Special Students will be required to take four courses in each semester and will be subject to all regulations applying to regular students, with the exception that they are excused from the required courses. Any deficiency or condition by a Special Student must be removed within such time as would be required of him, if a regular student, for advance in class standing.

3. In the case of first year students, there will be required, in addition to the regular mid-semester reports of standing, a full report three weeks before, and a spring report three weeks after, the corresponding mid-semester reviews, and on the basis of these reports, warnings will be sent to the students concerned.

NOTICES

Programs of the exercises of Commencement Week may be had by the Seniors on application at the Library.

Students are required to record their elections of studies for the first semester of the next college year on Monday, June 11. For that purpose the Registration office in Memorial Hall will be open from 9 to 12 A.M., and from 1:30 to 4:30 P.M.

The Term bills of April 1, 1906, must be paid before the 14th of June.

There is a notice pasted on the library stating the conditions necessary for application for the Wollaston Research Studentship in Physics, at Gouville and Caius College, Cambridge, England.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 9th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO.17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 23/4 inch or 21/2 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bad shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

CIVIC DUTIES IN OUR COLLEGES

The following correspondence between Mr. E. O. Achorn, '81, and David R. Porter, Bowdoin’s Rhodes scholarship student, will be of interest to Bowdoin, not only for the subject matter, but also as coming from Mr. Porter:

Boston, Jan. 18, 1906.

Mr. David R. Porter, Trinity College, Oxford.

My dear Mr. Porter: In an address before the Bowdoin Club of Boston this fall, I made the statement that American college graduates were remiss in their civic duties, and that in my opinion the English university student took a deeper interest in English politics and was more familiar with the policies of the government and platforms of the various parties than our students were with those of our country. Mr. Edward Stanwood took issue with me on this. I based my opinion on personal observation and certain comments made by Mr. Bryce recently while in this country. As you are in Oxford I should like to know what impression you have gained of this matter; and may I publish your reply, with this inquiry, in the Orient? I am sure it would be of interest to Bowdoin men.

Very sincerely yours,

EDGAR O. ACHORN.

Mr. Edgar O. Achorn, Boston.

My dear Mr. Achorn: I was very glad to receive your inquiry a few days ago as to the relative interest and information of American and English University students about politics. It is a thing I have often thought of myself but fear that even now I cannot give any very sweeping comparisons. I believe that many people make definite assertions in regard to differences of the two countries based on analogies which anything more than superficial thought will show to be false. This has been recently done in comparing students of American and English universities. But there is a vast difference in the personnel of the colleges of England and New England. Bowdoin College, for instance, is made up of many classes of men. A surprisingly large number of the students come from farms or small villages where they have had few educational advantages. All their spare time has been spent in physical work of some kind, either at home duties or in earning money to pay their college expenses. Many come from homes where the library is very limited and most of the environments are local.

In England, Oxford and Cambridge, the great typical universities, are mostly made up of the "upper middle class," men to whom the word "work" connotes nothing more than learning a page of Vergil for punishment; whose weekly allowance covers every possible expenditure, and who from their earliest days have had an intimate acquaintance with the best tutelage and literature.

Mr. Bryce says somewhere that the "glory of the American universities" is that they are accessible to every kind of citizen; but this is not from the nature of things conducive to a universal student knowledge of general subjects such as national or international politics.

After carefully making this deduction, however, I think that your opinion that American college students take less interest in politics than their English cousins, is correct. I should say the reason for this is the vast expanse of our national territory, which allows us no real political center. Every State is a unit in itself, and our newspapers are local in scope and interest. I suppose it can be said that we have not a single national daily.

In England the chief universities are within an hour's ride of the great capital, and there is hardly a home in the country that cannot have the Times brought up with breakfast. Again, the conversation more naturally turns on national problems if most of your associates have parents or relatives who are guiding the affairs of the country.

This whole sphere of student life seems to be almost untouched in America, unless it is by the growing interest in debating which tends to bring men face to face with real problems.

The great life purpose of an English college student, too, often differs from ours. I think it is safe to say that the highest ideal of the majority of the students here is to spend his life in the service of the empire, in either secular or church management. The men of the largest calibre look forward to political life; the late prime minister is well known from his philosophic work, "Foundations of Belief;" a high place in the new cabinet is given to the author of the remarkable essay, "The Holy Roman Empire," and the well-known "American Commonwealth." Somehow it seems almost inconsistent to think of the possibility of the leader of Tammany Hall devoting much time to historical or philosophic researches.

The highest reward that a British university graduate can receive is to pass the rigid examinations for admission to the Civil Service of India. A friend of mine told me a few days ago that he would be glad when the next three years were over so he could "get out to work in the colonies." I am sure he was rather surprised that I did not look forward to "helping the government care for the Philippines."

I am not sure as you can make any use of these desultory remarks; if so, I shall be very glad.

Yours very sincerely,

DAVID R. PORTER,
Trinity College, Oxford.

BASEBALL

COLBY, 7; BOWDOIN, 3.

Bowdoin lost its Ivy Day game with Colby by a score of 7 to 3. The game was a very loosely played contest on the part of Bowdoin, the men showing an evident lack of practice throughout. Sparks pitched, and although his control was not of the best, the defeat can in no wise be attributed to him, as the support given was very discouraging.

Colby did not play a remarkably fast game, but her errors were less costly and her hitting more effective. Shaw pitched for the visitors and his control was poor, but he managed to keep Bowdoin's hits scattered and prevent the piling up of a large score. The best work for Colby was done by Coombs at center, who played a remarkable fielding game.

For Bowdoin the batting of Stanwood and the fielding of Hodgson were the best features. The summary:

Bowdoin won its second game with Tufts last Tuesday in the greatest game of the year by a score of 2 to 1. It took 12 innings to decide the contest, neither side having scored a run at the end of the ninth. Sparks pitched a fine game for Bowdoin and the team played fast ball throughout.

In the tenth Sparks got a single, went to second on a sacrifice by Green and scored on Hodgson's double to left. Rober tied the score for Tufts in the second half of the inning, getting a two-base hit, stealing third and going home on Fisher's long fly. In the 12th McDade scored for Bowdoin through singles and a stolen base.

NEW PROCTORS

The proctors for next year have been appointed, and are as follows: Allen, Bass, Haley, Hupper, Snow, and Voorhees, with Professor Foster acting as chairman of the board of proctors. All the men are members of next year's Senior Class.

PSI UPSILON HOP

The Psi Upsilon Fraternity gave a delightful reception and hop at its chapter house on Thursday of last week to its invited friends. The afternoon was given up to the reception, the patronesses being Mrs. William A. Houghton and Mrs. H. C. Baxter. Music was furnished during the reception by Greenleaf's Orchestra of Lewiston.

The hop began at 8.30 in the evening and proved itself a delightful occasion. Among those present were Miss Anna Percy, Miss Madelyn Clifford, Miss Marcia Sewall of Bath; Miss Cecil Houghton, Miss Bertha Graves, Miss Mae Despeaux, Miss Sarah Merriman, Miss Daisie Hubbard of Brunswick; Miss Anita Little, Miss Persis Vose of Portland, Miss Martha Cobb, Miss Creighton of Portland; Miss Gertrude Christopher of Pejepscot; Miss Grace King of Ellsworth; Miss Lucia Russell of Somersworth, N. H.; Miss Louise Dutton of Augusta; Miss Eleanor Sowers of Washington, D. C.; Miss Low of Wellesley; Miss Leslie Dillingham of Bridgeport, Conn., and others.

The delegates from the other fraternities were Dwight S. Robinson, from Alpha Delta Phi; Carl M. Robinson, from Delta Kappa Epsilon; George U. Hatch, from Zeta Psi; Henry P. Chapman, from Theta Delta Chi; J. A. Greene, from Delta Upsilon; Charles J. Hicks, from Kappa Sigma; and Willis N. Haines, from Beta Theta Pi.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Philip R. Andrews, '06; Fulton J. Redman, '07; Neal W. Cox, '08; and Philip H. Brown, '09.

ATHLETIC ELECTIONS

The election of managers and assistant managers for baseball, track and tennis, and members of the Athletic Council was held last Thursday evening in Memorial Hall, and resulted as follows: Manager Baseball Team, A. L. Robinson, '08; Assistant Manager, Kenneth R. Tefft, '09; Manager Track Team, R. A. Lee, '08; Assistant Manager, R. O. Brewster, '09; Manager Tennis Team, J. F. Morrison, '08; Assistant Manager, J. E. Crowley, '09; President Athletic Council, J. B. Drummond, '07; Vice-President, F. J. Redman, '07; Secretary, C. E. Files, '08; Members of Athletic Council, A. H. Ham, '08; D. M. McDade, '09.

Concerning Our Medical School

There has been a good proportion of college graduates in the Maine Medical School in recent years, and although the classes have been becoming somewhat smaller of late than they were formerly, due probably to the longer courses of study and the greater requirements, and no doubt also to the establishment of several new medical schools in various parts of the country, yet the quality of the classes, as a whole, have been greatly improved. There is no vocation or profession, it will be generally admitted, for which there should be more careful and thorough preparation. The scope and interests of the medical profession are constantly extending, and those who undertake its exacting and responsible duties must of necessity be men, and women also, of liberal education, broad training and the highest intelligence.

Last Issue

This will be the last number of the ORIENT before the Commencement number, which will appear after college closes. The paper will be mailed to the home addresses as given in the catalogue, unless otherwise ordered. Those who wish them sent elsewhere should notify the business manager at once.

New Proctors

Life in the dormitories this year has been the cleanest and most orderly that the college has known. The great improvement has been due mainly to the pressure of many undergraduates who have themselves ably handled the few cases which needed discipline. A strong sentiment has been developed which condemns disorder and the destruction of college property as childish, disloyal and wholly unbecoming the Bowdoin ideal of a gentleman. The college believes that the students will themselves for their own comfort and self-respect, as well as for the good name of the college, strengthen this manly sentiment, and show in the coming year how effective student self-government can be at Bowdoin. Accordingly, the maintenance of good order in the dormitories is to be placed in the hands of the students, represented by a board of six proctors, chosen from among those who shall be Seniors in the coming college year. The one Faculty member, Professor Foster, will be Chairman of the Board. The six men who have been chosen from among the students—Allen, Bass, Snow, Haley, Hupper, Vorhees—have the confidence and esteem of the whole college. That such men, in their Senior year, are willing to give up the attractions of fraternity-house life for the sake of serving the college in this important matter assures success for the plan. These men will be strong forces in the "ends" for manly conduct and fair treatment to all; and they will be regarded as college officers, with the authority necessary for making the coming year in the dormitories as much better than this year as this year has been better than the one before. It remains for the student body as a whole to accept the responsibility placed upon them as Bowdoin men and justify the confidence of the College.
Hence there has been more and more effort on the part of prospective physicians to more satisfactorily fit themselves for their life work by laying a broad and solid foundation at the outset. This has been insisted on by the officers in charge of our medical institutions, and with excellent results. The tendency is growing in medical circles to require the A.B. degree of those who wish to pursue the study of medicine, and college graduates are welcomed in all medical schools.

In the Maine Medical School, the curriculum has been continually broadening, the number of professors and instructors increased, the equipment enlarged, and the courses of study extended. Not so very long ago the course of study covered a period of six months in each year for three years, the class of 1899 having been the last to graduate under the three-year system. In 1904 the course was lengthened two months, the term beginning in October, so that now practically 32 months of study is the requirement for the M.D. degree, whereas it was only 18 months up to within a few years. Thus many important advances and marked progress have been made. In looking over the statistics of recent classes, it is found that in the class of 1905 there were 18 graduates, 9 of whom, or 50 per cent., had college degrees,—8 A.B. and 1 B.S. In the Medical School at present there are registered 80 students, 26 of whom, or about one-third, have the degrees A.B. or B.S., there being but three with the latter degree. They are as follows: Fourth year, 17 members; third year, 20 members; second year, 25 members; first year, 18, 4. The second year class has the largest proportion of college graduates among the classes in the school at the present time, and one of the largest representations within the history of the institution. One of the A.B. students enrolled in the first year class is also taking second year work. Two of the members of the first year class will receive the A.B. degree from Bowdoin College at the present year Commencement. There are several members of the class of 1907 in Bowdoin who have signified their intentions of entering upon the medical course here next autumn. The present arrangement of allowing students in the literary department of the college to complete both courses and receive both degrees in seven years, appeals to several in each Senior Class, and the recently inaugurated plan of permitting those who have taken the first two years in the medical school to enter the Junior Class in the literary department, obtain the A.B. degree in two years, and complete both courses in six years is being taken advantage of by some students, and several others have been inclined to try and accomplish this work.

The increasing number of college graduates pursuing the medical course has been the important factor in bringing the members of the two departments of the college into closer relationship, which has been attended with many beneficial results.

It is recognized more fully each succeeding year that the more careful and complete the preparation for the medical profession, the better it will be for the protection of the public, and for the reputation and success of the medical practitioners.

NEW SUBSCRIPTION SYSTEM

The Football Association is considering a plan by which a football subscription of five dollars or more for the season of 1906 will entitle a person to a season ticket. This ticket will admit to the Bates, Exeter, Fort McKinley and all other home games with the exception of the Colby games. In order to be able to use this system of football subscriptions a large majority of the students in college must agree to subscribe five dollars or more. Papers have been started in the different fraternities to see how many are willing to support such a system if it can be inaugurated. This system would not only be helpful to the management but also beneficial to the student body. Similar plans have been tried in other colleges and have worked well, and there seems to be no reason why Bowdoin should not have such a system if the students will support it.

STATE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Last Wednesday afternoon before a large number of students, Tobey won the State Tennis Championship from Paine in a hard-fought match. The scores were 2-6, 8-6, 6-1, 6-4. Linnell, ’07, acted as umpire.

COLLEGE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

When the Orient went to press last Thursday, the tournament for the tennis championship of the college in doubles had gone through the semi-finals, and in the singles as far as the semi-finals. In the doubles Ham and Hughes were to meet in the finals the winners of the match played by Pike and Lawrence against Roberts and Johnson. In the singles Paine, ’06, was to meet in the semi-finals the winner of the match to be played between Haines, ’08, and Johnson, ’06.

College Notes

J. C. Minot, ’06, visited the college last Sunday.
Adjourns were granted in all courses last Saturday.
C. R. Cook, ’05, was a visitor at the college last week.
G. F. Fogg, ’02, was a visitor at the college last Friday.
Senior marching at the church began the middle of the week.
“Eddie” Bates, ex-’06, has been visiting the college this week.
C. P. Merrill, of Farmington, ex-’06, was a visitor at the college last week.
The most important game of the baseball season will take place at Waterville to-day.
At a recent meeting of the Ibis, Redman, ’07, was elected president, and Allen, ’07, secretary.
Many of the Maine papers contained pictures of Bowdoin’s Ivy Day speakers, last Saturday.
Merrymeeting Park will open next Monday, instead of last Monday, as was first announced.
Brunswick had a circus on Tuesday of this week.
A large number of college men visited the show.
The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity are planning to hold a track meet in the near future.
Ralph Powers, brother of W. A. Powers, ’06, has been a visitor at the college during the past week.
Several of the baseball men remained in Portland over Sunday, where they were the guests of friends.
“Jim” Marston, ex-’05, was a visitor at the college last Friday. He graduated from Columbia this year.
Entrance examinations for Bowdoin have been held at the preparatory schools during the past three days.
Marshal Cram, ’04, who is now a student at Johns Hopkins, has returned to his home in Brunswick for the summer.
Hon. Charles E. Littlefield is expected to be a guest and speaker at the Commencement dinner on Thursday, June 28.
The Willard team of Portland defeated the Cabots on the Delta, last Saturday afternoon, by the score of 9 to 6.
The Portland Sunday Times contained pictures of Robert Foster, ’01, and Mrs. Foster, whose wedding took place at Evanston, Ill., last week.
Several Bowdoin men received invitations to the Hobart-Briggs wedding, which was held at the bride’s home in Auburn last week. Mrs. Hobart is a sister to B. F. Briggs, ’07.
Last Sunday was one of the hottest days so far this season. A number of men took trolley rides, while others went to the shore in this vicinity.

W. A. Powers, '06, will go abroad this summer, where he will pursue the study of modern languages. He will accompany Professor Ham on the trip.

The Orient is delayed one day this week in order to include several items of news which otherwise would have been held over until the Commencement number.

The band elections were to have been held last Wednesday evening, but owing to the small attendance, was postponed. It was thought at the time of going to press that the election would occur this evening.

The Bowdoin arguments in the Bowdoin-Clark debate have been printed recently, and Professor Foster has a few copies of the speeches now on hand. Anyone may obtain one of these copies by asking him for it.

At the recent meeting of the Athletic Council track B's were awarded to H. G. Tobey, '06; C. F. Doherty, '07; P. Kimball, '01; P. R. Shorey, '07; D. S. Robinson, '07; H. Atwood, '09; R. M. Pennell, '09; M. L. Blair, '09.

On Sunday morning, June 24, Mr. Jump will preach a sermon entitled "A Candid Discussion of the Maine Prohibitory Law." On that same afternoon at four o'clock, President Hyde will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon.

The Y. M. C. A. has printed some enrolment cards for next year, and either this spring or early in the fall every one will be given an opportunity to sign in, and give the association a good start for the fall and winter months.

The members of the D. K. E. Fraternity held their "Second Annual Track Meet" on the Whittier Field last Monday afternoon. The winners in the various events enjoyed a dinner at New Meadows in the evening at the expense of the vanquished. The officials of the meet were Tobey, '06; Redman, '07; Kimball, '07.

David R. Porter, the Maine boy who is a Rhodes student at Oxford University in England, is playing second base on the University baseball team, which is made up of the American students. The nine is serving in no small way to further introduce the sport in the British Kingdom. Porter was a member of the Class of '06 at Bowdoin and will be given his degree with his former classmates this month.—Kennebec Journal.

Foster, '05, and Allen, '07, who have compiled the Songs of Bowdoin, announce that copies of the book may be obtained at Rooms 7 and 8, South Winthrop Hall. It is desirable that all who signed in for copies secure them at once, in order that the accounts with the printers may be settled as soon as possible. The publishers have contracted large bills in the production of the book, and they must have the co-operation of those who signed for books in order to meet them when due.

FACULTY NOTES

President Hyde will next Tuesday deliver the Commencement Address before Clark University at Worcester, and on the following day he will be present at the graduation exercises and trustee meeting of Exeter Academy at Exeter.

A private letter from Professor Geo. T. Files, dated at Interlaken, Switzerland, May 25, speaks of special enjoyment of the days spent in that country and of his plans for leisurely travelling by the way of Lucerne to Germany, thence down the Rhine to Holland and Belgium, spending the latter part of the summer in England and Scotland, reaching Brunswick the last week in September. He, with his family, are all in improved health.

Professor Foster will give the graduation address at the Georgetown High School, Georgetown, Mass., next Monday, and on Wednesday he will represent Bowdoin at the inauguration of President Hamilton of Tufts College.

Professor Allen Johnson was recently elected at the Brunswick Republican caucus, to attend, as a delegate, the State Republican Convention which will be held on June 27.

Professor Mitchell attended the graduation of the Kennbunk High School last Wednesday, and on Thursday was present at the exercises held at Yarmouth Academy.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1836.

Dr. Alonzo Garcelon, '36, A.M., on May 6 passed his 93d birthday, and is now hale and hearty at his home in Lewiston. Dr. Garcelon graduated from Bowdoin in 1836, received the degree of M.D. in 1839 from a medical college in Ohio, where he had studied three years. In 1855 he became State Senator, 1861 a Hospital Surgeon, 1864 the Chief Hospital Surgeon, and in 1879 served as Governor of the State of Maine.

CLASS OF 1858.

Hon. Edwin Reed, A.M., '58, of Andover, Mass., has added another book to the series that he has already written defending Bacon's claim to the authorship of what are now called Shakespeare's plays. This last volume is entitled "Bacon and Shakespeare's Coincidences" and sets forth the arguments in favor of the Bacon theory even more forcibly than have the other four books that Mr. Reed has written on the same subject.

CLASS OF 1860.

From the administrator of the estate of the late Jacob H. Thompson of the Class of 1860 the college library has recently received a class album and many interesting manuscripts and records relating to his undergraduate course at Bowdoin.

CLASS OF 1870.

Dr. Lucian Howe, '70, A.M., M.D., has just published a book entitled “The Muscles of the Eye.” It is in two volumes, contains about 300 illustrations, and it succeeds well in the accomplishment of its purpose, which is “to state in the simplest language possible the actual facts now known concerning the ocular muscles.”

Edgar O. Achorn, '81, has accepted an appointment on the Board of the Montclair Military Academy, Montclair, New Jersey. This is one of the best fitting schools in the East and Mr. Achorn becomes the New England representative on the board.

CLASS OF 1882.

Dr. W. O. Plimpton, '82, Professor of Orthopedic Surgery in the Post-Graduate Medical School of New York City, will spend this summer travelling abroad with his wife and daughter.

CLASS OF 1886.

Charles A. Davis, '86, has recently received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Michigan. He has just severed his connection with the Forestry Department of that University, and now is in charge of the Herbarium as Curator, as well as being engaged in work for the State Geological Survey.

E. C. Plummer, '87, has been representing the American Shipping interests, especially those of Bath, Me., at the hearings before the Committee on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and his speech has been included in the recently published account of the hearings. Mr. Plummer has presented the library with one of these accounts.

CLASS OF 1891.

Henry W. Jarvis, '91, has an article in the June second number of the Outlook on “A People’s Palace.” Mr. Jarvis is prominent in charitable work in Boston, he being on the Executive Committee of the Boston Traveller’s Children’s Outing Work, and also Treasurer of the People’s Palace. He has been for ten years attorney of the New England division of the Salvation Army.

CLASS OF 1894.

Invitations have been received to the wedding of Miss Frances Sargent of South Brewer and Ralph P. Plaisted, Esq., of Bangor at the Congregational Church in South Brewer at 8.45 P.M. Tuesday, June 19. Mr. Plaisted is a former Augusta boy, a younger brother of Mayor Plaisted, and he has a great many friends. He graduated from the Cony High School in 1890 and from Bowdoin in 1894. For several years he has practiced law in Bangor of which city he is now city clerk.

Obituary

DR. MILTON C. WEDGWOOD, M. '59

Dr. Milton C. Wedgwood, Med. '59, one of the leading physicians of the State, died at his home in Lewiston on April 9. Dr. Wedgwood was born at Bowdoin, Me., in 1832, and graduated from the Bowdoin Medical School in 1859. Three years after his graduation he served as assistant surgeon in the 11th Maine Volunteers during the Civil War. Later he served as a member of the Governor’s Council during the terms of Governors Burleigh and Hill, and had been quite prominent in Republican circles. Dr. Wedgwood was a member of the International Health Association, the Maine Academy of Medicine and Science, and was also a Mason of the 32d degree. He is survived by his wife.

DR. STEPHEN E. WENTWORTH, M. '68

Dr. Stephen E. Wentworth, Med., '68, died recently of heart failure while driving in his carriage in Auburn. Dr. Wentworth had been in excellent health lately except for slight heart trouble during the last week, and his death was a very unexpected blow to his friends. He was 69 years old, and one of the oldest practicing physicians in the city. He was born in Limington, Me., in 1837, attended the Limington Academy, then went to Dartmouth College, from which, on conceiving a liking for the medical profession, he went to the Bowdoin Medical School, and graduated with the Class of 1868. He first practiced medicine in Brownville, leaving to take a larger practice in Lovell, which he held for two years. At the end of that time he removed to Auburn, where during the past 32 years he has built up a very extensive practice. He is survived by his son Dr. Ernest Wentworth who will probably inherit his father’s practice.

HERBERT W. GRINDALL, ’80

Herbert W. Grindall, ’80, died from heart disease at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., on February 5. News of his death has just been received and he will be much mourned by his classmates. He was born on September 7, 1857, in Salem, Mass., prepared for college at the Salem High School, and entered the scientific department of Bowdoin in 1876. He was prominent as a speaker and writer during his college course, receiving awards at the Junior declamation and for extemporaneous English composition, as well as an appointment in the ’68 Prize Speaking. After graduating, he took up law at Columbia University, and received the degree of LL.B. on the completion of his course in 1882. While at law school he served as assistant librarian, and was later elected librarian. For twenty years he has been practising his profession in New York City, and residing in Brooklyn. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Magdalena (Ten Broeck) Grindall, whom he married in 1884.

AMOS A. KNOWLTON, ’86

Amos A. Knowlton, ’86, died on April 14, at his home in Madison, Wisconsin, after an illness which he has been suffering under for nearly six years. Mr. Knowlton was born in Boston in 1859, prepared for college at Exeter, entered Bowdoin with the Class of 1886, joined the Psi Upsilon fraternity, and from 1884-86 was editor of the Bowdoin ORIENT. After graduating, he taught Greek and Latin at the English and Classical School of Providence, R. I., for two years. In 1888 he left Rhode Island, studied abroad at the University of Berlin, returned to the United States after a year and a half, and in 1890 took up his residence in Madison, Wisconsin, and for the next ten years was connected with the English Department of the University of Wisconsin. In 1900 he was forced to give up his teaching on account of his health, which has been very poor ever since then, although Mr. Knowlton is said never to have lost any of his accustomed cheer and good nature. He is survived by his wife and five children, the eldest of whom is attending the University of Wisconsin.

Marlin

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2¾ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

Commencement, 1906

The Baccalaureate Sermon

Commencement began with the baccalaureate sermon by President Hyde, on Sunday, June 24.

President Hyde spoke from the subject "No Pull for Place, but Endurance for Service," and the sermon was listened to with attentive attention from beginning to end. His text was as follows:

"And there came near unto Him James and John the sons of Zebedee, saying unto Him, Master we would that thou shouldest do for us whatsoever we shall ask of thee. And He said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you? And they said unto Him, Grant us that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and one on thy left, in thy glory. But Jesus said unto them, ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I drink or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? And they said unto Him, We are able. And Jesus said unto them, The cup that I drink ye shall drink; and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized; but to sit on my right hand and on my left hand, is not mine to give, but it is for them for whom it hath been prepared. Mark: x: 35-40."

President Hyde said in part:

"Favoritism and pull rule the little surface things. But deep down in the realities the big things are reserved for the toil and service that rise to the height of perpetual sacrifice. There are no places to give away on the athletic teams or on the teaching staff; no openings in remunerative business or positions of influence in politics for the man who merely wants the honors or emoluments. These places are reserved for the men who combine the industry and energy, the firmness and tact; the courage and consecration which make the effective holding of these positions a perpetual act of labor and sacrifice. Even the dear joys of home and family are not to be had on cheaper terms; and the selfish creatures who expect to get something for nothing are doomed to disappointment. Happy homes are reserved for those who can rise above their natural selfishness and merge their individuality in membership in a larger life. A self-seeking, pull-working Christianity is a contradiction in terms. There is no heaven here or hereafter for the people who seek for it directly, and want God to give it to them ready made. God gives us the stuff to make a heaven out of. The imperfection of the world is its glory; for it is man's opportunity to make the soil fruitful, and the mineral useful; to make the fibre into cloth and the timber to shelter; to make the earth a highway and the sea a bond between man and man; to give and take in fair exchange what one produces and another wants; to bring together individuals in families, and families in states, and states in nations, and establish justice and good will over all; to create beauty of form and expression; to discover truth; to hand down these discoveries from one generation to another; to apply the laws of health and healing; to care for the poor and unfortunate; to train the ignorant, and to correct the depraved; to unite men in common enthusiasm and to lift them in their highest capacity; this is the God-given task of man, to find one's station and function of largest usefulness in this vast work; to do it with one's might; to care not whether it be great or small, conspicuous or obscure, so it be the part especially given to us; and to do as well as it can be done; to take the criticism it brings good-naturedly; to bear defeat without discouragement; loss without depression, persecution without resentment, knowing that whatever befalls us the Lord's good work is going on and we have our little share in His great triumph—this is the only and all-sufficient seat in heaven which Christ has reserved for each faithful follower.

"Members of the graduating class: Ask of God and the world only the chance to do your best; do that with all your might; with firmness and courage; yet with gentleness and love. All the powers of selfishness and courage; all the forces of jealousy and malice; all the criticisms of incompetence and insincerity will soon or later assail the man who speaks the truth as he sees it; who does the thing that needs to be done; who tries to fit the thing he stands for: not into the favor of this man, or the pocket of that man, but into the genuine service of all men; and the impartial will of the one good God. This is the cup that every honest worker must drink; and the wider his responsibility the deeper and more bitter does this cup become. That is the baptism in which every brave follower of Christ must be impressed. And the depth and volume of criticism and condemnation such a man brings on himself from the self-seeking, place-hunting, money-loving, time-serving multitude, is a pretty accurate measure of his service to the world and his fidelity to his Lord.

"That is the price of being generous and just. Christ paid it to the full; And we must pay it too, if we are to be sharers in his great life which here and everywhere is Heaven. But it is a small price to pay for the glorious fellowship it brings. To know that you are one of God's faithful workers in the world; that you are one with Christ and all true Christians; that have been or shall be, Catholic or Protestant, conscious of their nominal connection with him, or unconsciously doing the will of their unnamed and unknown Lord—this is a heaven here and now within the soul, which makes every yoke of duty easy and every burden of sacrifice a joy.

"I commend to each one of you the cup and baptism of Christ. Make sure that your place and function in the world is precisely what he would have it; make sure, in other words, that you are making the best contribution to the glory of the world and the welfare of men that your capacity permits—and that assurance will bear you cheerfully, serenely, triumphantly through whatever of trial and vacation, hostility and hate, this still imperfect world, and the still undeveloped people in it may have in store for you."

Class Day Exercises

The class day exercises proved themselves one of the most pleasing events of the week, there being a large attendance, and everything contributing to make the day a success.

The Oration

By C. W. Hawkesworth.

Mr. Hawkesworth took for his subject "The Principle of Non-Resistance," and spoke in part as follows:

"The principle of non-resistance is not a popular principle. But little is written about it, but still it has been the underlying principle of educational progress. Corporal punishment among progressive teachers is a thing of the past. To-day schools and colleges are finding out what the scholar takes to naturally and are not attempting to drive him to study courses which he has no liking for. Courses are being made to fit the nature rather than nature being made to fit the courses. Where the elective system has been introduced students are taking courses which are akin to their natures and thus keep alive the fires of youth.

"The final step in the principle of non-resistance is seen in what is known as the honor system. Because constant watching has not brought the desired results an appeal has been made to the student honor. The heart of the student is difficult to reach, the students being distrustful of the teachers on account of the many years that they have been distrusted, but the honor system is rapidly growing in favor.

The principle of non-resistance does not depend on whether it can be enforced to-day or to-morrow, but whether it is the highest ideal of life given us to conceive."

In this way Mr. Hawkesworth showed how it applied to the highest educational systems. He then explained the methods used by John L. Whitman, jailor of the Cook County, Ill., jail, who is known as the man tamer, and in whose method punishment plays no part. The system has been very successful in managing prisoners.

In conclusion he showed how the principle which applies in the college and the jail, the two greatest extremes imaginable, and applying in those that it would necessarily apply in all conditions of society.

The Opening Address

By C. L. Favinger.

Mr. Favinger spoke as follows:

In looking for suitable words with which to greet you this afternoon, I have been unable to find any which could express all I wish to convey to your minds. It would be easy to say "Welcome," but the word has become such an inexpressive one that I shall leave to your own selection the phraseology of the greeting I wish to convey to you in behalf of my class.

Being assured, then, that we are glad to have you here, let us consider the position the class of 1906 will be expected to take as graduates of Bowdoin College. From these pleasant surroundings we must go out to become real citizens, and to face at first hand the practical problems of citizenship in a free republic.

In these days we hear much of the college man in politics, in law and in business, but little of the really vital positions which he holds as a plain citizen. When we are reminded of the exceedingly small number of college-bred men in proportion to the whole population we can readily see how large is the practical field open to such men, and how great are the possibilities for usefulness. The opportunities are absolutely unlimited, and the claims of the community upon the college graduate are of no slight consequence. No other class of men in the world have greater opportunities than we have. Fathers and mothers make sacrifices to keep us here; magnificent buildings are erected and equipped for our exclusive use; and highly trained specialists are paid to train us. Justly, then, may we be expected to make some small return for all these benefits. Surely they are not given for the purpose of men to live for themselves alone. Rather are they given that the highest welfare of society may be conserved and the continued existence of the republic assured. And these objects may be reached only by the active interest of college men in the affairs of their respective communities.

What, then, are the specific lines of activity which justly claim their interest? One of the highest of these duties is to fight for absolute honesty in politics. One need not be a politician to perform this service. He need but identify himself with the better class of people in the effort to educate the masses up to a high standard of civic virtue. Every man should attend the primary elections and see to it that his influence and vote are cast with those candidates whose records of honesty and efficient public service are unstained. It is the primary elections that corruption originates, for, if the men who are chosen are thoroughly honest, the honesty of higher officers must follow. The college man has, then, an excellent opportunity to place his stamp upon the political life of his community.

But not in political affairs alone should his influence be evident. The public schools should also receive a large share of his attention. To-day in almost every progressive town or city a hard struggle is going on for the perfection of the schools. Educational leaders must fight for almost every innovation. Larger salaries are needed for the teachers; more efficient administration is demanded; and these things are not secured simply because the taxpayers do not fully understand the significance of education in a free republic like ours. They must be brought to see the necessity of these things. Each man, therefore, who goes out from this college should go as a missionary in the cause of popular education through the medium of well-equipped schools. He may not be able to accomplish all he works for, but, if he allies himself with progressive forces his efforts cannot be wholly lost.

Closely allied to the schools in every town and hamlet are the churches. The schools and the churches go hand in hand for the promotion of the republican form ideal. Remove either from the community, and degeneration must follow. Unfortunately the churches do not to-day have the support of all the men best fitted to help them. The men who ought to fill the pews leave them to be filled by women and children or not at all. Here, then, is another chance for good service. It should be the college man's aim to support the churches in such a way that his influence may clearly aid them in promoting the Christian life of the community. Few men would care to live where the churches have ceased to exist. It is therefore their duty to support what they would not do without.

The church and the school furnish the incentives to still another line of activity in which the college man may make his influence count for something practical. I refer to civic improvement. Various public journals have already initiated a movement whose object is the beautifying of towns and cities. But they have a hard task before them; for the tendency of the masses is to disregard the social claims upon them, and to thwart the efforts of those who would live amid attractive surroundings. The college man can lend a hand in this laudable effort and thus render invaluable service to his fellows.

These are but a few of the more important duties of each man who leaves this college. There are, however, many more which every man of worth will have to meet in one form or another. If he is true to the ideals of the college, he will not shirk them. Rather will he give his best efforts for their accomplishment; and by so doing bring credit upon himself and honor to his Alma Mater.

The ideal of the college is to send out into the world men well equipped, not for a particular profession, but for complete citizenship—men who can rise above the narrow claim of self and respond to the larger claims of society. For this object the college keeps a man four years and rightly expects him to do his duty when his four years are past. In view of this ideal, my classmates, guard with jealous care the trust committed to you by Bowdoin College, remembering always that the institution can rise higher or more efficient position than those whom it has carefully trained.

To you who have assembled here I can only say that we are happy to have you with us.

The Closing Address

By H. P. Winslow.

"At such a time in such a place as this, Here, where a melancholy whisper comes From the thin breezes yearning toward sea; Where wistful sighs of long remembrance stir The bosom of the low murmuring pines; Here, where a thousand varied memories Rise up to waken pride or touch regret— We come to say "good-bye." Twice two happy years we have passed here beneath the pines, and now we must depart as we came, each traveling his own way and alone. As we look back on the many bright, careless days of college life, we realize what they have been and what they might have been to us, but that now the time has come to pay the last respects to friendship. We cannot but help feel melancholy at such a time when we think that some of us here will never see the old campus again, and that as we shake hands with friends and classmates now we may be doing so for the last time. We have, however, seen three classes graduate and we know that those so happy here now will soon follow us. We know that those whom we leave behind to fill our places will in a little while be taking their departure also. Just as these halls will cease to echo to the sound of our voices so will they cease to echo to theirs. And we derive a certain sad consolation from this common fellowship in the thought that fate treats all alike.

We came as individuals and now we must part as individuals, but we do not part as we came, for we now have something in common and dear to us all, and that something is the love of Old Bowdoin. It will go down in years to come marked "Unknown." All we ask, however, is that from out our number one name may be added to the list of fame for the sake of "Old Bowdoin." If this be done then we shall feel that the great debt we owe her is at least partially paid.

As we have tried to do our duty by our college so must we now devote our energies to the interests of our nation. As President Roosevelt has said: "A heavy moral obligation rests upon the men of learning to do their duty by their country. And on no one class does this obligation rest more heavily than upon the men of the collegiate education."

"To-day the land has bitter need of us. Those to whom knowledge is given stand in double trust, Guardians of liberty and of the right."

There are two parts to a college education. One is that which is obtained in the classroom from the professors, while the other is that derived from the association with fellow students. And it is the latter which is the more important part. For the first we can only make you scholars, while the latter makes you men. It is men that our country wants. And may Bowdoin ever be proud, as she always has a right to be, of the gifts she makes to her country. Alma Mater, we bid thee farewell. Never shall we be able to repay thee for the blessings which thou hast bestowed upon us. Thy sons? As thou hast protected and cared for us, so may we ever honor and cherish thy name, for

"What were we if we were stripped of Thee
Thou who unto our calmer souls hast given Knowledge, Truth and Holy Mystery?"

The Class Ode

J. A. Bartlett.

We sing, good fellowship we sing
Under our good oak tree;
Loud, loud let all our voices ring
In loyal unity.

For light of Bowdoin rises bright,
Glad sun to all the world
It gleams upon our banner white,
To God's own winds unfurled.

To world of men, from world of youth
There leads a broad highway,
Where love of strength and dauntless truth
Shall guide us through the day,
And may we keep our symbol bright,
Though painfully we go.
And seeking, find the greater light
In God's deep heart aglow.

The Poem

James Wingate Sewall.

The poem was by J. W. Sewall of Oldtown, and was as follows:

Our college, shadowed by the pines,
The waving, softly-speaking pines,
That call with joy the morning tide
Stretching their hands into the sun
To welcome the gorgeous day;
That slowly sing the evensong,
Bowing their head as though in prayer,
To bid the lingering light farewell,—
Our college now—as oft before—
Another parting honors thee
With what small honor it may give,
While we go forth to greet the world,
And this our earnest, heartfelt prayer
As we go out from thee: "May we
Be of their nature faithful sons—
Men understanding fellow-men
And knowing world realities.

So we, spell bound, in silence gaze,
Enraptured, peering down the paths
Of life, that stretch far, far before,
While dew of youth lends sweetness near,
And light of hope shade future joy.
Yet—as we look—the old, old days
Come sweeping back with memories!

We remember old nights on the campus
When the ground was white with snow,
And the trees sang songs above us
Like ghosts in the pale star-glow,
Like skalds of long ago.

We remember old nights on the campus
When summer was in the air
And the joy of youth swelled in us
And oh! but the world was fair!
To live in, to die in, to dare.

You, companions, heart friends,
You must hold it dear,
Bowdoin's starlit campus,
Fairer with each year.

Lounging on the benches
Out by old Maine Hall,
Song and chat and laughter
Over one and all!

Voices on the campus
In the summer eves,
Song and chat and laughter—
Moonlight in the leaves.

You, alumnus, older,
You must hold it dear,
Bowdoin's starlit campus,
Bringing youth so near.

Old Bowdoin, thou givest thy sons a glorious gift!
The privilege of being linked through thee,
To those far-famous names of days gone by.
Thy worthy sons—Greet men of mighty mould
Whom on they name some glory shed.
For who would scorn associations' boon,
Or who decry the reverence of age?
Or dare compare the sapling strength of youth,
So quickly grown, so easy ripe, and bent
By every passing, fitful gentle breeze,
With thy vast rugged strength, the growth of years?
Oh, Bowdoin, I sing thee not a tender mother,
Whose kindness must be that of womankind,
And who, through loving, must be too kind!
But rather as a father, strong and wise,
Who rules his sons and teaches them the ways
Of men, and sparest not the needed rod,
Nor yet doth spare true praise when honor's due,
Nor fears to say to one who earns, "Well done."

Ah! much there is in that "well done;"
Praise is good when battle's won,
Faces grow gay at night
As though they caught the glowing light
Of the setting sun.

For thou art rugged, honest and sincere,
Thy work is thorough and thy work is good.
I praise our college, mighty Bowdoin,

The other new feature will be the game with Wesleyan. For several years attempts have been made by both Bowdoin and Wesleyan to secure games with each other, particularly in baseball, but not until now have the managers succeeded in bringing about such an arrangement. Of all the New England colleges no two perhaps are better fitted to meet each other in intercollegiate contests than Bowdoin and Wesleyan and that such a contest has at last been arranged is very pleasing. The Orient congratulates Manager Allen and the college on its new schedule.

The Alumni Dinner

At the close of the exercises in the church the procession was formed again and proceeded up Main Street under the elms and in through the Class of '75 gates to Memorial Hall where the Commencement dinner was served. There were about 600 Bowdoin graduates in the line by classes, and their cheering and singing drowned the music of the band most of the time during the march across the campus. Once in upper Memorial Hall they were seated at the six long tables where the excellent dinner was enjoyed. On the stage were President Hyde, the guests of the occasion and leading members of the governing boards. When the president called the great gathering to order after the dinner was over he was greeted with a great and long-continued outburst of enthusiasm. The alumni, young and old, leaped to their seats and cheered again and again in token of their love, esteem and confidence for the great educator for over 20 years at the head of old Bowdoin. He spoke briefly in review of the year, mentioning especially the $125,000 received in gifts during the year and announcing a new gift of $20,000 from the Class of '81 to establish a scholarship. He then announced that the beautiful big bronze and gold loving cup given by David W. Snow, '72, as a reunion trophy to be given to the class having the largest percentage of its members back at Commencement had been won by the Class of '76. This class, which graduated thirty years ago, had 23 members back out of 39 living, giving it a percentage of .58 0-10. The class ranking next was given honorable mention. It was the Class of '96 which had 27 men back out of 46 living, giving it a percentage of .58 7-10. There was great applause and cheering over the announcement, the two classes between which the competition was so close cheering each other over and over. Many classes had over 50 per cent. of their men back and several of
The later classes had actually more men than '76 or '90, though a less proportion.

The speakers of the afternoon were Congressman Littlefield who had been made a Doctor of Laws at the morning exercises; President Fellows of the University of Maine whose special farming train stopped at the station to allow him to be present; General Hubbard, '57, who paid a splendid tribute to his classmate, General Francis Fessenden, who died in Portland last year; Hon. C. F. Libby, '64 of Portland, who spoke for the overseers; Prof. H. L. Chapman, '66, who was given one of the most tumultuous greetings of the day by the hundreds of alumni who love him so well and whose speech was a gem of wit and eloquence; Tascus Atwood, '76, of Auburn, who spoke for the class which won the reunion trophy; Judge F. A. Fisher, '81, of Lowell, Mass., who spoke for the class of a quarter of a century ago; W. V. Wentworth, '86, of Great Works, who spoke for the class of twenty years ago; and Hon. C. A. Knight, '96, mayor of Gardiner, who spoke for the class of ten years ago which came within two-tenths of one per cent. of winning the trophy. The speeches were of a high order and each speaker was warmly received and applauded.

It was about 3 when the speaking was over and the 600 happy sons of old Bowdoin went out of the hall to the beautiful campus and another most successful Commencement was at an end. Most of the big crowd of graduates left Brunswick on the afternoon and evening trains while the newly graduated class went to Casco Castle in the evening for their farewell meeting and banquet. Friday and Saturday will be days of packing up and departure.

The Medical Graduation

The graduation exercises of the Medical School of Maine took place Wednesday at 10 A.M., and as it was the only event at that hour, drew the greater part of the visitors to the college church. There was also quite a large number of friends of the "Medics" in the number.

The men who were to graduate formed in line in front of the Medical building, shortly before 10 o'clock and headed by Paye's band started on the march to the church. A section in the front of the edifice had been reserved for them, the men marching up the center aisle, and the band taking its position in the south balcony. After a musical selection prayer was offered by Rev. John C. Perkins of Portland, followed by the address of Rev. Raymond Calkins of the State Street Church of Portland.

Mr. Calkins' address was one of the strongest that had been heard in a long time. He dwelt largely on what he considered to be essential attributes of a truly successful life. He said that a man's power may be judged by his work as it is projected through his personality.

This involved two things. First, the kind of work to which we are adapted. Secondly the kind of men we are. This latter factor he believed after all to be the great one. He then discussed what goes to make the real man. He said that there was a large compass of soul and a fineness of moral fibre which go to make a man and must always con-

Meetings of Trustees and Overseers

At the meetings of the trustees and overseers held during commencement week business of importance was transacted. Among other things that have come up was the election of two additional doctors to the staff of the Medical School of Maine. They are Dr. W. E. Robie of Portland, who will be professor of anatomy for three years. Another was Dr. T. J. Burrage, who was also elected as assistant demonstrator of histology for one year. The third new man is Dr. James A. Spaulding as clinical instructor. The old staff was all re-elected.

Among the other items of business was the conferring of degrees. Alphonso C. Merryman of Freeport was given the degree of Master of Arts, pro merito. The degree of B. A. was conferred on Edgar Yates, ex-'76; Carleton P. Merrill, ex-'96; Donald S. Walker, ex-'64.

Other business was for the appropriation of a sum of money for the celebration of the centenary of the birth of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The election of the committees of the board resulted as follows: Visiting committee, Messrs. Cole, Stanwood, Appleton, Becher, Payson; examining committee, Messrs. Sewall, Chamberlain, Morrill Torrey, Hawes, Cutler; finance committee, Messrs. Putnam, Wiswell, Moses. Crosby; honorary degrees, Messrs. Chamberlain and Stevens; art interests, Chamberlain and Baxter; grounds and buildings, the treasurer, with Profs. Chapman and Robinson from the faculty; vacancies in the Medical School, Messrs. Frye, Putnam, Purington, Alexander; vacancies in college faculty, Messrs. Hubbard, Brown, Bell, McKeen.

Two new members of the board of overseers were elected as follows:

George P. Davenport, '67, of Bath, and Addison D. Herrick, '73, of Bethel.

Kenneth Z. M. Sills, '01, was elected assistant professor of Latin for three years.

---

The Alumni Association

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association was held at 9 o'clock this morning in the alumni room. The officers of last year were all re-elected, as follows:

President, Franklin Conant Payson, Portland; Vice-President, Charles Taylor Hawes, Bangor; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. George T. Little, Brunswick.

The election to fill vacancies on the board of overseers resulted in the choice of George Patten Davenport, A.M., of Bath, chosen by the Alumni Association while Addison Emery Herrick of Bethel was chosen by the committee of the boards.

The committee to have charge of the award of the Pray prize for 1907 was chosen as follows: Augustus F. Moulton, '73; Albert W. Tolman, '88; Clarence W. Peabody, '93.

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Manager Allen has arranged the following football schedule for the coming season:

Sept. 29—Fort Preble at Brunswick.
Oct. 3—Harvard at Cambridge.
Oct. 6—Exeter at Brunswick.
Oct. 13—Wesleyan at Middletown.
Oct. 20—Cornell at Ithaca.
Oct. 27—Bates at Brunswick.
Nov. 3—Tufts at Medford.
Nov. 10—Colby at Brunswick.
Nov. 17—Maine at Orono.

SHOREY TRACK CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the track men at the close of the season, P. R. Shorey, '07, was elected track captain for the next year. Mr. Shorey has been prominent in track work throughout his three years and has proved himself a sure point winner in the Maine meets, as well as making good showings in the New England meets.

BASEBALL CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the "B" men of the baseball team held immediately after the last game with Colby, Fikes was elected captain for the next year’s team. "Eddie" is a member of the Sophomore Class and is one of the most popular men in college. He was Bowdoin’s first pitcher during his Freshman year and during the present season has made an enviable record.

PRESIDENT HYDE'S NEW BOOK

President Hyde's latest book, "The College Man and the College Woman," is receiving the highest praise from the reviewers and many call it an even stronger work than his "From Epicurus to Christ."

The following review from the BostonAdvertiser is handed to the Orient by a well-known alumnus, who believes it of an excellence that warrants its appearance in the Orient:

"In a book called 'the College Man and the College Woman' are observations of a sane and exceptionally vigorous educator, President Hyde of Bowdoin, who deals with the personal, ethical and spiritual side of college life. Taken as a whole, these chapters represent what twenty years in a college have taught about what students mean to be, and what graduates may be expected to become. I trust," he says in prefatory remarks, 'that I may assure over-anxious parents that not every aberration of their sons and daughters while in college is either final or fatal, persuade critics of college administration that our problem is not so simple as they seem to think; and inspire the public with the conviction, cherished by every college officer that college students, with all their faults and follies are the best fellows in the world; and that notwithstanding much crude speculation about things human and some honest skepticism concerning things divine, the great social institutions of family and industry and church and state may be safely intrusted to their hearts and hands.'

"Dr. Hyde is convinced that the main reliance of a college for its moulding of men and women is not preaching or exhortation, or rules and regulations, least of all threats and penalties; but actually living in an atmosphere of freedom, where each person has returned to him frankly, swiftly, mercilessly, the social judgment that his acts invite and his character deserves." It holds most, then, for the average man, who is most in need of moulding. The best spiritual beverage for college youth, as Dr. Hyde would brew it is a blend of Greek sanity and Christian service.

Of the Greek spirit he makes much. Touching the question of benefits and bruises in co-education, his opinion may be understood from these lines: 'I have ventured to recognize that fact that man and woman are not just alike, and to suggest that what God has put asunder man cannot satisfactorily join together.' 'Is a college education,' we often hear, 'good for a girl?' Dr. Hyde answers in his chapter on 'The Choice of the College Woman': 'If college women remain college women, and try to bring the world to them, they will be very unhappy; but if they go into the world forgetting that they are different from other people they will be the happiest persons there.' The situation in a nutshell. The college woman who uppishly refuses to clasp hands with her environment is a failure, not because of education, but through her ignorance of its value. Other subjects treated are Alumni Ideals, The College, Six Partners in College Administration, and The Personality of the Teacher. Able and candid, Dr. Hyde is sure of being widely read by professional educators and other persons actively interested in educational problems."

LIBRARY NOTES

The Library received recently a very interesting piece of old manuscript. It is addressed to Sir William Phipps of New England, and is an order from King William III, ordering him to appear before the King's Council to answer sundry charges of illegal and arbitrary acts attributed to him. It is dated Whitehall, February 5, 1694, and is written and signed by the King's Secretary, J. Trenchard.

The library has recently received from Mr. W. G. Bowdoin, a proof of a cut made from a block print of St. Christopher. This proof is of interest because it is said that the original block on which this cut was made, suggested to Gutenberg the system of printing by using small separate blocks, the invention of which system is attributed to Gutenberg.

Among the books recently added to the library may be mentioned: "American Men of Science," edited by J. McK. Cartell; "Maine from Maine," by F. C. Griffith; "Sir Christopher Wren," by Lucy Phillimore; and a set of Charles Lever's novels in 26 volumes.

Among other books of note that have just been added to the library are: "Standard Dictionary of the English Language," in two volumes, edited by Funk; "Story of Bowdoin, '96," written and presented by J. C. Minot, '96; "Playing Cards of All Nations," written and presented by W. G. Bowdoin; "Science and Health," a Christian-Scientist book by Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy; and a large set of Law Books which came from the estate of John C. Dodge, '34, who died several years ago.

Among the books that have been received by the Library this year may be mentioned: "Jacksonian Democracy" by Professor Mac-Donald; and the "Lives of the Popes" in three volumes by H. K. Mann. Four small books by Longfellow have been added this week to the so-called "Longfellow Case."

The Class of '96 has engaged the house of S. F. Marston at 21 Potter Street, as its headquarters during Commencement week.

CLASS OF 1899.

The marriage of Edwin Marrett Nelson of Calais, to Miss Edith Gertrude Johnson is announced. The wedding took place June 1 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Johnson.

CLASS OF 1902.

The engagement of Sidney W. Noyes of Portland, to Miss Abbie Clark of Bath, has been announced. Miss Noyes has recently been one of the nurses at the Maine General Hospital in Portland.

On June 20 Richard B. Dole, '02, was married to Miss Hulda Humphreys at the home of the bride in Brunswick.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take-down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

Have your dealer order it for you.

A VISIT TO LAKE ASQUAM

[The Orient is pleased to print the following description of a visit to the property recently presented to the President and Board of Trustees of Bowdoin College by W. F. Langdon, '53, as a memorial of his own regard and that of his deceased brother for the college. The description is from the pen of a classmate of Mr. Langdon at Bowdoin.]

Your readers may be interested to know something of a trip recently taken by President Hyde in company with the writer. It was undertaken at the invitation of Woodbury F. Langdon, Esq., of Plymouth, N. H., to visit him at his summer home at "Squam Lake." Reaching Alton Bay by rail, then by steamer across Winnepisaukee to Weirs, we enjoyed the beauty of a lake which one who has never seen "Asquam" would think unsurpassed. At this point is the headquarters of the New Hampshire Association of Veterans, as well as a fine hotel, seated on an eminence commanding a view of the whole lake and its vicinity, an attractive spot to lovers of good air and fine scenery. Arriving later in the evening at Ashland, N. H., we were met by our host and driven to his home on Squam Lake (at Holderness, N. H.). The morning revealed a most entrancing prospect. The Lake, some six miles in average width and length, dotted with islands, the thickly wooded shores, the surrounding mountains, from "Rattlesnake" and Ossipee, to the Franconias, and in the dim distance the Presidental range with Mount Washington overtopping all, disclosed a scene of beauty and grandeur rarely equalled. Our poet Whittier, whose annual rest was taken on a slope overlooking these waters, thus sung of their loveliness:

"The shadows round the inland sea
Are deepening into night;
Slow up the slopes of Ossipee
They chase the lessening light.
Tired of the long day's blinding heat,
I rest my languid eye;
Lake of the hills! Where, cool and sweet,
Thy sunset waters lie!"

"O, gems of sapphire, granite set!
O, hills that charmed horizons fret!

I know how fair your morus can break,
In rosy light on isle and lake:
How over wooded slopes can view
The noonday play of cloud and sun,
And evening droop her oriflame
Of gold and red in still Asquam."

On the shores and islands have been established many summer camps, under the direction of various schools, where scores of youth enjoy aquatic and athletic sports under leadership which promotes physical development without moral degeneracy. Specially interesting visits were paid to establishments connected with the Church School of Holderness, and the Webster School of Boston, which are supplied with ample accommodations, and provision for health and recreation. The Groton School, co-operating in the noble charity of St. George's Church, New York, gives to groups of boys, whose ordinary opportunities are limited, the uplift and encouragement of a life with nature.

The place to which our friend welcomed us, contains about forty acres, on the slope of a hill commanding a view of rare beauty and sublimity, gently falling to the lake in a deep cove. A commodious cottage, supplied with every comfort, with limpid water from a neighboring spring, was at our disposal, and a farm house nearby and a "camp" afford shelter for those who conduct the farming operations. A motor launch conveyed us about the lake, whose shores were visited so far as time allowed.

Of the rare hospitality of the home, the dainty meals, the refreshing rest of the cool nights, above all the companionship of the refined and accomplished ladies then constituting the household, it is impossible to speak adequately.

But your readers may ask with reasonable impatience "Why this long story?" The answer shall be that of the sententious Capt. Cuttle. "The bearing of this observation lays in the application of it." Mr. W. F. Langdon, the present owner of this property, is a graduate of Bowdoin College of the Class of 1853. His brother, John G., graduated in 1857, and is now survived by his son, who is a successful architect in Boston. These with the wife and sister of Mr. W. F. Langdon, constitute the present family. Mr. Langdon, with the cordial assent of his family, proposes to convey this property, with the sole condition of occupancy during life, to the President and Trustees of Bowdoin College as a memorial of his own regard and that of his deceased brother for the College, his wish being that the property may be held for use of the Faculty of the College.

Mr. Langdon is a grandnephew of Hon. John Langdon, a former Governor of New Hampshire, and a contemporary of Hon. James Bowdoin, the benefactor of the College which bears the family name.

In contemplating this generous proposal, and the loyal affection of which it is the expression, one recalls the words of that greatest of American statesmen, cradled among the lakes and hills of the Granite State, spoken of his own Alma Mater: "It is a small college, and yet there are those who love it."

J. L. C., 1853.

EXETER, 11; BOWDOIN, 5

Bowdoin played its third game of the season on the Whittier Field last Saturday with Exeter, and was defeated by the score of 11 to 5. The game was the best exhibition of the new game in which Bowdoin has been a contestant, and it was due to proficiency in the double pass and the quarterback kick that Exeter won the game.

The Bowdoin team played a fine game and had it met with a good share of the luck that goes with the new game the outcome might have been a tie. The line did splendid work throughout, and showed that it was the strongest that Bowdoin has had in a number of years at least.

Several of the men were not in the best of condition while neither Drummond or Crowley played right end, the former because of injuries received in the Harvard game, and the latter because of a misunderstanding about his courses. Ellis played the position and it is not too much to say that he did excellent work, as indeed did the whole team.

Bowdoin won the toss and chose the east goal. Hart kicked to Lee on the 5-yard line, who run the ball down 15 yards. Bowdoin failed to make her distance and on a fumble of an attempted punt Exeter secured the ball on Bowdoin's 8-yard line. The visitors could not rush it over, however, and Bowdoin secured the ball on downs. The teams continued to exchange punts until finally Bowdoin punted the ball for 60 yards to Exeter's 25-yard line. Exeter could not gain and on an attempted punt Stacey broke through and blocked the punt, Draper falling on the ball behind Exeter's goal post. Draper failed at goal.

In the remainder of the half Bowdoin lost the ball on her own 7-yard line on a fumble and Exeter rushed the ball over for her first touchdown.

The second half was largely a punting exhibition and was characterized with the successful working of the double pass by the visitors. Finally on a quarterback kick on the right side of the line from Bowdoin's 40-yard line, Hurley took the ball over for a touchdown. The line-up:

Exeter: BOWDOIN.

BOWDOIN, 6; ARTILLERY, 0

Bowdoin's football season opened on the Whittier Field, Saturday, September 29, our opponent being the Artillery team of Portland. The game was fiercely played, resulting in a victory for Bowdoin by the score of 6 to 0. The contest was in the nature of a tryout for the Bowdoin team, especially for the new men who are candidates for the team this year.

The visitors had one of the heaviest teams that has played on the Whittier Field in a long time and their team work was far superior to that which the Fort Preble team has displayed in previous years.

Bowdoin showed that there was some unusually promising material in the squad, and although the men were green as a result of the small amount of practice, they nevertheless did fully better than could have been expected. The line-up:

*HARVARD, 10; BOWDOIN, 0

Bowdoin lost her game with Harvard on Wednesday of last week by the score of 10 to 0. Bowdoin played a hard, up-hill game and in some respects outpointed Harvard.

All the luck was in favor of Harvard and it was largely through this element that Harvard secured her points. The Bowdoin team played excellent football and put up the best game against Harvard that Bowdoin has played in years.

*SOPHOMORES, 9; FRESHMEN, 6

The first of the annual series of games between the Sophomores and Freshmen was held on the Delta, Saturday afternoon, and resulted in a victory for the Sophomores by the score of 9 to 6.

The teams were well matched, the Freshmen showing up well except in base running, and it was their loose work in this department that was largely responsible for their defeat.
There was more or less cheering and noise, as usual, but the game passed off without any great excitement. The summary:

*NEW FOOTBALL CUP

Mr. James H. Horne, '97, has presented to the college, a large, and handsome silver cup to be awarded to some football man excelling in some special branch of the game, the choice of the particular branch being left to the judgment of this year's coach. Coach Laferriere has decided to award the cup to the best all-round kicker in the football squad —either on the first or second team—the cup to be held for one year by the man selected by the coaches at the end of the season as its proper holder. The cup is now on exhibition in the trophy room. It is made of silver, stands about eighteen inches high, and is appropriately decorated with a football player standing on the lid.

Mr. Horne has always been an enthusiastic Bowdoin man and when in college was a prominent athlete, being a star hurdler, and captain of the track team. After graduation he went West and for several years was athetic instructor at the University of Indiana.
The New Year

Bowdoin has opened its doors once more after a summer vacation and once more a new class enters its halls for the first time. The outlook for a prosperous year for the college and all its interests appears excellent. For the first time in nearly a quarter of a century the college has not suffered the loss of any member of its faculty at the opening of a new year, while on the other hand a new instructor is added to the number.

Considerable improvement has been made about the buildings this summer, including the opening of new recitation rooms in Bannister Hall and the converting of the north wing of Massachusetts Hall into a faculty room. The new room in Bannister Hall is very attractive and the bringing of the faculty room and the treasurer's office into the same building is a much needed change. There have also been a number of other pleasing changes made about the college.

The entering class is a large one—nearly as large as that of a year ago—which was the largest in the history of the college. The class clearly contains some promising athletic material and there is no doubt that scholarship is well represented in their number. To the new year and to the new class we extend welcome.

The Bowdoin Christian Association promises this year to be one of the most active and helpful of our college organizations. It is practically the only organization where men from every class and every fraternity may meet on a perfectly equal footing, and it is the only organization that holds regular weekly meetings throughout the year, thus supplying an opportunity for companionship and activity during the winter months which during the spring and fall terms is supplied by the various athletic squads. The Association was lost last year with a heavy debt on its hands, and for this reason is unable now either to publish a handbook or to hold a reception for the Freshmen. The officers have however, with the kind aid of some of the Faculty, been able to give to the Association this fall, new life, new ideas, and a new room. The new room is in the north wing of the chapel, and is reached by entering the north side door and turning to the right. This room has been fitted up appropriately during the summer, and now affords to the Association a better meeting place than it has enjoyed for many years. One of the new ideas was to send to the Freshmen a letter of greeting, and to maintain during the first two weeks an information bureau, where lists were kept of boarding houses, laundries, and places of employment in town. The membership fee has been reduced to one dollar, payable on Jan. 1, 1907, and the meetings will be held every Thursday evening, when there will always be some speaker of interest to those present. Everyone is eligible for membership, and it is especially urgent that everyone should join, since if 200 members are enrolled, there has been promised to the Association a gift of $200, which if received in addition to the membership fees would clear all the debts, and also furnish the Association with a good piano. The meetings are open to all, whether members or not, and the Orient urges everyone to attend.

Lack of Space

The readers of the Orient will please bear with us in this issue for very brief accounts of some news matters and for the non-appearance of others. The great pressure on the columns after the summer vacation is such that it is impossible to handle properly all the matter which deserves mention.

Orient Competition

The Orient wishes to call the attention of Freshmen to the annual competition for the Orient Board, which will begin at once. Two, and perhaps three, members of the Class of 1910, will be added to the board at the annual election in March, and as usual the competition will be based on the quality and quantity of the "copy" submitted. Few fields of college activity offer better opportunity for profitable experience than the Orient competition. It not only tests and trains the student's alertness, but also in writing things after he sees them. Again, it gives him a personal interest in all that goes on in and about the college and by so doing helps to give him that breadth of interest and thought, which, after all, is one of the chief things that a college course can bring to any man. The Orient hopes to see a large number of Freshmen enter the competition. Further particulars may be learned of the editor-in-chief.

NOTICES

Unpaid term bills for last June must be adjusted by the thirteenth of the month—tomorrow.

All students entering Bowdoin for the first time are required to deposit a bond. Blanks for the same may be secured at the Treasurer's office.

The attention of the Freshmen is called to the Bugle, the year book of the college, published each year by the Junior Class. The book contains in addition to a large number of excellent half-tone cuts of the college buildings, complete records of all college activities including class statistics, athletics, and fraternities. Every Freshman should have a copy. Copies can be secured of G. A. Lawrence, Zeta Psi House.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Following is the complete registration of the Freshman Class, corrected up to the present week. The list shows a total of 93 new students. Of this number two are admitted to the Junior Class and eleven are special students, leaving a total of eighty regular Freshmen. This is only a few less new students than last year, which was the largest in the history of the college. The special students in the list are marked with a star:

The first meeting of the College Jury was held last Monday evening. The following representatives from the various fraternities and classes were present:

- Delta Kappa Epsilon—R. A. Cony.
- Theta Delta Chi—George W. Craigie.
- Zeta Psi—Asa O. Pike.
- Delta Upsilon—F. S. Piper.
- Kappa Sigma—E. A. Duddy.
- Beta Theta Pi—W. S. Linnell.
- Class of 1908—Albert T. Gould.
- Class of 1910—James E. Draper.

The jury organized with the election of W. S. Linnell as foreman and E. A. Duddy as secretary.

The Alpha Delta Phi and Psi Upsilon Fraternities and the Classes of 1907 and 1909 were not represented, having not selected their juror at the time of the meeting.

College Notes

Foss, '08, returned to college, Monday.

Bradley Clark, ex-'06, has returned to college.

President Hyde spoke in the college church last Sunday.

F. G. Swett, '02, was a visitor at college the first of the week.

The first meeting of the college jury was held Monday evening.

The first meeting of the college jury was held on Monday evening.

Kendric, '09, played two beautiful solos at the chapel exercises last Sunday. Haines, '07, played the accompaniment.

Archibald, '08, is out of the college this year owing to poor health.

The annual Sophomore posters were put in position last Friday night.

Professor Files met his classes in German last Tuesday for the first time.

Topsham Fair has proved to be attractive to the students during the past three days.

Kinsman, ex-'07, has been visiting at the college for several days during the past week.

“David Harum” was the attraction at the Columbia Theatre in Bath, Wednesday evening.

A meeting of the Athletic Council was held last Saturday afternoon immediately after the football game.

Adjourned were given in the courses of Professor Foster the first of the week owing to his absence in Caribou.

Dr. Lincoln will speak before the Bowdoin-Christenian Association next Thursday evening on “Life in China.”

J. S. Stahl, '09, has returned to college this fall after an absence of some weeks last spring, having been teaching school.

H. E. Wilson, '07, will not be in college during the year, but will return in June to graduate with the present Senior Class.

Adjourn was given in English Literature No. 3 last Tuesday, owing to Professor Chapman’s absence at the Musical Festival.

Upton, '07, is at Auburn, Mass., this week in attendance on the Intercollegiate Golf Meet which is being held in that place.

There are still a few copies of the Bowdoin Calendar for 1906 at the College Bookstore. The price has been reduced to 25 cents.

Harvey Winslow, '06, was a visitor at the college last Saturday. He has a position in the Maine Central Railroad office in Portland.

Hichborn, '07, who has been in poor health for some time past, is not able to return to college this fall, but may do so later in the year.

A. L. Robinson has recently returned from a trip to Aroostook County and the Provinces, where he has been collecting water for his father, Professor F. C. Robinson.
The following Sophomores are trying for the assistant managership of the football team: Studley, Simmons, Files, and Burton.

It is stated that Bates students are taking great interest in track this fall, there being about 40 men working in the squad each day.

At a meeting of the Sophomore Class held Oct. 1 the following were elected: Track captain, Harry Atwood; track manager, Howard F. Kane; baseball captain, R. H. Ellis; baseball manager, D. C. Drummond; football captain, L. F. Timberlake; football manager, K. H. Dresser.

The publications which the Public Printer has issued in regard to Simplified Spelling, consisting of a pamphlet, a small pocket brochure, and a wall card containing the 300 revised words, may now be obtained by sending 25 cents to the "Supt. of Documents, Gov. Printing Office, Washington, D. C."

It is stated that the running time on the Lewiston, Brunswick & Bath Street Railway will be changed on the arrival of the new cars which have been ordered. The cars are to leave for Bath 15 minutes before and 15 minutes past the hour, thereby making close connection with the Freeport and Portland cars.

During the past summer the class-room occupied by the Economics and History classes was entirely made over and many new appliances added which will greatly facilitate the work. The heads of both departments are grateful to the Board of Trustees for their kindness in this respect.

At a recent meeting of the Middle Atlantic Sectional Committee of the American Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee in Philadelphia, a list of eligible officials was drawn up which contain a number of Bowdoin men. They are E. C. Beave, Guy M. Cleveland, H. H. Cloudman, A. L. Laferriere, D. C. Monroe, Joseph Pendleton, Paul Preble, Howard A. Ross, and D. F. Snow.

THE 1908 BUGLE

The 1908 Bugle Board has been chosen by the various fraternities, organization being perfected at a meeting held Oct. 1. The following are the men who will have charge of the college annual for the coming year:

Art Editor—B. N. Gregson.

Business Manager—G. H. Foss.

FACULTY NOTES

Professor Woodruff delivered a very able sermon Sunday, October 7, in Elijah Kellogg’s old church at Harpswell.

Professor Chapman attended the Maine Music Festival held in Portland, last Monday and Tuesday night.

Professor Allen Johnson was elected to membership in the Maine Historical Society, during the last summer.

Professor W. B. Mitchell will speak before the Lincoln County Teachers’ Association, at Newcastle, Me., October 15, on “The Use of Our Mother Tongue.”

Professor George T. Files returned to Brunswick last Sunday from his year abroad. Professor Files was given a warm welcome by the student body on his appearance at chapel, Monday morning.

NEW ABSENCE AND EXCUSE RULES

The following regulations supersede the corresponding section in the published handbook:

1. Students are expected to attend all the meetings of the courses in which they are enrolled and all chapel exercises.

2. The instructors and monitors shall report to the Registrar daily on slips provided for the purpose of all absences.

3. The Secretary shall have the sole power of granting excuses for absences. All applications for excuse must be made in person at the office of the Secretary, in office hours. Unless such application is made in advance of the absence, the student must satisfy the Secretary that it was impossible to apply in advance. In such cases the application must be made within three days of the expiration of the period of absence. The Secretary may refuse to consider any application which does not conform to these rules.

4. Any student whose attendance at chapel exercises or at recitations is unsatisfactory shall receive a warning from the Secretary. If his attendance is still unsatisfactory, the Secretary may place him on probation. Any student on probation whose attendance is unsatisfactory may be suspended from college by the Secretary. Notices of probation and suspension will be sent to parents or guardians.

5. A student on probation shall not represent the college in any capacity nor be entitled to honorable dismissal from the college, nor retain a scholarship.

6. Any student may appeal to the Faculty in writing from a decision of the Secretary, stating in full his reasons for appeal. Such appeals must be presented to the Faculty through the Secretary.

7. Students will make up work missed on account of absences, under such conditions as the instructor may prescribe; but any instructor may decline to grant permission to make up work when, in his judgment, the absences have been such as to render it impossible for the student to make up the work in a satisfactory manner.

8. A student who, for any reason, is absent from the final examination in any course may have only one trial for making up that deficiency. If the absence from the original examination is not excused by the Secretary, the student may take a “make-up” examination only upon payment in advance of a fee of five dollars to the Treasurer of the College. A student desiring a “make-up” examination in any course must notify the Registrar not later than May first for examinations of the first semester, and not later than November first, for examinations of the second semester. The Registrar will post notices of all “make-up” examinations. They will be held between May first and fifteenth, and between November first and fifteenth. Students are ordinarily required to take the first “make-up” examination after the deficiency is incurred.

9. All absences during the three days at the opening and the three days at the close of a semester, and all absences during the three days immediately preceding and following a holiday are a more serious disregard of college requirements than absences at other times.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON TICKETS

So far, one hundred and eighty season tickets have been sold, and most of them paid for. This is considerably less than the number which was required to clear this fall’s expenses. However, if those students who have not season tickets, pay as large subscriptions as they are able, and if the attendance at the Bates and Colby is above the average, it will be possible to clear expenses, so the management has practically decided to leave the season tickets in the possession of those who hold them, and to try and raise the deficit by subscription.
TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The tennis tournament to determine the captain of next spring’s team, has been in progress during the past week. The number of men who are candidates is now narrowed down to four, who will play a round robin, the man preserving the best average of games won to be elected captain.

The result of the play this week is as follows:
First Round—Pike beat Ham, 6-1, 6-4; Burton beat Goodspeed, 6-4, 6-2; Linnell beat Small, 6-3, 6-0; Upton beat Files, 7-5, 6-0; Hyde beat Lawrence, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3; Haines beat Craigie, 6-0, 6-1;

Hughes beat Roberts, 6-0, 6-2; Brewster beat Brown, 6-2, 9-7.
Second Round—Pike beat Burton, 6-2, 6-3; Upton beat Linnell, 6-2, 6-3; Haines beat Hyde, 6-2, 1-0, 7-5; Hughes beat Brewster, 6-4, 7-5.

The four men left in the round robin are Pike, Upton, Haines and Hughes.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 8th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 25" inch or 2 1/2" inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.
Have your dealer order it for you.

WESLEYAN, 0; BOWDOIN, 0

Bowdoin played a tie game with Wesleyan University at Middletown last Saturday, the contest being the most interesting and hotly-contested of any in which the Bowdoin team has played this season.

The game was the first ever played between the two colleges and had a special interest for that reason. Bowdoin's opponents were a very heavy eleven and they played a hard, consistent game, and made a desperate effort to win at several stages.

Bowdoin, however, played with equal desperation and at one time saved a touchdown by a magnificent rally on their own 3-yard line, holding their opponents for downs.

The game balanced up about as even as the score indicates. During the first half Bowdoin kept the ball in Wesleyan's territory the greater part of the time, while in the last half Wesleyan kept Bowdoin mostly on the defensive.

Bowdoin once seriously threatened Wesleyan's goal, when Fullback Draper tried a drop kick which went a little on one side of the posts. Woodhead of Wesleyan tried a place kick in the second half which missed the posts by a few feet.

Both teams tried the forward pass, and as a rule it was successful. Wesleyan also tried the quarter back kick, which gained ground several times. There was considerable penalizing, Bowdoin suffering most in this respect. Gildersleeve of Wesleyan played a star game, while Draper, Drummond and Crowley did noticeably good work for Bowdoin.

In view of the fact that the Bowdoin team was not in the best of form and was weakened by the absence of several of its best men, the outcome of the game was very satisfactory indeed from a Bowdoin standpoint. The summary:

HEBRON, 12; BOWDOIN SECOND, 0

Bowdoin Second played Hebron Academy at Hebron last Saturday and was defeated by the score of 12 to 6. The Hebron team proved to be a strong one and for the greater part of the game the Second team was kept on the defensive. Hebron's backs were fast and her line was strong enough to prevent the Bowdoin team from making its distance.

Hebron scored one touchdown in the first half and in the second both sides succeeded in taking the ball over its opponent's line. The line-up:

PREZIDENT HYDE AT NORTH ADAMS

President Hyde was one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions, which was held at North Adams, Mass., last week, his subject being "The New Premises and the Old Conclusion." He said in part:

"A hundred years ago God was a judge;
the Bible a statue book; earth a court room; man a prisoner at the bar; Christ our advocate; the cross of Christ the price of our release; death the end of the trial and eternity the duration of the sentence. These premises were sharply visualized. Eternity was pictured thus:

“Our premises to-day are very different; yet we must beware of complacency or pride in consequence. If they are wiser, and broader, it is not because we are better or bigger men than they; it is simply because God has been at work a century longer on our intellectual environment than he had on theirs. What, then, are our premises? And what missionary conclusion do we draw therefrom? Logically and inevitably this: We give the best we have to those in all the world who need it most. This general conclusion has three specific applications. It requires a missionary organization to be in supply and need together; a policy on the foreign field which shall meet actual and concrete rather than abstract and general needs; and an attitude at home which shall raise and sustain supply.”

INTERCOLLEGIATE GOLF

The outcome of the individual championship of the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association, which was held at West Newton, Mass., last week, resulted in first honors to M. Stanton of Dartmouth, who barely defeated J. R. Upton of Bowdoin. Upton was the only representative that Bowdoin had in the meet and his work proved him to be one of the best college players in the country.

In the first day’s play he defeated Kelley of Technology and on the second day defeated two Williams men, narrowing the contest down to Stanton and himself. The summary of the three days’ playing is as follows:

First Day.

First round:
- A. Mitchell (Williams) defeated W. H. Stucklen (Dartmouth), 1 up (23 holes).
- W. R. Upton (Bowdoin) defeated N. J. Kelley (Technology), 6 up, 5 to play.
- L. Mitchell (Williams) defeated F. Lichtenhein (Williams), 6 up, 4 to play.
- F. A. Gregory (Williams) defeated N. Faunce (Amherst), 2 up, 1 to play.
- W. Pfield (Technology) defeated T. Smith (Dartmouth), 2 up, 1 to play.
- P. Jackson (Williams) defeated T. L. Coffin (Technology), 5 up, 4 to play.

H. H. Flynt (Amherst) defeated M. Garby (Dartmouth), 5 up, 4 to play.
M. Stanton (Dartmouth) defeated J. G. McKenzie (Brown), 9 up, 7 to play.

Second Day.

J. R. Upton (Bowdoin) defeated A. Mitchell (Williams) 3 up, 2 to play.
A. Gregory (Williams) defeated T. W. Mitchell (Williams) 3 up, 1 to play.
W. G. Pfield (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) defeated R. Johnson (Williams) 4 up, 2 to play.
M. Stanton (Dartmouth) defeated H. H. Flynt (Amherst) 4 up, 2 to play.

SOPHOMORES, 10; FRESHMEN, 5

The Sophomores won the second and last game of the interclass series on the Delta Saturday forenoon by the score of 10 to 5. The game was close and exciting until the eighth inning, when the Sophomores made three runs and made their slight lead a safe victory. The best work for the Sophomores was done by Atwood, Hughes and Harris, while Spurling and Walker did creditable work for the Freshmen. The summary:

KAPPA SIGMA CONVENTION

The seventeenth biennial conclave of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity was held at Lookout Mountain, Tenn., July 25th, 26th and 27th, and was the largest and most successful gathering in the history of the Fraternity. All the chapters of the Fraternity were represented and large numbers of alumni were present. The convention program included important business sessions, drives to the famous battlefields in the vicinity, a reception and ball, closing with a banquet on the evening of July 27th. Charles F. Thomas, ’07, represented Alpha Rho Chapter of Bowdoin.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The Christian Association held its first meeting on Thursday evening, the eleventh. About 75 men were present, and everything moved with a vigor that promised well for the year. Neal Allen, ’07, presided, and short speeches were made by Burton, ’07, Snow, ’07, and Professor Foster. Then Professor Chapman addressed the meeting for about fifteen minutes. He complimented the Association on its new room, and gave some little reminiscences about Professor Packard, Professor Smythe, and Elijah Kellogg, whose pictures hang among those on the wall of the new room. He then told about the Bowdoin Praying Circle of the early days, and closed with a wish of success to the Association in its revived work. Several songs were sung during the meeting, which adjourned soon after Professor Chapman closed.

The Association has now purchased a fine new piano, which through the kind services of Dr. Mason it was able to procure on very reasonable terms. The membership list now includes one hundred students, but although this is encouraging it must be doubled before the Association will be eligible for the gifts of money from outside which will clear away last year’s debts.

On Sunday after chapel Mr. Groves of the Harvard Christian Association, had an informal talk with those especially interested in the work here, and gave several valuable suggestions.

Football Outlook

The football season has progressed sufficiently to give something of an idea of the Bowdoin team and its prospects. On the whole, it does not seem too much to say that the team bids fair to be one of the best that has represented the college for a number of years. A remarkably strong line seems assured and if the backs can be brought into the form hoped for, the team should be an excellent one by the time of the Maine games.

The factor that makes all calculations purely guesswork, however, is the uncertainty of the new game. As football has been played in the past, a pretty definite idea could be formed as to the outcome of games when the personnel of teams were known. But under the new game it is evident that the determining factor is in many instances bound to be luck. When teams are anywhere near evenly matched (and the Maine colleges are nearly always so) the slightly stronger team has practically no advantage and the chances are that first downs will be made but seldom and the outcome of the game will depend in a large measure on the bound of the ball during the punting carnival that is bound to be the feature of the game. It is more spectacular, to be sure, but it is less a game of science and comparative ability.

These things make the prophecies for our team purely guesswork. We may say, however, that the team is a promising one, and that with a good share of the luck that goes with the new game it will doubtless give a good account of itself. Thus far the team has not been in its best form at any time. Men have been ill or crippled from time to time, and this with scholarship troubles has kept the team seriously handicapped, and these things are still proving a serious menace to the team's prospects. It is to be hoped that all these things will be remedied in the near future.

To the Freshmen

As in past years, the ORIENT is mailed to all members of the Freshman Class, it being taken for granted that each will feel it a part of their college life to have the college paper each week. It is from the subscribers that the business manager depends in a large measure for the funds to pay his bills, and it is one of the most difficult undertakings in college for him to meet his obligations with every man paying his yearly subscription. The ORIENT is a real part of the college and as such deserves the loyal support of every Bowdoin student; and it is expected and believed that the Class of 1910 will prove its loyalty by supporting the paper in the same manner as have the classes preceding it.

Conservatism in College

An occasionally notable quality of Bowdoin students is conservatism. While in some aspects this is desirable and an attitude of which we may be proud, it is also true that there are times when it bears a close relationship to a lack of college spirit.

For example, a track has been arranged between Bates and Bowdoin Freshmen, but with a few exceptions there does not seem to have been much effort on the part of the Freshmen to develop the best possible team. A track coach has been on hand and nothing has been lacking to bring the Freshmen out for work. Nevertheless, there has been but small interest and it would not be in the least surprising that Bates won the meet.

It may be said that the Freshmen are busy at the present time, and that their college work may well take up the greater part of their attention; but it is doubtless true that Bates Freshmen have the same things to contend with, and despite them they are able to turn out a large squad of men for some time past, and are continuing to do so at the present time. Whether Bowdoin Freshmen win the meet or not is, of course, not an all-important question, and the case is merely mentioned as an example, but the fact remains that it is an example of an occasional indifference that in college activities is not conducive to the best interests of the college or to the students individually.

Nor is this conservatism or indifference confined entirely to Freshmen. The same attitude is apparently what is keeping the candidates for next spring’s track team from getting out for practice these fine fall days. Thus far only a small number of men have been out, while at two other institutions in the State the number is reported to be about 40. Last year we neglected this preliminary work, while another college did not, and the result was that when we went to Lewiston last May we saw men of whom we had scarcely heard, take point after point.

The conservatism at this time is surely not based on brilliant track prospects. A well-known alumni who keeps closely in touch with college athletics tells the Orient that the present fall is the first time in the history of our track work when Bowdoin could not figure out in preliminary calculation from 20 to 30 points in firsts for the annual Maine meet, whereas this year, unless there should happen to be an individual star in the Freshman Class, we can scarcely depend on 10 points.

None of the students would wish to admit this conservatism to be due to the fraternity houses, but there are many college graduates who believe that indifference is the natural outgrowth of the system. Only last week the Wesleyan student body voted down a petition for a new fraternity for this very reason and stated in a resolution that the system is injuring the college spirit.

The Orient does not believe this to be the case at Bowdoin. We have our periods of indifference which are more apparent than real and when given time we show the genuine spirit. But there are times when we forget ourselves, as seems now to be the case with track, and such lapses should be called to the attention of the student body. Let us remedy it at once; let us show our spirit in something more than securing captains and managers for our individual fraternities and remedy these lapses into an unwarranted conservatism. If we do so we shall not only take a long step in making all our teams winners, but we shall be putting ourselves in harmony with the broader college interests, which demand activity and enthusiasm from every student.

College Notes

C. A. Powers, '09, has returned to college.

Whitmore, '07, returned to college this week.

Orville Haskell, '10, is out of college, seriously ill.

The Medical School of Maine will open October 29.

Dr. King of Portland was on the campus, Tuesday.

The football team left for Cornell on the 5:15 train last night.

Hacker, '07, made a business trip to Boston the first of the week.

Adjourns were given yesterday and everybody enjoyed taking them.

Miss Evelyn Stetson rendered a delightful vocal solo in chapel Sunday.

Harris, '09, is acting as agent for the Underwood Typewriter Co. this year.

George Phelan of Kent’s Hill visited friends in college the first of the week.

Philip D. Stubb’s, '98, of Strong, was at the college the latter part of the week.

The Whittier Field has been thoroughly raked and cleaned during the past week.

Herbert E. Warren has been elected temporary captain of the Freshman track team.

Clifford, '10, has been selected as coach of the Brunswick High School football team.

Gannett, '07, has returned to college, having been at work since the opening of the term.

The date of the Freshman-Sophomore track men has been changed to Wednesday, October 24.
Paine, '06, was a recent visitor to the college.

The Sigma Omicron Society of the Bath High School will give a dance October 31.

The examinations in Economics I scheduled for October 18 was held on October 16.

Hatch, '07, is out of college at present travelling for the firm of Dugis & Clust of Boston.

"Bernie" McGraw has been engaged as the coach of the Hebron Academy football team.

Tuesday and Wednesday was a great day for the goats. He kept the Freshmen busy most of the time.

John W. Manter, '09, has returned to college, and played at half back last Saturday against Hebron.

The Brunswick High School football team plays Lisbon Falls High on Whittier Field, Saturday afternoon.

There was a good number of alumni present at the initiations at the various fraternities, Wednesday night.

The residents of the "Ends" appreciate the action of the college in supplying Pine Spring water for their use.

Workmen have been engaged in making repairs in the stone work about the Art Building during the past week.

Shorey, '07, W. E. Roberts, '07, Brown, '07, and Robinson, '07, made a brief visit to Boston the first of the week.

Several college men attended the dance given by the High School students in the Court Room last Saturday evening.

Coach Noble, an Amherst man who had charge of the Hebron Academy team, was a recent visitor to the college.

Speake, '07, Gray, '08, Hinckley, '00, Dresser, '09, Studley, '09, and Atwood, '10, visited Hebron with the Second team, Saturday.

Upton, '07, left Wednesday for Brookline, Mass., where he will attend the annual fall golf tournament of the Country Club of that place.

Matthews, '10, was at his home in Portsmouth, N. H., the latter part of the week, where he was called by the illness of a relative.

R. H. Ellis, '09, is writing a description of Bowdoin College for the Hebron Semester, the school publication of Hebron Academy.

Harold Pratt, '09, competed in the State shoot at the Brunswick rifle range, Tuesday, as a member of the rifle team of Co. K, Farmington.

"Girls Will Be Girls" was the attraction at the Empire Theatre in Lewiston last Monday evening, but did not draw heavily from the students.

Many of the fellows will probably witness the game between Holy Cross and U. of M. which takes place at Portland to-morrow afternoon.

Bates played a good game at Harvard, but injuries to several men in this game caused the cancellation of her game with Brown University.

Professor W. E. Sargent, Principal of Hebron Academy, visited the college this week. It is learned that he secured the services of Bernie McGraw, the star quarterback of the 1904 team.

"Fritzi Scheff" will be the attraction at the Empire Theatre in Lewiston on the evening of the 24th, and will be one of the best attractions of the season.

There seems to be a great scarcity of waiters about Brunswick this fall, several of the fraternities, as well as residents, having considerable difficulty in this connection.

Adjourns were given to Professor Mitchell's classes Tuesday, he being at Newcastle, Me., where he delivered an address before the Lincoln County Teachers' Association.

The Freshman track squad is training hard for the Bates Freshmen next week and the only fault to be found is that the squad is too small. Where's your class spirit, '10?

Bleachers are being erected on the north side of Whittier Field in preparation for the Bates and Colby games. There should be a record-breaking crowd at both games.

The granting of adjourns last Saturday and the absence of both Varsity and second elevens, caused a general exodus which gave the campus a somewhat deserted appearance.

Bates will play Colby at Waterville to-morrow in the first game of the Maine college series. U. of M. will play Holy Cross at the Pine Tree grounds in Portland, on the same date.

At the time of going to press the matter of the Bowdoin-Bates Freshman Meet was still in the hands of the Athletic Council, but everything pointed to the meet's coming off on October 29, as announced.

The Massachusetts Club will hold its first meeting to-morrow night at the Delta Kappa Epsilon House. This club should be in flourishing condition this year, since there are eighteen Massachusetts men in the entering class.

The football management has been making arrangements for the Second team to play at Kent's Hill to-morrow, but owing to the fact that it will be impossible for a number of the men to go on the trip it has been decided not to play the game.

Several Bowdoin men attended the reception and dance given by the Alpha Phi Society of Portland High School last Friday evening. Included in the number were Sheehan, '09, Drummond, '09, Hale, '10, and Holt, '07. The function was held at Riverton Park.

Monday for the first time the cars on the Portland & Brunswick Street Railroad began making through trips to Portland. Now a person can leave Brunswick, at the corner of Maine and Pleasant streets, and go right through to Congress Street without a change, the run being made in two hours.

Ten new cars are to be added to the Lewiston-Brunswick & Bath Street Railway about the first of January. With the new cars it is intended to shorten the running time between Lewiston and Bath to two hours, which is fifteen minutes quicker than the run is made at present. They will be of the combination type with smoking apartments. The big eight-wheel cars now in use will be used as extra cars, and the line is in much need of them.
THE FACULTY

President Hyde addressed the students at Williams College at their chapel exercises on last Thursday morning. His subject was “Our Three Selves.”

Professor Sills will speak on the subject, “Sight Reading in Latin” at the convention of the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools which will be held at Lewiston next week.

Professor Allen Johnson will address “The Department of History” of the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools at Lewiston next week. Professor Johnson is president of the history department.

Professor Foster will speak before the Maine Teachers’ Association and the Maine Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools at their annual meeting in Lewiston next week. His subject will be “Simplified Spelling Reform from the Philological Standpoint.”

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

Capt. Shorey has been taking out a small squad of men every day for a run through the country as training for the cross country handicap race to be held on November 10. This cross country running is one of the most healthful departments of college athletics; a fellow need only run as far and as fast as he wishes; and he is bound to get plenty of fresh air and of exercise. If a man tries it for one day, he will keep it up willingly. Bowdoin will soon need some long distance men and here is a chance for anyone to make a start. The squad leaves the gymnasium every afternoon at three o’clock.

SOPHOMORE-FRESHMAN MEET

The Sophomore-Freshman track meet will take place next Wednesday at two o’clock on Whittier Field. At the time of the Orient going to print, the entries for the various contests had not yet been made out. The Freshmen, however, have so far had a larger number of men in training than have the Sophomores, owing chiefly to the fact that most of 1909’s best athletes have conditions in their studies. The men that so far have been training are:

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.
If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO.17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of the gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 1/4 inch or 2/4 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

Mention Orient when Patronizing Our Advertisers
Bowdoin met an overwhelming defeat at Ithaca, N. Y., last Saturday, when our team was defeated by Cornell, the score being 72 to 0 in what was a decidedly one-sided contest. It had been expected that our team would lose by a big margin, but hardly as large as proved to be the case. The university team, however, proved to be one of the finest football eleven we have ever played in the history of our athletics and this with their splendid form and the long halves made the score what it was.

The Bowdoin team fought against great odds, but it was useless. The team was in very poor form and much weakened by the absence of men, and these things with the long journey and lack of sleep were important factors in preventing them from doing their best work.

From the beginning Cornell played fast, with superb team work, and smashed Bowdoin's line to pieces with every plunge. Within three minutes of play, including a 50-yard dash by Gibson, Cornell took the ball near enough for McCutcheon to drop back and kick a pretty placement goal. After that the Ithacans made four touchdowns before the first period closed. Babcock, at left end, was used for line plunges, and played a very strong game, gaining distance many times, until he became unsteady and had to be retired. Gibson and Earle were each credited with a dozen long runs, Gibson getting the longest, of 75 yards.

McCutcheon played a wonderful game, and several times carried several men on his back after his interference had been shattered. Bowdoin played a plucky uphill game, but could not gain against Cornell's strong defense. Three times Bowdoin resorted to the forward pass, but each time it failed. The first half ended with the score 27 to 0.

The second half started with snap, and in three plays after Bowdoin's kick-off Gibson, with splendid interference by Watson, ended a 45-yard run behind the goal line. In four plays McCutcheon was sent over. After that Warner began sending substitutes on the field until not one man who started the game remained. But these changes did not stop the scoring or spectacular plays. Sailor, Cornwall and Gardner made numerous long runs, and Sailor sent the ball twirling between the goal posts by a clean drop kick from the 40-yard line. When there was but one minute left, Cornwall broke loose and ran 60 yards for a touchdown.

ADDRESS BY D. R. PORTER

David R. Porter, ex-'06, the first Maine student to win a Cecil Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, gave a very interesting address in the First Parish Church, Sunday evening, on "A Bowdoin Man at Oxford University." Mr. Porter told of the conditions there, of the life led by the students and described the work done.

Mr. Porter said in part: "The English University differs from the American university in that it is composed of a collection of different colleges. At Oxford there are 22 different colleges, all located in the city of Oxford, and forming the University. Each college stands for a distinct thing, and each is a unit in itself. Each is surrounded by a high wall, which prevents the students from going out.
"It is difficult for an American to understand the relation of one college to the other colleges of the University. It can be compared to the United States government, composed of a number of states, all having one central government.

"There is no co-education at Oxford, but in the city of Oxford there are several colleges for young women. The women may attend the lectures and take the examinations of the University, but cannot receive the degree. The colleges for the women have their own boards of trustees, and are entirely separate from the University.

"The Oxford student is required to take only three examinations. The first is called the Responsers, and was taken by the American students before we left our native shores. The English students, however, do not take this until they have entered the University, and they sometimes remain there a year or more before passing it. There is another examination which all are required to take, but which really is a farce. It is called Divinity Moderation, and is given to test the candidate's knowledge of the New Testament, and the subject matter of the Book of Acts. For a small sum a student may purchase a book containing the questions, and if he masters these, he is pretty sure of passing the "exam." However, occasionally a surprise is sprung, and this was the case when the first Rhodes scholars arrived. If the student does not pass, he is fined one pound. This money is used to fill the coffers, and when the times are hard, as at present, the majority of the Freshmen are required to pay the fine.

"The second examination is held usually in the middle of the course, after the student has been there a year and a half, or two years. The third and final written examination is held at the end of the course, and the student is expected to remember all he has learned. There is, however, after this an oral examination, which is also a farce.

"After the student has passed his second examination, he may choose whether or not he will work hard. If he chooses to work hard he will take what is called the Honor School, and if not, the Passed School. This latter is used chiefly by wealthy Englishmen, who want the Oxford life, but do not care to study hard. I believe that even these get as much out of their college course, as do the Americans who study hard a few nights before the examinations, and then forget it all in a few days.

"There is no elective system in England. The student chooses at the beginning what general course he will take up, and then goes to that college, and remains there for two years, or until he has taken his last examination.

"The tutorial system is in force at Oxford. A new man is assigned to a tutor, who has charge of his moral and physical welfare during his career. Each tutor has between six and fifteen students under his charge. It is necessary to call upon your tutor at least once a week. He will inquire what books you have read, what lectures you have attended, and about your social life during the past week. He will then advise you as to your work for the next week.

"All of the teaching is done within the college, and the examinations are prepared, and the degree given by the University. It is the work of the tutor to prepare you for the examinations. Oxford is a barren land as far as recitations go, for there are none.

"To the Englishman the social side of life is much more important than the studious life. There are three terms of eight weeks each, and the student must attend at least six of the eight weeks. The work is all done during the vacations, and the students come up to Oxford to get acquainted, and to attend lectures. The Englishman believes there are two ways of obtaining an education; reading books, and reading lectures; they consider the latter the more important."

Mr. Porter then described a typical Oxford day. The student is called at 7.30 and is given 20 minutes to take a cold water bath, dress and get to chapel. Chapel is compulsory, and if he does not attend, he must write his name in a book in the dining-room ten minutes before eight. Breakfast is from 8.30 until about 10 o'clock. Lectures come from 10 until 1, and then lunch is served. The students all go out to the athletic field after lunch. At 4.30 comes tea, and dinner is served at 7 o'clock. The first three meals are supposed to be eaten alone, but one is either invited out or has company. Dinner is really the only satisfactory meal of the day. The students hurry through this, and go off to one another's rooms for coffee.

"Freshmen are treated much different in England than in America. The Rhodes scholars had all been Freshmen in America, and were not anxious to live those days over again, but when we arrived we found things entirely different than in America. There a Freshman is looked up to and honored by the upper classmen. During the first few months the upper classmen are all of the time inviting the Freshmen to meals in their rooms, or to the theatres. Sometimes when there is not room at the college for all the students, the Seniors give up their rooms for the Freshmen.

"The proctors have charge of the students outside of the college. It is their duty to see that the student wears his cap and gown when he calls upon his tutor, and also when he is on the street after 9 P.M. If a student is caught, he must pay a fine.

"The religious life is under the control of the Church of England, which sends its best preachers to Oxford. The student need not attend these services, but a very large number do. The World’s Christian Student Association, which is much like the Y. M. C. A., does much good work. In vacation time, many students do settlement work in London."

A COMMUNICATION

The Editors of the Orient:

Gentlemen—The musical recitals that have been given at the Art Building during the past two college years are not to be continued. This is the more to be regretted as the college is unable for lack of means to give any instruction in the fine arts, if the few and informal talks given each winter by the curator on the subject of the building and its contents be excepted. The unusual conditions which rendered possible the giving of the recitals do not continue. The valuable musical instruments which have been so generously loaned to the college by the individuals owning them are no longer available. The demand upon the time of the two gentlemen who have previously given their services to the cause is so great that the college cannot ask them indefinitely for such a contribution. What they have done already is much more than to give those who have had the privilege to attend the recitals evidence of their well-known skill and equally well-known unselfishness; the question of the esthetic value of such courses to our undergraduates and to the other members of the town and college community who have attended them in the past two years, has been settled for this college. There is no room for doubt that such explanation of the world’s best music and such skilful illustration of it have a distinct place in the period of a college student’s life.

The instruments needed are an orchestrelle, a grand piano of the best quality, and a piano player. The conditions of heat and moisture such as have to be observed for the paintings and other objects kept in the Art Building, and the fact that the Building is never opened except by someone in the employment of the college, would insure due care of such property. I am sure that some friends, who should understand the case and be in a position to so help us, would gladly furnish us the instruments, without which the instruction will be impossible.

Henry Johnson.

COACH IRWIN TO RETURN

It is with a great deal of pleasure that the Baseball Association announces that John Irwin, the old New England League baseball player, will have charge of the Bowdoin baseball team for 1907. John Irwin is universally esteemed and respected by the students. He brought forth the championship teams of 1903 and 1905, and had good success last spring although forced by circumstances to leave in the very middle of the season and so in the midst of his work.

MISS KATHERINE EVARTS

Miss Katherine Jewell Evarts, well known as a reader, will give a reading in Brunswick on November 15, under the auspices of the Saturday Club of the town. Miss Evarts is a pupil of Leland Powers and widely known as an impersonator of rare ability.

CERCLE FRANCAIS

An attempt is being made this year to reorganize the Cercle Francais. The object of the club is merely to help students to learn to converse in French, which the limited time allowed for recitations makes impossible in the class room. Everyone who is interested in improving his French along this line is eligible for membership, and is invited to the first meeting, which will be held next Thursday at 7 o’clock at 5 South Maine Hall, for the purpose of electing officers, and arranging the plans for the year.

Athletic Trainer  There seems to be many reasons why we should have an athletic trainer. That proper training is an important factor in the production of strong athletic teams there can be no doubt, and—what is more fundamental—it is a prime requisite in making athletics what they should be—conducive to the best possible physical condition.

The only possible objection to a trainer is the matter of expense, and it is extremely doubtful this is valid. There are colleges near at hand where trainers are retained throughout the year and where it is claimed that the students have less money to expend than at Bowdoin.

This being true it would seem that the objection is based on a lack of aroused sentiment. With the proper enthusiasm the necessary funds could be easily raised and few students would know the difference. A trainer would have meant a great deal to our football squad this fall, and would also mean a great deal to our track men next spring. We need a trainer and there is no one to blame but ourselves if we do not have one.

Concerning Musical Recitals  In this issue the Orient publishes a letter from Prof. Henry Johnson, in which he states that the musical recitals which have been given for two years in the Art Building will have to be omitted this winter because of a lack of instruments. We publish this announcement with much regret, for the recitals in past years have been a source of much enjoyment, as well as of valuable instruction, to a large number of students, to whom this opportunity to hear the world's best music well rendered once a week, added something to their college course that cannot be replaced by anything else, and the lack of which is continually felt.

Last year in the absence of Prof. Hutchins, Dr. A. B. Mason kindly gave us his time and services, so as to enable us to continue the course. This year Prof. Hutchins is again with us and has kindly offered to give the college the benefit of the special study he made last year in Germany of Wagner and of Wagner's music. It is, therefore, earnestly hoped that some person or group of people interested in Bowdoin, will respond to Prof. Johnson's letter by putting the college in the way of obtaining the instruments needed to continue the musical recitals.

Christian Association  During the last two weeks the Christian Association has been organizing its committees and beginning its practical work. The two committees whose influence will be felt the most and to help which it is the duty of the whole college, are the Employment Committee and the Library Committee. The first committee will keep a list of winter or summer jobs open to Bowdoin men, and will furnish the same to any applicant. It will, therefore, add much to the efficacy of the committee if every man who is looking for a position, or knows where there is one, will give his name or information to some member of the committee as soon as possible. The members of the commit-
The fellows seem to have forgotten all about the question of the music for the college games this year. It is high time that something should be done about this and a band organized for the next three games, if nothing more. The members of the band for last year should certainly organize at once and take steps for starting this branch of activity.

A COMMUNICATION

Last spring the college was informed that instead of choosing a football coach from among the stars of other colleges, the "graduate system" of coaching would be given a trial. Are we at Bowdoin giving this system a fair trial? At institutions where this system is in vogue, there are graduate coaches for every department of the game, and in most cases, there are one or more coaches for every position on the team. At Cornell last Saturday eleven graduate coaches were on the field, and in preparation for the Princeton game of October twenty-seventh, six more coaches were then expected. Here at Bowdoin we may not expect to see such a large corps of coaches, but have we not a right to expect more than two coaches at this stage of the game? Does not the success of the "graduate system" of coaching depend on the presence of at least one graduate coach for each department, and more than one graduate coach if more can be induced to return to give the college the benefit of their previous training and experience? We do not mean this for a criticism of the work of the present coaches; neither do we mean it for a harsh criticism of those in whose power lies the ability to engage more coaches. Yet it is the feeling of a large number of undergraduates that all is not being done toward rounding into championship form the splendid football material which this year brings to us. Will not the football authorities give the "graduate system" a fair trial by immediately engaging the requisite number of coaches? If we are to have the "graduate system" of coaching, why not test the system fairly, and instead of having two graduate coaches, why not give the team at least one coach for every department of the game?

UNDERGRADUATE.

MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

The Massachusetts Club held its first meeting last Saturday evening at the Delta Kappa Epsilon House. Twenty-four Massachusetts men were present, and fifteen out of the eighteen Freshmen from Massachusetts who were present, became members of the club. The plans for the year were discussed and it was decided to hold three meetings in the Fraternity Houses, one meeting at the Inn, one at the Gurnet, and one public meeting in Memorial Hall, at which some speakers from Massachusetts would address the college. After the business meeting, refreshments were served, and the meeting adjourned at about nine o'clock, having spent a pleasant evening.

BATES-BOWDOIN FRESHMAN MEET

Word was received from Bates College last Tuesday evening agreeing to change the date of the meet from October 29, to Saturday, November 3, as our Athletic Council had stipulated. The Freshmen have been turning out in good numbers this week, and everything points to a spirited meet.
College Notes

Wakefield, '09, has returned to college.
Wing, '10, was at home till last week.
Phillips, '09, is teaching school in Topsham.
Professor Foster conducted chapel exercises last Sunday.
Kingsley, '07, and Hayes, '08, spent Sunday in Augusta.
Pottle, '09, spent a few days in Portland the first of the week.
Files, '09, recently visited Tufts College and Harvard University.
David R. Porter, ex-'06, lectured at Bates College, October 18.
Emery, '05, has been visiting at the college during the past week.
W. Drummond was at his home in Portland several days last week.
Snow, '07, and Hupper, '08, visited Hebron Academy over Sunday.
Bird, U. of M., '07, was on the campus visiting friends this week.
There will be no Sunday evening services at the Church on the Hill this winter.
President Hyde gave adjourns in his Philosophy course on Wednesday.
A New Hampshire Club has been formed, with a membership of eight.
Coach Beane attended the Bates-Colby football game at Waterville, Saturday.
Henry Chapman, '06, captain of last fall's football team, was on the campus, Tuesday.
The Bates College Football Team has been in secret practice during the last week.
Maurice Blair, ex-'06, is in Chicago where he has a position with the firm of Swift & Co.
Pike, '07, leader of the College Glee Clubs, sung a solo in chapel, Sunday afternoon.
Hamburger, '06, entertained his mother at the Theta Delta Chi Chapter House over Sunday.

There is some talk of introducing a system of graduate coaching for the track team this spring.

A span fell out of the bridge across the New Meadows just below the Inn, one day last week.

A mass meeting was held last Monday evening for the purpose of selling reserved seats for the Bates game.

A number of college men attended the theatre at Lewiston, Wednesday evening and saw Fritz Schaff in "Mlle. Modeste."

Inter-fraternity bowling will soon commence. Why not have a small silver trophy for the winner of the tournament?

Leland Powers is to speak in Lewiston on November 5 under the auspices of Bates College, his subject being "The Taming of the Shrew."

Professor Robinson granted adjourns in his courses on Monday, as he was away in Alfred, engaged in expert work at the session of court.

A short poem by Cleaves, '05, appears in the October number of Harper's Magazine.
Hatch, '07, Greene, '09, and Marsh, '09, were among the undergraduates who attended the Colby-Bates game at Waterville, Saturday.
David R. Porter, who has been visiting the college a few days the latter part of the week, sailed for London from New York, last Tuesday.
Stacey, '09, who had been confined to the house with blood poisoning for several days, reported for football practice the middle of the week.
The Freshman tryouts for the Freshman-Sophomore Meet were postponed from Saturday to Monday on account of the poor condition of the track.

It seems that the matter of Cary's ineligibility to play on Colby has been settled, from the fact that he was not allowed to take part in last Saturday's game at Waterville.
The Bowdoin Quill for October which should have made its appearance on the fifteenth of the month, is a little late this month owing to a misunderstanding with the printer.
Wallace Philoan, '05, was on the campus for a short time Monday morning. Philoon was formerly captain and center of the Bowdoin football team and is now at West Point.
The meeting of the Freshman Class, which was to have been held Friday afternoon, was postponed owing to the absence from town of Draper, the temporary president of the class.
Walter S. Cushing, '05, of the International Banking Corporation, made a short visit to the college last Saturday. He will shortly sail for Yokohama, where he will represent the company.
Abbott, '08, has returned to college. Since last May he has been in the employ of the Canada Northern Railway working with a surveying party in the wilderness north of Lake Superior.
When the football team reached Ithaca last Saturday morning they were conveyed to the college on street car No. 13. The conductor's number was 23 and he rang 23 fuses on the trip to the college.

The following members of the jury, who, at the time of the meeting, had not been chosen, have now been elected: From Alpha Delta Phi, Dwight Robinson; Psi Upsilon, F. J. Redmond. The Class of 1907 has not as yet elected.

Two hundred and fifty students from the University of Maine attended the Holy Cross game in Portland last Saturday, their band rendering selections at Waterville and Brunswick on the way to the game. Where is our band this year?

Through the kindness of Professor Files a large number of the leading German Weeklies and Monthes have been obtained, and henceforth will be on file in the periodical room at the library.
These magazines were procured instead of technical works, so that students might get some insight into German life as it exists at the present time. They are intended for all men who are interested in this line of work, and especially for the students in German 7, and 9. The periodicals are "Das Buch fur alle," "Die Gartenlaube," "Reclams Universum," "Vom Fels zum Meer," and "Die Woche."
A large number of students attended the Maine-Holy Cross game at Portland, Saturday.

Owing to excessive cutting by the Freshmen the faculty have ruled that any Freshman taking more than two recitation cuts during the two weeks commencing Monday, October 22, will be put on probation.

It is stated that Bearce, who was one of the well-known athletes at U. of M. during the past four years, and who graduated last June, recently lost one of his hands in a mill in which he was employed.

Sawyer and Kingsley, of the Senior Class, left Brunswick, Tuesday morning, for Middlebury, Vt., where they go as delegates to the National Convention of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, which will be held this week with the Middlebury Chapter of Middlebury College.

Notices have been given by the Lewiston, Bath & Brunswick Street Railway that special arrangements have been made with the Empire Theatre in Lewiston, whereby reserved seats for all attractions at the house this winter can be secured at the Brunswick waiting room without additional expense.

The L. B. and B. Street Railway car No. 73 jumped the tracks near the Maine Central crossing, Thursday noon, and for an hour and a half delayed travel on the road and also tied up the freight trains on the Maine Central. The accident was caused by a brake shoe dropping and falling under the wheels.

During the summer a committee appointed by the Athletic Council has prepared a revised edition of the amended constitutions of the Athletic Council and Athletic Association. The new pamphlet will be similar to the old one, but contains in addition, a summary of the Faculty Regulations, concerning eligibility to athletic teams.

It was noticeable to our team at Cornell how the graduate coach system is arranged for them. There were over twelve graduates, acting as coaches, at the time of the Bowdoin game, and seven more were expected later. At this place there is a coach for every position on the team, a coach for left end and a coach for right end, a coach for left tackle and one for right.

Interested by the glaring account in the Boston American of last week, a number of fellows took a walk up to Shiloh, the colony of Sandiford in Durham. From outside appearances the conditions at the colony were anything but as represented. The people seem happy and the children well fed. It is an interesting walk up this place. To confess the truth, however, the inhabitants are by no means so glad to welcome visitors as the visitors are to see the place.

It will be exceedingly interesting to those who know anything of the wonderful work of Dr. Grenfal in Labrador, to know that on next Sunday afternoon at the five o'clock vespers service, Mr. Albert Gould, a Bowdoin student, will tell of his experience with Dr. Grenfal in Labrador during a summer vacation. Several books, concerning the work of Dr. Grenfal, may be found in the Lewiston Public Library and it may be of interest to some to read these before hearing Mr. Gould.—Lewiston Journal.

It is stated that one of Bowdoin's best known track athletes had a rather unique experience a short time ago. It seems that he was out missing his regular afternoon cross-country jaunt and on emerging from the woods on the Bath road, came suddenly on the Bath Anvil's coaching party bound for the Topsham fair. The party was made up largely of ladies and on the appearance of the track man they all began to scream, evidently impressed with the firm belief that this strangely dressed man was none other than a wild man. The horses also became frightened and started to run away. The cross-country runner withdrew with as much speed as possible, but so far as known the coaching party have not yet learned who the "wild man" was.

THE FACULTY

President William DeWitt Hyde preached at Wellesley College, Sunday, October 21.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

The date for the run has been postponed from November 10 to November 17. Captain Shorey starts from the Gymnasium every afternoon at three o'clock, and everybody who is out training should go out with his squad instead of starting off alone from his fraternity as is being done now. Shorey does not lead the squad at a pace that the other fellows cannot easily keep up, and takes them over courses that are well adapted to running.

ART BUILDING NOTES
During the summer Professor Henry Johnson has compiled and had printed the third edition of the catalogue of the Walker Art Collections. It is published, as previously, in neat pamphlet form, with the addition of Professor Hutchins' photograph of the Art Building for a frontispiece, and is a credit to the local printer who held the contract for the job. The catalogue is very complete and accurate, and may be obtained at the desk at the usual price of twenty-five cents.
Several additions to the collections have been made during the summer months, but the working library of the Art Building has been very much increased this vacation. This library is not included in the new catalogue, for it cannot be readily put on exhibition. It, however, is a very valuable collection in itself and is chiefly composed of books on Art, lantern slides, and portfolios of valuable photographs of various portions of Europe or of famous works of Art.
There is now on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery, an excellent set of photographs loaned by the Library Art Club. It includes the photographs of seventeen of the world's famous pictures, with text relating to each picture. The exhibition will close on October 29.

BOWDOIN FACULTY CLUB
A new club has been organized in the college during the summer. It is called The Bowdoin Faculty Club, and its membership consists of all members of the Bowdoin Faculty. Its meetings, however, are open to the families of the Faculty, to all persons in Brunswick who are now, or whose kindred have been connected with the college, and to such students who were made members of Phi Beta Kappa at the end of their Junior year, or who are now members of the Ibis. The purpose of the club is to afford to an appreciative group of people an opportunity to reap the benefits of the investigations carried on by the members of the Faculty outside of their regular class work.
The meetings will be held on the first and third Monday in every month from October to March, in the English and French Departments' Room of Hubbard Hall. The general topic chosen for consideration this winter is "The Great Men, and Movements of the Dark Ages." Last Monday evening at the first meeting of the club, President Hyde read a paper on "Saint Jerome," which was listened to attentively by an audience of over fifty people. The next paper will be given on November 5, by Prof. W. B. Mitchell, on "St. Augustine."
And the following program has been arranged for the rest of the year:

February 4—"Mohammed," by Prof. E. E. Woodruff.

February 8—"The Venerable Bede," by Prof. Chapman.

March 18—"Alcuin," by Prof. W. T. Foster.

TENNIS CAPTAINCY

The round-robin to determine the captainship of the Bowdoin tennis team has been played off, resulting in first honors for Hughes, thus making him the captain for the year. The summary:

Hughes vs. Haines—7-5, 11-9, 2-6, 8-6.
Hughes vs. Pike—6-4, 6-0, 3-0, 6-1.
Upton vs. Haines—6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.
Pike vs. Haines—6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 2-0, 1-6.
Hughes vs. Upton—6-2, 6-8, 6-1, 6-4.

At the time of going to press the outcome of the Sophomore-Freshman Meet was unsettled. With the discus and shot put undecided, the upper classmen led by a score of 55 to 44. The full result will appear next week.

In Memoriam

The Kappa Chapter of Psi Upsilon mourns the loss of Herbert W. Grindal, of the Class of 1880, who died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., on February 5. Mr. Grindal was prominent as a speaker and writer during his college course, receiving awards at the Junior declamation and for extemporaneous English composition, as well as appointment in the '68 Prize Speaking. After graduation from the Columbia Law School in 1882, he entered upon the practice of law, in which profession he established for himself a reputation for fidelity and thoroughness. The Chapter mourns with the bereaved relatives and friends and extends to them its deepest sympathy.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 8th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety, and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially boxed for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it, possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

Have your dealer order it for you.

Bates, 6; Bowdoin, 0

Bowdoin lost its first game of the Maine College series last Saturday, being defeated by Bates by the score of 6 to 0. The game was one of the most disappointing, from a Bowdoin standpoint, of any defeat in a number of years.

The fact that Bowdoin has an abundance of material this year, has led the students to believe that in the Maine games the team would surprise its friends, and that the poor showing at Cornell was simply incident to the long journey of the men and their consequent poor condition. Such did not prove to be the case, however, and as a result we were defeated by a team that every Bowdoin man believes was much weaker, man for man.

Bates had a very ordinary team, but she had one all-important thing that Bowdoin did not, team-work—and for this quality she deserved her victory. Despite this, it was only through a fortunate penalty that Bates secured her touchdown, and, as subsequent events proved, won the game.

Bowdoin received the kick-off, Schumacher sending the ball over the heads of the Bowdoin men and back of the goal line, where it was captured by Draper and advanced 20 yards. Bates secured their touchdown in the first ten minutes of play. Cobb, the Bates quarterback, made a 35-yard run, and Bates gained their ten yards in the next three downs. Following this came a penalty of fifteen yards for offside play, which gave Bates the ball on Bowdoin's two-yard line. To make this distance and a touchdown in three rushes, was a comparatively simple matter. Cummings kicked the goal, making the final score of 6 to 0.

For the remainder of the half the honors were evenly divided, neither side threatening their opponents' goal line. The ball was kicked back and forth, both teams fumbling it more or less, especially the Bowdoin men, who seemed to find a wet ball difficult to handle. Capt. Schumacher of Bates received a bad cut over the eye and through the courtesy of Capt. Drummond time was taken out for the doctor to bandage the injured member.

The second half opened with no change in the line-up of either team, and the Bowdoin men went into the game with traditional Bowdoin spirit which has won many games for the college, but not even this could prevail in a rain storm, on a wet field with a wet ball. Delayed passes were used by both teams but with no results. Once Bowdoin got away a forward pass that worked, and netted a good gain, but as a general thing this play was not to be relied upon as a ground gainer. End runs were out of the question on the muddy field and the entire second half was a series of line bucks and kicks. When the game was nearly over, W. Drummond replaced Crowley at end and Stacey was put in Cummin's place at tackle.

The line-up and summary:

Bowdoin. Bates.

J. B. Drummond, l.e. .......... r.e., Cummings
Commans (Stacey), l.t. .......... r.t., Schumacher
Newman, l.g. ............... r.g., Booker
McDade, c. .................. l.e., Cochran
Stanley, r.g. ......... l.g., Ricker
Gareldon, r.f. .......... r.f., Foster
Crowley (W. Drummond), r.e. l.e., Brown
Green, q.b. ................. q.b., Cobb
Lee, r.h.b. ............... l.h.b., Hull
Manter, l.h.b. .......... r.h.b., Wight
Draper, f.b. ............... f.h., Manning

Score—Bates, 6; Bowdoin, 0. Touchdown—Hull.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Orient:

It is not soothing to the nerves of the average graduate to find the sporting columns of the New York papers filled with comment on such a grotesque score as "Cornell, 72; Bowdoin, 0." It reads altogether too much like some of "Hurry Up" Yost's scores against those fresh-water colleges out in the Middle West.
It is well enough to play a practice game with Harvard with short halves and very early in the season, but to take a small college team all the way to Ithaca, New York, at a time when the season is fairly well advanced and the big teams presumably well shaken together, is not fair either to the team or the college. Nothing but bad management could have been responsible for the making of that date. In travelling it is not distance that counts so much as speed, service and connections. It would be far easier, so far as wear and tear are concerned, to transport the Chicago University team to Harvard than it was to take Bowdoin to Ithaca. This the management ought to have known. It should also have stopped to consider that Cornell would make every effort to roll up a big score against a team that had played Harvard 0 to 10. It was not a square deal to the boys to put them up against such a proposition.

Bowdoin is a small college with a big name; but the name won’t carry the ball. Stick to your class, boys! And in the name of the founder and all that is sacred in the history of the institution, don’t, don’t, play any more of those prep. schools unless you can beat them.

George Brinton Chandler, ’90.

MEDICAL SCHOOL OPENS

The Medical School of Maine opened last Monday with a fair attendance and good prospects for the coming year. Up to Tuesday noon, 23 first year men had registered, which is several more than last year, and it is known that there are several more yet to register. Of this number eight enter from the college, six from the Senior Class and two from the lower classes. There are 16 second year men back. Following are the names and addresses of the students, those entering the first year from the college being indicated by a star:

First Year—Elmer Jonathan Brown, Strong; Carl Hervey Stevens, Northport; Adam Phillips Leigh- ton, Jr., Portland; Lester Warren Carpenter, North Waterboro; Charles Francis Thomas, Jr., Caribou; Leo Frederick Hall, Lewiston; Edwin Lindsay Palmer, Portland; Edward William Bridgman, Bridgton; Ralph Burtis Parker, Winthrop; Charles Francis Traynor, Biddeford; Percy Hobbs Abbott, Waterboro; James Atwood Crowell Miliken, New Bedford, Mass.; Earle Haggerty MacMichael, East Boston, Mass.; Blinn Whittemore Russell, Farmington; Ricardo Geronimo Valladares, Santa Clara, Cuba; Ralph Burleigh Sprague, Portland; Charles Fuller Deering, Waldoboro; Julius Elvin Avram, Portland; Earl Drake Blanchard, Oldtown; Joseph Blake Drummond, Portland; Erastus Eugene Holt, Portland; Frank Mikelsky, Bath; Harry Edward Anderson, South Limington; Charles Harlow Greene, North Bridgton.

Second Year—George Parcer, A.B., Ellsworth; Francis Howe Webster, B.S., Orland; Henry Whiting Ball, Mt. Desert Ferry; George Ivery Higgins, Clinton; Otis Franklin Simonds, Portland; Elmer Morse Cleaves, Bar Harbor; Walter Irving Merrill, Portland; Charles Moore Wilson, Waterford; John Luke Murphy, Bartlett, N. H.; Willard H. Bunker, Red Beach; Ernest Davis Humphreys, Henderson; James Francis Cox, Houlton; Herbert Ellery Thompson, South Portland; William Joseph Fahey, Lewiston; Sidney Eugene Pendexter, Portland; Charles Leverett Curtis, Middleton, Mass.

SATURDAY CLUB LECTURE

The subject of the opening lecture of the Saturday Club, to be given in Memorial Hall at 8 o’clock Monday evening, November 5, by Mr. Charles Zeublin, Professor of Sociology in the University of Chicago, is “Democratic Culture.” Professor Zeublin is the author of “American Municipal Progress,” and “A Decade of Civil Development,” and has come east to deliver courses of lectures before “The National Arts Club” of New York, “The Twentieth Century Club” of Boston, and “The Civic Club” of Portland. He is one of the most effective speakers on the present lecture platform, and it is a piece of good fortune for Bowdoin students, that the college, in co-operation with The Saturday Club, has secured a lecture from him in Memorial Hall.

FIRST GLEE CLUB REHEARSAL

The first rehearsal of the Glee Club was held in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms, last Monday night, and the prospects appear exceedingly good. Aside from the fact that there is an unusually large amount of vocal talent in the entering class, most of the older members are still in college. There were about sixteen from the entering class present. The leader earnestly requests all the new men possessing any vocal ability, as well as all the old men, to come out.
TOMORROW'S MEET

The first track meet between Bowdoin and Bates Freshmen will be held on the Whittier Field to-morrow afternoon. Both teams have been busy during the past weeks and it is expected that there will be exciting contests in some of the events. It is understood that the Bates squad has been larger than that at Bowdoin, and it is asserted that there is some promising material in their squad. Bowdoin Freshmen will also be handicapped by some of the weight men on the football team. Following are the Bowdoin entries for the various events:

100- and 220-Yard Dashes—Ballard, Hawes, Deming, Matthews, Russell, Davie.
440-Yard Dash—Powers, Davie, Morss, Hanson, Weeks, Smith.
Mile Run—Colbath, Kimball, Slocum, Farrar, Robinson, Hanson.
Pole Vault—Deming, Otis, Warren, Hawes.
Broad Jump—Ballard, Matthews, Crosby, Edwards, Hawes, Ludwig.
Shot and Discus—Warren, Crosby, Ashworth, Draper, Newman, Nulty.

440-Yard Dash—Won by Johnson, '09; Morse, '10, second; Davie, '10, third. Time—56 3-5 seconds.
Low Hurdles (110 yards)—Won by Edwards, '10; Crowley, '09, second; Burton, '09, third. Time—15 seconds.
Mile Run—Won by Colbath, '10; Brewster, '09, second; Kimball, '10, third. Time—5 minutes.
High Jump—Won by Atwood, '09; Crowley, '09, and Deming, '10, tied for second. Height—5 feet.
Throwing the Hammer—Won by Warren, '10; Morrill, '09, second; Jackson, '09, third. Distance—128 feet, 6 inches.
Pole Vault—Won by Deming, '10; Burton, '09, second; Lowell, '09, third. Height—8 feet 6 inches.
Running Broad Jump—Won by Atwood, '09; Lowell, '09, second; Burton, '09, third. Distance—19 feet.
Shot Put—Won by Newman, '10; Ashworth, '10, second; Crosby, '10, third. Distance—31 feet, 11 inches.

The officials of the meet were as follows: William T. Rowe, '04, referee; Philip R. Shorey, '07, judge of track events; Aubrey J. Voorhees, '07, judge of field events; C. F. Doherty, '07, starter; Richard A. Lee, '08, clerk of course; Samuel B. Furbush and Dwight S. Robinson, '07, timers; Thomas R. Winchell, '07, and Leon D. Mincher, '07, measurers. Sturgis E. Leavitt, '08, scorer.

SOPHOMORE-FRESHMEN MEET

The final events of the Sophomore-Freshmen track meet resulted in a victory for the Sophomores by the score of 60 to 56. At the close of Wednesday's events the upperclassmen were in the lead by 11 points, but in Thursday's contests the Freshmen reduced the lead to four points, but not enough to win the meet.

The summary:

880-Yard Run—Won by Colbath, '10; Brewster, '09, second; Weeks, '10, third. Time—2 minutes, 20 seconds.
High Hurdles (60 yards)—Won by Crowley, '09; Edwards, '10, second; Deming, '10, third. Time—11 seconds.

PROF. ROBINSON TO GO TO MEXICO

On the twentieth of next month Prof. F. C. Robinson will leave for the City of Mexico, as the representative of the Maine State Board of Health at annual meeting of the American Public Health Association. Prof. Robinson is the president of this association, which embraces the national and state health workers of the Dominion of Canada, the United States, Cuba and Mexico. This Association has been foremost in the field of public hygiene and health work in America and the meetings, which will last over a week, will be attended by more than five hundred delegates from all North America. A number of foreign representatives will also be present. The presidency of an association of this widely-recognized scope is a most distinguished position and a credit to the State of Maine and Bowdoin College. It is undoubtedly the most eminent honor attained by any member of the Bowdoin faculty in recent years. Prof. Robinson expects to be away about six weeks and will be accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Robinson.

Concerning the Orient

It should be stated for the benefit of the students that the Orient arrives in Brunswick, Friday afternoons, and that they may be secured at the post office as soon as the express train arrives. It is stated that they are not always received until Saturday, but if called for at the office Friday afternoon, can be received at that time, except in cases where unforeseen delays occur.

Monday Evening's Lecture

Bowdoin students will have an opportunity Monday evening of hearing Mr. Charles Zueblin of the University of Chicago. Professor Zueblin is considered one of the most interesting speakers in the West and Bowdoin students are very fortunate in having this opportunity. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Saturday Club in co-operation with the faculty, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of students. The lecture will be at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

Medical School

The Medical School of Maine opens this week with a good-sized attendance. There are but three changes on the faculty this fall and everything looks bright for a prosperous year. The Orient extends a hearty welcome to the new men and assures them a warm welcome from the men in the academic department.

Tomorrow's Meet

To-morrow for the first time Bowdoin and Bates Freshmen will meet in a dual meet. Though the event can scarcely arouse the interest that attaches to the regular intercollegiate contests, it nevertheless will attract considerable attention from its novelty if nothing more. It surely gives an impetus to fall track training in both institutions, and as such should be beneficial in more ways than one. There is some feeling that there is too much athletics in our colleges these days, but so long as athletics stand for the development of bodily strength and good health, they will continue to remain popular, and a Freshman track meet with Bates, it is safe to say, is in no danger of doing any harm to either place.

THE ANNUAL SHOW

It has become an established custom now for the Baseball Association to put on an annual show, and arrangements are already underway towards the production for 1907. As soon as the football activities are past, active work on rehearsals will begin. It is probable that the show this year will be something of a vaudeville idea. There will be numerous chorus effects and musical numbers. The Association asks for the help of all the students in ideas, suggestions and services. Particularly do we want some bright hits and acts. All advice and help will be greatly appreciated. It is planned to stage the show in the Town Hall about January 23, and to play at least once out of town.

E. H. MacMichael has returned to college and will enter the Medical School this fall.

Ralph B. Parker, formerly of Brown University, has entered the Medical School this fall.

Cunningham, '06, was at the college over Sunday. He will later return to the Medical School.

"Jim" Cox, '04, has returned to Medical School, and will again take up his course of study.

Thomas, '07, has returned to college. He will take his Senior work in the Medical School.

J. J. Keough, Coburn Swan and W. C. Caldwell of Hebron, spent Sunday with friends in college.

Atwood, '09, Scates, '09, Sturtevant, '09, and Wentworth, '09, went to Dixfield last Thursday.

G. K. Heath, '09, has been absent from college during the last week on account of severe sickness. President Hyde has granted adjourns in Philosophy III. till next Wednesday, but the regular exam. was given by Dr. Burnett, to-day.

Harley Rawson, second base of the Portland baseball team last summer, was the guest of Sparks, '09, at the Delta Kappa Epsilon House, Saturday.

Harry Atwood, '09, was in Auburn over Sunday.

The iron-work around the Library has been cleaned of rust and given a new coat of paint for the winter.

The scene of last Monday's wreck was a center of attraction for many of the students during the day, Monday.

Grover Brown, University of Maine, 1910, was the guest of Guy W. Farrar, Bowdoin, '10, at the college last week.

Gould, '08, will speak in the Church on the Hill next Sunday morning, on "My Summer in Labrador with Dr. Grenfell."

Carl Bryant, Colby, '05, will enter the Medical School this fall. Bryant is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Tucker, '05, and Foster, '05, were in town over Sunday, on their way to begin work in the Medical School at Portland.

Professor Woodruff granted adjourns in Greek I last Friday, as he had to attend the Teachers' Convention in Lewiston.

Kendrie, '10, has been engaged as violinist in the Congregational Church, during the absence of its regular cellist, Miss Sue Winchell.

During the absence of Professor Allen Johnson last Friday, A. J. Voorhees, assistant in History, conducted the "quiz" in History III.

J. A. Bartlett, '06, was a visitor at the college the latter part of the week. He has a position as teacher of English at Thornton Academy.

Ralph E. G. Bailey of Skowhegan, who was in Bowdoin in the fall of 1905, has accepted a position as principal of the Easton High School.

An attempted burglary took place at the Inn last Sunday night, but the would-be-thief was discovered by Mr. Cahill and put to flight before he had stolen anything.

Bowdoin men will be pleased to learn that Ralph E. Sawyer was chosen Secretary of the National Convention of Delta Upsilon at Middlebury, Vt., last week.

Valladaries, Westbrook Seminary, '06, will enter the Medical School this fall. Valladaries has for several years been running the hurdles for Westbrook at the Interscholastic Meets.

Adjourns were granted in Professor Allen Johnson's courses, Monday, on account of his trip to Hartford, where he represented Bowdoin at the "Convention of New England Colleges."

The engagement is announced of James M. Chandler, ex-'08, to Miss Marguerite Russell Robb of Fresno, Cal. Mr. Chandler is now in the employ of the J. B. Inderrieden Packing Co., of Fresno, Cal.

Stephens, '10, has been making some fine football, baseball and track posters for sale among the students. He will be glad to receive orders for more and will make fraternity designs in raised work at reasonable rates.

There was a meeting of the Coffee Club, Monday evening and the subject for discussion was "Romola." Another meeting will be held Monday, November 12, and the subjects for discussion will be "Hamlet" and "King Lear."
The national convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity will be held at Springfield, Mass., the 15th and 16th of this month. Burton, '07, and Hacker, '07, will represent the Bowdoin Chapter.

The first meeting of the Verein which it was planned should be held to-night, has been postponed until next Friday evening, when the club hopes to start in its new year with a wide-awake and active membership of all its last year's men.

As the Bates special train came into the Brunswick station, Saturday afternoon, a brake beam on the tender dropped and derailed the tender and first truck of the forward car. Fortunately the train had almost come to a standstill at the time of the accident.

Bernie McGraw spent Sunday at the Alpha Delta Phi House. McGraw is coaching the Hebron Academy football team and it is understood that he will remain at Hebron throughout the year, to act in the capacity of gymnasia instructor, basketball, and baseball coach.

The New Hampshire boys in college met at 20 South Maine Hall, last week, and formed a New Hampshire Club. The purpose of the club is to arouse interest in Bowdoin among New Hampshire men, and it has now a membership of seven. Officers were chosen as follows: President, Harold M. Smith, '09; Vice-President, P. H. Timberlake, '08; Secretary and Treasurer, Matthews, '10.

The Bowdoin Band is again on its feet. The reason that it was not there earlier, is that there is no one in college who has had sufficient experience to lead it, and that no manager has been elected to secure a leader from out of town. The Christian Association, however, last week appointed a committee to organize a band. The results are, that Mr. Brawn, the competent leader of the Bath Band, has been engaged to lead our organization, at least until some student shall come forward who can fill the position, and that some fifteen men have offered themselves as candidates for the band. Naturally the hiring of a leader will make extra expenses, but the college should be only too glad to support the organization.

THE FACULTY

President Hyde will not return to Brunswick until next Tuesday night.

Professor Moody gave a stereopticon lecture before the First Parish Men's Club last Monday evening on the subject, "Some Scenes from English Country Life."

Professor Allen Johnson, who has been in attendance on the Conference of New England Colleges at New Haven, Conn., did not return to Brunswick, Tuesday, as was expected, being called to Lynn, Mass., by the critical illness of his mother.

AROOSTOOK CLUB OFFICERS

At the meeting of the Aroostook Club held last Friday evening at New Meadows Inn, Gannett, '07, was elected President; Weiler, '08, Vice-President; and Putnam, '08, Foss, '08, Powers, '08, Executive Committee. The club has four new members this year and is in a prosperous condition.

CERCLE FRANCAIS

The Cercle Francais held its first meeting on Tuesday night for the purpose of organizing and electing officers. N. W. Cox, '08, was elected President, M. P. Cushing, '09, was elected Secretary, and J. J. Stahl, '09, was elected Treasurer.

Some of the probable speakers during the year are Brune, Baulig, Teurneur, and Allard. Professor Henri Nicouquet of the Portland School of Languages, will also come here twice a month and address the members of the Cercle. Next year, if this year is prosperous, such men as Professor F. C. DeSimichraat and others, will be invited to speak. The next meeting of the Cercle Francios will be held on next Tuesday night at the Delta Kappa Epsilon House and it is hoped that all the students interested in French will attend and signify their intention of joining.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The Association held its second meeting of the year on October 26. The meeting was well attended, the hall being crowded and the attendance numbering about eighty. All listened attentively to Dr. Lincoln, '91, who gave a brief talk on his experiences in China, and the work of the St. John's College, in which he is a surgeon, at Shanghai. He also briefly mentioned the characteristics of the Chinese, first among them he placed an absorbing love for money, which often reached such a pass that individuals hired themselves out to serve a death penalty in place of the culprit, who in his turn is pledged to pay a certain sum of money to the family of his dead substitute; another characteristic that Dr. Lincoln mentioned was the Chinaman's great ability to tell a lie, and also to keep his promise when once it is given. The third meeting was held last night and a large number of students listened to Lester Adams, '07, tell of Dr. Grenfell's work as a missionary.

HARE AND HOUNDS

There is some talk among the members of the cross-country squad of having a series of Hare and Hounds runs. In order to do this with success it is necessary that more men come out and train. Hare and Hounds is not a hard strain; it is simply a legitimate form of exercise such as any man can indulge in without bad effects. The English schools make it a point to have at least one Hare and Hounds run a week and the English are the strongest distance runners in the world. At many of the colleges here in America there are Hare and Hounds Clubs. Notice of the first run will be posted on the bulletin board.

ART BUILDING NOTES

There is on exhibition at the Art Building for the next two weeks one of the library art collections of photographs representing scenes in Scotland from Edinburgh to the Field of Flodden. The exhibit will remain at Bowdoin until November 19, and is one which every man who is at all interested in Scotland or in Walter Scott should see, as it pictures many of the scenes described in his novels.

TOMORROW'S GAME

Bowdoin will meet Tufts to-morrow at Medford and a warm contest is expected. The Bowdoin team has improved considerably during the past few days as the result of additional coaches and should be able to put up a better game than earlier in the season. Tufts, however, is said to have one of the strongest teams in years and will, as usual, make special effort to defeat Bowdoin. The team left at 4:35 this afternoon.

CONNECTICUT CLUB

The Connecticut Club held its first meeting a few days ago and elected officers for the coming year. Johnson, '09, was chosen president and McMillan, '10. Secretary and Treasurer. The membership is not very large at present, but it is hoped that there will be an increasing number of Connecticut men at Bowdoin in the future.

CALENDAR FOR 1907

The annual Bowdoin College Calendar for 1907 will be issued by William R. Crowley, 1908, and Arthur L. Robinson, 1908. The calendar this year will be a new departure, containing many more pages and filled with numerous cuts and original drawings. The cover will be an original design on heavy board, and the whole will make a very neat and attractive souvenir of the college year. Half-tone cuts of all the regular college organizations, and many new groups will be added. The calendar will be sold at the regular price, one dollar. The Orient is glad to notice that arrangements have been made for a good publication this year and hopes it will have the support of the entire student body.

CLASS OF 1901

Royal Henry Bodwell, '01, and Miss Alice Hamlen Macomber, both of Augusta, were united in marriage on Thursday evening, October 4, at the home of the bride's parents, Hon. and Mrs. George E. Macomber. The service was performed by the Rev. B. P. Pope, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Herbert L. Swett of Skowhegan acted as best man. The bride was attended by Miss Frances M. Nevins of Dayton, Ohio, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of Augusta, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mr. Bodwell is the son of Edward S. Bodwell of Brunswick, and during his college course he played center on the 'Varsity team, and was one of the best men for the position the college ever had. He is at present engaged in the insurance business in Augusta.
On Wednesday evening, October 3, Donald Francis Snow of Bangor, '01, and Miss Christine Lenox Pennell, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. William M. Pennell of Brunswick, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by President William DeW., Hyde, and Rev. Herbert A. Jump, pastor of the First Parish Church. The best man was Robert M. Pennell, '09. The bride was unattended. The ceremony was followed by a wedding reception, at which about three hundred were present. The ushers were Prof. Kenneth C. M. Sills, '01, of Brunswick, Herbert L. Swett, '01, of Skowhegan, Royal H. Bodwell, '01, of Augusta, and Haraden S. Pearl of Bangor. Mr. and Mrs. Snow will make their home in Bangor, where he is engaged in the practice of law.

CLASS OF 1804.

"Few who were at Bowdoin in the early '90's will ever forget 'Francie' Frost," writes a correspondent of the Orient. "Few there probably are who are aware how Frost has climbed the ladder of journalism until he has become the Paris correspondent of the New York Herald. He began his newspaper career in Lawrence, Mass., going from there to the Boston Advertiser. One day a telegraphic dispatch stated that the admiral in charge of the Charlestown navy yard had been selected to sit on the Schley court martial. Frost had met the admiral many times in his round of duty, and knew precisely how he felt regarding Schley. Consequently he wrote a long article stating that the admiral's feelings towards Schley were hostile, as a result of which he was called to Washington to give testimony that resulted in the admiral's exclusion from the Schley court. Admiral Schley was duly grateful, promised Frost any favor he might ask, and on Frost's request used his influence in securing the young writer a footing in New York journalism. Frost 'made good' immediately. Among his articles which gave him a reputation along Newspaper Row was a series of burlesque interviews with Former Chief of Police Devery, written in an inimitable style. James Gordon Bennett gave Frost an important desk on the evening edition of the Herald, the Telegram, and finally called him across the water to the more responsible post of foreign correspondent. When Frost hasn't any serious work on hand he deluges his old friend, 'Russ' Hathaway of the Associated Press, with souvenir postals."

Obituary

HON. J. H. GOODENOW, '52

Hon. John H. Goodenow, '52, died at Atlantic City on July 29, and his death is a very considerable loss to Bowdoin's alumni. On graduating from college in 1852 he immediately took up the study of law, in 1855 was admitted to the bar, and began to practice in his native town of Alfred, Maine. In 1859 he was a member of the State Legislature, and in 1861-2 was a member of the State Senate, being president of that body during both years. In 1864, President Lincoln appointed him consul-general to Constantinople, and in 1873 he became secretary of the legation in Turkey. He held this position till 1875, during which time he was three times charge d' affaires, and acted as an umpire between England and Egypt in a large money controversy. In 1876 he returned to the United States, practiced law in Saco, Me., until 1885, since when he has resided in New York. He has always been a loyal alumnus, and for about 25 years has been an Overseer of the college.

DR. A. B. DEARBORN, '63

Dr. Alvah B. Dearborn, '63, died at his home in Somerville last summer on August 19. Dr. Dearborn was born in Topsham on August 3, 1842, entered Bowdoin at seventeen and graduated in 1863. On leaving college he taught for two years in California, then returned to Brunswick, entered the Medical School and received the degree of M.D. with the Class of 1870. He then practiced in the New York hospitals, in Salisbury, Mass., and later in Newburyport, where he remained until 1884, when he moved to Somerville, in which city he practiced until his death. In Salisbury he served on the school committee for two years, in Newburyport for nine years, and again for nine years in Somerville. He also was Somerville’s City Physician from 1889-97, and 1901-06. In Somerville he was very popular, and his loss as a citizen as well as a physician was felt by the whole city.

REV. EDWARD HENRY NEWBEGIN, ’91

Rev. Edward Henry Newbegin, rector of St. John’s Episcopal Church of Bangor, died Tuesday, October 14, at the Maine General Hospital in Portland after an illness of five weeks. He was born at Defiance, Ohio, the son of Henry and Ellen Taylor Newbegin. He was thirty-eight years of age. He graduated at Bowdoin College in the Class of 1891, after which he read law in his father’s office and was admitted for practice in the Supreme Court of Ohio in 1893 and was for a short time engaged in the active practice of the law. In October, 1893, he abandoned the law and came to the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., where he graduated with the degree of D.D. in 1896. In the same year Bowdoin College gave him the degree of A.M. He preached for three years at St. Andrew’s Church in Ayer, Mass. He was called to Bangor as rector of St. John’s in the fall of 1899. In September, 1900, he was married to Elizabeth King, daughter of D. Webster King of Boston, his wife surviving him with four small children.

His oldest brother, Parker Cleveland Newbegin, a graduate of Bowdoin in the same class with himself, resides at Houlton, Me., and is maintenance engineer of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad. His younger brother, Robert, graduated at Bowdoin in 1896 and at Boston University Law School in 1898 and is now in the practice of the law with his father at Defiance and Toledo, Ohio.
THE MEDICO-CHIRURGICAL COLLEGE OF PHILADELPHIA DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE

Has a carefully graded course of four sessions of eight months each. Noteworthy features are: Free Quizzes; Limited Ward Classes; Clinical Conferences; Modified Seminar Methods, and thoroughly Practical Instruction. Particular attention to laboratory work and ward classes and bedside teaching. Clinical facilities unexcelled.

The clinical amphitheatre is the largest and finest in the world, the hospital is newly reconstructed and thoroughly modern in every respect, and the new laboratories are specially planned and equipped for individual work by the students. The College has also a Department of Dentistry and a Department of Pharmacy. For announcements or further information apply to SENeca EGBERT, M.D., Dean of the Department of Medicine.

Marlin

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous "Marlin" standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2¼ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

In a hard-fought game of football Bowdoin was defeated by Tufts at Medford last Saturday by a score of 12 to 5. The Bowdoin team outplayed Tufts during the entire game, and had it not been for two unfortunate fumbles with Bowdoin making good progress toward its opponents' goal, the defeat would have been a victory.

The Bowdoin team played the best game of the year, the offense, which up to this time has been the weakest part of the team, showing marked improvement and played with a dash which Tufts was seldom able to stop.

Bowdoin scored first, securing a touchdown on straight football, assisted by some penalizing of Tufts, the score being 5 to 0 in favor of Bowdoin at the end of the first half. In the second half Bowdoin had a chance to secure a place kick, but it failed, Bowdoin recovering the ball on Tufts' 10-yard line. It was at this time that the first fumble came, Tufts' quarterback securing the ball and going the length of the field for a touchdown; Tufts' second touchdown was secured also by a fumble, Sheeny securing the ball and running 45 yards.

Bowdoin won the toss, and kicked off, Peterson getting the ball and coming back 20 yards. Tufts, unable to gain, then punted to Bowdoin's 40-yard line. The latter, in turn trying the opponents' line unsuccessfully, worked a quarterback kick for 30 yards, but was penalized 15 yards for holding Hooper of the Tufts' team, then the ball was again punted. After working the ball well into Tufts' territory and gaining 5 yards by a forward pass, Bowdoin lost a placement goal, which was blocked by Sullivan's recovering the ball. Although Greene punted out of danger, Bowdoin, aided by fast offense and Tufts' offside plays, carried the ball to the goal, Draper taking it over for the touchdown. When time for the first half was called, both sides were in the middle of the field.

The second half opened by Greene's kicking off to Lee on Bowdoin's 10-yard line; by the latter’s fumble Tufts secured the ball, but Bowdoin's line, proving too strong, and held for downs. After two attempts to break the opponents’ line the ball was punted over Greene's head to Tufts' 10-yard line. A 20-yard gain for Tufts on a quarterback kick, followed. Bowdoin, securing the ball, then attempted a placement kick, but failed. By a fumble, Greene got the ball and clearing the line sprinted 103 yards,—the length of the field, for a touchdown; making the score 6 to 5 in Tufts' favor.

Tufts now began to play a stronger game. Peterson, receiving the kick-off, came back 30 yards through the Bowdoin line. Greene made 15 yards on a quarterback run, but Tufts was penalized for hurdling and forced to punt. With a neat forward pass, Bowdoin made 20 yards, and was then held for downs. Again Tufts tried the line twice, netting a total of 12 yards. On a third try the delayed pass was worked, on which Sheeny scored. Greene kicked the goal and the score became 12 to 5.

Hooper, who received the next kickoff, was only prevented a clear run to the line by the timely tackle of Captain Drummond. Line plays then carried the ball to the 30-yard line, but a placement kick by Greene was lost out by six inches. When the time was called, Bowdoin had kicked the ball over Greene's head and was rapidly carrying it forward for a touchdown.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

Professor W. T. Foster of the department of argumentation has completed arrangements for an interscholastic debating league among Maine preparatory schools. Professor Foster has been at work on this plan for some time past, and has now completed the preliminary arrangements for a league, in which four schools will take part. The schools that have accepted the invitation to join the league are Edward Little High of Auburn, Lewiston High, Gardiner High, and Cony High of Augusta.

The present plan is to hold preliminary debates between Lewiston and Auburn at Lewiston, and between Augusta and Gardiner at Augusta, followed by a final debate between the two winners, to be held in Memorial Hall. The dates for the several debates have not been arranged as yet, although the date of the preliminary contest between Auburn and Lewiston has been set for January 4.

One of the features of the league will be the assigning of coaches from among the prominent debaters in college, the following men having been assigned to the several schools: Cony High School, F. J. Redman, '07; Gardiner High, A. O. Pike, '07; Edward Little, R. H. Hupper, '08; Lewiston High, C. W. Snow, '07.

A silver cup will be presented to the school winning the series, Professor Foster having already secured the trophy. The cup will be appropriately lettered and will be an appropriate reward for the winning school.

Following are the agreements that will govern the league:

I. The name of this organization shall be the Bowdoin Debating League.

II. Each school belonging to this league shall hold one debate with another member of the league in January, on a day and place to be agreed upon by the schools.

III. The questions for these preliminary debates shall be submitted by the school at which the debate is held. The other school shall have the choice of sides, and announce its choice within ten days of the receipt of the question. The question must be approved by the professor of argumentation at Bowdoin college, and announced eight weeks before the day of the debate.

IV. The winning teams in the preliminary debates shall hold a final debate at Bowdoin College in April.

V. The school submitting the question shall submit at the same time a list of twenty men proposed as judges. This list shall not include the names of any men who are, or ever have been, connected with any of the schools in the league. From this list, the other school shall endeavor as soon as possible to secure the services of three men to act as judges.

VI. For the preliminary debates, the school at which the debate is held shall provide the presiding officer.

VII. The Bowdoin College Debating Council agrees to furnish each school, upon request, with a trained and competent coach for each debate, without expense to the school.

VIII. The expenses of the preliminary debates, except the expenses of the coach, shall be paid by the schools, each paying one-half the expenses of the debate in which it takes part. The expenses of the final debate, except the traveling expenses of the teams, shall be paid by the Bowdoin College Debating Council.

IX. Each member of the winning team in the final debate shall be awarded a prize cup, appropriately engraved; and the winning school shall be awarded a prize cup to hold permanently.

X. Each school shall elect one representative, and these men, together with the president of the Debating Council at Bowdoin College as Chairman of the Board, shall be the official representatives of the schools in all matters pertaining to the league.

XI. In case of any disagreement between schools, each school shall select one arbiter, who, with the Professor of Argumentation at Bowdoin College, shall render a final decision on the point in dispute.

XII. The judges for each debate shall be instructed as follows:

Each school selects alternately the questions to be debated and sends the formulated question to its opponent, leaving to its opponent the choice of sides. The side which either school chooses to advocate need not, therefore, represent the prevalent trend of opinion in that school, or even the individual opinion of the debaters.

The League is agreed upon the general principle that the award should not be made on the merits of the question but upon the merits of the debate; that is to say, consideration as to what may seem to a judge the intrinsic merit of either side of a question should not enter into or determine the award; but the award ought to be made to that school team which shows in general greater argumentative ability and better form as speakers.

In determining argumentative ability, the judges should take into consideration thorough knowledge of the question, logical sequence, skill in selecting and presenting evidence, and power in rebuttal; and in considering the form of the speakers, as distinguished from their arguments, they should regard bearing, quality of voice, correct pronunciation, clear enunciation, and directness, variety and emphasis in delivery.

Matter is to be regarded as more important than form. Should one team excel in matter and the other to an equal degree in form, the award should go to that team which excels in matter.

The League ventures to suggest to the judges that after the debate they cast a written ballot, before consultation, in order to obtain a working basis whereby a final decision may be reached.

PROFESSOR ZUEBLIN’S LECTURE

Professor Charles Zueblin, professor of Sociology at the University of Chicago, gave an interesting lecture in Memorial Hall, Monday evening, upon “Democratic Culture.” The lecture was under the auspices of the Saturday Club in conjunction with the college.

Professor Zueblin in opening stated that culture cannot be measured; it is a habit of the mind, and an instinct of purpose. The individual who keeps studying and piling up facts is an intellectual miser, and is little better off than he who does not study. One must be acquainted with art, literature, music, religion, and the sciences in order to be truly cultured.

Art and literature were the subjects receiving the most attention from Professor Zueblin. In referring to the former he stated that art is not painting only, but is a knowledge of the elements which combine to produce beauty. He referred to the men of the Dark Ages, who, possessing no book learning, made things of much more beauty than the men of to-day, who have an intellectual sense of beauty.

“We do not read literature for facts but for characters,” said Professor Zueblin in speaking of literature.

He then told how many people base their knowledge upon the number of books they read instead of upon what they learn from them. “Literature,” he said, “is quite behind the times, while we are keeping up with the book publishers.” He then spoke of the literature of the Hebrews, and Greeks and the Romans, and said that it was not necessary to know these languages in order to be cultured, but that one should know Spencer and Chaucer, and have a foundation for their learning.

The government of the United States was taken up briefly. The ballot of cities like Chicago has been so arranged by the politicians that the most cultured man, as well as the most ignorant man, cannot vote intelligently. The man of culture hides behind his books while the politician gets the offices.

Upon the great questions of the day there is little difference in the judgment of the ignorant man and the cultured man, as the former is uneducated and the latter confines his knowledge to his books and not to what is going on about him.

In closing Professor Zueblin said that there are three things one must be up on in order to be cultured. These are Evolution, the higher criticism of the Bible, and Socialism.

THE DELTA UPSILON CONVENTION

The 72d convention of Delta Upsilon was held at Middlebury, Vt., October 24 to 27, with the Middlebury Chapter of Middlebury College. Thirty-seven colleges were represented by two delegates each, besides a large number of alumni, making it one of the largest conventions in the history of the fraternity.

The occasion was also the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Middlebury Chapter. Among the speakers was Governor Proctor of Vermont, a Delta Upsilon of Amherst, ’82. The delegates representing the Bowdoin Chapter were Chester S. Kingsley, and Ralph E. Sawyer and among the alumni present was Charles E. Merritt, Bowdoin, ’96.

To the Freshmen

The attention of the Freshmen should be called to the fact that it is customary for each Freshman Class to choose the colors of the class last graduating. Thus the colors of the Class of 1910 should be the same as that of the Class of 1906, which was blue and white. There is, perhaps, no particularly strong reason why this should be done, other than it is college tradition, and as such, there is a sentiment about it which is dear to every college man.

Debating League

The Orient is pleased to announce the formation of an Interscholastic Debating League. Such a league is a novelty among the interscholastic leagues formed under the auspices of colleges, and there is every reason to believe that it will prove a success.

In the past, Bowdoin, in common with the other colleges, has devoted its attention to the formation of various athletic leagues, having as their ultimate object the drawing of desirable athletes to the college; but the formation of a league which is based on the intellectual side is surely a desirable departure. A college stands for intellectual work and the brightest men in the preparatory schools must surely become interested in the work of a debating league; and to the extent that these men become interested in Bowdoin the new league will surely do a good work.

As mentioned elsewhere, the preparatory school debaters will be in charge of some of the best debaters in college, and this should prove of benefit to the coaches themselves, as well as show prospective students the splendid work that is being done in our debating department.

The plan is a commendable one, and the Orient congratulates Professor Foster and the college on the formation of the league.

Commander Peary

Every Bowdoin graduate and undergraduate is pleased to learn of the safety of Commander Peary of the Class of ’77. Although this dauntless man did not quite reach the pole, he earned the distinction of getting farther North than ever man has been before. This great achievement on the part of an alumnus makes every Bowdoin man's heart beat a little faster in his pride for his college and for brave Commander Peary.

The conclusion is drawn from the latest of Peary's dispatches that the intrepid explorer will try again, as he states that the Roosevelt is coming southward for supplies and repairs. Before starting in July, 1905, he definitely announced that this would be his last dash for the pole. This he stated publicly in his lecture in Augusta and elsewhere, and the same declaration was frequently made in private conversation. If he is to try again it is probable that he will regard it as simply a second part of this expedition from which he is now returning, rather than as a new expedition.

Once before in 1901 he held the record of farthest north when he reached 84 degrees 17 minutes. Then a Norwegian, Dr. Nansen, and an Italian, Duke D' Abruzzi, in turn pushed a little nearer the Pole. Now he has made the record of 87 degrees 6 minutes, or about 200 miles from the Pole and 40 miles nearer it than ever man went before. The world anxiously awaits the full story of this expedition which was plainly one of unusual experiences and great hardships. If Peary returns to continue his fight against the ice and cold and loneliness it will hardly be before another summer.

Tomorrow’s Game
Bowdoin will meet Colby in the second game of the Maine College series. To attempt to prophesy the outcome of a football game is largely guesswork, and to attempt to forecast tomorrow’s result would be especially idle.

It is felt, however, that the Bowdoin team should be in as good or better form tomorrow than it has been at any time this season, so far as team work is concerned. At no time, with the exception of last Saturday, has the team been in the form of playing the game of which it should be capable. Man after man has been out of the game for various reasons, and this has resulted in a lack of team work, especially in the back field. It was this that caused our downfall in the Bates game and has been a serious handicap in the other games of the year.

A most serious drawback to the Bowdoin team is the debarring of several first team men who will not be allowed to play because of warnings sent out under the new rules. A regular tackle, a regular guard, a substitute center, and a fullback who is depended upon to do the punting are losses which can scarcely be replaced. Nevertheless, there is a somewhat hopeful feeling, and it is possible that the team is not so seriously weakened as might first appear. At all events, the team may be depended on to do its best.

On the other hand, Colby will doubtless be in better form than in her earlier games. She has some excellent material in her squad and in the judgment of a number of critics, including Referee Halliday, has a team that is the equal of the University of Maine.

Taken altogether, it is safe to predict a well-contested game, but farther than this no one will be justified in prophesying.

THE SATURDAY CLUB
On Thursday evening, November 15, in the Unitarian Church, Federal Street, Miss Katherine Jewell Everts, once a pupil of Leland Powers and until recently a teacher in his school, will give “My Lady’s Ring,” a comedy written especially for her by Alice Brown, author of “Meadow Grass,” “Paradise,” “The Court of Love,” and various New England tales. Miss Everts is especially well trained for her work and her skill as well as her charm of personality won her warm praise from the late Henry Austin Clapp, the Shakespeare critic. After her graduation from the University of Minnesota, Miss Everts studied especially for the work of literary interpretation and for a year had the rare opportunity of studying upon the stage with Ada Rehan and Otis Skinner in whose company she played the part of leading ingenue.

In “My Lady’s Ring” she assumes seven characters.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
On November first, Lester Adams, ’07, spoke informally before the Christian Association, in regard to his experiences last summer in Labrador, where he went with Gould, ’07, to help Dr. Grenfel in his medical missionary work among the poor Labrador fishermen. He told of the hardships the people suffer there, and of the wonderful energy of Dr. Grenfel who by his own personality maintains the mission, and gives to the whole work that enthusiasm that has made it so much of a success and practical help to these poor inhabitants of Labrador. Dr. Lincoln addressed the Association last night, for the second time this year, and took as his subject “The Opportunities in China for Young Men, Especially for Young Doctors to Do a Good Work in the World.”

GLEE CLUB
The rehearsals for the Glee Club have been excellently attended, and the prospects for this year’s club are better than they have been for the last four years. It is hoped to have the club entirely picked by Thanksgiving, and from now until then at least two rehearsals will be held every week. The men that have come out so far are: First tenors: Leydon, Webber, Crowley, Foss, Shehan, McMillan, Kendrie. Second tenors: Shorey, Crowley, Ham, Cox, McClone, Pickard, Davie. First bass: Bass, Gregson, Brown, Chapman, Crowell, Crosby, Stevens, Morss. Second bass: Linnell, Marsh, Draper, Stone, Wing.

BAND
During this week the college band has become organized, and under the efficient leadership of Mr. A. W. Brann of Bath, has by several rehearsals, become quite proficient. Last Tuesday the men who had been picked to play at to-morrow’s game were: Solo cornets, Cooper, ’09, and Giles, ’07; first cornets, Bunker, ’10; second cornets, Stanley, ’09, and W. E. Atwood, ’10; piccolo, C. M. Robinson, ’08; clarinet, Kane, ’09; first alto, G. H. Morrill, ’07; second alto, Spurling, ’10; third alto, J. E. Crowley, ’09; first trombone, Lawrence, ’07; second trombone, R. W. Smith, ’10; baritone, F. L. Smith, ’08; bass, Newman, ’10; cymbals, Sanborn, ’08; snare drums, Matthews, ’10, and Phillips, ’09; bass drum, Stetson, ’09.

Otis, '07, attended the initiation and banquet of the University of Vermont Chapter of Kappa Sigma last week.
There will be a mass-meeting to-night to arouse interest and enthusiasm for the Colby-Bowdoin game to-morrow.
Several students attended the football dance given by the Brunswick High School at Pythian Hall, Friday evening.
The correct list of addresses of students for the new catalogue was secured this week. The catalogue will soon be issued.
Several of the students have joined the Young People's Bible Study Class, which is being conducted each Sunday by Mr. Jump.
The fifteen Greek letter societies at Dartmouth have agreed not to broach the question of Fraternity to Freshmen until March 20.
The exhibit in the Art Building representing scenes in Scotland from Edinburg to the Field of Flodden will remain until November 19.
Maine had to work hard to beat Colby last Saturday. To-morrow Bates meets Maine in what will be one of the greatest games of the year.
Gastonguay, who has been out of football because of injuries received in the Cornell game, reported for practice the first of the week.
Keith of Boston, will open Music Hall in Lewiston, next Monday evening, offering some of his best vaudeville shows as an opening attraction.
Linnell, '07, represented the Bowdoin Chapter of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity at the initiation of the University of Maine Chapter at Orono last week.
Ellis, '08, Gastonguay, '08, Atwood, '10, and Spurling, '10, were among the Bowdoin men who attended the Hebron-Kent's Hill game last Saturday.
In the Scholarship Awards recently announced by the Harvard Medical Faculty, M. Shanghnessy, Bowdoin, '03, received the second largest award.
L. W. Coons began his work on last Sunday, November 4, as pastor of the Universalist Church of Brunswick. He will preach there while taking his course in Bowdoin.
A number of the Freshman Class entertained the Sophomores in front of the chapel last Thursday night. Later their sins were "purified" by a hose in front of the Beta Theta Pi House.
Professor Sills this week took his three divisions of first year Latin, to the Art Building, and showed them what there was in the building relating to the days of the classics.

Efforts are being made by the Sophomores to have a Sophomore dance, but at the time of going to press it was understood that the faculty had not granted permission for the function.

A dinner and smoker of the New England Intercollegiate Press Association will be held at the American House in Boston on Friday evening, November 16. It is not known as yet whether the Orient or Quill will be represented.

During the past few weeks a number of students have visited Shiloh on Sunday afternoons. Last Sunday five visited this well-known place, and looked over the grounds and buildings. Some were fortunate enough to be taken through a part of the buildings.

Make-up examinations for Freshmen who have entrance conditions will be given between January 1 and January 15. All Freshmen are required to give notice to the registrar not later than January 1 as to what examinations they are to take in order that the schedule may be made out.

At the annual meeting of the Parish Men's Club of the Congregational Church held last week, the following officers were elected: President, Professor Franklin C. Robinson; Vice-President, Professor William T. Foster; Secretary, Professor Charles T. Burnett; Treasurer, Samuel L. Forsaith.

The "loop" car on the L. & B. & B. Street Railway made its first trip for the season at 5.45 Wednesday afternoon. The reason given for its early discontinuation is that the road has not got a closed car that it can spare for the local line and that the weather is now too cold to run an open car.

Gould, '08, spoke at the First Parish Church, Saturday, on the subject of "With Dr. Grenfel in Labrador." He spoke of his experiences while working with Dr. Grenfel the past summer, upon the lives of the fisher people of that country, and of the good work which is being done by Dr. Grenfel.

The Brunswick High School closed its football season Friday, by defeating the Yarmouth High by a score of 17 to 0 on Whittier Field. The field was in poor condition for football, owing to the snow which was upon it. McMillan, '10, acted as referee and umpire. The Brunswick High team this year has made a better showing than any team from that school for several years.

The Brooklyn Standard-Union, speaking of the football game for the championship of Greater New York between St. Peter's and the Grand Opera team, has the following to say of a former Bowdoin player: "Big Jim Finn, the ex-Bowdoin College man, played a great game at full for St Peter's. His great line breaking, together with getting down under punts, was a big factor in the result."

The second meeting of the Massachusetts Club was held Saturday evening at the Theta Delta Chi House. Professor Foster was the guest of the evening and gave a very interesting talk on the advantages of the small college over the university. He has made a study of the question for a number of years and he illustrated his talk with statistics proving that, during the last four years, the colleges have made a large gain in numbers, while the universities have lost slightly.

HARE AND HOUND RACE

The first hare and hound race was held Tuesday and proved a most exciting one. The hares, A. Robinson, '08; Weston, '08; Morrison, '08: and Davie, '10, started down the Bath road and after following the route for a mile and a half ran through the woods to the rifle range and thence to a logging road which they followed for about three miles. This brought them out at Merrymeeting Park. They again cut through the woods and came out at the pumping station from which place they ran up Jordan Avenue to the Maine Central Railroad tracks, where they were caught. The distance covered was about nine miles and the run lasted about an hour. The hounds were McLaughlin, '10; Shorey, '07; Kimball, '10; P. Morris, '10; R. Morris, '10; Weeks, '10; Johnson, '09; Simmons, '09; Chadborn, '07; Tefft, '09; Powers, '09; W. Roberts, '07; Brewster, '07; Colbath, '10; and Edwards, '10.

FOOTBALL MEN DEBARRED

The football squad was considerably weakened the first of the week by the debarring of four of the best men because of the new scholarship rule. The men affected are Draper, fullback and punter; Garcelon, right tackle; Stanley, right guard; and Boynton, substitute center.

JUNIOR ELECTION

The Junior Class elections were held last Monday noon, resulting as follows:

President—C. E. Files.
Vice-President—B. N. Gregson.
Secretary-Treasurer—C. M. Robinson.
Chaplain—L. W. Coons.
Poet—P. H. Powers.
Marshals—A. H. Ham.
Track Captain—G. H. Hyde.

MAKE-UP FOR INCOMPLETES

The schedule of examinations for the removal of incompletes is as follows:

November 12, 2:30 P.M.—French 2, Education 1, English Literature 2, French 6, Mathematics 1 (Solid Geometry).
November 13, 2:30 P.M.—Greek 2, Chemistry 2, Biology 1.
November 14, 2:30 P.M.—History 6.

These examinations will be held in Bancroft Hall, with the exception of Chemistry and Biology, which will be held in the respective laboratories.

MEET POSTPONED

The Bates-Bowdoin Freshmen track meet was postponed, last Saturday, because of the condition of Whitter Field. Owing to the lateness of the season it has been decided to give up the meet for the year.

Alumni Personals

CLASS OF 1870

Hon. D. S. Alexander of Buffalo, '70, has been renominated for Congress for his sixth term. Being a leading member of the important Judiciary Committee, he is to encounter, like Hon. Charles E. Littlefield, the opposition of Mr. Gompers, President of the Federation of Labor.

CLASS OF 1893

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Deane Eaton of Waterville announce the marriage of Miss Daisy Ina Day and Edward Folsom Merrill on Tuesday evening, October 9. Mr. and Mrs. Merrill will be at home at Skowhegan after Dec. 1. Mr. Merrill is well known here having graduated from Bowdoin College in the Class of 1903. During the last three years he has been studying at the Harvard Law School.

CLASS OF 1894.

At a recent meeting of the school committee of Uxbridge, Mass., Harry E. Bryant of Saco, principal of the Mansfield High School, was elected to succeed H. A. Blake of the Uxbridge High School, resigned, who goes to Abington to take charge of the High School there. Mr. Bryant is a graduate of Bowdoin College, 1894, and has taught school in several Maine towns before going to Mansfield.

CLASSES 1898-1899.

A new law firm in Portland is Clarke & Gardner with offices in the Union Mutual Life Ins. Co. building, 120 Exchange Street. The members of the firm are Walter B. Clarke, at present a member of Governor Cobb's Council and the senator-elect from Lincoln County, and Herbert M. Gardner, a Patten boy who was principal of the Dexter High School for three years before he studied law. Both are graduates of Bowdoin, Mr. Clarke in 1899 and Mr. Gardner in 1898.

Obituary

HON. WILLIAM C. MARSHALL, '47

Hon. William C. Marshall, '47, died at his home in Belfast, Maine, on October 29. Mr. Marshall was born in Belfast in 1827, came to Bowdoin when sixteen, and graduated with high honors with his class in 1847, when he gave the Latin Salutatory. After his graduation he studied law in the offices of Solymon Heath and Woodbury Davis, and was later admitted to the Waldo County bar. In 1851 he moved West, but on the death of his brother ten years later, he returned to Belfast and took up his brother's affairs. Since then Mr. Marshall has been Mayor of Belfast for three terms, Collector of Customs for the District of Belfast, Trustee of Belfast Library, Director of B. & M. L. Railroad, first President of Belfast Board of Trade, President of the Waldo County Horse Breeders' Association, Trustee of the Maine State Agricultural Society, and an Overseer of Bowdoin College since 1872.

COL. W. S. POOR, ’60

Col. W. S. Poor, '60, died on June 21, at his home in Morristown, N. Y. He was born in Andover, Me., in 1836, graduated from Bowdoin with the famous Class of 1860, and in 1861 enlisted as a private in the Tenth New York Volunteers. In November of that year he was transferred to the First New York Mounted Rifles, and in August, 1862, was appointed a captain in that regiment. In March, 1864, he was again promoted, this time to Lieutenant-Colonel of the Second N. C. Volunteers. In August, 1864, he was ordered to Newbern, N. C., and there served as Chief Provost Marshal during a yellow fever epidemic. In 1867 he went to New York, took up the study of law, and in the following year was admitted to the bar in that city, where he has practiced ever since.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will he in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

The contest between Bowdoin and Colby last Saturday on the Whittier Field resulted in a tie, neither side being able to cross their opponents’ goal; at least not to the satisfaction of the officials. Bowdoin, however, outplayed her opponent during the greater part of the game, and only by some good defensive work on the part of Colby, together with remarkably good fortune did she escape being scored on. Even then, Greene, Bowdoin’s quarterback, cleared the field and ran 83 yards for a touchdown. This however, was not allowed on the ground of violation of rules, it being asserted that a Bowdoin man had used his hand in the interference work.

This is not to imply that the officials were unfair. They treated both sides alike, so far as they saw violations, but to many there was a tendency to take advantage of technicalities of the rules which, in the judgment of many, the game did not warrant.

The game opened with Bowdoin’s kick-off to Hammond, who was downed where he stood. Unable to gain, Colby punted to Webber who advanced the ball several yards. Aided by Colby’s offside plays Bowdoin made 5 yards more; and when the ball had changed sides a number of times a play followed which made our prospects still brighter. Greene punted to Hammond, who, when tackled by Sewall, lost the ball to McDade on the 10-yard line. The officials, however, averred that Hammond had not been allowed a fair catch, and the ball was taken back and given to Colby.

After Bowdoin had made several gains and a number of punts had taken place, the half ended with the ball in her possession on her own 33-yard line.

In the second half both teams entered the field with no change in their line-up. Hammond kicked off to Ellis, who advanced the ball 12 yards. Speake made 3 yards and then Bowdoin was forced to punt. Peterson and Goode netted 6 yards in two attempts. Colby was then compelled to punt, whereupon Greene made his 83-yard run for a touchdown with the unsatisfactory decision, previously mentioned. When the play had been called back, Bowdoin got possession of the ball in the center of the field. Speake and Stacy then rapidly advanced it to Colby’s 30-yard line, but here Colby proved too strong and, blocking a quarterback kick, punted out of danger.

Again Bowdoin started down the field. This time, aided by a forward pass, she reached the 20-yard line only to lose the ball on downs. Colby again punted out of danger, but Bowdoin for the third time had brought the ball close to the opponents’ goal, when time was called.

Although characterized by frequent penalizing on both sides, the game proved interesting from start to finish.

A COMMUNICATION

To the Editors of the Orient:

There is an unfortunate and growing tendency at Bowdoin at present which is deplored by a number of her alumni, who desire to take this opportunity of making their views known to the undergraduate body. This, to put it briefly, is the gradual narrowing of the college horizon, until its chief interest is centered in winning in athletics, in debate, and in other branches of intercollegiate contests solely from the three Maine colleges, Bates, Colby and Maine.

There was a time when Bowdoin met any New England college you might choose, and won from it, going into the contest with a confidence that in every way it was fully as good as that particular Massachusetts or Connecticut college. Her battle-ground, so to speak, was all New England. Since the fall of 1901, Bowdoin has not won a single important victory in athletics from any college outside the State. There has been good material; there have been good coaches; but the general feeling has been, strengthened by successive defeats, let well enough alone, and let the chief ambition of the college be to win from Bates, Maine and Colby.

This is said in no spirit of criticism of the men on the teams or of the coaches, who have worked, and worked hard. Nor is it said in a spirit of disparagement of the other Maine colleges. But the general feeling in college has been that we should give all our energies to winning from our three neighbors. It was so in the writer's time; it is so now.

Bowdoin cannot afford to narrow her horizon in this fashion. It is for her interest a thousand times more to win from such teams as Wesleyan, Williams, Tufts, and the other widely known New England colleges, rather than devote her energies to becoming champion of the State of Maine, a hollow victory which is never heard of outside of the State, which scarcely gets a few inches of space in even the comparatively nearby Boston papers. No one counts the worth of the college by her title of champion of Maine, but it is what she does against Dartmouth, Williams, Amherst, and the other colleges of that class by which Bowdoin is known. In the fall of 1904, when Bowdoin had a championship team, Caspar Whitney, the editor of Outing, in making up a list of the teams of the country, placed the University of Maine team, the weakest team in the State series, nineteenth in the list of colleges of the country, not even giving a place to Bowdoin, Bates or Colby, all of whom had decisively defeated Maine, but had not made anywhere the record against the well-known colleges that Maine did. Rarely a person hears much of the other colleges outside of the State, but they all know Bowdoin. In everything but athletics Bowdoin is in a class head and shoulders over the other Maine colleges; and this is said in no disparagement of their good work, either. Victory over them is perhaps sweet to us, but it is a hollow victory in the end, and a dangerous one, if we neglect the games by which we are judged outside the State. Bowdoin is the New England college representative of Maine, as Dartmouth is of New Hampshire, or Wesleyan and Trinity are of Connecticut. Bowdoin is a Maine college, to be sure, but above all she is a New England college, and a worthy competitor of Dartmouth, Williams, Amherst and the other colleges in everything but athletics. In this branch she should be known, not in the class with Maine, Bates and Colby, but with her real and natural rivals.

The fault is not alone a lack of material, a lack of coaching, but a lack of interest, an indifference. The remedy, if remedy the suggestion of a number of her alumni can be called, is a drastic one, but drastic measures are needed to combat the present local feeling. Instead of concentrating all the energies of the college to capture the state championship, a hollow plum at best, and making the Bates, Colby and Maine games the all-important ones, take them from the position where they now are, cease even to make them games in which a man may win his "B." Play the other Maine colleges, to be sure, for their students are good fellows and generous rivals, but put them at the first of the season, let them be practice games, if you will, in which we shall stand as good a show of winning as the other fellow, whose team will be no farther advanced than ours at that time in the season. Even if they do beat us, devote the energies of the team and the college to winning the games with such colleges as Tufts, Wesleyan, Trinity, Williams, and others which are really in the class and are really our natural rivals. Let the team's schedule be something like this, and in this order: Fort Preble, Harvard, Colby, Maine, Bates, Trinity, Wesleyan, Tufts, Williams. And devote the energies of the college and the team to winning those last four games, even if you have to let the others go. Then Bowdoin will be more favorably known throughout New England, will draw men from all over this section of the country, and will take her old place in the list of New England Institutions, rather than narrowing herself down to being known simply as a Maine college.

Alumnus.

To the Editors of the Orient:

The criticism of the football management which appeared in the Orient of Nov. 2d in a letter from Mr. Chandler of the Class of 1890, is, in my estimation, extremely unfair and uncalled for. May I be permitted to state the views of another alumnus in regard to this matter?

In the first place, doesn't Mr. Chandler know that the football schedule is not arranged according to the whims of the manager, but that each feature of it is thoroughly discussed by the manager, the members of the athletic council and the gymnasium director, and the advisability of each game carefully weighed before final arrangements are made?

Further, how, pray, was it possible for the management to foresee "that Cornell would make every effort to roll up a big score against a team that had played Harvard 0 to 10" before the season had begun and while the Harvard game was still a thing of the future?

Bowdoin is a small college,—true; but is that a reason why our athletic teams should not try to make a creditable showing against the teams of larger institutions? Why "stick to your class?" Didn't the Amherst team hold Yale down to a very small score late in this very season? And because Princeton whipped Dartmouth 42-0 this fall, is it a reason why Dartmouth should "get cold feet" and forego any further chance of repeating her last year's splendid performance against the Tigers?

It is my belief that the average alumnus is with the present management in its effort to institute new features in this season's schedule. This movement cannot fail to have a counteracting effect upon the narrowing influences, which, on account of Bowdoin's geographical position, naturally render it easy for us to play more games in Maine and fewer outside the State.

As it happened, the result of the Cornell game this fall was unfortunate, and in such cases it is always easy to make a scapegoat of the management; further, the writer ventures the opinion that had the Cornell game resulted in a Bowdoin victory, the present critics would be among the first to hail the management with praise for arranging a game in New York, where the athletic results are reported more widely than in Maine, and hence, where the glory of a victory is greater.

The "average graduate" is willing, I am sure, to trust the making of the football schedule in the hands of such competent persons as Dr. Whittier, the manager of the team, and the members of the Athletic Council. And don't worry about our nerves—they are all right. All the "soothing" they need at present is that which will come with the news of the favorable outcome of the University of Maine game on Nov. 17th.

Yours very truly,

John W. Frost, 1904.

Sympathy

All students will extend sympathy to J. W. Leydon, ’07, in the loss of his father, whose death occurred at his home in Bath the first of the week. Mr. Leydon had been in failing health for some time past as the result of a shock.

"Hard Luck"

"Hard luck" stories are always in order after an athletic defeat, but it is not too much to say that Bowdoin’s football season thus far has been characterized by hard luck of a genuine sort. Beginning the season with a splendid squad and bright prospects, the team has been crippled by injury and other causes in every contest to such an extent that in last Saturday’s game there were just three of the regular first-team which had been in the game earlier in the season. Even then the men put up a splendid exhibition and should have won the game. It is doubtful, however, if there is any of the small colleges that can show a similar hard luck record.

Not only has the hard luck applied to loss of men but in the games themselves. In last Saturday’s game Bowdoin outplayed Colby to a degree that with any reasonable amount of luck should have given the team from one to three touchdowns, but despite the splendid work not a point was scored. The same was true of the Tufts game. Bowdoin outplayed the Tufts team from start to finish. Our opponents had no show of a touchdown, but on a couple of fumbles the Massachusetts team managed to score twice and won the game after an exhibition that should have brought them defeat.

Comment on these things are hardly worth while, but the ORIENT feels that a word of commendation should be said for the men who have struggled against these odds; and the college owes them thanks for the way they have been playing football with every element of luck against them.

Bowdoin will play her last game of the year to-morrow with the University of Maine at Orono. It is hoped and expected that every man who possibly can, will show his loyalty to the team by accompanying it to Orono. Manager Allen has secured a $2 rate for the round trip, good for the day only; and if 100 men go, they will be allowed to return on the second midnight at this same price. If men wish to remain over Sunday they can secure a rate of 13 cents a mile. Cuts will be excused. Let every student go to Orono who can possibly do so.

Athletic Regulations

The ORIENT is simply voicing the sentiment of the student body when it asserts that the new eligibility regulations which went into effect for the first time this fall, are not satisfactory. The practical working out of the rules is unjust not only to the students affected, but to the graduate and undergraduates who desire to see Bowdoin hold her proper position in Maine College athletics.

The ORIENT fully appreciates the position of those who believe there is an over-emphasis of athletics in our colleges. That such is the case probably few undergraduates would care to deny. Certainly the Orient does not care to do so. What may be denied, however, is that it is possible for Bowdoin to alter the situation; or if possible, that the proper methods are being taken.

In the first place the standard of scholarship required to keep a student free from the four-week rule is altogether too high. A man just entering college has no knowledge of the conduct of college classes, no knowledge of the ranking system or his individual instructors, and moreover his general situation is as a rule not conducive to his best, or even his average work. Take these facts in conjunction with the fact that he must be absent on athletic trips and there is no small likelihood of his rank being such that he may be entitled to a warning at the end of so short a period as four weeks. It is, perhaps, not too much to say that a very large percentage of the men in every entering class could be debarred under these conditions. Debarring these men is unjust to the students and to the alumni who look with loyalty to see our teams win at least half of the Maine college games. Athletics in some respects, may be subordinate; but Bowdoin is at present in a situation where her graduates and undergraduates scarcely care to have her lose all her games.

It is said the only alternative is to debar specials. This, the Orient believes would be even worse in its practical working out. The fact that a man is an athlete and a special does not necessarily mean that he is not here for legitimate purposes. A glance at the name of the specials who have represented the college in the past will show that with one or two notable exceptions, they have been men who will bear comparison with our regular students in every sense of the word. In fact, their worth to the college as undergraduates and graduates is of a sort that makes us wish that we had more of them. If debarred from college activities, even for one year, what would be the result? In nine cases out of ten, it is safe to say, they would go to some other Maine college where they could feel themselves a real part of the college, and where they would be sure of a more gracious reception. The result to Bowdoin would be that she would lose men who in the vast majority of cases would be desirable in more ways than one.

The majority of the graduates and undergraduates would prefer to see no athletics whatever than teams which cannot cope successfully with our natural competitors. And yet that is what the question resolves itself to in the case of these rules. The past five years have shown that it takes our best athletes to even hold our own; and we only need the single blow of debarring specials and four-weeks rule to eventually insure this result.

It may be answered that our team last Saturday demonstrated its ability to play under the handicap of the former rule. But the fact is that the only reason why our team was able to cope fairly successfully with the weakest team in Maine was simply because our squad is the largest in years. Had the blow fallen last year or indeed any of the past four or five years, the strength of our team would scarcely equal that of some of the academies. This is not said as an argument that we must have winning teams at any cost; but with the conviction that the men debarred under this rule do not have a fair opportunity to show their scholarship ability, and also that unfair treatment to desirable specials would contribute to the same result.

If it is felt that we are getting undesirable men on our athletic teams from our specials and first year men, it would seem that the former could be guarded against by a close examination of their credentials on admission; or in the case of regular Freshmen, by debarring them simply while they are in arrears in their work rather than putting them out for a year. Allow them a fair opportunity to do their work, and failing in this they may be properly debarred.

These things are said in no spirit of antagonism to those who have been instrumental in the making of new rules or who are contemplating others. The Orient recognizes, with them, that there is, generally speaking, too much athletics in our colleges. But we also feel that Bowdoin is in a peculiar if not an unfortunate situation. And such being the case she owes some things to her undergraduates and graduates in her athletic regulations. Our athletics are and have been clean, and we have no reason to handicap our teams over an evil which seems to be more imaginary than real.

MEDALS FOR DEBATERS

Anouncement is made that the gentleman who has given medals for the Bowdoin debating teams for the past two years, has kindly renewed his offer for the current year.

To-night the U. of M. will hold its annual rally "Maine Night." Several of the fraternities will also hold their initiations Saturday night.

A number of preparatory school men who were present at Saturday's game remained over Sunday being guests at the various fraternity houses. It is said that a book relating to phases of college life at Bowdoin, will soon be published by some undergraduates. Further details will be given later.

A large flock of wild geese about twenty-five in number, flew over the campus last Sunday morning. The unusual occurrence created quite a lot of excitement.

Proprietor Cahill of New Meadows Inn has procured a handsome, large Dane to act as a reception committee for any future burglars who may pay the Inn a visit.

Members of the Senior Class who desire to apply for the Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship should make application to the President some time during the present semester.

Monday evening the New Hampshire Club met with Smith, '09, at the Delta Upsilon House. The full membership was present and a social time and light refreshments were enjoyed.

The latest sectional club is the Medford Club, which was organized Saturday evening at the room of Morris, '10, with four charter members. No officers have been elected as yet.

Miss Katherine Jewell Everts gave a dramatic presentation of "My Lady's Ring," a comedy by Alice Brown, in the Unitarian Church last evening, under the auspices of the Saturday Club.

After the game last Saturday the Colby football team dined at New Meadows Inn. Several members remained in Brunswick over Sunday, the guests of friends at various chapter houses.

At the second meeting of the Faculty Club, Professor Mitchell gave an interesting talk on St. Augustine. Among the special guests present were A. B. Roberts, '07, Snow, '07, Powers, '08, and Gould, '08.

The Freshmen have chosen Newman as Captain and Wandtke as Manager of their football team. Manager Wandtke wishes to announce that all who want to try for the team may obtain suits by applying to him.

The county commissioners of Sagadahoc and Cumberland Counties met this week in Topsham and held a hearing on the question of accepting the suspension bridge as a county highway. No decision was given.

Through the efforts of the Massachusetts Club the Thanksgiving vacation has been extended so that it will last from noon, Wednesday, to Monday morning. There will be only one Sophomore-Freshman baseball game in the future.

The injury to Blanchard's knee is more serious than was at first expected and may keep him out of athletics in the future.

Adjourns were granted last Thursday morning in English 1, Professor Mitchell being away on business connected with the college.

The Bowdoin College Band made its first appearance in public at the game, Saturday, and is now practicing hard for the Maine game. Considering the length of time that the band has been practicing it did excellent work.

At a meeting of the Sophomore Class Tuesday afternoon it was voted to hold a formal dance in Memorial Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 23. The committee in charge consists of Burton, Kane, Bishop, Hughes, and Crowley.

The first debate of the debating course took place Tuesday evening. The subject was "The present laws relating to Chinese Immigration should be amended to include the Japanese." Affirmative: Baldwin and Merril. Negative: Snow and Roberts.

The following members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity left Tuesday for Springfield, Mass., where they will attend the sixtieth annual convention which is held this week: Hacker, '07, Burton, '07, Hyde, '08, Robinson, '08, Putnam, '08, Burton, '09, Brewster, '09, Marsh, '09, Merril, '08.

The new Christian Association piano is a tribute to the kindness and taste of Doctor Mason. Both the Christian Association and the Musical Clubs regard it as the best instrument we have had. And it is all paid for early in the year. The college is grateful to the friends who contributed and to Doctor Mason for making the selection.

At a meeting of the Freshman Class held last week W. H. P. Newman of Bar Harbor was elected captain of the Class track team and A. W. Wandtke was elected manager. Class numerals were awarded to Evans, McLoughlin, Wandtke, Walker, Colbath, Martin, Otis, R. D. Morris, Ludvig, Hobbs. Blue and white was adopted as the class colors.

The victory of Andover over her old rival, Exeter, last Saturday, is a great triumph for "Jack" O'Connor, who has turned out Andover's winning teams for the past two years. O'Connor graduated from the medical school in 1905 and was Bowdoin's coach for the seasons of 1902 and 1903. His friends among both students and alumni will be glad to hear of his success at Andover.

At chapel, Sunday, President Hyde spoke of the "honor system" as in use at Amherst and Williams. He said that at a recent meeting in New Haven the subject was discussed and it was the general thought that it would not be wise to introduce it in other New England colleges. The system seems to be based on the supposition that the student will cheat at examinations unless he is made to promise that he will not, and for that reason it is believed to be founded on a wrong principle.

THE FACULTY

Professor R. J. Ham went to Lewiston last Tuesday to confer with Professor Leonard of Bates on educational matters.
CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday, November 8th, Dr. Lincoln spoke before the Christian Association for the second time this fall. He took as his subject "The Opportunity for Young Doctors in China." His talk was an interesting one, and in it he described the condition of the medical science in China. He said that about 2500 B. C. there was an eminent Chinese doctor, and later a surgeon, who studied the science and wrote books based on their discoveries. These works were wonderfully good for that period, but to-day these same books make up the basis of Chinese knowledge of medicine, and consequently their doctors are about one thousand years behind the times. Yesterday President Hyde conducted a questionnaire on "Practical Student Conduct," but it is impossible to publish an account of it in this issue of the Orient. The next meeting of the Association will not be held until Thursday, December 6.

VEREIN MEETING

The "Deutscher Verein" holds its first meeting of the year to-night at New Meadows Inn. The Verein has at the present time about thirty members, and an unusually prosperous year is anticipated. Many speakers of note have already been secured, among whom is Prof. Keeno Francke, head of the department of Germanic Languages and Literature at Harvard University.

INFORMAL DANCE

Last Friday evening an informal dance was held at the Kappa Sigma House. An order of twenty-two dances was enjoyed, refreshments being served at intermission. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Elias Payson Grimes of Portland. The young ladies remained to witness the Colby-Bowdoin game Saturday, the house having being turned over to them the previous night. Among those present were: Miss Celia M. Pearson, Bridgeport, Conn.; Miss Alice M. Clancy, Saco; Miss Ella Sawtelle, Lewiston; Miss Alice F. McCarthy, Pordland; Miss Charlotte Lowell, Westbrook; Miss Harriette Wise, Gardiner; Miss Lucy Stetson, Brunswick; Miss Georgia Chadbourne, Saco; Miss Florence C. Smith, Wells Beach; Miss Ruth Woodhull Smith, Boston, Mass.; Miss Freda Belle Ward, Topsham; Miss Bes- sie Atherton Lugin, Lewiston; Miss Alice Hastings Eaton, Brunswick; Miss Maybelle Doughty, Brunswick; and Miss Hortense L. Stevens, Wakefield, Mass.

THE SOPHOMORE HOP

Arrangements have been made for a formal Sophomore Hop, to be given under the auspices of the Sophomore Class to the members of the football team on Friday, November 29. Lovell's Orchestra of five pieces, with Kendrie '10, as leader, has been engaged for music, and Morton is to furnish the refreshments. The only thing that remains to be settled is whether Memorial Hall can be used, and this is assured if fifty men agree to buy tickets. The tickets are one dollar for a couple, and refreshments will be served for twenty cents a person. The order of dances will be posted next Monday.

FRESHMAN ELECTION

At a meeting of the Freshman Class, Tuesday, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, James E. Draper; Vice-President, P. T. Nickerson; Secretary and Treasurer, J. Leland Crosby.

CHEMICAL CLUB MEETING

The first meeting of the Chemical Club was held at New Meadows, Tuesday evening. The program of the evening consisted of an informal discussion of the objects of the club, together with remarks by Professor Robinson, who made some suggestions on the conduct of the club. A number of new members were received into the club.

SCHEDULE OF DEBATES

Following is the schedule of debates in the debating course for the present semester.

November 13—"The present laws relating to Chinese Immigration should be amended to include the Japanese." Affirmative: Baldwin and Merrill. Negative: Snow and Roberts.

November 20—"The American Federation of Labor should enter politics as an independent party." Affirmative: Linnell and Harris. Negative: Redman and Hupper.

December 4—"The next Congress should thoroughly revise the tariff." Affirmative: Delavina and Merril. Negative: Mitchell and Snow.

December 18—"The Legislative Referencee applying to both the statutes and the constitution should be adopted by the State of Maine." Affirmative: Haley and Pike. Negative: Redman and Robinson.

January 8—"The joint States Senators should be selected by popular vote." Affirmative: Abbott and Seates. Negative: Baldwin and Whitmore.

January 15—"The law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in Maine should be resubmitted to the people at next State election." Affirmative: Pennell and Burton. Negative: Webber and Linnell.

REV. FRANCIS B. KNOWLTON, '58

Rev. Francis B. Knowlton, '58, died at his home in Athol, Mass., on October 17. Mr. Knowlton was born in Farmington, Maine, and received his early education at the Farmington Academy, coming to Bowdoin in 1854. After his graduation from college, he studied theology at Oxford, Penn., and at the Bangor Theological Seminary from which he graduated in 1863. He has exercised his ministry in Waldoboro, in Phillips, where he was ordained in 1865, in South Paris, in Alstead, and for eleven years in Orford, N. H. When at Orford, Mr. Knowlton's health failed him, and he was forced to give up his pastorate, though for over twenty years he has been active in the Congregational Church at his late home in Athol, even, on many occasions, filling the pulpit of that church. Mr. Knowlton leaves a widow and two sons, and is much missed by the people of Athol.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2¾ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

I have your dealer order it for you.

VOL. XXXVI  BRUNSWICK, MAINE, NOVEMBER 23, 1906  NO. 17

BOWDOIN, 6; MAINE, 0

Bowdoin closed her football season for the year 1906 with a great victory last Saturday, when in spite of the great handicap under which the team has labored, it defeated the University of Maine by a score of 6 to 0. It was a great game and a great victory; it was also a splendid vindication of the men who have worked with untiring energy against great odds throughout the year. In short, it was a proof of the old Bowdoin spirit.

The entire team played with a determination and dash that the confident Maine men were unable to meet and it is not too much to say that the Orono team was swept off its feet by the fierceness of Bowdoin's attack. Indeed, the size of the score is no indication of the superiority of the Bowdoin team. Maine had no play that Bowdoin did not smash up and at no time was the Maine team in hailing distance of the Bowdoin goal.

Maine was on the defensive nearly the entire game and had not Bowdoin wished to play a safe game in the last half, it is more than probable that we would have scored at least once more. It was, however, prudent to take no chances and it is this fact largely that allowed Maine being let off as easily as she was.

The entire Bowdoin team did splendid work and had these men been able to play with the form they were in Saturday, it would be safe to say that Bowdoin would have won the greater number of the games on her schedule. Speake did some sensational work in all departments of the game, while Gastonguay, Webber, McDade, Drummond, and indeed the entire team did some remarkably effective work. The touchdown came in about 8 minutes of play as the result of some good gains by Speake, a 30-yard gain through center by Gastonguay, an on-side kick and a forward pass, putting the ball in Maine's 5-yard line. Then Stacey was given the ball on a third and went over the line on a play which Maine was powerless to stop. Webber kicked the goal.

The game opened with Higgins kicking off to Bowdoin, Stacey receiving the ball on the 15-yard line and advancing to the 25-yard line before being downed. After two attempts at Maine's line, Bowdoin putted to Maine's 40-yard line. Maine then sent Swift at Bowdoin's right tackle twice in succession, but the first failed to gain and the second resulted in a loss. At this time Higgins made a good gain on a fake punt, but the next two plays brought no result, and Maine putted back to Bowdoin's 25-yard line. It was at this time that Bowdoin started for her touchdown.

Speake made 5 yards through tackle and then Gastonguay went through the center of the Maine line for 30 yards. Maine then held, but an on-side kick to Drummond gave Bowdoin 10 yards and a forward pass which Miner fumbled gave Bowdoin another big gain. Speake made 10 yards again, and after Webber had failed to gain, Speake carried the ball 5 yards, leaving it on Maine's 5-yard line. Stacey was then given the ball and cleared the line by a good yard. Webber easily kicked the goal.

Maine kicked off twice, each time the ball going over the line. Bowdoin then kicked off to Matheas on Maine's 23-yard line. Swift made about 4 yards on two attempts and then Maine was set back for holding. Miner got 4 yards on a run and then Bowdoin lost 5 yards for holding. Higgins now made about 7 yards but Swift failed and Maine was obliged to punt, the ball going to Bowdoin's 35-yard line. Speake made 10 yards on a delayed pass, and then Bowdoin retained the ball on a forward pass in Maine's territory. Bowdoin started down the field again, but was stopped on Maine's 35-yard line.

At this time Higgins made about 10 yards around left end, but after this Maine was again forced to punt. Speake failed to gain, but an on-side kick netted 5 yards. Then came a slip-up on a forward and Maine secured the ball on downs. Next came an exchange of punts, the half ending with the ball near the center of the field.

In the second half Maine made many changes and the team showed that it was weakening several times. Bowdoin, on the other hand, showed up as strong as in the first half and Maine's fresh men could do no more execution than could the others. Webber kicked off to Swift, who was downed on the 30-yard line. Maine could not gain and punted to Greene on the 35-yard line, he advancing the ball 10 yards before being downed. Speake failed and Webber made 6 yards, but on the on-side kick Maine got the ball. At this time Maine made first down once but the advance was quickly stopped. The remainder of the game was a repetition of this work, with all the odds in favor of Bowdoin, while frequent changes continue to be made in the Maine team. The game closed with the ball in Bowdoin's possession on Maine's 35-yard line, and good advances being made toward the Maine goal.

The summary:

THE OCTOBER QUILL

The dedicatory address which the Quill has the honor to print as its opening article, creates in the reader the instantaneous, unmistakable effect of eloquence. It would be an excellent model for analysis in classes of rhetoric and public speaking; and it is with something of the teacher's interest, not in the vain desire to praise where praise is needless and presumptuous, that we would call attention to its simplicity of diction and its dignity of treatment and to its fine congruity of form and subject, from the felicitous opening sentence to the striking parallel of the closing paragraphs.

It would be interesting, further, to notice in this connection what has constituted eloquence in different eras. For we have gone so far in reaction from the fulsome praise, the stilted arrangement, and the over-elaborated formalism of a Bossuet and even of our own Webster that we seldom attain so happily as does the present address the stateliness of a right use of the formal.

As the echo of a mood or as an attempt to suggest, yet conceal, that mood by words, "The Twilight Rock," has decided merit, but the hapless reviewer, who although unable, after the manner of reviewers, to rhyme two lines together, yet dares to criticise, feels that as poetry it has its limitations. The third stanza seems an intrusion, a troubling cross-motif. "Amid the encircling night" is not so expressive as the well-known line that its suggests, and "silently" and "eternity" as end words with the forced accents for proper stress, although permissible, are unpleasing.

There are notes in the story called "Poppies" that raise it to the level of a prose-poem. It has color and feeling and much of the spirit of its setting. It is an alluring theme, too, that of a life lived, as the writer well puts it, in "the peace that touched him on all sides yet could find no resting-place in his heart."

In the good work of this writer it may be pardonable to point out a possibly dangerous mannerism—the use of a sort of Latin absolute which sometimes results in so loose a sentence as to suggest misprints. Examples are "his pockets emptied," "a feeling almost of joy within him," "head bowed," and this broken sentence: "Camilla, too much the girl, too little the woman, and Hugo's voice so soft, Hugo's eye so fine, when he whispered she trembled and turned away."

As to the ending, well, there are those who will ask, Is it the vision of an overwrought brain projecting the image it cherishes, or is it the real woman appearing only to make necessary a second renunciation, greater than the first?

A long and rather tedious modern play, "A Pair of Spectacles" points the homely moral of "From the Fo'castle" no better than does this short rhymed lesson, a fresh, attractive form for the presenting of old truth, and for its wholesomeness we accept the Kipling jingle of the first stanza and commend the second with its succession of pleasing images.

So much has been written of Stevenson's determination to find life livable and, withal, so much unreasoning optimism has been preached in his name that it is not the theme so much as the spirit of the present Quill essay on "Stevenson's Theorem" which commends it. It is the buoyant exemplification of what Stevenson called the "ruddy convictions" of youth. It is a happy, contagious mood, and the style is correspondingly attractive with a literary flavor that raises it out of the order of barren platitude.

It is seldom in this writer that we find an awkward sentence similar to the one beginning, "A further proof ... is manifested by"—

So strongly and convincingly poetic are the closing verses of "Abelard at St. Marcel" ("Rashly we sowed ... etc.") that the weak first half seems the more disappointing as we re-read, for the diction is annoyingly uneven. The poem as a whole is rich in poetic feeling. "Maid of the winning ways" seems unsatisfactory for Heloise, especially as Abelard's transmuted passion dwelt on her. "What sad changes brings each year" is too commonplace a verse in a poem which, however it baffles, yet delights because of the hint and promise of possible achievement.

The sketch "The Island Belle" is for the greater part well-written yet it gives little decided flavor, and the ending is questionable, and if intended to justify the tale, hardly does so. Nevertheless, the reviewer admits that the objection to such denouements is largely a matter of personal feeling. There is a certain crudity throughout the fourth paragraph (p. 231) especially in such a sentence as "She wanted to be with young people of her own type more" and in the phrase "her delicate submission." "On arriving at the station a tug was summoned" is an instance of loose grammar rare in the pages of the Quill. Would not the author of this tale do well to try his powers of careful narration in the realm of dispassionate historical writing, or to attempt the serious or didactic essay?

With stories, essay, and poems all well above the average college publication, this is an especially creditable number of the Quill; but it is to be hoped that succeeding numbers will not leave the burden of contribution to the editors, who furnish also the Postman, which shows an appreciation of good college verse, and the Gray Goose Tracks which in this number has more content than usual and is a bit brighter and more readable to the "general public." Ordinarily this department adds little to the Quill and fails to utilize its opportunity.

The plea in Silhouettes is admirable in idea and suggestive for future articles in this department, but its contention that "Painting and sculpture have a stronger claim on our aesthetic nature than poetry or music" may be open to discussion. First, however, it would be necessary to have the writer explain just what is meant by "have a stronger claim."

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON CONVENTION

The sixtieth annual convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity was held at Springfield, Mass., on October 14, 15, and 16, under the auspices of the chapters at Amherst and Williams. The convention was one of the most successful and largest ever held, there being delegates present from thirty-nine out of the forty-one chapters. The program of the convention included a smoker at Amherst, several business sessions in Springfield, a ride around the country, a theatre party, and a banquet, which closed the session. The delegates from the Theta Chapter of Bowdoin were F. A. Burton, '07, and T. E. Hacker, '07. Bowdoin was also represented by H. DeForest Smith, '91; L. C. Hatch, '95; J. C. Minot, '96; C. M. Robinson, '98; G. P. Hyde, '88; A. A. Putnam, '88; A. W. Merrill, '88; H. M. Marsh, '90; R. O. Brewster, '90; and H. H. Burton, '90.

BATES WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

The victory of Bowdoin over Maine last Saturday gives the State Championship to Bates. This is the first time that Bates has had a clear and undisputed title. In 1902 Bates and Maine tied for the Championship, but it was generally conceded to Maine by comparative scores.

Bates began the season under discouraging circumstances, nine of her previous season's men having left college. But by her winning the championship great credit is due to Capt. Schumacher, and above all to Coach Purington, who, from unpromising material, developed the championship team of the State.

Thanksgiving “Cuts”

The Orient wishes to call attention to a notice in another column relative to cuts before and after the Thanksgiving recess. As is stated, cuts at either of these times will be a serious offense, and all students need to bear this in mind.

The faculty has been exceedingly liberal in its treatment of the students in regard to the extension of the recess and it is necessary for the best interests of the college that there be no cutting before or after. Everyone should read the notice carefully.

To the Alumni

The Orient would ask the alumni to send all the alumni personals possible.

The worth of the college paper to the graduate is determined in a large measure by the news it contains concerning men in college in previous years. The greater part of this must of necessity come from the alumni themselves. The deaths are usually secured without much difficulty but the changes in business, or location and a thousand other items stand a small likelihood of reaching the editors except from the alumni. All contributions of this kind will be a great help in making the Orient interesting to the graduate.

Our Football Season

The football season closed last Saturday by a victory which will serve to wipe out the memory of the season’s earlier defeats and disappointments. The victory over Maine showed, as has been so often shown before, that Old Bowdoin must always be reckoned with until the last game is over. We congratulate Captain Drummond, the coaches, and the team on the well-earned victory at Orono.

The present season has been unique in Bowdoin’s football history. Changes in the coaching system, eligibility rules, and in the game itself, caused confusion and inevitable mistakes, and if we profit by this year’s experience, the next season should be very successful. The season of 1907 may seem a long distance away, but it is not too early to prepare for it.

While we lose several good men in the present Senior Class, there is a wealth of good material from which to fill their places, without considering the next entering class. The letter from “Alumnus” in last week’s issue contains ideas which must appeal to every one. It must be admitted that both undergraduates and alumni do not favor such trips as the recent one to Cornell, which are undesirable in many ways; but on the other hand, there is a growing sentiment in favor of closer relations with Tufts, Wesleyan and Williams, whom we can meet on fairly even terms.

We should, if possible, have at least two games with New England colleges in Portland every season. These would be convenient for the student body, (which does not see the team play as often as it should) and would serve to bring Bowdoin before the rest of New England, as nothing else could. The financial side should not be forgotten, for the splendid patronage which Portland has always given to Bowdoin teams would enable the management to give liberal guarantees to the visiting teams, and make the season a financial success.

NOTICE

Thanksgiving Recess will extend from Wednesday, November 28, at 12:30 P.M. to Monday, December 3, at 8:30 A.M.

All students absent from recitations on Wednesday morning or Monday morning, without permission from the Secretary, obtained in advance, will be placed on probation.

Students are particularly warned not to miss trains.

KENNETH C. M. SILLS,
Secretary of the Faculty.

SOPHOMORE-FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The Sophomore-Freshman football will take place to-morrow on Whittier Field. Both classes have good teams and are confident of winning.

N. E. I. P. A. CONVENTION

Duddy, '07, represented Bowdoin at the annual convention of the New England Intercollegiate Press Association, held at the American House, Boston, last Friday evening. After the banquet and smoker, Mr. Corbury of the Boston Post gave an interesting talk on newspaper work. Twenty delegates from the various New England Colleges were present, making the Convention a most successful one.

College Notes

Kimball, '07, has returned to college.

Cleaves, '05, was on the campus this week.

French Reports will be due December 17.

A half semester quiz was given in Hygiene yesterday.

Clement Skofield, '05, has been in Brunswick for the past week.

The "Medics" have begun work in the physiological laboratory.

Evans, '01, passed through here Sunday morning, on his way to Mexico.

Haines, '07, was obliged to leave college last week on account of sickness.

Dr. Dyson of Portland, has replaced Dr. Hosmer on the Medical School Faculty.

W. W. Fairclough, '08, has been absent from college a number of days on business.

"The Chrystal Plex Carnival" has been the attraction at the Town Hall all this week.

The campus was almost deserted last Saturday and recitations were slily attended.

The annual initiations of the medical fraternities take place shortly after Thanksgiving.

The football captain for next year will be elected probably soon after the "Bs." are awarded.

Snow, '07, went to Lewiston, Monday, to coach the debating team of Lewiston High School.

A pleasing number of adjourns was granted by professors in their courses Saturday morning.

Maine's mascot, the "Blue Elephant," was on the field last Saturday—but failed to save the day.

Pictures of Speake, McDade and Captain Drummond appeared in the Boston Globe last Saturday.

Moulton, '09, entertained several of his college friends at his camp at Prout's Neck, over Sunday.

Gymnasium work begins immediately after the Thanksgiving recess. Have you got your suit ready?

It is noted with regret that the lecture by Hamlin Garland has had to be cancelled on account of illness.

Hupper, '06, has commenced his work as coach for Edward Little High School in the Debating League.

The "hot dogs" and "turnovers" of Sparks and Morrill are proving popular as nightly features of the "Ends."

Bower, '07, is receiving congratulatons for the able way in which he presided at the piano at "Railroad Jack."

S. G. Haley has gone to Thornton Academy, where he will coach the indoor track team for a short time.

An important change has been made recently in the hours of collecting the mail from the boxes about town. The collection which was formerly made at 6 A.M. has been abandoned and in its place a collection is now made at 8 o'clock in the evening.
Work in the gymnasium will commence, Monday, December 3.

Willis Haines, '07, left, Friday, for his home to be operated on for appendicitis.

Maud Adams is soon to appear at the Jefferson Theatre, Portland, in "Peter Pan."

All students will regret to learn that "Joe" Boyd is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia.

About a hundred and thirty took advantage of the reduced rates to attend the game at Orono.

A number of the "Medics" were unable to attend the game at Orono, on account of a quiz in Physiology.

Messer, '09, returned to college, Wednesday, Oct. 14, but is again confined at his home in Rockland by sickness.

Kendrie, '10, played a violin solo at the Saint Paul's Episcopal Church in Brunswick, Sunday evening.

Fiske, '09, and Robinson, '08, led the Bowdoin cheering, Saturday, in the absence of the regular leaders.

Thwing, '09, and Webster, '10, attended the Beta Theta Pi banquet in Bangor, on the night after the game, Saturday.

At the third meeting of the Faculty Club held Monday evening, Dr. Burnett read an interesting paper on "Boethius."

A. O. Pike went to Gardiner last Wednesday to begin his duties as debating coach to the Gardiner High School.

Joe Pendleton, '91, refereed the Dartmouth-Harvard game. Mr. Pendleton is acquiring great success as a referee.

A handsome building structure is being erected on the lot formerly occupied by the Greene house on Maine Street!

The examination in History V. was postponed last Friday, but examinations were held in the other courses as scheduled.

The apportioning of the scholarships is now completed and interested parties can ascertain full particulars at the Treasurer's office.

On the calendar of the First Parish Church Sunday were the names of eleven students who are assisting in the work of the church.

Those taking English 3 to Professor William T. Foster are to have a vacation in writing daily themes until after the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Sophomore Hop takes place to-night. This is a new social event in the college—but will probably be a very successful and pleasant occasion.

A bonfire, speeches by the professors, songs and cheers, and a rousing welcome of the comers from Bangor, was a part of Saturday night's program.

The Portland Bowling Team, the champion team of the State, defeated the Brunswick team three straight sets on the Park alleys, Monday evening.

Bates is thanking Bowdoin for the aid we gave her in giving her the title to the state championship in football this fall. It is interesting to notice that this is the first time that a state championship in football has gone to any other college except Bowdoin or University of Maine.

A rumor was circulated that Francis was seen about one of the Fraternity Houses last week. The trade in revolvers and guns has been active about town!

In celebrating the Bowdoin victory Saturday evening, the chapel bell was twice turned over, making it impossible to ring it for the chapel service, Sunday afternoon.

Professor Little this week explained to the freshmen the card catalogue of the Library and the method of finding books. This took the place of the Thursday recitation in English I.

Duddy, '07, attended the annual initiation and banquet of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity at Brown University last week. On his return he witnessed the Harvard-Dartmouth game at Cambridge.

Miss Harvey's dancing school bids fair to be more popular than ever this winter. Many of the students are attending the school, while the first Assembly, Monday evening, drew a goodly number.

The date of the third Hare and Hounds run was set for yesterday, November 22. These runs have been very well attended this fall and should help materially in developing track material for next spring.

The Freshman-Sophomore football game to-morrow, will probably be close and exciting. There has been a large number of candidates for both teams and the practice has been more thorough than usual.

Several members of the Bangor High School football team were entertained at the fraternity houses Friday. Saturday the team played Portland High in the annual game, which resulted in a tie, neither side scoring.

The Brunswick High School will this winter support a boys' basketball team. The team commenced practice Monday afternoon in the Armory Hall. Geo. C. Whittmore, a former Andover man, will coach the team.

F. T. Smith, '08, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury last Saturday. While standing on the running-board of an electric, bound to Orono from Bangor, he was struck by a pole and knocked off the car, rendering him unconscious for some time.

While on the way to the game last Saturday, Bowdoin men were reminded of several different defeats painted on the fences at Waterville and Orono. We've never attempted to decorate the fence at Whittier Field in this fashion, besides the fence isn't long enough.

Cards have been received at college announcing the coming wedding of Charles Penney Kinsman, ex-'07, to Miss Hortense Beauharnais Powers, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Don A. H. Powers of Houlton. The wedding will take place at the Episcopal Church in Houlton, Thursday afternoon, December 6.

A book in which all questions, suggestions, and complaints can be filed by the students, has been placed upon the delivery desk at the Library. The book is in charge of Prof. Little, who will attend to all questions asked, and whatever complaints may be made. A book of similar nature was kept in the Library four years ago, and proved very popular.
The Freshman football squad began practice last Monday afternoon. More than enough for two teams were present and some lively scrimmage work was indulged in.

Harold B. Weiker, '08, is out of college at present as a result of an operation which he has been obliged to undergo for appendicitis. All will be glad to learn that the operation was successfully performed and that the latest reports indicate that he is improving as fast as can be expected.

The Holderness Club held its first meeting on Nov. 14, at the room of Gregson, '08. Officers were elected as follows: President, Chandler, '07; Vice-President and Treasurer, Gregson, '08; Secretary, Stephens, '10. The club is soon to have a shingle and it is planned to have a meeting at the Inn.

At the next meeting of the Saturday Club, the works of Margaret Deland, will be studied and discussed. There will be papers upon her work by Misses Frances A. McKeen and Miss Annabel Stetson. The works of this author are at present in great demand at the Library.

Friday evening a rousing mass-meeting was held in Memorial Hall to arouse enthusiasm for the Maine game. Capt. Drummond presided, and the speakers were Manager Allen, Professor Sills, Coaches LaFerriere and Beane, and E. C. Plummer of the Class of '87. All spoke hopefully of the Maine game and eulogized the Bowdoin spirit to the highest degree. The speech of Mr. Plummer was the best that has been given at a Bowdoin mass-meeting for a long time. After the meeting the bleacher seats were put on sale, and students who had not signed their intentions of going with the team were given a chance to do so.

THE FACULTY

Professor W. T. Foster will speak before the Christian Fraternity at Exeter Academy, Nov. 25.

Prof. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson left Sunday for Mexico. They arrived at Chicago on Tuesday and there joined the special train which will take the delegates to the American Public Health Association to Mexico. The party takes a considerable tour of the southwest and Mexico before arriving at the city. En route they will visit Kansas City, Colorado, the Grand Canon, the Garden of the Gods, the Petrified Forest, Vera Cruz, and the old ruins and natural wonders of that region. The train does not arrive in Mexico City until December 2, when the meetings of the Association will continue for a week. Professor and Mrs. Robinson intend to travel somewhat on the way home and are not expected to arrive home until after Christmas.

ART BUILDING NOTES

Mr. Edward P. Warren, the distinguished expert in classical antiquities, through whom the Misses Walker secured the Greek Amphora for their collection, has recently given to the college a marble bust of the Emperor Antonius Pius. The work dates from the life time of that Emperor (on the throne from 138 to 161 A. D.), and in its glossy finish shows well the workmanship of the time. It is a portrait of great dignity, and has suffered only slight mutilation. It is placed on a pedestal in the southwest corner of the Sculpture Hall, of which it is a distinguished ornament.

Three other works of sculpture, consisting of a low-relief of the Alexandrian Age, a marble Head of Christ, it is supposed, and a fragment of Assyrian sculpture, have also been received at the Art Building from the same source and will be exhibited before long. These pieces of original classic sculpture will be valuable additions to the collections, for although of course it is necessary that we have more casts of the world famous sculpture, it yet adds much to have some examples of the real handiwork of the Ancient Romans.

Professor Johnson has recently asked Professor Hutchins to put on exhibition and for sale enlargements of the principal photographs which he took while abroad last summer, or when on his earlier sale. There are now a few of the photographs at the Art Building, and the whole will be ready for exhibition within a week.

Within the past week a low relief of Hercules has been put in place on one of the pilasters in the Sculpture Hall. The light from the dome is of excellent effect in showing the good qualities of this classical original, which is placed just at the side of the bust of Antonius Pius.

An important addition to the works of American artists has just been made to the college collections by Mrs. Annie L. Cummings of Portland, who has given to the college a set of the valuable illustrations of Shakespeare's plays, drawn by Mr. F. O. C. Darley in the last ten years of his life. These drawings are temporarily on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery, with quotations from Shakespeare, showing what point each drawing represents. It will be remembered that Miss Walker gave, not long before her death, the set of original Darley's illustrations of Evangeline now exhibited in the Walker Gallery.

There will be exhibited shortly in the Bowdoin Gallery a set of large illustrations of the Parthenon, loaned by the Library Art Club.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday, November 15, President Hyde conducted an informal questionnaire, and answered such "Practical Questions of College Life" as were put to him. Questions were written out and passed to the President who selected such as were practical and answered them. There was much interest taken in the meeting and the hall was crowded with students.

VEREIN MEETING

The Deutscher Verein held the first meeting of the year at New Meadows Inn last Friday evening. The meeting was a purely business one. J. S. Leydon was elected "Vorsitzender," M. P. Whipple, "Schriftwart," J. F. Morrison, "Kassenwart," J. J. Stahl, "Bibliothekar," Prof. G. T. Files, Prof. R. J. Ham, and Neal W. Allen were chosen as a committe to secure speakers for the coming year.
HARE AND HOUND

The second of the series of hare and hound races was held Wednesday of last week. The hares, Teft, '09, Ludwig, '10, Kimball, '10, and Simmons, '09, succeeded in making their den, the gymnasium, about two minutes before they were overtaken by the hounds. The course was about eight miles in length, and was about as follows: From the gymnasium to the rifle range, across the plains to Coffin's Pond, from there through the woods to the Mere Point road about a mile to Longfellow's Avenue, through Longfellow's Avenue to Coffin's, and from there back to the gymnasium. The hounds were Collath, '10, R. D. Morss, '10, P. H. Morss, '10, Weeks, '10, Morrison, '08, A. Robinson, '08, D. Robinson, '07, Chadbourn, '07, Powers, '09, Weston, '10, Voter, '09, Sturdevant, '09, Gray, '08, Wing, '10, McLaughlin, '10, and Smith, '10.

THE SHOW

Now that the football season is over, active work will commence on the college show by the Baseball Association. It has been decided to present this about January 18. A new style of entertainment has been planned. The idea of the first half of the show is for the curtain to rise on a scene representing a fete day or some similar idea. The chorus will be composed of students, and then the customary "end men" will appear as travelling entertainers. This will vary the monotony of the stereotyped minstrel show form. The second part will contain a number of bright vaudeville sketches. It will be a strictly Bowdoin show throughout, by college ability alone. Rehearsals will commence directly after Thanksgiving, and it is hoped that there will be a generous response to the request for help as the aid of all is needed in making the show a success.

PRESIDENT HYDE AT CHAPEL

At chapel Sunday Pres. Hyde spoke on the importance of every student taking upon himself some particular duty connected with the college life and attending to it as though it was a part of his own private affairs. In this way, he said, a student becomes a leader, and is prepared to take the position of a leader after he leaves college. About 90 per cent. of the college activities are performed by about ten percent of the students. Every student should be fitted while in college to become a leader in some one thing, and not belong to the much larger class of those who are led.

JOHN IRWIN COMING SOON

It is expected that John Irwin, the baseball coach, will come down for a week or ten days directly after Thanksgiving to look over the baseball material for next spring and make arrangements for the cage work. Irwin will appear in the spring about March 15. All baseball players should make especial efforts to see him during this time.

THE "B" MEN

At the time of going to press the Orient cannot give the exact list of "B" men as the Council meeting was not held in time for this issue. On the basis of playing the whole of two or parts of three major games, which usually include the Maine College and Tufts games, the following men would receive the coveted letter: McCabe, Newman, Garcelon, Commins, Stacey, Greene, Speake, Gastonguay, J. Drummond, Stanley, Manter, Lee. Four other men who have played one entire game and practically the whole of another are Sewall, Ellis, Draper and Webber.

BANGOR BANQUET

Bowdoin men feel very grateful to the Bangor alumni for the fine banquet given the football men after the game last Saturday. Bowdoin is noted for her loyal alumni, but it is safe to say that none are more so than those residing about Bangor. The football men fully appreciated their kindness.

Alumni Personals

CLASS OF 1870.

Hon. DeAlva S. Alexander, '70, has just published a very valuable book entitled "A Political History of New York." A copy of the book, which was presented by the author, is now available at the Library.

CLASS OF 1883.

Wallace E. Mason, '83, was recently elected Superintendent of Schools at Andover, Mass., over a large number of other candidates. This is one of the most prominent educational positions in the State and one which is much sought after.

CLASS OF 1897.

Benjamin J. Fitz, '97, was in Brunswick, Monday. Mr. Fitz is at the present time a rector in one of the large churches of New York City.

On August 4 a son was born to R. S. Hagar, '97, in Joplin Missouri. The boy will be named after his father, who is now a prosperous lawyer and is connected with the Conqueror Trust Company in Joplin.

CLASS OF 1903.

Farnsworth G. Marshall last July was elected Principal of the Cony High School in Augusta, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Principal C. S. Cook.

CLASS OF 1903.

Grant Pierce, submaster in the Westbrook High School has tendered his resignation to take effect at the beginning of the year, which would be the close of the present term or at once, if a successor is found.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andy Havey at their home in Franklin Oct. 29. The young man bears the name of Boardman Blaisdell Havey.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2 1/2 inch or 2 3/4 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

SYRACUSE DEBATE

According to present indications it is more than likely that Bowdoin will meet Syracuse University in debate sometime during the coming winter. Some time ago, the Bowdoin Debating Council received a letter from the New York University asking for a debate with Bowdoin and signifying a willingness to enter into a two-year agreement and intimating the advisability of a triangular league consisting of Bowdoin, Syracuse and some third college some time in the future.

The matter was considered at a meeting of the Bowdoin Council just before the Thanksgiving recess and Syracuse notified that Bowdoin would be willing to debate if satisfactory arrangements could be made.

A second letter was received the present week stating under what conditions Syracuse would prefer to debate, among other things mentioning faculty coaching. Bowdoin has never had faculty coaching and as to just what action will be taken in this connection cannot yet be stated. A further letter of inquiry has been sent to Syracuse to find out if they would be willing to give up their system under any condition. If they decide not to do so, the Bowdoin Council will have to decide whether they will be willing to debate under faculty coaching arrangements. It is felt, however, that some satisfactory arrangements can be made by which the matter may be settled.

The matter of place has, of course, not been discussed to any great extent as yet.

SPECIAL STUDENTS IN ATHLETICS

Editors of the Orient:

It is rumored that the Bowdoin Faculty is considering the step of refusing to allow special students to represent the college in any branch of athletics during their first year in the college. Speaking as a graduate who has closely followed Bowdoin athletic affairs for over a dozen years, I sincerely hope that no such drastic rule will be passed—at least, not until Bowdoin has many more students than at present. It would be an injustice to our athletic interests and a discrimination unworthy of the Bowdoin spirit of fair play. By all means keep the standard of admission high for special students as well as for others, and hold them to their work after they are admitted, but once admitted do not deprive them of any of the privileges of college life or deprive the college of any benefits which may result from their presence. Does anybody urge that they be barred from the debating team or from the musical clubs?

We all know that those whom Bowdoin grudgingly admits as special students would be welcomed to regular standing in the other colleges of the State—not only welcomed, but sought after and urged by every manner of inducement to go there. If Bowdoin is to continue to play any part in intercollegiate athletics it cannot afford to place itself under the unnecessary handicap of barring out any student or group of students whom it deems worthy of admission and who maintain the required classroom standing. There may have been one or two instances in the past decade of special students taking part in athletics who ought not to have been admitted, but this is hardly a sufficient reason for a sweeping rule which would shut out the many who come to Bowdoin in good faith and who have the ability and the disposition to maintain the required rank while playing on the eleven or the nine.

There is no escaping the fact that such a rule would turn away from Bowdoin and toward other colleges many boys who have a liking for athletics and a natural desire to participate in them—boys, too, in many instances, perfectly able to keep up in their work if admitted here. Such students would be welcomed to Dartmouth, Amherst, Wesleyan and Tufts, not to mention the other Maine colleges, and be eligible to represent them at once in contests against us. Such a consideration must be allowed some weight unless we are to give up athletics together as is perhaps the desire of some members of the Faculty. The difficulty of gaining admission to Bowdoin is already well understood in the preparatory schools, and in fact is often... exaggerated there by the emissaries of our sister colleges who are continually going to desirable athletes and saying in substance: "It is no use for you to try to get into Bowdoin; come with us." Sometimes they are justified in saying this and sometimes they scare away from Bowdoin a fellow who could gain admission here if he tried for it. In any case such a new rule as is suggested would make things still harder for us in the keen and constant competition in the fitting schools. I urge that by its present high standards of entrance and of work Bowdoin is sufficiently handicapped in athletic matters.

It is occasionally argued that the undergraduates put too much emphasis on athletics. I fear that some of the members of our faculty put too little emphasis on them, and fail to see them in their true place in undergraduate life and as affecting the welfare of the college. I know that Bowdoin victories and defeats in athletics mean more to hundreds of her alumni than those on the campus are apt to realize. Many of the alumni feel that those in charge of our athletic interests have been crowded full hard enough as it is, and deeply deplore any tendency to deplete the numbers of our available athletes or to discourage good athletes from coming to Bowdoin—whether they come for one year or for four. Let fitness to do the college work, not length of residence, be the test of eligibility.

C.

GREETING TO PEARY

Every Bowdoin student who could possibly be present was at the Railroad Station on last Tuesday and greeted Commander Robert Edwin Peary, '77, who was on the way to New York after his dash to the pole. Commander Peary made a brief address and was cheered again and again by the assembled students. He said in part:

"I could not resist coming out to see you, boys. I am very deeply pleased and proud of this greeting. It is gratifying to find that Bowdoin students recognize the achievement of reaching the farthest north that has been reached by any man during three centuries of endeavor. I assure you that my memory of Bowdoin was never greener than during those days in the frozen region. I am glad that Bowdoin men feel an interest in me. The possession, I believe, of any record of any test of skill or strength is a desirable asset to a man, an institution or a nation."

His speech was interrupted by frequent cheers, and when he had finished, the students took up the yell "Bully for Peary," and kept it up until the train had pulled out.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editors of the Orient:

I have noticed during the last two or three years a growing tendency to cut down the space in the Orient allotted to Alumni News, and the resulting scarcity of such news has impressed on my mind the necessity of publication devoted primarily to the interests of Bowdoin's graduates. Such a magazine might be issued quarterly and contain, besides news from all classes, corporation and faculty news, and undergraduate notes, one or two general articles of especial interest to Bowdoin men, pertaining to the history of the college or the State or to special studies in which the members of the Faculty or Alumni may be engaged. This publication would furnish a medium for the expression of graduate opinion, and, in its pages, controversies, such as those at present appearing in the Orient, could be fought to a finish.

Of course all such details as those above suggested would be decided upon after the main point, whether or not such a publication be instituted. I do not claim any originality in this idea; numerous colleges, East and West, can testify to the practicability of the idea. William and Mary College, though a small institution, has for years published a "Quarterly" which has been the source of not a little of the early colonial history of Virginia. But a Graduates' Magazine should be instituted, not because other colleges have done so, but because of its own merits.

The publication of this magazine would call for a considerable amount of self-denial on the part of those who took it directly in hand, but surely the work is worthy of the price. We do not for an instant, doubt the loyalty of Bowdoin men, but think how much the knowledge of the doings of her alumni from 1850 and before to 1906 will increase that Esprit de Corps which we so cherished in our undergraduate days! We are justly proud of the success of our fellow-alumni, but we only hear of some of the most conspicuous achievements, and it is safe to say that the names of many of our successful alumni are strangers to us. The Graduates’ Magazine would counteract this, and, by keeping the sons of Bowdoin in touch with one another, would make each one feel more strongly the duty he owes to his Alma Mater.

I am writing this to the Orient in the hope that some of the alumni may feel strongly enough to push this matter. I know there are numerous arguments in favor of it which I have not stated for the reason that I believe such arguments will readily suggest themselves to all readers. I am confident that if such a publication were undertaken, it would be a source of pride to all sons of Bowdoin.

Yours truly,

GEORGE W. BURFEE, ’04.

ALPHA KAPPA KAPPA INITIATION

The annual initiation of the Alpha Kappa Kappa Fraternity of the Medical School will take place to-morrow afternoon and evening, concluding with a banquet at New Meadows Inn.

HARE AND HOUND RACE

Owing to the unseasonable cold weather of the first of the week, no steps were taken toward running off the hare and hound race for the cup that has been offered by the track management. Just when this will take place the Orient was unable to ascertain at the time of going to press, but Capt. Shorey stated that it would occur as soon as the conditions warranted. There has been fine interest in the hare and hound work this fall and it is probable that there will be from 15 or 20 men in the contest.

ANNUAL SHOW

The first general rehearsal for the Annual Show will take place in the Christian Association Rooms next Monday evening. A large number is desired for this production and every man is asked to come out. The manager cannot, of course, call personally on every man and ask each one to come out and help. This general summons is given and we hope all will respond. The “End Men” have been selected and active work must commence at once if it is to be produced on January 11, which is the desired date. The production will be produced at least once out of town and all helping will be taken on the trips. Robert A. Toothaker, of Brunswick, has been engaged to coach the show.

ELLERY CLARK’S LECTURE

The Orient is unable to publish a report of last evening’s lecture by Ellery Clark, owing to the date of going to press. An account will, however, appear in next week’s issue.

Vol. XXXVI.  December 7, 1906  No. 18

The Orient, in common with all students, extends most sincere sympathy to William R. Crowley in his recent bereavement in the loss of his father.

Peary’s Ovation

Probably few times in the history of the college has there been accorded to an alumnus such a splendid reception as was given Commander Peary when he passed through Brunswick. Doubtless there has been more formal demonstrations in the past, but certainly none which were characterized with more enthusiasm or more genuine spontaneity of feeling than that given the great explorer.

Although Commander Peary was not expecting the demonstration he was, nevertheless, able to make most fitting remarks. He laid little stress on what he had accomplished, but spoke with a loyalty toward Bowdoin that was an inspiration to every undergraduate. This fact, with the informality of the occasion, made it something that every man who was there will always remember as one of the delightful incidents of his college course.

Bowdoin has turned out many famous sons, but it is safe to say that none of them are closer to the hearts of the undergraduates than is Commander Peary, as was attested by the reception accorded him.

Death of Judge Wiswell

The Orient regrets to announce the loss of one of Bowdoin’s best known sons in the death of Chief Justice A. P. Wiswell, which occurred very suddenly at Boston last Monday. Judge Wiswell was a trustee and an alumnus of which Bowdoin was proud. Bowdoin mourns the loss of one of her loyal sons and the State one of her brightest men.

Communications

The Orient is pleased to welcome an unusually large number of communications in the recent issues. Few features of the college weekly can be made of more interest and worth to the college than a frank discussion of matters of college importance through the columns of the paper. The Orient hopes that they will continue to come in, during the remainder of the year.

Hockey

There appears to be considerable interest in hockey at present and there is reason to believe that the college would be able to produce a first-class team this winter. There has been more or less discussion of this sport for several years past, and two years ago arrangements were made for a rink on Whittier Field, but there did not appear to be the interest necessary to produce a team. This is not true now, and it is believed that the only thing necessary is the permission of the council.

That a good winter sport would serve to enliven interest in athletics in general there can be no doubt; and in view of the unusual amount of hockey material in college there would seem to be no reason why the sport should not be tried, at least experimentally.

Bowdoin has no basketball team, despite the fact that nearly every other college has such teams, and if we put out a hockey team it would serve to fill the want of a winter sport. The report of the committee of the Athletic Council, to which was referred the matter of hockey, is awaited with interest.

College Rally

It has become customary in the past few years for the President of the Athletic Association to appoint the committee for the Annual College Rally. Although no formal motion to this effect was made at the recent mass-meeting as has been done previously, still the Orient would recommend that steps be taken to appoint a committee similar to that of the past two years to take the affair in charge. We certainly want a good, rousing rally next spring and it is none too early to begin preparations.

Proposed Debate

All will be glad to learn of the proposed debate with Syracuse University and will unite in the hope that the two institutions may meet in an intercollegiate contest. Bowdoin will, of course, be engaging herself in fast company in meeting a college of between 2,000 and 3,000 students, and our men would perhaps meet some of the best debaters in eastern colleges. On the other hand, it is probable that the New York University will put out at least two teams this year, whereas the present plan at Bowdoin is to only engage in one. Again Wesleyan, which is about Bowdoin's size, has met Syracuse in years past, and it is understood has won more than half of the contests. And in any event there would be no disgrace by being defeated by one of the largest colleges in the East.

A strong argument in favor of debating a first-class institution is that we have far less at stake so far as victory and defeat is concerned.

With an inferior college there is almost nothing to win and everything to lose. If we win there is no great amount of credit, while a defeat would be felt keenly. With Syracuse, however, such an argument would not hold. A defeat would be no disgrace, and a victory would be a victory worth while.

Another argument in favor of such a debate would be that it is a step out of the provincial-ism in which our athletics have become involved, and which is the subject of considerable dissatisfaction on the part of the alumni. Debating with a New York College would put one of our teams where many of our alumni believe they ought to be, and would surely be beneficial. The Orient unites with the greater part of the undergraduates in the hope that the arrangements may be satisfactorily completed.

HOCKEY

At the last meeting of the Athletic Council a committee in charge of Files, '08, was appointed to investigate the matter of ice hockey for the coming winter. Several other colleges have decided to introduce the game and there is reason to expect that it will be possible to arrange games with those institutions. It has been definitely decided to build a regulation rink on Whittier Field so that it will at least be possible to arrange class and fraternity games. The committee is busy making inquiries as to the methods and expenses of hockey at other New England colleges and will soon have a report ready. There are a number of men in college who have had experience in the game, and it ought to be possible to secure a good team to represent the college. Among those who have played are Abbott, '08, Wight, '08, Dresser, '09, Hughes, '09, McDade, '09, Purinton, '08, Hamburger, '10, Ready, '10, Draper, '10, and others will doubtless be found later.

CERCLE FRANCAIS

The Cercle Francais held its first formal meeting at the Psi Upsilon House on Tuesday evening, Professor Micheleau giving a short and instructive address on the French educational system. He spoke of how the severity of the French discipline tends to develop the mind at the expense of the body. The French school boy has no games like our football, basketball or baseball and practically his only form of exercise is short walks into the country, accompanied on all occasions by his teacher. The average school boy of France is much younger than the average American school boy. This is caused by the fact that after the age of twenty-one all the men in France are eligible to be drafted into the army. Thus if a man desires an education, he has to acquire it before he reaches his majority.

The conversation of the evening was carried on almost entirely in the French language, and at the close several French songs were sung. The Cercle contemplates staging some French plays at the end of the year.
College Notes

Catalogues will soon be out.
Otis, '10, is sick with tonsillitis.
Reports in French III, will be due December 17.
Powers, '09, has been appointed monitor of his class.
Sewall, '06, has been passing a few days in Brunswick.
The required exercise in the gymnasium began Monday.
The Bowdoin calendars for 1907 will appear Saturday, Dec. 15.
A meeting of the Chemical Club will be held next Monday evening.

The campus was deserted from last Thursday to Monday morning.
The Deutscher Verein meets at the Inn on Friday evening of next week.
Dr. Lincoln spoke before the Bowdoin Club of Boston last Saturday.
The mid-semester warnings came out just before the Thanksgiving holidays.
The work of putting the outdoor running track in place was begun this week.
Kenneth Tefft spent Thanksgiving with John Hurley at his home in Oldtown.
Fernald, '07, has returned, and is starting in his course at the Medical School.
Dr. Lincoln gave an address at the Episcopal Church, Sunday, November 25.
Joy, ex-'07, and Tobey, '06, are both in the employ of the Boston Telephone Company.

Buck, '09, will be out of college for the next ten weeks teaching school in Harrison, Me.
The New Hampshire Club will meet at the Delta Upsilon House next Wednesday evening.

The Ransom B. Fuller has been taken off of the run from Boston to Bath for the winter.
Collins, '07, returned to college the first of last week, and has entered the Medical School.
S. G. Haley has returned from Thornton Academy, where he has been acting as athletic instructor.
There is a possibility that the “Cercle Francais” will put a French play on the stage some time during the year.
Richardson, '09, has accepted a position as instructor in Latin, French, and Mathematics at Greeley Institute, Cumberland, Me.
Gymnasium work began in earnest last Monday. Make-up work in the Gymnasium comes on Tuesday, at 3.30 and Saturdays at 2.30 o’clock.
A stack of silver dollars one foot high is offered by Callahan’s Commoner for the best three short stories. Send stamp for particulars to James E. Callahan, Editor, 109 Randolph Street, Chicago.
An effort is being made to have Leland Powers speak in Memorial Hall some time in January. The address will be given under the joint auspices of the college and the Saturday Club. Mr. Powers has already spoken twice in Memorial Hall.

Humphreys, Medic., is ill at his home with typhoid fever.
Miss Mary Ward is presiding at the organ at the Sunday chapel services for the present.
The board coverings to the stone steps about the campus have been put on for the winter.
Redman, '07, spent Tuesday in Augusta for the purpose of coaching the Cony High School debating team.
A number of the Portland fellows remained in the city, Monday, in order to vote in the municipal election.
A picture of Philoan, '05, who is now at West Point, appears in the last week’s issue of Leslie’s Weekly.

Kendrie, '10, plays at the Congregational Church every Sunday and will continue to do so throughout the year.

The Portland and Bangor High School football teams played their third tie game of the season on Saturday, Nov. 24.
Mincher, '07, has returned to college from his home in Mattawankeag, where he has been for the past two weeks.
The Works of Margaret Deland were studied and discussed at the meeting of the Saturday Club held Saturday afternoon.
Giles, '07, has been at his home in East Brownfield for the past two weeks, but is expected to return in a few days.
A Freshman in the Library looking for Professor Little, a few days ago, inquired at the desk if Professor Small was there.
Quite a lot of property, such as fountain pens, money and caps, was lost in the rush after the Sophomore-Freshman football game.

Last Monday evening four students took advantage of the clear night and what snow there was, to go tobogganng on the Stand-Pipe Hill.
The baseball men will be divided into four squads for the indoor work this season. Cox, '04, and Capt. Files, will each have charge of two squads.
The members of the Study Class of the First Parish Church were entertained by Rev. Herbert A. Jump at his rooms, Tuesday evening of last week.

What about Government Clubs, History Clubs, and “Poly Con” Clubs? Have they got the fate of this year’s “Bowdoin Night,” or are they simply sleeping.

College re-opened Monday morning after the Thanksgiving recess. Nearly all of the students were able to go home, owing to the extension of the recess.
There was a meeting of the “Cercle Francais” at the Psi Upsilon House last Tuesday night. Monsieur Micolot gave a very instructive and entertaining lecture.

Henry L. Johnson, ex-'07, a former Brunswick boy, but now residing at Berlin, N. H., was a visitor in town Wednesday of last week, on his way to Wiscasset, where he passed Thanksgiving.
The Connecticut Club was entertained at the Inn after the Sophomore-Freshman football game by McMillan, '10. In the evening the club attended the entertainment and dance in the Town Hall.
Many of the students were at the depot Wednesday evening of last week to see Francis, the negro who escaped from State's prison, and who was being taken back to Thomaston.

Crowley, '08, is still confined in his home, suffering from the injuries received some time ago at practice. In addition to a broken collar bone, he is also threatened with water on the knee.

McDade, whose ankle was severely injured in the class football game, is still unable to be about the first of the week, though it is hoped that no permanent injury to the member will result.

Messer, '09, who was here for a few days, left for his home in Rockland, Monday, November 26. He will not return to college until next September as he is obliged to remain at home on account of his health.

Stacey, '09, expects to enter business in Chicago at an early date, probably in the wholesale shoe business. Everyone will regret the loss of Mr. Stacey and their best wishes will accompany him in his new line of work.

Gould, '08, gave a lecture on "Labrador" under the auspices of the Baptist Church at Livermore Falls last Friday evening. He also gave the lecture before the pupils of the Brunswick Grammar School last Wednesday.

Willis E. Haines, '07, who was recently operated on for appendicitis at the Maine General Hospital in Bangor, is doing as well as can be expected, although at the first of the week he had not been able to leave the hospital.

There was a small attendance at the business meeting of the Christian Association on November 22. The various heads of committees made their reports and Allen, '07, gave a short outline of the work for the year.

The illustrated section of last Saturday's Lawrence Journal, contained an extended account of the late Charles Frederick Kimball, together with a half-tone picture of one of his paintings in the Walker Art Building.

Most of the students who remained in Brunswick over the Thanksgiving holidays went down to Bath on Saturday and witnessed the launching of the six-masted schooner "Annie M. Lawrence," from the yard of Percy and Small.

At chapel, on the Sunday before Thanksgiving, President Hyde read the Thanksgiving proclamation and, with that text, spoke of the various things the college as a whole should be thankful for, its endowment, buildings and, most of all, its loving graduates.

The regular Tuesday evening debate was held in the debating room last Tuesday evening, the question being "That the United States Should Thoroughly Revise the Tariff." The disputants on the affirmative were Delavina, '08, and Merrill, '08; for the negative, Mitchell, '07, and Snow, '07.

On the evening of November 23 there was a railroad wreck at the Brunswick station. The shifting engine drawing a freight train struck the eastern freight just as it was pulling out from the yard and knocked three cars from the track. Very little damage was done and the cars were soon put back on the rails.

Just before the Thanksgiving vacation an agent called at a number of the students' rooms, claiming to be soliciting subscriptions for "Life." He required a deposit of a dollar and promised that the magazine would arrive the next week. Several fellows accepted his offer, and were much chagrined to find on the bulletin board the next day a telegram from the Life Publishing Company warning them against this supposed agent.

THE FACULTY

"Nationalizing Influence of Party," is the subject of an article in the November number of the "Yale Review," by Prof. Allen Johnson. Prof. R. C. McCrea has an article in the November number of "The Quarterly Journal of Economics," entitled "Taxation of Real Estate Property in Pennsylvania." This article is made the subject of a long editorial by the Boston Transcript.

During the past week Prof. W. T. Foster attended the meeting of the Educational Congress in Boston.

On December 13, Prof. W. T. Foster will deliver a lecture at Dixfield.

Professor Leslie A. Lee has been elected President of the Maine Ornithological Society.

Professor K. C. M. Sills addressed the men's meeting at Columbia Theatre, Bath, on Sunday afternoon. He spoke on "Some Beauties of the Bible."

Professor William T. Foster addressed the Christian Fraternity at Exeter Academy last Sunday.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETING

At a meeting of the Athletic Council held on Nov. 24 the awarding of the football "B's" for the past season was voted on, 16 men receiving the letter. The list of men receiving the letter was the same as indicated in the last issue of the Orient.

Another matter that came up for consideration was that of ice hockey for the coming winter. After some discussion it was decided to leave the matter in charge of a committee consisting of Dr. Whittier, Redman, '07, and Files, '08. The committee will probably report at the next meeting of the Council.

Robinson, '08, and Ham, '08, were named as the candidates for football manager, and Burton, '09, and Simmons, '09, as candidates for assistant managers to be voted on at the mass-meeting held on the following Monday evening.

FOOTBALL MANAGERS

At a mass-meeting of the student body held Monday evening, Nov. 26, Carl Merrill Robinson, '08, was elected manager of the football team for next year, and John S. Simmons, '09, was elected assistant manager.
LIBRARY NOTES

Within the last month the Library has received and bought a large number of books, of which a few might well be mentioned. President Hyde has presented the Library with three instructive books entitled, "The Packers' Private Car Lines," by J. O. Armour; "The History of Two Reciprocity Treaties," by C. Robinson; and "Selections from The Gospels," Ami L. Dennison, '95, has presented a family genealogy of which he is the author, and which is of especial interest to many citizens of Brunswick and the neighboring towns; Dr. C. F. S. Lincoln, '91, has given to the Library a book by F. L. H. Pott called "A Sketch of Chinese History," and two books have been received from Dr. E. H. Cook, '66, entitled, "The Next Great Awakening," by Josiah Strong, and "The Paths to Power," by F. B. Wilson.

Among the books that have been purchased the following may be of interest: "Life of Mahomet," by Sir W. Muir; "Bibliography of J. R. Lowell," compiled by G. W. Cook; "History of the United States from the Compromise," by J. F. Rhodes; "Arts in Early England," by G. B. Brown; "History of Domestic Manners," by T. W. Wright; "The Barbarian Invasion of Italy," by P. Villari; and Nelson's Encyclopedia in twelve volumes.

THE GLEE CLUB

The make-up of the Glee Club for the coming season was announced on Wednesday of last week, the following men being selected: E. J. Crowley, '09; W. R. Crowley, '09; Foss, '08; Kendrie, '10; Leydon, '07; McMillan, '10; Cox, '06; Ham, '08; McGlone, '10; Sheehan, '09; Bass, '07; Brown, '09; Crowell, '10; Gregson, '08; Stevens, '10; Linnell, '07; Stone, '10. Cushing, '10, will act as pianist.

FACULTY CLUB

The Faculty Club held its fourth regular meeting in Hubbard Hall last Monday evening. A number of members were present and listened to an entertaining talk on "Cassiodorus" by Professor W. A. Houghton. The next meeting will be held on Monday, December 17, when a talk will be given by Dr. E. B. Mason on "Saint Benedict."

FRESHMEN, 10; SOPHOMORES, 6

The annual football game between the two lower classes was held Saturday, Nov. 24, and resulted in a victory for the Freshmen by the score of 10 to 6. The Sophomores scored their touchdown principally through the work of McDade, while the Freshmen secured six points on a double pass and two safeties.

SOPHOMORE HOP

The Sophomore hop was held Friday evening, Nov. 23, and proved itself an enjoyable occasion. The dancing was preceded by a short reception, the following ladies of the faculty acting as patronesses: Mrs. William DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Henry Johnson, Mrs. Roswell C. McCrea, Mrs. William T. Foster and Mrs. H. C. Baxter.

The music was furnished by Lovell's Orchestra of Brunswick, with Kendrie, '10, acting as leader, and Cushing, '09, presiding at the piano. An order of 20 dances was carried out and it was a late hour before the happy event drew to a close. Morton served refreshments at intermission.

Among the guests of the evening were the following: Miss Marion Proctor, Miss Louise Edwards and Miss Marion Harmon, Woodfords; Miss Margaret Sutherland, Brunswick; Miss Dorothy Foss, Woodfords; Miss Helen Eaton Brunswick; Miss Olive Griffith, Providence, R. I.; Miss Louise Wetherell, Brunswick; Miss Marion Ross, Portland; Miss Marcia Sewall and Miss Moody, Bath; Miss Florence Burrows, Portland; Miss Gertrude Christopher, Pejepscot; Miss Dora Holman, Winchester, Mass.; Miss Nellie Chase, Yarmouth; Miss Christine Kenniston, Waterville, and others.

Obituary

HON. A. P. WISWELL, '73

Hon. Andrew P. Wiswell, '73, Chief Justice of the Maine Supreme Court, died very suddenly in Boston on Tuesday, December 4. Judge Wiswell and his wife had been staying at the Hotel Touraine for about a week, when the Judge was taken ill with heart disease on Monday afternoon and although attended by a skilled doctor, died within twenty-four hours.

Judge Wiswell, LL.D., was born in Ellsworth, July 11, 1852, and graduated from Bowdoin in 1873. He studied law in Ellsworth, was admitted to the bar at the April term of the Supreme Judicial Court in 1875, and at once began the practice of his profession in Ellsworth. He was judge of the Ellsworth Municipal Court from 1877 to 1881. From 1883 to 1886 he held the position of National Bank Examiner. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1884. From 1897 to 1899 he was a member of the Maine House of Representatives, being Speaker of that body in the year last named. He was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine in 1893, and in 1900 became Chief Justice.

Judge Wiswell has for several years been a member of the Board of Trustees, and not only a loyal alumnus, but one well known by our alumni and undergraduates, whom he has often entertained at his home in Ellsworth. The whole college mourns his death, and extends its sympathy to his widow, Mrs. Emma Wiswell.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 8th, inclusive, and let me know what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill, I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. I will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2¼ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

DEATH OF BOWDOIN'S OLDEST GRADUATE

Bowdoin men everywhere will be pained to learn of the death of ex-Gov. Garcelon, '36, whose death occurred at the home of his daughter in Medford, Mass., last Saturday morning.

Dr. Garcelon was, at the time of his death, the oldest living graduate of Bowdoin College, and his presence at Commencement was an incident of the week to which hundreds of alumni of the college, looked to with interest.

Ex-Gov. Alonzo Garcelon was born in Lewiston, which had always been his home, May 6, 1813. His father, Colonel William Y. Garcelon, was a prominent citizen of that town, and the owner of a large farm on which the son worked during his youth, attending the town school during the winter. He afterwards studied at the academies in Monmouth, Waterville and Newcastle entering Bowdoin College in 1832, from which he was graduated in 1836. During his college course a considerable part of his expenses was paid by money which he earned by teaching school in the winter.

After graduation he taught three terms at the Alfred academy, and then began the study of medicine at the Dartmouth Medical school and under the private instruction of the famous Dr. Muzzey. When, in 1838, the latter was called to a professorship in the Medical college of Ohio at Cincinnati, Mr. Garcelon accompanied him to take advantage of the greater facilities that a large hospital practice and numerous surgical operations would afford. Graduating from that institution in 1839, Dr. Garcelon returned to Lewiston and began the practice of his profession. He soon gained prominence as a physician and built up a large practice.

Politically he was reared a Whig, but his admiration of President Jackson for the stand he took against nullification led him to join the Democrats. Being strongly opposed to slavery, however, he afterwards became a Free Soiler. During the Civil War he was a Republican, but not agreeing with the party in its reconstruction policy, and the impeachment of President Johnson, he withdrew and again joined the Democratic party of which he has since been a member.

Dr. Garcelon represented Lewiston in the Legislature in 1853 and 1857, and was in the State Senate in 1855. In 1868 he was the Democratic candidate for representative in Congress from the Second District. In 1871 he was elected mayor of Lewiston, being the first Democrat to hold that office.

When the election of 1878 took place in Maine, the State was deeply stirred by a so-called Greenback movement. Dr. Garcelon was the Democratic nominee for Governor.

At the election that followed Gov. Conner received 56,544 votes, Joseph L. Smith 41,371, and Alonzo Garcelon 28,218. In the State Legislature, to which the election was referred, because no candidate had, as the law required, a majority of the votes cast, the Republicans in the House of Representatives had 65 members, while the Democrats and Greenbackers combined had 86. The duty of the house was to choose two persons having the highest number of votes, and Dr. Garcelon and Smith received 85 votes each.

The procedure then was to submit these two names to the Senate for final choice. In that body there were 20 Republicans and 11 Greenbackers, and the Republicans chose Garcelon, the Democrat, instead of the Greenbacker, Smith.

Dr. Garcelon married Ann Augusta Waldrone of Somersworth, N H., who died in 1857, leaving four children. In 1859 he married Olivia N. Spear of Rockland. They had one daughter.

The funeral was held from the City Hall in Lewiston, Wednesday afternoon, in the presence of the largest assemblage of the kind ever held in that city. President William DeWitt Hyde delivered the eulogy.
LECTURE BY ELLERY CLARKE

Ellery H. Clarke, the American all-round track champion, gave a pleasing address in Memorial Hall, on Thursday evening of last week upon, "Track and Field Athletics." The address was given under the auspices of the Bowdoin Christian Association, and its purpose was to arouse enthusiasm in track team work. The hall was well filled with interested listeners, and the remarks of Mr. Clarke made a fine impression.

In opening, Mr. Clarke stated that athletics should be considered under three heads, physical, mental, and moral. He spoke first of the physical side, and said that a reasonable amount of athletics is good for everybody. Athletics are divided into so many branches that a man of any build or weight can find some branch which is suited to him, and which he can follow. No bad results need result from athletics, but on the other hand, they do a man much good in building up his body. The only danger is, that a boy may begin athletic work when too young, and thereby injure himself.

Speaking of the mental side of athletics, Mr. Clarke stated that this is the chief charm of every athletic event. Brains are needed in every form of athletics, for there is a right way and a wrong way of performing every event. Many coaches do not thoroughly understand this, and for this reason, there are only a few good coaches in the country.

The moral side was the last considered by Mr. Clarke. He stated that athletics should be played fair, and that the best man should win. Men should go into the games for fun, and not with the simple idea of winning. At the schoolboy age, the athletics are not far enough advanced to fully understand the difference between right and wrong, and accordingly unfairness is often seen in the school games.

A fine set of lantern views was exhibited, illustrating the various positions of well-known men in the dashes, and in the distance runs. The old form of hurdling was shown, and also the modern, and better form. Views of well known college men and professionals, taken while in the act of performing the several jumping events were next shown. The last of the events shown were the weights. A series of pictures taken at the Olympic games in '96 at which Mr. Clarke was one of the winners, closed the series.

In closing, Mr. Clarke eulogized B. C. Morrill, '10, who at present is coaching the track squad. Mr. Clarke and Morrill have been friends for many years, and Mr. Clarke stated that he knew what he was saying when he told the students that in Morrill they had a valuable man. He hoped to see the track team victorious this spring in the Maine meet, and next year, if not this year, in the New England meet.

At the close of the meeting hearty cheers were given for both Mr. Clarke and Morrill.

IN MEMORY OF JUDGE WISWELL

To the Bowdoin Orient:

Bowdoin commencements will not seem the same again to the Class of '73 because Andrew Wiswell has gone. We all came to look forward to meeting him as one of the most pleasant events of commencement time. He was so fond of meeting his classmates, and took such genuine pleasure in their company, that he seemed to count it a personal loss if those who could do so, did not attend all the class reunions. And at such gatherings he was in his happiest moods. Modest about his own achievements, he took great pleasure in hearing of the success of any of his classmates, and no one was more ready with heartfelt sympathy for any who had met with reverses. Amidst all the manifestations of sorrow throughout the State, from the Chief Executive to the humblest citizen, none will be more genuine and heartfelt, than that of the class of '73.

D. A. R. '73.

LAST SUNDAY'S CHAPEL

At last Sunday's chapel exercises President Hyde spoke in a feeling manner of the late Judge Wiswell, paying a splendid tribute to the deceased, both as a man and as a judge. In the course of his remarks President Hyde said: "Genial and courteous as a man, clear and thorough as a lawyer, fair and expeditious as a judge, he fulfilled socially, professionally and personally the high requirements of the exalted office which he held."
$5,000 GIFT

The announcement is made that Bowdoin college has, by gift of W. V. Cole, principal of Wheaton seminary at Norton, Mass., acquired a new lectureship. The sum of $5000 has been given to the college by Prof. Cole in memory of his late wife, Mrs. Annie Talbot Cole, to found a lectureship on subjects pertaining to educational advancement. The income of the bequest only is to be used and the faculty feel much pleased at the gift as it “fills a long felt want,” providing a lectureship that the college has needed for a long time.

FRENCH PLAY THIS WINTER

The Cercle Francais has decided to present a comedy entitled “Les deux Sours.” The parts have not yet been assigned, but as soon as this is done the club will get to work so as to put this play on the stage by the first of March. It will probably be given at Brunswick and before the “L’Alliance” of Portland. With the completion of the present text-book, a collection of Lessing’s early plays, the class in German 9 has already covered some eight or nine thousand lines of hard, archaic German prose, and will undoubtedly in the course of the year cover far more ground than has ever been done by any class in the history of the college.

ALPHA KAPPA INITIATION

The annual initiation and banquet of the Theta Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity was held last Saturday afternoon and evening and was attended by a large number of the alumni of the chapter. After the dinner at the Inn toasts were responded to and a social hour indulged in. Dr. Francis J. Welch of Portland acted as toastmaster.

The officers of the fraternity are: President, C. Arnold Wyndham; Vice-President, George A. Parcher; Treasurer, Sidney E. Pendexter; Recording Secretary, Willard N. Bunker; Cor-responding Secretary, Arthur L. Jones; Marshal, Walter I. Merrill; Chaplain, Elmer M. Cleaves; Warden, John L. Murphy.

The names of those who were received into the fraternity appeared in last weeks’ Orient.

PHI CHI INITIATION

The annual initiation of Gamma Gamma Chapter of the Phi Chi Fraternity of the Medical School will be held in Portland, Saturday, Dec. 15. The initiation will be followed by a banquet at the Congress Square Hotel. After the banquet Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston will speak on “Medicine versus Surgery as a Profession.” The initiatees are H. H. Bryant, Jr., E. J. Brown, C. H. Stevens, B. H. Abbott, L. N. Carpenter, C. F. Deering, C. J. Fernald, C. F. Thomas, Jr., J. A. C. Milliken, L. F. Hall, W. J. Fahey, W. B. Trickey, B. W. Russell.

ZETA PSI CONVENTION

The Zeta Psi Fraternity annual convention will be held at the Tau Chapter at Lafayette College in Easton, Penn., on Jan. 11, 1907. Seth Haley, ’07, has been chosen the delegate of the Lambda Chapter of Bowdoin College.

QUILL BOARD

At a meeting of the 1906 Quill Board held last Friday evening the new board was elected, the following being selected: A. T. Gould, ’08; P. H. Powers ’08; M. C. Donnell, ’08; A. H. Ham, ’08; M. P. Cushing, ’09; P. J. Newman, ’09.

The new Board met at the Zeta Psi House, Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. for the purpose of electing an editor-in-chief. Paul Hussey Powers, ’08, was chosen for the position.
Death of Ex-Gov. Garcelon

Again this week Bowdoin mourns the loss of one of her best known alumni. In the death of ex-Governor Garcelon the college not only loses her oldest graduate, but a man of whom she was particularly proud. Ex-Governor Garcelon has been appropriately called “Maine’s Grand Old Man.” A long and useful life, filled with the elements that go to make up true success, the whole State as well as the college, feels a genuine loss. For years his presence at Bowdoin’s Commencement has been an incident which the young as well as the old have looked forward to as one of the inspiring incidents of Commencement day. Having the distinction of being the oldest living graduate, as he headed the line of march he made a picture that hundreds of Bowdoin men will always associate with Commencement, and the graduation day exercises to the older graduate will never be quite the same.

Next Issue

It is planned to issue the next Orient on Thursday of next week, instead of Friday, owing to the fact that many of the students will be going home in the early part of the latter day.

Track Squad

Plans are being made for the formation of a track squad to meet three times a week for regular work. This work will be additional to the regular gym work, but will doubtless prove of great benefit to the candidates for next spring’s team. It is to be hoped that a large number of men will enter the squad.

College Show

The Orient hopes that every one who possibly can will turn out for the Show rehearsals which are about to begin. The annual show has proved itself to be one of the delightful events of the college year and it will be necessary that there be the best of interest in order to keep the entertainment up to the standard of past years. The Baseball Association wishes to make it as great a financial success as possible and genuine support on the part of the students is the only thing that can make it so.

First College Tea

The first college tea of the present winter will be held this afternoon in Hubbard Hall, and it is hoped that there may be a large attendance of the students. These teas have been held for the past three years and have proved themselves among the pleasant events of the winter season. They are designed to encourage a closer acquaintanceship between the students and the members of the Faculty and their families and as such may be made occasions of pleasure and profit.

Track Coach

The Orient congratulates the college on the action of the Athletic Council in selecting Morrill, ’10, as track coach for the coming season. In so doing they have not only saved a large sum of money, but have secured the services of a man who has a first-class knowledge of athletics, if the recommendations of some of the best authorities may be trusted.
There was a natural hesitation on the part of those in charge about selecting Mr. Morrill, owing to the fact that the step was something of a departure and in the fear that the case would open us to criticism in some quarters. On mature consideration, however, it was felt that the step was most advisable. Many of the larger colleges have undergraduate coaching and it is safe to say that the only reason that smaller institutions have not done the same, has been because of the absence of competent men. And if at this time Bowdoin has such a man in her student body there is no reason whatever that he should not be permitted to coach.

Bowdoin was pleased to have the opportunity of welcoming Ellery H. Clarke on Thursday evening of last week and of listening to his fine lecture on "Track and Field Athletics." As is well known, Mr. Clarke is not only one of the best athletes in the country but is also of the kind that is admired. He is a firm believer "In fair play and may the best man win," and for this reason also his lecture was one of peculiar interest.

Mr. Clarke graduated from Harvard in '96 and from the Law Schol in '99. He was the winner of the high and broad jumps at Athens in '96, the winner of the National All-Round Track Championship in '97 and again in '03. He has a collection of nearly 300 prize cups, trophies and gold and silver medals, which he has won at different contests.

Mr. Clarke has been a member of the Boston School Board for two terms, being the chairman of the Committee on Hygiene and Physical Culture. He is also the author of well-known law books, dealing with electric railways. He is much interested in settlement work, having lived three years in the poorer district of Boston. He is also a member of the Boston Athletic Association.

The college owes thanks to Mr. Clarke for his kindness in delivering his lecture free of charge, and also to Morrill, '10, who was instrumental in bringing Mr. Clarke to us. It is said Mr. Clarke may make Bowdoin again some time in the spring, and if he does he is assured of a warm welcome.

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the football men held last Friday afternoon, William R. Crowley was elected captain of the 1907 football team. Crowley has played on the Varsity team for the greater part of the past two years, and is one of the most popular men in college.
COLLEGE TEAS

This afternoon the ladies of the Faculty will give the first of the series of four college teas that will be held during the winter. The ladies who will receive are Mrs. Hyde, Miss Chapman, Mrs. Lee, and Mrs. Ham, while those who will take charge of the refreshment tables are Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Henry Johnson, and Mrs. Woodruff. The special guests of the afternoon will be the young ladies of Brunswick and no doubt a large number of students will attend.

The dates for the other teas are January 11, when the special guests will be invited from Portland; February 15, with guests from the cities and towns on the Upper Kennebec, and March 15, with guests from Lewiston, Auburn, and Bath.

MANDOLIN CLUB

The announcement of the personnel of the Mandolin Club was made last Tuesday morning, the following men being named:

First mandolins—Crowley, '09; Brewster, '09; Bower, '09; Hughes, '09; Stone, '09; Stone, '10; Peters, '10.

Second mandolins—Percy, '08; Purinton, '08; Crowell, '10; Pickard, '10.

Mandola—Kane, '09.

Guitars—Weed, '07; Morrell, '07; Giles, '07.

ZETA PSI DANCE

The members of the Zeta Psi Fraternity held a most enjoyable dancing party at their chapter house last Friday evening. The patronesses were Mrs. Augustus Champlin of Portland, Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Hartley C. Baxter of Brunswick.

Among the guests present were: Miss Geraldine Fitzgerald, Miss Geneva Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Thaxter, Miss Elizabeth Bates, Miss Louise Edwards, Miss Mary Champlin of Portland; Miss Lida Baker of Boston; Miss Gertrude Christopher of Topsham; Miss Louise Weatherill of Brunswick; Miss Mollie Pears of Fort Fairfield; Miss Beatrice Coughlin of Augusta, and Miss Florence Freeland of Fairfield. Arthur H. Ham, '08, Robert Hale, '08, and Thomas R. Winchell, '07, and W. B. Drummond, '07, were also guests.

BIBLE STUDY

The classes for Bible Study to be conducted under the auspices of the Christian Association will begin in a week or two.

The classes will be composed in three divisions, the leaders being as follows:

For 1907 and 1908, C. W. Snow, '07; for 1909, Rev. Mr. Coombs, '08; for 1910, Gardiner Cole, '09.

There have been several exciting contests for Fraternity shields at the different chapter houses this week. These were conducted by Davie, '10, who is an agent for them.

Given's corner store has changed hands. William McFadden has bought the store and will establish a lunch room as well as continuing the confectionery and tobacco departments.

The members of the Gardiner High School Debating Team were entertained last Tuesday by A. O. Pike at the Zeta Psi house.

It was something of a coincidence that the oldest living graduate of Bowdoin, ex-Governor Garcelon, aged 84, and of Colby, Rev. William Howe, aged 100, died in the same week.

Work on the outdoor running track has commenced. The new regulations corners such as are used in the B. A. A. are to be put in, much to the delight of those interested in running.

Through the kindness of the Faculty, the Junior Assembly Committee announces that two of the College Teas will take place on the afternoons preceding the Junior Assemblies, Jan. 11 and Feb. 15.

The work on the skating rink on Whittier Field has commenced and is now progressing rapidly. The rink, which is to be 180 feet long and 80 feet wide, will probably be finished by the Christmas holidays.

Several members of debating teams from the Gardiner and Cony High Schools attended the debate held in Hubbard Hall last Tuesday, since the subject debated was the same one that they have chosen for their preliminary debate.

J. E. Crowley, '09, had his cheek bone fractured in a basketball game at Bath, Wednesday evening. For some time the attending physicians feared concussion of the brain, but happily the injury did not prove as serious as was feared.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Brunswick Electric Light and Power Company, a syndicate secured control of the company. It is probable that the syndicate will erect a new power station on the site formerly occupied by the Androscoggin Pulp Mill.

The regular Tuesday evening debate was held in the debating room at Hubbard Hall, last Tuesday evening, the question being "That the peaceable annexation of Cuba would be for the best interests of the United States." Affirmative: Erskine, '07, and Morrison, '08. Negative: W. Drummond, '07, and Roberts, '07.

This year the business manager of the Quill will be chosen from the Class of 1909. All Sophomores who care to compete should apply as soon as possible to Powers, '08, Chairman of the Board. Under the future arrangement there will be an ample opportunity for an energetic, business-like fellow to "make good."

Rev. Edward F. Sanderson who preaches in the Church on the Hill and conducts college chapel next Sunday, Dec. 10, is pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Providence, R. I., a church attended largely by Brown University students. He is the kind of man who when an undergraduate at Amherst College was tennis champion and leading man in all dramatics and social life, and later when in the theological seminary he left in order to enlist for the Spanish War. To-day, though scarcely more than thirty years old, he is one of the most popular preachers in the denomination, especially to college audiences. Students will be especially interested in next Sunday's service, both at the church and in chapel.
The D. K. E. Fraternity will hold its annual house party on January 25.

The Orient hopes to contain a review of the last Quill in next week’s issue.

Doherty, ’07, plans to leave college for about two months to engage in work.

President Hyde left this forenoon on a week’s trip to Massachusetts and other states, embracing several lectures and attendance on important meetings of various kinds.

THE FACULTY

At a convention of the New England Association of Mathematical Teachers, held at Simmons College, Boston, last Saturday, Bowdoin was well represented, there being four Bowdoin men present, Prof. Moody, ’82, J. F. Eliot, ’73, W. A. Robinson, ’76, and I. P. Morris, ’80.

President Amen of Exeter, was a guest of President Hyde last Monday night.

Prof. W. B. Mitchell was in Waterville last Saturday, where he attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Maine Teachers’ Association.

Prof. H. L. Chapman delivered a lecture on “Robert Burns” last Friday evening at Damariscotta, under the auspices of the Skidompha Library Club.

HEBRON CLUB

The Hebron Club met with Hupper, ’08, Saturday evening, and elected the following officers for the year: President, Stetson, ’07; Vice-President, Hupper, ’08; Secretary and Treasurer, Ellis, ’09. Committee of arrangements, Sparks, ’09, Morrell, ’09, Gray, ’08. The club now has a membership of seventeen and will hold a banquet at the Inn the first week in January.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Yesterday evening Leroy Coons, ’08, spoke before the Christian Association on “The Bible from a Literary Standpoint.” At the time of the Orient’s going to press, the Association hoped to have ready for distribution at this meeting, the pamphlets that have just been printed containing a short account of the purpose of the Association, and the program for its meetings during the remainder of the year.

The speaker for next Thursday evening is Professor Alfred W. Anthony, D.D., of Lewiston, who will take as his subject, “The Folly of the Universal Negation,” and for a special musical number M. P. Cushing, ’09, will play a solo on the piano.

COMMANDER PEARY’S LECTURE

Commander Robert E. Peary lectured this week at the American Museum of Natural History in New York on his latest attempt to reach the North Pole. The lecture hall seats fifteen hundred, and for an hour before the appointed time a throng of three thousand persons waited patiently to get inside. By the end of the lecture fully ten thousand people had collected outside the building in hope of getting a glimpse of the explorer, and following his exit came a stampede of persons struggling to get sight of him, which the police were utterly unable to control.

NEW BOOK STORE

After the holiday vacation, Slocum, ’70, who has had two years experience in the wholesale book business, intends to open a “book shop” in 18 North Maine Hall. This store will carry a stock of books, stationery, and athletic goods. Terms are to be strictly cash. It is Mr. Slocum’s desire to form eventually a co-operative business by selling stock and paying annual dividends. This enterprise has secured the favor of the Faculty insomuch that they have allotted a room for its headquarters. Beginning January 3, 1907, the store will be open as follows: 8.30-9.30 A.M.; 1.30-3.00 P.M., and 7-8 P.M.

ART BUILDING NOTES

There are now on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery about twenty beautiful photographs of scenes in Venice, Sienna, Rome, Florence, and Rothenburg, of the Tower of Pisa, and of some famous paintings. These photographs are enlargements of those taken by Professor Hutchins on his recent European trip, and are put on exhibition at the request of the Curator of the building, who announces that they may be purchased at the desk for sums varying from $1.50 to $4.00. There are also at the desk several small photographs of which enlargements can be made if anyone should desire them.

The Library Art Club has loaned a nearly complete set of pictures taken from the paintings, drawings, engravings, and wood-cuts of Albrecht Durer.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1861

Governor Cobb last week nominated Associate Justice Lucillius A. Emery of Ellsworth as Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chief Justice Andrew P. Wiswell.

Mr. Emery is a native of Carmel. He was born July 27, 1840, and graduated from Bowdoin College in 1861. Previous to his appointment to the Supreme Court in 1883 he served three terms in the Maine Senate and was attorney-general of the State, 1876-1879.

CLASS OF 1862

J. W. Chadwick, ’62, of Malden, Mass., has retired from teaching and is devoting his time to the development of his fine orchards. Mr. Chadwick has been master of the Boston Latin School.

CLASS OF 1899

Joseph P. Pearson, ’90, was in Brunswick for a brief visit last week. He returned Saturday to the Pacific Coast where he will rejoin the yacht Galilee for another long cruise in the Pacific in connection with the work of making a magnetic chart of the Pacific Ocean. Mr. Pearson is very much interested in the work and the students all wish him success.

CLASS OF 1891.
A. S. Dyer has a position at the head of the Greek Department at the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.

CLASS OF 1899.
Francis L. Lavertu has recently accepted the position of head of the French department at the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.

CLASS OF 1901.
The Lewiston Journal of Saturday, Dec. 8, contained an extended write-up of the work of the State Laboratory of Hygiene, under the direction of H. D. Evans of the Class of 1901. The sketch is accompanied by a fine photograph of Mr. Evans.

CLASS OF 1906.
Rowe, '06, is employed as teacher at Brownfield, Maine.
Hodgson, '06, is employed in the Continental Mill at Lewiston.

William J. B. McDougald was married this fall to Miss Alice Louise Taylor at the bride’s home in Rockland. Mr. McDougald has been elected sub-master of the Good Will High School at Hinckley, Me., where Mr. and Mrs. MacDougald have taken up their residence.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

Marlin
REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO. 17

THE NOVEMBER QUILL

With the November issue the labors of the present Quill board draw near their close; and it is a pleasure to have this opportunity to record that the members of the board deserve well of the college for their disinterested and successful service. Volume X measures well up to the standard set ten years ago, and has contained much that is from a college standpoint of unusual literary merit. The chief criticism that a person interested in the literary activities of the college would have to offer is that there has been on the whole perhaps too much outside assistance, too little work by the undergraduates themselves. The members of the board have often times stepped nobly into the breach, but their efforts have not been furthered by others in the college as well as they have merited. The defect can only be remedied by a revival of interest in intellectual and literary things, and it is gratifying to believe that signs of such a revival are today abroad in the land.

The November Quill is an interesting and well-rounded number. In addition to the usual departments it contains an article by a member of the faculty, a story by a young alumnus, a sketch and four bits of verse by undergraduates. As a rule one article from the alumni or the faculty should suffice but for reasons already stated through no fault of the Quill board the rule has sometimes to be modified in order that the high standard of the paper be maintained. The leading article on the Greek play at Harvard is written with unusual sympathy and enthusiasm and will be of more and more interest as the years go by. “Mountfort’s Protracted Town Meetin’” (despite the protracted and awkward title), a successful sketch of New England town life, is by far the best work that its author has yet contributed to the Quill. “A Night in Manchuria,” although properly neither a story nor a sketch, contains some excellent descriptions. If it had been written in the first person it would have escaped much of the stiff awkwardness that in places mars the style. Of the other prose articles, “Ye Postman” is well written and makes some judicious selections from current college journalism. Not so much can be said of the “Gray Goose Tracks.” It seems sad to waste valued space on the orthographic eccentricities of even three such excellent and distinguished personages as a millionaire, a professor of dramatic literature and a president; and renewed discussion of the matter is a distinct bore.

The verse contributed altogether by undergraduates deserves special comment, not so much because of its intrinsic worth, but because it denotes a healthy interest in the handling of words and in technique—things which are, by the way, of more importance than is commonly supposed, in learning how to write. “Where Spirit Voices Flow” has lift and melody and is of unusual merit. “The Autumn Night,” although not distinguished, is a pleasant enough treatment of a conventional theme; and “Matins” has a certain firmness of touch which is promising. The lines “To a Friend,” open uncommonly well:

“My little loves are little lights
That twinkle in the sky o’ nights;”

And although the lyrical quality is not too well sustained, particularly in the last few lines, the poem is original and musical. With as much interest in verse as is here displayed, it is not perhaps vain to hope that our poets will continue to refrain from draped adjectives and funereal verbs and turn their attention more and more to the lighter forms of verse—to the triolet, the rondeau and the ballade. The great questions of life and death and fate can safely be left to the great poets; but there is every reason for preserving some of the idle dreams and fancies and hopes of undergraduate days in appropriate verse form.

Finally, if the Quill is to hold its place, it must be more actively supported by the student body. As the editor reminds us, we are notoriously careless about giving proper encouragement to our publications, particularly when it comes to subscriptions—an evidence an enemy might say, of the double standard of ethics that sometimes prevails amongst college men. Yet after all the youth who goodnaturedly postpones payment of his subscription forever and a day, who is not careful about his obligations and strictly honorable in all his college dealings, is the father of the business man who leaves one set of morals at home and who sometimes regards it as perfectly legitimate not to tell the exact truth. That the college man should be through and through the good fellow is of course much to be desired; but the good fellow who does not cultivate any of the sterner virtues is not likely to develop into the best citizen. The moral of all this is, of course, that it would be a pity to have any of our organizations embarrassed because we are careless or indifferent about the support we give them. And the true interests of the college would suffer as much if the Quill were not kept up to a proper standard as it would if no one should take any interest in the football team.

ALUMNI NEWS

To the Editor of the Orient:

It was certainly most generous on the part of the Orient to publish the communication of Mr. Burpee, proposing another Bowdoin periodical. The effect of his scheme, if carried out, would be to diminish the interest the alumni have in the Orient, and so to cause its circulation to decrease. My own opinion is that two periodicals are as many as the Bowdoin constituency can support. No one can feel more strongly than I do that the college, the alumni and the undergraduates suffer a serious loss by reason of the fact that the Orient is not the link between undergraduates and alumni that it ought to be. But my remedy would be different from Mr. Burpee’s.

The Orient should make itself an organ of the alumni, as well as a chronicler of the small beer of undergraduate life. In order to become such an organ it should make an effort, by ways well known, to increase its circulation among the alumni, and it should find means to obtain news of the alumni. No one who can earn a decent living is a “loyal Bowdoin man” unless he takes the Orient,—that is to say if the Orient provides him with the news about his classmates and others which he wishes to know.

In short, there is duty on both sides: First, upon the editors of the Orient to supply the intelligence which will make it worth while for the alumni to subscribe for it; secondly, upon every alumnus to send you his two dollars a year.

What reason is there to think that another board of editors would succeed in getting more alumni news than is at the service of the Orient? And isn’t it certain that if another periodical devoted to alumni alone were started, the Orient would have to depend entirely upon undergraduates for its support?

Edward Stanwood, 1861.

FIRST COLLEGE TEA

The first College Tea of the year was held in the Alumni Room of Hubbard Hall on Friday afternoon, and proved to be a most successful event. The special guests were the ladies of Brunswick, and there were a large number present, including not only the older ladies, but also many younger people. Alumni Room was prettily decorated with evergreens, potted plants, and cut flowers, arranged in a very artistic manner, which added much to the attractiveness of the room.

In the receiving line were Mrs. William DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Leslie A. Lee, Mrs. Roscoe J. Ham, and Miss Helen Chapman. The ushers were Kimball, ’07, from Alpha Delta Phi; Burton, ’07, from Delta Kappa Epsilon; Sturtevant, ’09, from Theta Delta Chi; Lawrence, ’07, from Zeta Psi; Sawyer, ’07, from Delta Upsilon; Linnell, ’07, Beta Theta Pi.

Refreshments of punch, coffee, tea, fancy crackers and candy were served. Mrs. Henry Johnson was in charge of the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Samuel Furbish, Misses Dorothy Johnson, Margaret Sutherland, Helen Eaton, and June Atkinson, Mrs. George T. Little and Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff presided at the punch bowl, and were assisted in serving by Miss Bertha Stetson, Miss Louise Weatherill, Miss Sally Johnson, and Miss Sarah Pennell. Mrs. William A. Houghton served coffee, assisted by Miss Majorie Prince, Miss Lillian Odione, Miss Alice Knight, and Miss Isabel Forsaith. The tea was attended by an unusually large number of the students, who took the opportunity to become better acquainted with Brunswick people. The next Tea will be held on January 11, when special guests from Portland will be present.
PRESIDENT HYDE'S TRIP

President Hyde will return to-night from a busy week's trip to various places. Last Friday he lectured in Haverhill, Mass., being one of the speakers in the City Hall lecture Course. Saturday he went to Portland where he attended a meeting of a committee from the trustees and overseers of the college on matters of business, and Sunday he preached in the Eliot Church at Newton, Mass. On Monday he lectured in Lynn and Tuesday attended a meeting of the trustees of Exeter Academy at Exeter. Wednesday he spoke at the dinner tendered to Dr. Grenfell by the Merchants' Club of Boston. Thursday he addressed the Congregational Club of Boston on their observation of Forefathers' Day.

COLLEGE CATALOGUE

The annual college catalogue appeared on Monday and contains the usual facts relative to the college. The number of students in the institution is shown to be 375. Of this number 95 are in the Medical School and 288 in the academic department, the latter being divided as follows: Seniors, 47; Juniors, 46; Sophomores, 64; Freshmen, 97; special students, 34. According to careful calculation, however, the Senior Class will number over 60 at the time of graduation, as an unusually large number of men are held back because of incompletes which will probably be made up in time to graduate with the Senior Class.

The notable change in the catalogue that will be of particular interest to prospective students, is that hereafter French offered for admission will count four points instead of two, as has been the case in the past.

SYRACUSE DEBATE

It now seems practically settled that Bowdoin will meet Syracuse University in an inter-collegiate debate sometime during the coming winter. The matter of Faculty coaching, which had been considered as the only question that might cause any difficulty in arranging the debate, has been satisfactorily settled and now nothing remains to be done but to arrange the details.

As stated in a previous issue, the Bowdoin Council, on learning that Syracuse would prefer to have Faculty coaching, sent a letter inquiring if they would be willing to give up such coaching under any condition. In a letter received last week the Syracuse management stated that they would be willing to give up the system if Bowdoin would consent to debate in Syracuse instead of Brunswick. This point has been granted by the Bowdoin Council and a letter has been forwarded expressing a willingness to enter into an agreement under these conditions.

It is, of course, too early to say when the debate will take place, but it would seem probable that it might take place some time in March.

$5,000 GIFT

The notice that was printed in the last issue of the Orient in regard to the recent gift of $5,000 was copied from a newspaper which it has since been discovered was entirely misinformed on the subject. The facts are as follows:

Mrs. Calista S. Mayhew, of South Orange, N. J., has presented the college with $5,000 as a memorial to her niece, Annie Talbot Cole, the wife of Rev. Samuel V. Cole, D.D., '74, who died last winter while she was engaged in educational work at Wheaton Seminary. This $5,000 is to found a lectureship known as the Annie Talbot Cole Lectureship, and the interest on the money is to be used to secure lectures for the educational advancement of Bowdoin students, the subjects of the lectures being left to the discretion of the faculty and of Dr. Cole.

MINSTREL SHOW REHEARSED

The first rehearsal of the Minstrel Show took place Monday evening. There was a large attendance and the opening overture was tried by the chorus. This was pronounced a great success as it is very brisk in its movement and yet easy to learn. The scores for the different parts had not arrived at that time, but they will surely be here for the second rehearsal to-night. The separate acts were not tried over Monday night, but there will be a chance for every one at the second rehearsal. Everybody who can do anything to help should volunteer his services.

The ends this year will be Upton, '07, Speake, '07, Kingsley, '07, Sheehan, '09, Smith, '10, and MacMillan, '10. The show will occur on Friday night, January 18.

Alumni News

The Orient is glad to receive a communication from Mr. Stanwood of the Class of '01, relative to the matter of a graduates' magazine. In regard to the reference that is made to the lack of alumni news in the columns of the Orient, the board wishes to state that the securing of alumni news is the most difficult work connected with the editing of the college weekly. It is a very rare occurrence for the editors to receive contributions from the alumni in regard to any of their number, and the result is that they have to rely largely on their observations of the public press. The amount that can be secured in this way is naturally very limited, and the result is that in many issues few alumni items appear.

The Orient is, however, grateful for the criticism that is incidentally offered by Mr. Stanwood, and is at the present time considering a new remedy for the difficulty. In the meantime, we would again ask the assistance of the alumni as a whole in this matter.

Glee Club Trips

The approach of the Glee Club season brings with it the annual discussion for longer or more frequent trips, and incidentally an occasional word of criticism of the faculty for limiting the trips to the extent that has been the case in the past few years.

At first sight it would seem that there was some justification for the criticism. With the splendid organization that the college produced last year, and bids fair to produce this year, it appears unfortunate that the clubs cannot have the opportunity to advertise the college to the extent that the talent would certainly ensure.

It is right here, however, that the objection to the extension of the trips is well founded.

Syracuse Debate

The Orient is pleased to announce that the Syracuse debate now seems assured. As is stated in another column, the contest will probably take place at Syracuse. A debate at Brunswick would, of course, have been desirable this winter in view of the fact that there has been no intercollegiate contest here for three years, but since Syracuse has conceded the more important point of faculty coaching, our Council could not do less than accede to their request to have the debate at Syracuse. The Orient congratulates the college on having secured this debate.

Freshmen at Church

There has been an excellent and regular attendance among the Freshmen this fall at the Church on the Hill. But, owing probably to the fact that there was no Freshman handbook issued, they have been sitting wherever they please. It is, however, a custom of long standing that the first two rows of the south balcony are reserved for Seniors, and the back two rows for Sophomores, while the Juniors occupy the front rows of the north balcony, and the Freshmen the two rear rows on the same side. This custom is merely a survival of the days when church attendance was compulsory, but since Bowdoin has but few such customs, it is well to preserve this one, which corresponds to the one we observe by sitting in class forms at chapel. The Orient trusts that Freshmen will respect the custom in the future.

The Orient is grateful for the criticism that is incidentally offered by Mr. Stanwood, and is at the present time considering a new remedy for the difficulty. In the meantime, we would again ask the assistance of the alumni as a whole in this matter.
Do the clubs of Bowdoin, or any other college, always give the kind of advertising that is desirable? It is an unfortunate truth that they do not. There are always some few men each year who either never know or for a time forget their duty by their college and by their conduct do more harm than they can ever do good. The Orient learns of a good illustration. Two Bowdoin men recently visited a Maine town in which our clubs frequently appear, and in conversation with a leading citizen of the town remarked on the small number of Bowdoin students residing there, and incidentally asked the gentleman why such was the case. To the surprise and pain of the Bowdoin men he stated the conduct of some of the men in the clubs had been such as to give many people a strong prejudice against the college and the gentleman stated that in his opinion this circumstance accounted in a large measure for the small number of students sent to Bowdoin.

The Orient does not mention this as a criticism of any of the members of the clubs that will represent the college this winter. Indeed, there is reason to believe that the club is in every respect a thoroughly representative one. It is mentioned rather to call the attention to some of the incidents of the past that they may be guarded against in the future.

When the clubs shall have learned to guard against these things there is no doubt our Faculty will do everything in their power to give the clubs the best seasons possible. And the Orient hopes and expects that our fine organization of this year will take a long step in bringing about the desired result.

PHI CHI INITIATION

The annual initiation of the Phi Chi Fraternity of the Medical School was held at the Congress Square Hotel in Portland, Saturday evening, there being about 100 graduates and undergraduates present. The post-prandial exercises were presided over by Wm. T. Rowe, ’05, who is now in his last year in the Medical School.

The special guest of the evening was Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston. Dr. Cabot is a physician at the Massachusetts General Hospital and professor of internal medicine at Harvard Medical School. His subject was “Medicine vs. Surgery as a Profession.”

His treatment of the subject was both interesting and scholarly and was carefully listened to throughout.

The following physicians and members of the fraternity were present:

The list of initiates has already appeared in the Orient.

HISTORY CLUB

A meeting of the men taking the course in American History was held at the Zeta Psi House last Friday evening for the purpose of forming a club. A preliminary organization was formed with Gould, ’08, Putnam, ’08, and Merrill, ’08, as an executive committee.

The matter of securing speakers was also discussed. The next meeting will probably be held on the first Friday after the Christmas recess.

I have examined the books and accounts of Neal W. Allen, Manager of the Football Association, and find them correctly kept and properly vouched. The foregoing is an accurate summary of receipts and expenditures for the season, and an accurate statement of existing assets and liabilities.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday, December 13, Leroy Coons, '08, gave an interesting talk before the Christian Association on "The Bible from a Literary Standpoint." He spoke of the many different kinds of literature in the Bible; history in the first books of the Old Testament, chronicle in the books of Kings and Chronicles, lyric poetry in the Psalms, philosophy in the book of Proverbs, drama in the Song of Solomon, and so on. The Bible, he said, was not one book, but a library.

For special music Miss Evelyn Stetson beautifully rendered a vocal solo that was appreciated by all present.

At the meeting there were distributed the neat, little pamphlets that having been printed by the Association, containing the purpose of the Association, its present condition, its plans for the future, a list of its committees, and a calendar of the meetings for the rest of the year. These little pamphlets may be obtained by any one for the asking, from Neal W. Allen, '07, and there will probably be a supply on hand at to-night's meeting, when everybody should get one.

This evening the speaker at the meeting will be Professor Alfred W. Anthony, D.D., of Lewiston, who will take as his subject "The Folly of the Universal Negation," and M. P. Cushing, '09, will render a piano solo for special music.

It is also planned to hold a meeting on Thursday, January 3, when Prof. Files will speak on "Student Life in Germany," and Kendrick, '10, will give a violin solo.

PENOBSCOT CLUB

The Penobscot Club held its first meeting at the D. K. E. House last Saturday evening. Fifteen of the twenty Penobscot men in college were present and organized for the year under the following officers: President, F. L. Bass, '07; Vice-President, W. J. Crowley, '09; Secretary and Treasurer, Lester Adams, '07; Executive Committee, L. D. Mincher, '07, and F. H. Thomas, '08. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening passed.

ADDITIONAL SCHOOLS IN DEBATING LEAGUE

Two new schools have been admitted to the Interscholastic Debating League. They are Yarmouth Academy and Freeport High School. A. B. Robert's, '07, has been appointed coach for Yarmouth, and Baldwin, '08, has been selected for the Freeport men. Two others, Camden High and Fryeburg Academy, have applied for admission, but satisfactory opponents for these schools have not been secured.

Clyde Grant, '04, who is a successful teacher in the Mitchell Military School at Billerica, Mass., visited college, Monday, on his way to his home in Fort Fairfield, where he will spend the Christmas holidays with his parents.

Tuesday evening the weekly debate took place in Hubbard Hall. The resolution was that "The Legislative Referendum applying to both statutes and constitution should be adopted in the State of Maine." Haley, '07, and Pike, '07, were for the affirmative, while the negative was assumed by Robinson, '08. The presiding officer was Gould, '08.

Brunswick Record: Schumacher, captain of the Bates College football team, has been publicly reprimanded by President Chase for kissing an actress in Empire Theatre, and the faculty is considering the question of suspending him for a term. Supposing Schumacher had kissed one of the Bates coeds, would that have brought upon him a worse punishment or would the faculty have winked solemnly and looked the other way? Shocking thing to contemplate, to be sure, but it would be interesting to know how they measure such crimes.

THE FACULTY

Morrill, '10, is coaching several men in shot-putting every afternoon. A number of Freshmen show good promise in this event.

Manager Robinson is busy preparing next spring's baseball schedule. Bowdoin will probably have several new games this year.

Professor K. M. C. Sills entertained all the students who are members of the Episcopal Church at his home last Saturday evening. Mr. E. A. Kaharl, principal of the Brunswick High School, and Rev. Mr. Lee, rector of St. Paul's Church, were also his guests.

Myron H. Goodwin, a prominent member of the Haverhill, Mass., bar, died suddenly January 18, 1906. He was a teacher and lawyer in the West before coming to Haverhill in 1899. He was a brother of Almon Goodwin, '62, a well-known New York lawyer, who died two months earlier.

In Memoriam

By the death of Hon. Andrew P. Wiswell, of the Class of 1873, the Kappa Chapter of Psi Upsilon has lost one of its most honored members.

For a number of years he had been in close touch with the college and the fraternity, and it is with the deepest sorrow that we mourn his very sudden death. He was a man of broad intellect and wonderful mental power. He showed unusual ability and gained a very high standing in his chosen profession. As a member of the Board of Trustees of the college, he was held in the highest esteem by all his associates.

The Kappa Chapter deeply mourns his loss and extends its heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family and friends.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL NO17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2½ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.

THE DECEMBER QUILL

Whoever has feared that the love of the ideal and its expression among us were giving way before the pressure of practical materialism, may take heart again over the contents of the Holiday Number of the Quill. Here are five poems to two prose pieces; and of the latter, one is a criticism of a highly imaginative poet, and the other is itself so highly imaginative as to deserve the name of a prose poem.

The too brief essay entitled “The Non-Dramatic Poetry of Marlowe,” by a graduate of the Class of ’99, now a professor of English literature, not being undergraduate work, lies beyond the range of our criticism, though not beyond that of our appreciation, which is called forth both by the paper itself and by the evidence it affords of the continuing interest of a former Quill editor in the literary life of the college.

The author of “Among the Mountains” has done much good writing for the Quill, and none better than this piece contains. The descriptive part is particularly well done both as to choice of language and form of expression. The incidents of the dream are somewhat less happily conceived, although not to the extent of spoiling the pleasing effect of the whole. A world of enchantment is difficult to create and extremely difficult to operate within the limits of imaginative beauty, which mark off the magical realm from the work-a-day world on the one side and from chaotic insanity on the other. It is not surprising to find in this story the conventional elements of the fairy tale combined in the traditional way; also some inevitable jarring between the worlds of fact and fancy and chaos. Shakespeare, who “Exhausted worlds and then created new,”

Stands almost alone as a successful enchanter; and that doubtless because he had “exhausted worlds” of actual life.

“Angelica’s Grave,” translated literally from the Swedish, bears very few translation earmarks. The English diction is full of dignity and true feeling, without departing from simpliciy. Perhaps the only noticeable lapse occurs in the line

“Still understood no soul the sorrows of earth any better.”

The metre, the elegiac distich, is, no doubt, that of the original; and the translator has probably managed it nearly as well as the Swedish poet. But the Vergilian hexameter, “the statelest measure ever moulded by the lips of man,” and its cousin and mate of shorter stature, the so-called pentameter, refuse to be moulded by the lips of even the most gifted poet in the rough consonantal combinations of accentual modern speech. Tennyson, who so highly extols the ancient measure, speaking of the modern imitation, says, “These lame hexameters the strong-winged music of Homer!

No—but a most burlesque, barbarous experiment. Hexameters no worse than daring Germany gave us, Barbarous experiment, barbarous hexameters.”

In several of the shorter lines of the present poem, there is neglect of the strict requirement that the latter half should be composed of two dactyls and a final syllable, the substitution of spondees for dactyls being permitted only in the first half. A negligence of less moment is the use of the word “heaven” as a monosyllable and disyllable, to end a pentameter and a hexameter, in the space of four lines. Long-fellow, in the “Evangeline,” makes it uniformly two syllables.

The graceful and witty little poem “Misapprehension,” is amply and luminously accounted for by the significant signature, “K. D. W.”

The brief pieces entitled “Hope,” “The Response,” and “From a Casement,” are well up to the average of college verse. The first is correct in form but neatly epigrammatic in meaning, while the second falls rather short in both respects. The last, though very good in the first eight lines, drops seriously in the last four. “Pale face lad” could hardly be said except by an American Indian; and “Soft, it’s I that’s sad,” hisses harshly.

In “Silhouettes,” between several announce-ments and some simple and sensible farewell remarks, there is sandwiched a wholesome and, it is to be hoped, feasible suggestion for unifying and strengthening the social life of the college. This is well as far as it goes, and indicates the direction in which the "Editor's Easy Chair" of the Quill might be more fully developed, to the advantage of all connected with Bowdoin. Possibly the energy that finds a rather explosive vent in "Gray Goose Tracks" might be utilized in the service of progress and enlightenment, if the two departments were combined. But if this is held undesirable, more light and less smoke in the G. G. T. would be welcome to the general reader, who is unable to penetrate its cabalistic mirth, although quite willing to imagine its Aristophanic or Rabelaisian charm for the initiated.

That the Quill has lived and thriven for a whole decade is a matter for congratulation to all the friends of the college. An exclusively literary publication has proved itself a thing that the student body—though they might indeed do more for it—will at any rate "not willingly let die." Its former creditable standard has been well maintained by the retiring Board, and the character of the new Board assures a good Quill for the coming year.

W. A. H.

TWO NEW BOWDOIN BOOKS

All Bowdoin men will be interested in the announcement that two new Bowdoin books are now in process of preparation and will be published during the present winter. They are "Bowdoin Verse," a collection of over one hundred of the best poems contributed by both alumni and students to the undergraduate publications of the college within the past twenty years; and "Under the Bowdoin Pines," a collection of over 30 short stories of Bowdoin life, including the best of those which appeared in the earlier volumes of the Quill. The poems in the first volume are all selected with the approval of Professor Chapman who has kindly consented to assist in the preparation of the collection. This volume will be of about 160 pages, printed on heavy paper and will be beautifully bound in crimson cloth with lettering and special cover design in gold. The top will be gilded and the edges of the pages left rough. "Under the Bowdoin Pines" will be a companion volume in size and shape and will be similarly bound in green cloth with lettering and special design in gold. It will also be illustrated. Some of the stories will be by the same authors, who contributed to "Tales of Bowdoin" in 1901 and others will be by the best writers among our young alumni. Both will be books in appearance and contents which every Bowdoin man and friend of the college will be proud of and glad to have in his library. They are being prepared and published by J. C. Minot, '96, of Augusta, whose work in publishing "Tales of Bowdoin," "The Story of '96," etc., and in other activities in behalf of the college, has made him known to all Bowdoin men, old and young. The books will be sold for $1.25 each, or $2 for the two. A subscription paper for the undergraduates will be found at the library and every student should place his name upon it.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

The Interscholastic Debating League which was organized this fall by Professor W. T. Foster is getting well under way with the preliminary debates. The Edward Little High School team, which is being coached by R. H. Hupper and the Lewiston High School team, which is being coached by C. W. Snow, have chosen as the subject of their preliminary debate this question: "Resolved, That cities in the United States of 25,000 or more inhabitants should own and operate their street railways." The men chosen to represent E. L. H. S. are: Barton, '07, Philoon, '07, Adams, '08, and to represent Lewiston High School, Keist, '07, Fisher, '07, and Marston, '07. The debate will take place in the City Hall at Lewiston to-night.

The other two schools of the league, Gardiner High School, coached by A. O. Pike, '07, and Cony High School, coached by F. J. Redman, '07, have chosen for their preliminary debate this question: "Resolved, That the peaceable annexation of Cuba to the United States would be for the best interests of the United States." The team which is to represent the Cony High School has not yet been selected, but those who are to represent the Gardiner High School are Cobb, '07, Berry, '07, and Holt, '07, with Parker, '08, for alternate. This debate is to take place in the City Hall in Augusta, on January 18.

The teams winning these preliminary debates will chose a new question, on which they will debate in Memorial Hall some time during the month of April. There is considerable interest being taken in each school over these debates, and the teams selected are all ones that will do credit to their cities.

NEW YORK ALUMNI BANQUET

The alumni dinner of the New York City graduates will be held on Friday, January 25, and probably at the Manhattan Hotel, where it is usually held. President Hyde is expected to be present and it is hoped that Congressman Alexander, '70, will be one of the principal speakers.

BOSTON ALUMNI BANQUET

The annual dinner of the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Boston will occur on the 27th of February next, and it will observe the one-hundredth birthday of Bowdoin's celebrated alumnus, Henry W. Longfellow. The speakers already arranged for are Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard College, President Hyde, Professor Chapman and Mr I. B. Choate, 62, who will read a poem.

It is intended to make this a meeting of special interest, suitable for the occasion—and active effort will be made to secure a large attendance.

TO RUN TUFTS

Announcement is made by Manager Lee of the track team, that arrangements have been made by which Bowdoin will run Tufts at the annual B. A. A. meet. Bowdoin has run against Massachusetts Institute of Technology for several years past, but this will not be the case this year. The date of the meet is February 16.

SYRACUSE DEBATE

The final arrangements for a debate with Syracuse have recently been completed by the signing of a two-year agreement by the two institutions. There will be no faculty coaching by either college. The date of the debate will be March 31, and as previously stated, it will take place at Syracuse.

Bowdoin will select the question and Syracuse will have the choice of sides. A committee consisting of Professor Foster, Mitchell, '07, Hupper, '08, and Snow, '07, will select a question to be submitted to Syracuse sometime within 30 days before the date of the debate.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION PAMPHLET

The Christian Association at its last meeting distributed copies of its new pamphlet. It has for a frontispiece a cut of the '75 gateway with the path leading to the chapel. It then opens with a short account of the gains already made by the Association this year, numbering among them the jump from a membership of 25 to 105. There then follows a brief description of the new rooms, a word about the course of Bible Study to be undertaken, and an explanation of the system of committees which is the basis of the Association's organization. Following this is printed a list of officers and committees and also the calendar of the meetings from last October through next March, the book finally ending with a cut of the chapel itself.

The program of speakers promises to be a good one. A series of talks on the "Ethical Aspects of the Professions" will run through the year, there being four speakers who will represent two sides of Social Science, Civil Engineering, Medicine. These monthly meetings will be open to the public, and held in Hubbard Hall.

Special music has been arranged for each meeting, and speakers have also been engaged for every week until March 28th, when President Hyde will close the year with a questionnaire.

THE MINSTREL SHOW

After many delays, occasioned by the blunders of the publishers, the long-sought music has arrived and the rehearsals are being held every night in Banister Hall under the personal supervision of Coach Toothaker. With the show only a few weeks off, the management wish to emphasize again the fact that they want every man to turn out to each rehearsal. Whatever success is to be achieved by the chorus rests largely on the unity of its volume. Many attractive numbers are being prepared expressly for the Minstrel Show and with a large and well-trained chorus the success of the show will be inevitable. The show has been set ahead to Jan. 23.

HISTORY CLUB

Last Friday evening a meeting of the History Club was held at the Psi Upsilon House with Ham, '08, and Gould, '08. Professor Chapman gave a very interesting talk on "Reminiscences of My Four Years in College." His talk was followed by the usual social session after which the meeting broke up to meet the first week in February with Putnam, '08, at the Delta Kappa Epsilon House.

BOWDOIN in the Maine Legislature

It may well be a source of pride to all Bowdoin men to note the part played in the public affairs of the State by the alumni of our college. Not only is Governor William T. Cobb a Bowdoin graduate in the famous Class of '77, but the 73d Maine Legislature now in session at Augusta has just elected Bowdoin men to preside over both its branches, Hon. Fred J. Allen, '90, as President of the Senate, and Hon. Don A. H. Powers, '75, as Speaker of the House. Moreover, among the members on the floor of the House, Hon. Geo. G. Weeks, '82, is recognized as the republican leader, and Hon. Charles F. Johnson, '79, as the Democratic leader. Other Bowdoin men in the legislature are Henry H. Hastings, '90, and Walter B. Clarke, '99, in the Senate; and Philip D. Stubb's, '05, and Andy P. Havey, '03, in the House. All four of these last named were well known athletes in their undergraduate days and two of them were 'varsity captains. The secretary of the Senate is Frank G. Farrington, '94. These, and the other Bowdoin men at the State House, make a splendid showing for the college and demonstrate that now as for the past century it is furnishing the leaders in the public affairs of Maine. In this connection it is also very gratifying to us that a Bowdoin man continues at the head of our Maine Supreme Court, Chief Justice A. P. Wiswell, 73, who died after seven years at the head of the court, being succeeded by Lucius A. Emery, '61, who has been an honored associate justice for nearly a quarter of a century. Four of the last five chief justices have been Bowdoin men and all have also served on our Board of Trustees.

NEW BOWDOIN BOOKS

The Orient is pleased to announce in another column the coming publication of two more Bowdoin books. That the new books will be of a character that every Bowdoin graduate and undergraduate will wish to possess is assured from the fact that they are to be published by J. C. Minot, '96, who was instrumental in the publication of "Tales of Bowdoin" and other Bowdoin books. The new undertaking is one involving a larger expense than any previous production, but the Orient believes that the loyalty of Bowdoin men is such that the publisher will lose nothing by his enterprise.

Winter Track Work

Attention is called in another column to the arrangements that have been made for gym and outdoor work for track men.

This winter work is absolutely necessary this year, because of a continually growing number of inexperienced men joining the track squad; and though several have given unexpected promise, it is only through consistent winter work that they can win the meet next spring. It is therefore very fortunate that this year, when the meet is to depend chiefly on the hard work of the track men, that we have a coach from the student body who is here the year round. It is necessary, however, that the students do their share in the work.

RALLY COMMITTEE

J. Drummond, president of the athletic association, has selected the following committee for the coming college rally: Redman, '07, chairman; Burton, '07, Bower, '07, Haley, '07, Duddy, '07, Voorhees, '07, Hayes, '08, Linnell, '07, A. B. Roberts, '07.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday, January 3, the Christian Association Room was filled by nearly one hundred members to hear Professor Files give an informal talk on “Student Life in Germany.” Professor Files said that in Germany a student rarely attended the same University more than two consecutive semesters, for he goes there only to hear the great German lectures on the special subject in which he is interested. He usually continues his course for about three years, then returns to the University he first attended, and takes his examination for his degree. He also said it would be a saving of money for an American student to take the trip to Germany, and study at the Universities, rather than to study in America. He closed with an account of the German duels. Kendrick, ‘10, played a beautiful violin solo as special music.

Last night Rev. Raymond Calkins, D.D., of Portland, gave the first talk in the series on “The Ethical Aspects of the Professions.” He gave the talk in Hubbard Hall, and took as his subject “Social Service.” A longer account will appear in the next issue of the Orient.

HISTORY PRIZE SUBJECTS

The Class of 1875 Prize in American History will be awarded this year for the best essay on one of the following subjects:
1. The Land Policy of Massachusetts in the Province of Maine.
2. The Separation of Maine from Massachusetts.
3. The Political Career of Governor James Bowdoin.

Essays should contain not less than fifteen, nor more than twenty-five thousand words. All essays must be typewritten and submitted to Professor Allen Johnson not later than June 1, 1907. The competition is open to Seniors and Juniors. Students who intend to compete are advised to consult with Professor Johnson before beginning their work.

The Philo Sherman Bennett Prize will be awarded this year for the best essay on “The Practical Working of the Initiative and Referendum in America.” Essays should contain not less than five nor more than ten thousand words. All essays must be submitted to Professor Allen Johnson not later than June 1, 1907. The competition is open to Seniors and Juniors.

COLLEGE TEA

The second college tea is to be held this afternoon in Hubbard Hall from four until six. The special guests will be from Portland and such visitors as are here for to-night’s Assembly.
College Notes

Sandborn, '08, has returned to college. The B. A. A. Meet will take place on Feb. 16. Several cases of measles are reported in the Ends. The annual Indoor Meet will take place on March 22. Drummond, '09, has been elected business manager of the Quill.

The first Junior Assembly occurs in Memorial Hall this evening. P. A. Drew, U. of M. '08, was a guest at the Beta House, Monday. Several students have recently left college to work at the legislature. Neal Doherty has returned to college and is out for the relay team. Crowley, '08, is confined to his bed this week by trouble with his hip.

Hicks, '05, was a recent guest of friends at the Kappa Sigma House. A preliminary schedule of the final exams was posted for Wednesday. Evans, '10, spent a few days in Augusta last week, the guest of his brother. "Fitz" Sargent, '01, and "Gil" Campbell, '03, were on the campus recently.

The Class of '08, Prize Speaking will take place in Memorial Hall on Jan. 24. Many of the students in the dormitories have been suffering from sore throat.

Coach John Irwin has arrived and has had charge of the baseball squad this week. Plant, Trinity, '10, was a recent guest of friends at the Delta Kappa Epsilon house.

Make up examinations for entrance conditions have been held during the week. Hewey D. Benner, '09, announces that he will issue the Bowdoin Calendar for 1908. Several of the students have entered the pool tournament at the Central Billiard Parlor.

The Bradbury Prize Debate will be held in the Debating Room on Jan. 22, at 7 o'clock. The Freshman Class sweaters have arrived. They are blue and white, and are of various styles.

Several of the students saw Viola Allen in "Cymbeline" at the Empire Theatre last Thursday night. R. W. Smith, '09, took a prominent part in the minstrels of the Cony High School at its annual fair.

Several of the students attended the concert of the Tufts Glee Club, in Portland, last Wednesday evening. Small, '07, was taken ill with appendicitis during the vacation, but is improved and able to attend recitations.

The Bowdoin College Calendars were put on sale last the few days before the Christmas holidays. There are several improvements and innovations and the calendars are certainly up to the standard. Coons, '08, was one of the officiating clergymen at the funeral of the late Weston Thompson on Tuesday.

Bunker, Med. '09, and Humphrey, Med. '09, who have been seriously ill at their homes, have returned to college.

G. B. Webber has issued calendars with a picture of the baseball team upon them. The calendars are very attractive.

David R. Porter, ex-Bowdoin, '06, now at Oxford, is passing the six weeks' vacation in traveling through Italy.

Francis R. Upton, Jr., '09, of Orange, N. J., has been elected reader for the College Glee and Mandolin-Guitar Clubs.

In one of the Boston papers it was stated lately that Bowdoin was to have a dual track meet with Tufts this spring.

Lowell, '08, who, just before the Christmas holidays, broke his forearm while pole vaulting in the gym, is much improved.

Warren, '10, has been doing quite a lot of business selling "Insured Stockings." They are guaranteed not to need darning for a year.

Fine skating has been enjoyed on the river during the past week. The entire river is frozen over, and the greater part is clear ice.

Slocum, '10, has set up his book store at 18 North Maine Hall and offers, besides a good line of books, hockey sticks and athletic goods.

The boys' basketball team of the Brunswick High School defeated the Lisbon Falls High Saturday evening, Dec. 29, by a score of 15 to 5.

Thomas H. Riley is issuing calendars containing pictures of New England College buildings, among them being one of the Walker Art Building.

Adams, '07, and Sparks, '09, are in the woods of northern Maine for several weeks, where they are engaged in forestry work for Professor Austin Cary.

The outdoor running track is now being used. The track was somewhat remodeled this year, and it is now very similar to the track used at the B. A. A. Meet.

R. W. Messer, who left college about four weeks ago, owing to sickness, was operated on for appendicitis last Saturday in the Maine General Hospital at Portland.

The Mozart Club, composed of the young lady musicians of Brunswick, gave a very delightful musical recital in the First Parish Church on Tuesday evening, Jan. 1.

During the vacation an Augusta Club was organized at Augusta with the following officers: President, Weston, '08; Vice-President, Heath, '09; Secretary, Martin, '10.

During the Christmas recess set bowls with hot and cold water were placed on each floor in North Maine. The expense was borne by the students rooming in that end.

Rev. Herbert A. Jump had an interesting Christmas story entitled "The Christmas Star of Moneeg Ledge" in the Lewiston Saturday Journal recently and a poem entitled "My Church" in the Congregationalist.
The Dramatic Club will present "London Assurance" this year. Lack of space prevents a full account of the work that is being done in this week's issue.

S. F. Timberlake, '09, has accepted a position at Augusta as the special messenger for the Governor and Council, and will hold this position during the session of the Legislature.

Bridge, '09, was confined to his room for the first two weeks of the term because of a blow on the jaw received while boxing. He has since recovered, however, and is attending to his college work as usual.

"The Camp on Letter K" is the name of a book recently published by Mr. Burleigh, editor of the Kennebec Journal. This book is the beginning of a series, the last of which will deal with Bowdoin Life.

There is considerable talk of a basketball game between the team from the Medical School, and a local team. Should the game be played it would be close and exciting, as there are good players on both teams.

A most enjoyable dancing party was held at the Theta Delta Chi House, Friday evening, December the twenty-first. The patronesses were Mrs. Roscoe J. Ham, Mrs. William B. Mitchell and Mrs. Frank Woodruff.

Seven Harvard students, members of the Senior Class in Forestry, were in town a few days during the vacation. They left Brunswick for the Rangeley region where they are at work under Professor Austin Cary, of the Forestry Department at Harvard.

The Brunswick High School basketball team goes to Freeport this evening, to play the Freeport High School. Wednesday evening the Brunswick team played the Morse High of Bath at Bath, and Saturday evening the Yarmouth local team at Yarmouth.

The regular Tuesday evening debate was witnessed by members of the debating teams of Lewiston High and Edward Little High last Tuesday evening. Both schools are members of the Bowdoin Interscholastic Debating League and will meet in the preliminary debate to-night.

The members of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity held a delightful dancing party at New Meadows Inn on Friday evening, Dec. 21. Dinner was also enjoyed at the Inn. In the later part of the evening the party returned to the fraternity house where a pleasant social hour was passed.

Winston B. Stephens, '10, while at his home in New Bedford, Mass., for the Christmas vacation, was presented a handsome gold watch in recognition of his bravery last summer in saving the life of Maurice H. Richardson, Jr. Mr. Richardson, who is a Harvard student, was drowning near Horse Neck, on the Massachusetts coast when Stephens at the risk of his life brought him to land.

Prof. Little addressed the Faculty Club last Monday evening. His subject was St. Gregory.

Prof. G. T. Files was a visitor at the Yale Graduate School during a part of last week.

The American Historical and Economical Associations which met at Providence, R. I., December 21-29, were attended by Prof. A. Johnson and Prof. R. C. McCrea.

Dr. Burnett has recently been elected Superintendent of the Sunday School of the First Parish Church.

The January number of the Maine Magazine contains an extensive write-up of Brunswick and a sketch of Bowdoin College from the pen of Professor Foster. The issue contains also pictures of many of the college buildings, and grounds.

Professor and Mrs. Henry Johnson, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Annie Johnson, Professor and Mrs. William A. Houghton and Professor Kenneth C. M. Sills were among the Brunswick people who attended the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gardiner of Gardiner at their summer home, "Oaklands," last Friday evening.

TRACK WORK THIS WINTER

Regular work in all the field and track events that can be handled in the Gymnasium or on the outdoor track, will be done from now on under the direction of Coach Merrill every Tuesday and Thursday at 2:30, and every Saturday at 3:30.

A cross country squad which will be under the management of Captain Shorey is to start from the Gymnasium every afternoon at 4:45. This squad will take brisk walks of three or four miles, coming home at a jog. Those going on the walks will wear their ordinary amount of clothing with sweaters, for this work is simply to keep all the distance men in good condition and give them the staying strength on which the races will depend next spring.

All men trying for the relay team that is to race Tufts next month, are to meet every afternoon at four o'clock for setting-up work with dumb-bells and the regular practice on the board track.

HOCKEY

Last Saturday a hockey team composed of members of the college, went to Augusta where they defeated a local team by a score of 10 to 2. Those who played and their positions were as follows: Dresser, Draper, Hughes, and Hambruger, forwards; Johnson, cover point; Wight, point; and Lawrence, goal. Next Saturday the Augusta team will play a return game with the college team on the new rink at Whittier Field, when an opportunity will be given to see how the game is played, and also to encourage the formation of a hockey team to represent Bowdoin in intercollegiate games.

FIRST JUNIOR ASSEMBLY

The first Junior Assembly of the winter will take place in Memorial Hall this evening. The committee have completed all the details of arrangements and a delightful affair is anticipated. The patronesses will be Mrs. W. DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Leslie A.
Lee, Mrs. George T. Files, Mrs. Roswell C. McCrea and Mrs. H. C. Baxter. Lovell's Orchestra will furnish music and refreshments will be served by Given.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTION

The Senior Class election was held last Tuesday afternoon, resulting as follows: President, W. S. Linnell; Vice-President, N. W. Doherty; Secretary-Treasurer, G. A. Bower; Marshal, P. Kimball; Chaplain, G. H. Hull; Opening Address, H. E. Mitchell; Oration, F. J. Redman; Closing Address, E. A. Duddy; Historian, A. J. Voorhees; Poet, C. W. Snow; Class Day Committee, Chairman, F. L. Bass; S. G. Haley, D. S. Robinson.

It was voted to have a class smoker some time in the near future and a committee consisting of Lawrence, Haley and D. S. Robinson was appointed to make arrangements.

Alumni Personals

CLASS OF 1856

The following was taken from the Boston Journal of a short time ago: "Eight men, the remnant of the Class of 1856, Bowdoin College, were entertained at Young's Hotel last night by George C. Yeaton and Judge Luce of Waltham. One of the members introduced his son, Robert Luce, a member of the Legislature, to the class, and a delightful evening was spent in reminiscences of old times. Rev. Dr. Parker of Hartford, read a poem weaving in the names of all his classmates."

CLASS OF 1870

Congressman D. S. Alexander's Political History of the State of New York, has recently been put on sale. The book is in two volumes and contains 840 pages and is very highly spoken of by commentators.

CLASS OF 1877

Commander Robert E. Peary will be the guest of honor at the annual dinner, January 16, of the New York Alumni Association of Delta Kappa Epsilon, an organization with a membership of over 500.

CLASS OF 1882

Maine has a special interest in the appointment by the President of Edwin U. Curtis of Boston as treasurer of the United States sub-treasury at that city. Though born in Boston of a long line of Bostonians, he was educated in Maine, married a Waldoboro girl and frequently visits this State. He attended school at the famous old Little Blue School in Farmington and then entered Bowdoin, where he graduated in '82. In college he was a famous athlete and was captain of the crew. He has since been on the Bowdoin athletic council and is now on the board of overseers of the college. He studied law after graduation from college, but in later years has devoted most of his time to real estate and his varied business interests. In 1889 and 1890 he was city clerk of Boston and in 1895 he was elected mayor on the Republican ticket. His new position is one of much responsibility but as he is a millionaire the salary of $5,000 was not his motive in accepting the appointment.—Kennebec Journal.

CLASS OF 1893

George S. Chapin, now a teacher at the Ohio State School for the Blind, and Pauline G. Gray of Columbus, Ohio, were married December 29, 1906.

CLASS OF 1895

The engagement is announced of Harlan P. Small, '95, a Springfield, Mass., lawyer, and Miss Fannie Moulton of Springfield, formerly of Bath, Me.

Fred O. Small, '95, and R. S. Hagar, '97, are located in Joplin, Missouri, where they have recently formed a law partnership.

Philip D. Stubbs, Esq., of Strong, Me., has been elected a member of the next Maine Legislature.

CLASS OF 1900

Everett B. Stackpole has been admitted to the Massachusetts bar and is located in Haverhill.

Robert S. Edwards, Bowdoin, '00, has recently opened a broker's office at 27 Milk Street, Boston.

CLASS OF 1904

A. C. Merryman, '04, has recently obtained a position as teacher of science in Milwaukee Academy, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Walter K. Wildes, 1904, has resigned his position with the American Woolen Company and will pass the winter in Europe. He sailed from New York, Saturday, December 15, on the steamship New York, of the American Line. After spending the Christmas holidays in London he will go to Switzerland, returning to New York in the spring to again enter business.
Obituary

JUDGE JOHN F. LIBBY, '85

John F. Libby, since 1900 the justice of the eastern Middlesex district, died Dec. 27 at his home in Medford, Mass. He was born in Richmond Feb. 3, 1863, and graduated from Bowdoin in '85. He taught in Waldoboro and Bridgton, studied law in Portland and since 1892 has practiced in Medford. He served two terms in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was Medford's city solicitor and chairman of its water and sewer commission. He was appointed to the bench by Governor Crane and the Boston papers pay the highest tributes to his memory as a judge and a citizen.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

LONGFELLOW ANNIVERSARY

Bowdoin College will celebrate the One-Hundredth Anniversary of the birth of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, in connection with Commencement, on Wednesday, June 26th. Professor George H. Palmer, LL.D., of Harvard University, will give the address and Rev. Samuel V. Cole, D.D., Principal of Wheaton Seminary, will give the poem.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

The first debate in the Bowdoin Interscholastic Debating League was held at Lewiston last Friday evening and resulted in a victory for Lewiston over the Edward Little High of Auburn. The question debated was “Resolved, That cities in the United States of 25,000 or more inhabitants should own and operate their street railways.” Lewiston had the affirmative and Edward Little the negative.

The City Hall was well filled with supporters and friends of the two teams and the enthusiasm was at a high pitch throughout the debate. The judges were Hon. Harold M. Sewall of Bath, Hon. Burt Pernald of Poland, and Prof. K. C. M. Sills of Bowdoin. Mayor Newell of Lewiston presided.

The debate was a very even contest throughout and the various issues were carefully worked out on both sides. The speakers for Lewiston were Messrs. Keist, Marston and Fisher. The issues treated by them were as follows: First, That the present system is objectionable; second, the proposed plan would remedy the objectionable features; and, third, municipal ownership has been successful in Great Britain.

The speakers for Edward Little were Messrs. Philoone, Adams and Barton. They treated their side of the question as follows: First, that municipal ownership would result in poorer service; second, that it would be too expensive; and, third, that it would lead to political corruption. On the constructive side, they advocated public control in place of public ownership.

The rebuttals were for the most part good, and it was in this that Lewiston seemed to excel to the extent that the judges believed it just to award them the debate.

Professor Sills in announcing the decision of the judges, reported a concurring opinion in declaring the excellence of the negative in the matter of presentation, but because of the great superiority of the affirmative in the rebuttal, the judges “could do nothing else than give them the debate.”

The debate was satisfactory in every respect and much credit is due to both Snow, ’07, and Hupper, ’08, who coached Lewiston High and Edward Little High respectively. Lewiston High will now be required to meet the winner of the Cony High-Gardiner High debate, in a debate to be held in Memorial Hall later in the year.

The only unfortunate feature of the debate is that there appears to be some dissatisfaction among the Auburn supporters over the decision of the judges. It is hoped that the matter may be amicably settled.

The Cony High-Gardiner debate, which was to have been held this evening, has been set ahead one week.

FIRST JUNIOR ASSEMBLY

The first Junior Assembly of the winter was held in Memorial Hall last Friday evening, and proved all that could be desired as an enjoyable dancing party. The hall was tastily decorated for the occasion, a large “’08” in the rear being a conspicuous part of the arrangements.

An order of 24 dances was carried out, the music for which was furnished by the College Orchestra, with Kendrie, ’10, as leader. There were about 30 couples in attendance. The patronesses were Mrs. William DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. Leslie A. Lee, Mrs. Roswell C. McCrea, Mrs. Hartley C. Baxter, Mrs. George T. Files, and Mrs. Hosen Knowlton of Newton. Among the young ladies present were Miss Margaret Stevens, of Portland, Miss Margaret Toage of Damariscotta, Miss Ethel McFarland of Keene, N. H.; Miss Emily Creighton, of Thomaston; Misses Annie Ross and Floradora Ross of Kennebunk; Misses Helen Eaton, Sue Winchell, Gertrude Christopher, Lue Woodward, Dasie Hubbard, and Annie Parsons of Brunswick; Misses Mattie Clifford of Cornish; Misses Elizabeth Bates, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Geneva Fitzgerald, of Portland; Miss Gertrude Stevens of Fort Fairfield; Misses Margaret cram and Berta Cram of Mount Vernon; Miss Annie Robinson of Bangor; Misses Winifred Bent and Josephine Powers of Dresden; Miss Marion Cobb of Rockland; Miss Christine Kennison of Waterville; Miss Louise Sewall of Bath; Misses Marion Proctor, Louise Edwards and Gwendolyn Jenkens of Portland.

MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

The third meeting of the Massachusetts Club was held at the Zeta Psi House last Saturday evening. After the usual business of the Club had been transacted, and refreshments had been served, some twenty-two members listened to a very interesting talk by Professor Ham on “What a college man ought to get out of his courses.” On January twenty-sixth instead of the regular meeting of the club, parties of four will play cards, the two winners in each party to receive prizes, in the form of match-holders, embossed with a Seal of Massachusetts.
DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatic Club has selected as its play, "London Assurance," by Dion L. Boucicault. It is a comedy, whose action takes place in England at about 1840. There are twelve characters in the play, only three of whom are ladies, so that it is especially adapted to being played by a college club as was very successfully done at Dartmouth two years ago.

James A. Bartlett, '66, who played on the club during the four years of his college course, has been engaged as coach, and will be able to give much of his time to the rehearsals, since he is teaching school at Saco.

On Monday, Jan. 14, the trials for the club were held in the Christian Association Room. Professor Chapman, Professor Mitchell and J. A. Bartlett acted as judges. Their decision as to the parts had not been made known when the Orient went to press, but a good club should be picked sooner than thirty men competed for the twelve parts.

It is planned now to take two short trips, and have one performance in Brunswick. This performance will come the night before Ivy, as last year, and it is hoped that the college will make it, as it deserves to be, one of the regular events of Ivy Week.

MINSTREL SHOW

The work of preparation for the Minstrel Show is now making good progress and the indications are that the show will be fully up to the high standard of past years. The show will be presented in the Town Hall on Jan. 23. It is also hoped to have the show given at least once out of town.

Kimball, '07, will be interlocutor. The "Bones" will be Sheehan, P. H. Browne and R. W. Smith, and the "Tambos" Upton, Roberts and Kingsley. There will be vocal solos by Pike, Limnell and Leydon and a violin solo by Kendrie. The chorus will number about forty voices and the manager would like a few more volunteers for that, although the attendance at the rehearsals has been very good. There are to be a number of specialty acts. B. C. Morrill will give an exhibition of club swinging and juggling; the Mikelsky brothers will appear in a sketch written especially for the occasion; and Boyce, '08, will give one of his monologues. Other specialty acts will be given by Sargent and Cox, and by Donnell and Upton. There will be a trio from the Mandolin Club and a quartet from the Glee Club. Manager Robinson intends to make this year's show the most successful one there has been so far.

GOVERNMENT CLUB

A government club was organized in the history room last Friday morning. An executive committee consisting of Professor Johnson, Voorhees, '07, and Pike, '07, was selected.

CHEMICAL CLUB

The next meeting of the Chemical Club will be held at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening in Hubbard Hall. W. V. Wentworth, Bowdoin, '86, will speak on "Soda Fibre."

SECOND COLLEGE TEA

The second in the series of college teas was held in the Alumni Room of Hubbard Hall last Friday afternoon, and, like its predecessors, proved an enjoyable occasion. The special guests of the afternoon were friends of the college residing in Portland and vicinity, and there was a large number in attendance. In addition to these, friends of the college who were in town to attend the Junior Assembly the evening were also in attendance, making an unusually large number of young ladies.

The patronesses of the afternoon consisted of Mrs. William A. Houghton, Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, Mrs. Henry Johnson, and Mrs. George T. Little. The ushers were from the eight fraternities, and were as follows: Winchell, '07, Kingsley, '07, Powers, '08, Huse, '08, Davis, '08, Leighton, '08, Cushing, '09, and Fiesler, '09.

Refreshments of tea, coffee, punch, fancy crackers and confectionery were served during the afternoon. The tea tables were in charge of Mrs. Frank N. Whittier and Mrs. Charles C. Hutchins, assisted by the Misses Sue Winchell, Annie Johnson, Emile Felt, Sarah Merryman, Gertrude Christopher and Helen Curtis.

Mrs. William A. Moody poured coffee, and was assisted in serving by Misses Grace Crawford, Mae Despeaux, Ida Smith. Mrs. George T. Fiesler presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Misses Sarah Baxter, Edna Scott, Marjorie Prince, and Cecil Houghton.

ART BUILDING NOTES

There is now on exhibition in the Bowdoin Gallery a set of 108 excellent views of Paris, loaned by the Library Art Club, which will remain on exhibition until next Monday.

The Art Building has recently received several coins from people interested in the college. They are two Japanese coins, one copper, and one nickel, from Horace Chandler, Esq., of Jamaica Plain, Mass., a bronze classical coin from Charles Mustard, Esq., of Brunswick, and a U. S. half dollar dated 1835 from G. Barbalins, Esq., of Lewiston.

The college has also entrusted to the Art Building a piece of one of the original oak rafters used in the construction of Faneuil Hall, Boston, in 1742 (which structure was burned in 1763), that recently was presented to the college by Sergeant E. E. Snow, of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery.

THE GLEE CLUB

Leaders Winchell and Pike having been busily engaged during the past week in rehearsing their respective clubs in preparation for the trips which will take place shortly after the mid-year examinations. The first concert will be held at Freeport on Feb. 14 and on Feb. 18 will occur the annual concert in Bath. A trip has been arranged which begins at Ellsworth on Feb. 20 and includes Bangor, Feb. 21, Oldtown, Feb. 22, and Augusta, Feb. 23. There will then be a trip to Livermore Falls and Farmington on Feb. 27 and 28 respectively. In addition to these, concerts have been arranged in Portland, Westbrook and Rumford Falls, with possible trips to Kennebunk, Saco, and Rockland.
GREAT HONOR FOR PEARY

At the recent annual dinner of the National Geographic Society, Commander Robert E. Peary was presented a gold medal for having reached "Farthest North." President Roosevelt was the guest of honor and made the presentation. The President in a brief address paid tribute to Commander Peary and took occasion to remark that he was proud of the fact that an American, an officer of the American Navy, had reached "Farthest North."

The President spoke as follows:

"I count myself as fortunate in having been asked to be present this evening at such a gathering and on behalf of such a society to pay tribute of honor to an American who emphatically deserves well of the commonwealth. Civilized people usually live under conditions of life so easy that there is a certain tendency to atrophy of the hardier virtues. And it is a relief to pay signal honor to a man who by his achievements makes it evident that in some of the race at least, there has been no loss of hardy virtues.

"I said some loss of the hardier virtues. We will do well to recollect that the very word virtue in itself originally signifies courage and hardihood. When the Roman spoke of virtue he meant that sum of qualities that we characterize as manliness.

"I emphatically believe in peace and all the kindred virtues. But I think that they are only worth having if they come as a consequence of possessing the combined virtues of courage and hardihood. So I feel that in an age which naturally and properly excels, as it should excel, in the milder and softer qualities, there is need that we should not forget that in the last analysis the safe basis of a successful national character must rest upon the great fighting virtues, and those great fighting virtues can be shown quite as well in peace as in war.

"They can be shown in the work of the philanthropist; in the work of the scientist and most emphatically of all in the work of the explorer, who faces and overcomes perils and hardships which the average soldier never in his life knows.

"In war, after all, it is only the man at the very head who is ever lonely. All the others, from the subordinate generals down through the privates are cheered and sustained by the sense of companionship and by the sense of divided responsibility.

"You (turning to Commander Peary), the man whom we join to honor to-day, you who for months in and months out, year in and year out, had to face perils and overcome the greatest risks and difficulties, with resting on your shoulders the undivided responsibility which meant life or death to you and your followers—you had to show in addition that the modern commander with his great responsibility does not have to show. You had to show all the moral qualities in war, together with other qualities. You did a great deed, a deed that counted for all mankind, a deed which reflected credit upon you and upon your country, and on behalf of those present, speaking also for the millions of your countrymen, I take pleasure in handing you this Hubbard medal, and in welcoming you home from the great feats which you have performed, Commander Peary.

BOWDOIN BOYS WITH THE INTERNATIONAL BANKING CORPORATION

The following young Bowdoin graduates are now with the International Banking Corporation of which General Hubbard, '57, is the president; H. W. Oakes, '04, and Stanley Williams, '05, in Manila; Walter S. Cushing, '05, in Yokohama; William B. Webb, '05, in Hong Kong; John H. Brett, '05, in Shanghai; D. B. Andrews, '06, and Robie Stevens, '06, in the City of Mexico; A. C. Shorey, '04, E. L. Brigham, '04, C. J. Donnell, '05, R. B. Williams, '06, F. L. Packard, '06, R. T. Woodruff, '06, R. G. Webber, '06, and E. H. Wing, '06, in London; and E. W. Hamilton, '05, and H. S. Stetson, '06, in New York.

HOCKEY TO-MORROW

The first game of hockey that has been played at Bowdoin is scheduled to take place on the Whittier Field to-morrow afternoon. The college team will have as its opponent a team from Augusta and it is hoped that a large number of students will be on hand to see the game. The college material promises unusually well and the game will be well worth seeing.

PROSPECTIVE DUAL MEET

It is understood that one of the matters to be discussed at the next meeting of the Athletic Council, which may be held to-morrow, will be that of a dual meet with Tufts. There seems to be much to be said in favor of the proposition and it is understood that Tufts is anxious to hold such a meet. The outcome will be awaited with interest.

PROF. MITCHELL TO ADDRESS HEBRON CLUB

The Hebron Club met with Ellis, '09, at the Delta Upsilon House last Saturday evening, for its regular monthly meeting. It was voted to hold a banquet at the Inn to-morrow evening at which time Professor Mitchell, Hebron, '86, will address the Club.
Eligibility Rules

The Orient is pleased to state that the faculty has decided on the retention of the athletic rules which went into effect last fall, instead of enacting any new regulations. This decision on the part of the faculty is one that commends itself to the entire student body. While it is doubtless true that the present rules have defects it is also true that they have scarcely had a fair trial, and the Orient believes they embody all the necessary limitations without dealing the blow to the athletic interests of the college that would have been the case under some of the contemplated changes.

This action on the part of the faculty is not only pleasing as being a satisfactory arrangement, but it is also an indication of a careful consideration of the students' standpoint, by our faculty. There is, perhaps, nothing in the conduct of a college that contributes more to make the institution mean what it should to a man in both undergraduate and graduate days, than a harmony of interests between the students and the faculty—a thing in which Bowdoin has always been particularly fortunate. And in the present instance the faculty has shown a consideration for which the students should all feel grateful.

Sub-Freshmen and the Minstrel Show

It is well to call the attention of the students to the advisability of inviting sub-Freshmen to the Minstrel Show. While the Indoor Meet is the time generally recognized for the entertainment of preparatory school men, it is certain that the Minstrel Show is as fully as interesting an entertainment as is the meet. It is not always possible to get men here at the Meet, and it is surely no harm to begin interesting men in the college now. If the show is anywhere near equal to that of previous years, it will be an occasion that will be thoroughly enjoyed by most sub-Freshmen.

Lack of Space Again

The Orient wishes to call attention to the fact that several articles that have been received are crowded out of this issue because of lack of space. From time to time contributions that are greatly appreciated are delayed for this reason and no other. The current events of the college are of a character that demands early publication, although in many instances they are of far less importance than the items crowded out. The Orient wishes to assure those who have kindly contributed that their articles will appear as soon as possible; also that their kindness is fully appreciated.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday evening, January 10, the first of the monthly meetings that are to be open to the public, was held in Hubbard Hall. The subject for these meetings is “The Ethical Aspects of the Professions,” and Rev. Raymond Calkins, D.D., of Portland, who spoke January 10, took as his special subject “The Ethics of Social Service.” He said that there are two problems before the world, the social problem and the personal problem, that is the problem of the poor masses and of the self-supporting individual. The social problem can be solved only by disinterested help being given to the masses, and the personal problem can be solved only by the individual’s giving help to those who need it, for his problem is to get true happiness. Therefore, when the self-supporting individual enters into social service, he is helping to solve the social problem as well as his own. The college student, Dr. Calkins said, is like a pond filling up with water, but having no outlet; so if the student should use some of his stored up learning in social service, he would be making an outlet that would give him happiness.

The other three speakers on “The Ethical Aspects of the Professions” will be Prof. A. E. Burton, C.E., Bowdoin, ’78, Dean of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on “Civil Engineering,” January 31; Dr. D. A. Robinson, A.M., M.D., Bowdoin, ’73, on “Medicine,” February 14; and Mr. G. W. Hinckley of Good Will Farm, on “Social Service,” February 28.

Last night Anand Sidoba Hiwale of Hindostan spoke in the Christian Association room, on “India’s Need of a Christian Type of Manhood,” and a soliloquy was sung by A. O. Pike, ’07. An account will appear in next week’s issue.

CLASS OF 1896

Robert Newbegin, who is practicing law with his father, Henry Newbegin, ’57, at Defiance, Ohio, has opened an office in Toledo. The Defiance office will be continued as before.

CLASS OF 1897

Oscar Pease, Bowdoin, ’97, is engaged in the practice of law, his office being in the Tremont Building, Boston.

CLASS OF 1898

The current number of the Magazine of Modern Philology contains a very learned article on the “Structure and Interpretation of Widsith” by W. W. Lawrence, Bowdoin, ’98.

CLASS OF 1899

Frank L. Dutton was married Jan. 1 to Miss Ethel Marion Robie of Grafton, Mass., the wedding taking place in the Webb Congregational Church in that city. Two of the ushers were Bowdoin men, Loton D. Jennings, ’99, now a Boston attorney, and Niles L. Perkins, ’03. Mr. Dutton is now one of the leading attorneys in Augusta, Me., where he is now city solicitor and secretary of the Board of Trade.

THE FACULTY

Thursday, January 17, Professor Little was to be at the meeting of Librarians of New England Colleges held in connection with the Massachusetts Library Club.
CLASS OF 1900

Harry C. McCarty, '00, was married in Washington, on November 28, to Miss Adelaide E. Bernhard, and the couple will be at home after January 1, 1907, at 55 Spring Street, Westbrook, Maine.

H. G. Clement is now principal of Freedom Academy, Freedom, Me.

Fred W. Ward, who is principal of Foxcroft Academy, has instituted a system of city government in the management of the school that is proving a great success. The system has been the subject of much newspaper comment. The school form of self-government has saved the academy the employment of one extra teacher during the past year, while it has also been successful in maintaining the best of discipline in every room in the school. Teachers and students both are high in their words of praise of the system. Principal Ward has, since the newspapers have had stories concerning the working of the system, received scores of letters from educators in this and other states asking for full particulars regarding the details of the plan. It is understood that other schools in Maine are to adopt the plan as a result of the academy's departure of the old plan of discipline by teachers and monitors. Principal Ward is a Cherryfield boy who graduated from Bowdoin in 1900, and has been at Foxcroft for four years.

CLASS OF 1901

Harry E. Walker, who has been Principal of the Fort Fairfield, Me., High School for four years, has accepted the principalship of the High School at Exeter, N. H.

Harry H. Cloudman is Physical Director at the University of Vermont.

CLASS OF 1902

Clifford H. Preston has resigned the Principalship of the Brewer, Me., High School and entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to study Architecture.

Dr. Ernest W. Files, House Physician of the Maine General Hospital last year, has taken up his residence at 22 Pleasant Avenue, Woodfords, Me.

CLASS OF 1903

Carl Fuller is a boss-dyer in the great Amoskeag Corporation at Manchester, N. H.—the largest colored mill in America. Mr. Fuller made a specialty of chemistry in college; went from college into the Cowan Mill in Lewiston to learn dyeing and from there to the Amoskeag where he has assurance of success as a scientific chemist devoting his attention to practical work in the mill.

Niles L. Perkins is now located in New York City, where he has recently become associated with a law firm in that city.

It is said that the youngest member of the next Legislature will be Andy P. Havey of West Sullivan, whose age is 25. He is a graduate of Kent's Hill and of Bowdoin, completing his college course in 1903. The intercollegiate world knows him well as an athlete, as he was captain of the Bowdoin nine two years, and also played on the football eleven.—Kennebec Journal.

Carl W. Smith, who graduated from the Harvard Law School last June is in the office of Powers & Hall, 101 Milk Street, Boston.

CLASS OF 1905

Mr. George T. Prince of Denver, Colorado, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Marjorie W. Prince, to Mr. John W. Riley of Brunswick. Miss Prince has been spending the past year with her grandmother, Mrs. John M. Bowker of Brunswick, in which town she has many friends. Mr. Riley graduated from Bowdoin in the Class of 1905 and is associated with his father, Thomas H. Riley, in the insurance business. He is also secretary of the Brunswick Board of Trade.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

BOWDOIN’S FIRST ENDOWMENT

[The following letter from Edward Stanwood, '61, relative to Bowdoin’s first endowment, will be interesting reading to friends of Bowdoin, and the ORIENT is pleased to present it to its readers. The letter is as follows:]

It is noted in the History of Bowdoin College that in June, 1794, the governing boards of the college, which had just been incorporated by the Massachusetts General Court, received a letter from James Bowdoin making a gift in money and land to the infant institution. I presume that the correspondence between Mr. Bowdoin and the authorities of the college is preserved somewhere in the archives of Bowdoin, but it must be several generations since it has been seen and read by any one. I am glad to be able to send a copy of it to the ORIENT. The Massachusetts Historical Society is now passing through the press a second volume of the Bowdoin and Temple papers, and the editor of the volume, Mr. Charles Card Smith, has kindly furnished me with the proof pages of the volume containing these two interesting letters.

Edward Stanwood, 1861.

The letters, in the type, spelling, punctuation and general style of the original documents, are as follows:

JAMES BOWDOIN TO THE OVERSEEERS OF BOWDOIN COLLEGE.

Boston, June 27th, 1794.

To the Overseers & Corporation of Bowdoin College.

Gentlemen,—The General Court having established a public seminary of learning in the District of Maine, for the purpose of diffusing literature and useful knowledge, whereby it may be reasonably expected that the seeds of science, deeply sown in the natural genius of its inhabitants, will soon be seen to blossom, to fructify, and to contribute to the general stock of scientific information in the United States, you, Gentlemen, being selected for the honourable purpose of laying the first foundation of an institution upon the prosperity of which the future character, dignity, and prosperity of the District of Maine will materially depend; however important the commission, arduous the undertaking, or difficult the task, I have no doubt of your prudence, wisdom, and capacity to fulfill the trust committed to you; you’ll permit me, however, to suggest that the honourable testimonial of respect paid in the establishment to the name, the character, the talents, and virtues of my late father, must attach me in a peculiar degree to an institution in whose success of which I feel myself deeply interested.

Bowdoin College shall receive the feeble aid of my endeavours to promote its usefulness, interest, and welfare, and as a first step to the design, suffer me to say that as soon as you shall signify your acceptance by the votes of your respective bodies of the sum of one thousand dollars in specie and of one thousand acres of land, situated in the town of Bowdoin, to be disposed of in such way and manner as you shall deem best to subserv the designs of the institution, I stand ready to pay the said sum to whomsoever you shall direct to receive it, and to make ye necessary conveyance of the land as aforesaid.

Wishing you every success in the important trust committed to you, I have the honour, to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obed’t & very hble. serv’t.

James Bowdoin.

COMMITTEE OF THE OVERSEEERS OF BOWDOIN COLLEGE TO JAMES BOWDOIN.

Portland, December 27th, 1794.

Hon’ble James Bowdoin, Esq.

Sir,—The Board of Overseers of Bowdoin College have the honor and satisfaction to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th of June last. On their behalf we now transmit to you an attested copy of their vote by which they have accepted your free and generous donation, and appointed the Hon’ble David Mitchell, Esqr., to receive it.

As the only testimonial of their gratitude which is in their power to present we are charged to express to you their sincerest acknowledgements, both for the donation itself and the intimation of your future design to promote the usefulness of the institution.

We are happy, Sir, in the reflection that you have thus become an early and liberal patron to Bowdoin College. This will animate those who shall from time to time have the superintendency and management of it to co-operate with you, as far as their feeble efforts can extend, in your laudable intention to contribute to its character and dignity; and we anticipate with a high degree of confidence that under a government which depends upon the spread of knowledge for its support, the learned and wealthy part of the community will bestow upon it their smiles & patronage, so that it may soon and lastinglly flourish under a name which has been so justly dear and valuable to the friends of humanity & science. We rejoice that with this name the College has been honoured, and it affords us additional pleasure to reflect that its patron is cloathed with the mantle of his father's virtues.

We devoutly wish him every earthly felicity and an immortality in that happy place where charity will receive its complete reward.

We have the honor to be, Sir, with profound respect,

Your most hble. serv'ts.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETING

At a meeting of the Athletic Council held last Friday evening several matters of importance were considered. The matter of a dual meet with Tufts next spring was taken up and favorable action taken, and if the matter receives the approval of the faculty, the meet will doubtless be held one week before the Maine meet. It is planned to hold the meet on the Whittier Field.

The matter of hockey was also taken up and Dresser, '08, was selected as manager and empowered to arrange two games with the University of Maine. This was not in the nature of a permanent approval but rather as a temporary arrangement.

The advisability of arranging two relay races between Bowdoin and Bates Freshmen was also considered. It is possible that two of these races will take place, one at the Bowdoin and one at the Bates Indoor Meet.

The baseball schedule as arranged by Manager Robinson was also considered and referred to a committee, to whose approval it will be subjected.

'68 PRIZE SPEAKING

The program for the '68 Prize Speaking which took place last night was as follows:

"Characteristics of Modern Irish Poetry" E. A. Duddy
"Increase of Federal Power" S. G. Haley
"The Industrial Juggernaut" N. W. Allen

BOWDOIN'S OLDEST GRADUATE

By the death of Rev. David B. Sewall, D.D., '36, the honor of being Bowdoin's oldest graduate falls to Rev. W. W. Rand, D.D., '37, of New York City.
HOCKEY NOTES

The first game of hockey, which was to have been played last Saturday between a college team and a team from Augusta did not materialize owing to the fact that the Augusta team was unable to come. Sickness of some of the men is said to have been the cause.

Manager Dresser has arranged two games with the University of Maine, one of which will be played at Orono and the other at Brunswick. The latter game will be played Feb. 16. The game at Orono will take place either Feb. 11 or March 2.

VEREIN MEETING

The Deutscher Verein met last Friday evening at the Inn. After the business meeting, at which Linnell, ’07, was elected “Vorsitzender” for the ensuing year, Professor Ilam spoke on “Impressions I received in Germany.” It is planned to hold the next meeting Feb. 15.
Students will be pleased to learn of the favorable action of the Athletic Council relative to the proposed dual meet with Tufts. If the meet is pulled off one week before the Maine Meet and two weeks before the New England Meet, as is proposed, the advantage to the Bowdoin team is one which cannot be overestimated. It will be a tryout for the team and will show what the new men, who in large part make up our squad, are really capable.

The past few years has shown that our teams need all possible training to make them capable of winning the Maine Meet, to say nothing of the New England, and this dual meet will not only be interesting in itself, but will also be of great value as a preparation for these later and more important meets.

The proposed meet is not to be objected to as a new departure which will require more work on the part of the student body. The fact that the men who will compete will be out just as regularly and devote the same amount of time in preparation for the State and New England meets, removes all argument on this score. The only possible objection can be in the matter of detail, and these, it is hoped, may be easily adjusted.

Death of Bowdoin’s Oldest Graduate

Again is Bowdoin called on to mourn the loss of her oldest graduate, in the death of Rev. David B. Sewall, who graduated in 1836, in the same class with Dr. Garcelon, whose death occurred a few weeks ago. Mr. Sewall was 90 years of age. He was a brother of Prof. John S. Sewall of Bangor Theological Seminary, who graduated from Bowdoin in the Class of 1850, and Prof. Jotham B. Sewall of Boston, who graduated in the Class of 1848, and who is still living. All three of these men have spent their long lives in the Christian ministry.
dents as with visitors or others who cross the campus. It is not too much to say that an elderly person who undertook to walk along some sections of the campus the first of the week would have been in danger of a fall that might possibly have meant permanent injury, to say nothing of the unpleasant impression a visitor would have of our college and campus under these conditions. If sand cannot be secured, or if there are other good reasons, it would seem advisable to put a sign to notify the public that it is dangerous passing.

Longfellow Anniversary

Alumni and friends of the college will be pleased to learn of the observance of the 100th anniversary of Longfellow’s birth, which will be made a feature of next Commencement. This plan is one that is in harmony with the observance that is planned in Portland and elsewhere in memory of America’s great poet, and it is especially appropriate that the college whose son he was should celebrate the centennial of his birth.

BRADBURY PRIZE SPEAKERS

The trials for the Bradbury prize speakers was held in the Debating Room at Hubbard Hall last Tuesday evening, and resulted in the selection of the following men: Redman, ’07; Hupper, ’08; Erskine, ’07; Roberts, ’07; Snow, ’07; Kimball, ’07. The alternates selected were W. B. Drummond, ’07, and Linnell, ’07.

The question debated was “granting the willingness of Cuba as expressed by a majority vote at a popular election, the annexation of Cuba to the United States is for the interest of the United States.” The first three men named are to speak on the affirmative side of this question in the Bradbury debate and the last three on the negative. Drummond will be alternate on the affirmative and Linnell on the negative. The judges were Professors Foster, McCrea and Sills.

The date of the Bradbury debate is set for Feb. 26.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATES

The second Interscholastic Debate will take place in the City Hall at Augusta to-night, the contestants being Cony High of Augusta and Gardiner High. The subject will be “Resolved, That the peaceful annexation of Cuba would be for the best interest of the United States.” Prof. R. C. McCrea of Bowdoin, and A. K. Spofford, an instructor at Bates, will be two of the judges, while the third had not been named at the time of going to press.

President Redman of the Debating Council, will hold a conference with representatives of the two winning teams relative to the date of the final debate at 2 o’clock to-morrow afternoon.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

At the regular weekly meeting of the Christian Association on January 17, Anand Sidoba Hiwale of India, spoke on “The Need of a Christian Type of Manhood in India.” Mr. Hiwale is a native of India who has been studying for two years at the Bangor Theological Seminary and who will probably return to India next year. He made his lecture especially interesting by making up and putting on a typical Indian turban and by showing the brass gods which are now worshiped in India.

He also told an interesting bit about Rockefeller’s method of introducing Standard Oil in India. Rockefeller first offered the oil for sale at five cents a gallon, and everyone bought it because it was much cheaper than the laborious sowing, reaping, and treating of a crop of oil plants. Rockefeller, however, when he found the oil fields had been given up, raised the price to nine cents a gallon, just about equaling the cost of native production, and now holds India’s trade with kerosene at nine to ten cents a gallon. Mr. Hiwale said in closing that Christianity and men to spread it were needed in India, because conversion to Christianity was the only way to get rid of the caste system, to do away with child marriage, and to make India keep pace with the modern world.

Last night Rev. James F. Albion, D.D., of Portland, spoke at the regular weekly meeting in the Association room. An account of his talk will appear in the next issue. On Thursday, January 31, Dean Alfred E. Bartlett ’93, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak at the second of the monthly meetings in Memorial Hall, and will take as his subject “The Ethics of Civil Engineering.”

PROFESSOR FOSTER’S TRIP

Prof. William T. Foster of the department of English and Argumentation, will leave to-morrow morning for the West, where he will deliver a series of three lectures before some of the western colleges. The dates are as follows:

Feb. 1—Lake Forest University, Lake Forest, Illinois.
Feb. 6—Chicago University.
Feb. 7—Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin.

THE HEBRON CLUB

The Hebron Club met at New Meadows Inn Saturday evening to hold its first banquet and also to listen to a talk by Prof. Mitchell, who is a graduate of the school and an honorary member of the club. The present student membership of the club is as follows: Stetson, ’07; Fernald, ’07; Speake, ’07; Stanwood, ’08; Hupper, ’08; Gray, ’08; Ellis, ’09; Sparks, ’09; Morrell, ’09; Bridge, ’09; Cole, ’09; Nickerson, ’10; Stanley, ’10; Atwood, ’10; Boynton, ’10; Nulty, ’10; Parker, Medici.

I want especially to see the men who expect to elect Education 1, and I shall be in my office for this purpose from three to five o'clock January 25.

WILLIAM T. FOSTER.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1836

Coombs, the Lewiston artist, is to paint a picture of ex-Governor Garcelon for the State Capitol's collection of Maine's distinguished men, and there is talk of a similar picture for the Lewiston public library.

CLASS OF 1856

The Hartford Courant in its editorial columns pays this splendid tribute to Rev. Edwin Pond Parker, D.D., of that city, Bowdoin, '56: "To those of us who know Dr. Parker, and that means about all of the 100,000 inhabitants of modern Hartford, it seems incredible that he has been settled over the South Church, 'Dr. Parker's Church' as everybody calls it, for forty-seven years; but that is the fact as the record shows. He is still a young man in everything but the almanac phase of life, and the large place that he occupies grows steadily larger with the passage of the years. It is sadly true that during his pastorate he has seen friend after friend depart and his congregation change almost entirely; but friends have come as well as gone, and he never had more than now. His keen interests and tender sympathies keep him in the same close touch as always with those about him, and to the great majority of people here now he has always been a part of Hartford. It would not be what it is without him, and they are thankful, indeed, that the years pass him by so gently that they leave no marks behind. The city to-day congratulates alike the South Congregational Church and its beloved pastor."

CLASS OF 1895

A. L. Dennison has just published a history of the Dennison family in Maine.

William H. Ingraham, who has been elected judge of probate of Cumberland County, is stated to be one of the youngest judges of New England, being but 36 years of age. Mr. Ingraham was the subject of an extended sketch in a recent issue of the Boston Herald. In conclusion the Herald speaks of him as follows:

"Judge Ingraham is an alumnus of Bowdoin College, Class of 1895, and of the Harvard Law School. He was admitted to the Cumberland bar in 1897. He has twice travelled extensively abroad. Following in the footsteps of his father, he has since he became of age taken a deep interest in politics and has served on the city committee a number of years. In the recent county campaign he was on the stump two or three weeks, visiting nearly every town in the county."

CLASS OF 1897

Rev. William C. Adams, '97, has recently accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Barnstable, Mass.

CLASS OF 1899

Dr. Louis L. Hills has been appointed city physician of Westbrook for 1907.

CLASS OF 1903

Irving W. Nutter, who has been in the telephone business in Colorado since graduation, is now located at Delta in that State.

Miss Sarah Howie Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander of Hyde Park, Mass., and Frederick William Spollett, '93, were recently united in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Spollett spent their honeymoon in Maine.

CLASS OF 1904

W. B. Webb, '04, left San Francisco last Tuesday for Hong Kong, China, where he has a position with the International Banking Association.

Rev. J. F. Schneider, who has been at Winterport for the past two years, has accepted a call to Greenwich, Conn.

George W. Burpee is with the Engineering Department of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

CLASS OF 1905

Ray W. Pettingill is in Germany for a two years' course of study.

W. Stephen Brimijoin is assistant superintendent of the Dupont Powder Works of Woodbury, N. J. Mr. Brimijoin graduated from Bowdoin in 1905 and last year was assistant in chemistry at the college.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1836

Rev. David B. Sewall died Jan. 14 at his home on School Street, South Berwick, after six weeks illness of bronchitis, following typhoid fever. Mr. Sewall was a native of Maine and was born January 18, 1817, and was the oldest living graduate of Bowdoin College. He had held pastorates in Robinston, Fryeburg and York, Me. A man of faultless character, of great sweetness and benignity of disposition, he had hosts of friends all over the State. Since his retirement from the active work of the ministry he has made his home in South Berwick and has been a teacher in the Sunday school, a helper of the poor and a constant worker in the church. He leaves two brothers, Prof. John S. Sewall of Bangor and Prof. Jotham Sewall of Boston, a sister, Mrs. Stacy, in the far West, a son and two daughters. The interment was at York.

PORTLAND, MAINE
VERSES READ AT REUNION OF CLASS OF 1856

(The following verses written by Edwin Pond Parker of the Class of 1856, and read at a reunion of the survivors of that class held in Boston on Dec. 14, are some that every Bowdoin man will wish to read.)

Dear Classmates! fifty years ago,
One memorable summer day,
All hearts with ardent hopes aglow,
From Bowdoin-port we sailed away.

We sought our fortunes, thinking not
How far misfortunes might attend;
But confident that some fair spot
Would be our prosperous journey's end.

Of all the youthful, hopeful crew
Who made the voyage with us then,
Are only left, to-day, a few
Old, worn, and weather-beaten men.

Some fell asleep; some in the sight
Of God were slowly crucified;
Some disappeared in storm and night;
And some in battle bravely died.

Humly we bow to his decree
Who times and bounds our several lives;
The first to go may happier be
Than he who last of all survives.

Of this or that one who can say—
"He missed the mark, he fought and failed?"
The vanquished ones, like Jacob, may Have found the blessing and prevailed.

Perchance the Good Samaritan
Found him who fell beside the way;
Come to himself, at last, the man
Came home who went so far astray.

And well for us who wrestle on,
If so we learn, in humbler mood,
That life's great victory is won
In being overcome of good.

Dear Denny Balch, in whose fair face
A strange yet winsome beauty shone;
Whose most magnetic charm and grace
Led all hearts captive to his own!

Brown, whose bright star so soon declined;
The favored foster-child of art;
A poet's chamber in his mind,
And sanctuary in his heart!

Carleton, as modest in his mien
As Strout was meek, or Whitmore mild;
Johnson, not born to blush unseen,
And Loring, guileless as a child!

Ed. Palmer, whom all men revered;
Good Tenney, destined soon to fall;
Howard, who only Satan feared,
And "Little Rob," who ranked us all!

Miller and True, who reached the goal
Of mortal life too soon for fame,—
The one a generous, jovial soul,
The other faithful to his name!

Kind, gentle, genial Williamson,
The friend of all, to all most dear,
Whose mirthfulness and wit were one
Incarnate spirit of good cheer!

Tom Robie, blameless, valiant saint,
Who, though his soul was marked with scars,
Fought the good fight and did not faint,
Whose crown is bright with many stars!

Ed Thompson, son of Mars, in whom
The call to arms found echo true;—
A soldier from his mother's womb,
Nor braver ever wore the blue!

Saint Ambrose at that urgent call
From his vocation turned aside,
Followed the flag, forsaking all,
And so for Christ and country died.

And Davis offered up his whole
Self-sacrifice, in those dark years;
On Bowdoin's precious soldier-scroll
No more deserving name appears.

And Smyth, in storm of shot and shell,
Not more perturbed than on parade;
Amid the horrors and the hell
Of rebel prisons, undismayed!

Floyd, Watson, Rice and Robinson;
Gallant Lenoir who wore the gray!—
All these their work on earth have done,
And, one by one, have passed away.

We know not where they are,—those dear
Associates of a former day,—
Nor how they fare, nor if they hear
The benedictions that we say.

That they are not, we cannot brook:
Instinctively the heart cries out,
More voiceful than the holiest book,
Against so drear and dread a doubt.
We trust the love that bids us hope,
The hope that bids us lift our eyes
And see, through its clear telescope,
Our friends, as if in Paradise!

Of blame or shame they wear no trace,
Their garments show no earthly stains,
Radiant is each familiar face,—
Only their best to them remains.

To them the youthful, we the old,
Our greetings give, libations pour;
In classmates' love that grows not cold
Their memories live forevermore.

As now our voyage nears its close,
Invisible, and yet not far,
They may await—God only knows—
Our passage of the harbor bar.

Classmates! we may not meet again;
Farewells are sorrowful to say;
In more courageous, cheerful strain
We'll say "Good Bye," and go our way.

Good Bye! Yes, God be with us all,
His goodness all our steps attend,
Whate'er betide, whate'er befall,
May God be with us to the end.

At eventide God gives us light,
And when the hour for rest shall come,
Grant us safe lodging for the night
And with the morning bring us home.

THE MINSTREL SHOW

The musical extravaganza, "The Bowdoin Tars," given in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening of last week, proved to be one of the best minstrel shows ever given by the college. It was a decided departure from the usual minstrel show, and made a hit with the large audience. The jokes were bright and witty, and above all, were entirely free from any improper personalities. The singing was above the average, and the solos were especially good. The work of the end men showed the careful coaching given them by Robert A. Toothaker, under whose direction the show was given.

The stage was set to represent a scene on the ship "Bowdoin," and the fifty members of the chorus were dressed as tars. Kimball, '07, as interlocutor, was in command. The overture was followed by the end song, "I've Got Something on Mah Mind," Kingsley, '07. The other numbers on the program for the first part were the end songs, "I'm Going Right Back to Chicago," by R. W. Smith, '10; "He's a Cousin of Mine," by Sheehan, '09; and the "Whistling Tars" by Cox, '08, and Upton, '07. The solos included "My First True Love," by Leydon, '07, and "In a Jewelled Grotto," by Linnell, '08. "Jenks' Compound," by a quartet composed of Pike, '07, Crowley, '08, Leydon, '07, and Linnell, '07, was one of the features of the evening. Sprague, Med., gave a clog dance, which was encored twice. The closing number was "Cheer Up Mary," by Linnell, '07, and the entire company.

The Olio included only five numbers, but made up in quality what it lacked in length. Kendrie rendered a violin solo which was extremely well received. Boyce, '08, was the first number. He appeared in an original monologue, entitled "A Tramp's Soliloquy." The work of Morrill, '10, with the club swinging was another feature worthy of especial mention, using six clubs in all and handling them with ease. The Mikelsky Brothers appeared in an original Dutch Comedy which contained many jokes and witty sayings. The entertainment closed with "Bowdoin Beata," rendered by the Mandolin Club and the entire company. The show was presented for the benefit of baseball, and a generous sum was realized.

A dance followed the entertainment.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATE

The second Interscholastic Debate, between Gardiner High and Cony High of Augusta, which was held last Friday evening in Augusta, was won by the Gardiner team after a closely contested and highly satisfactory debate. The question and judges were stated in last week's Orient.

FINAL INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATE

The final debate in the interscholastic series, between Gardiner High and Lewiston High, will take place in Memorial Hall on April 19. Gardiner is to submit a question to Lewiston before Feb. 9, together with a list of names from which Lewiston is to select three judges. This was decided at a conference of representatives of the two schools with a representative of the council last Saturday. It has also been decided that Roberts, '07, will coach Gardiner and Linnell, '07, Lewiston High.
POSSIBLE DEBATE WITH CORNELL

A letter has been recently received by the Bowdoin Debating Council from Cornell making inquiries as to the possibility of arranging an intercollegiate debate with Bowdoin.

The matter was considered at a recent meeting of the Council and Manager Pike has forwarded a letter to Cornell making further inquiries. If a debate can be arranged to take place in Brunswick, the Council may take favorable action in the matter.

'68 PRIZE

The '68 prize speaking contest, which was held last Thursday evening, resulted in the awarding of the prize to C. W. Snow, '07. The judges were Dr. Alfred Mitchell, '59, of Brunswick, Albert W. Tolman, '88, of Portland, and Rev. Robert A. Morse, '98, of Yarmouth. Prof. Chapman presided.

IN MEMORY OF JUDGE GOODENOW

The following is a copy of a minute passed at the meeting of the New York Alumni, held Jan. 25, 1897:

At this reunion of the Bowdoin Alumni Association of New York, we have sad occasion to note the death of John H. Goodenow which occurred at Atlantic City, New Jersey, July 28, 1906.

Mr. Goodenow was born at Alfred, Maine, in 1833. He belonged to a family conspicuous in the law, his father being Judge Goodenow, and his grandfather Judge Holmes of the Maine Supreme Court. He graduated at Bowdoin in 1852.

After studying law at Portland and practicing a few years, he entered the Legislature as representative of his native town in 1858. In 1861 and 1862 he was a member of the State Senate for York County and was chosen President of the Senate, a political honor rarely attained by so young a man.

In 1864 Mr. Goodenow was appointed by President Lincoln, Consul General at Constantinople, remaining there till about 1875. He was there during the terms as ministers of George H. Boxer, Mr. Mackenzie and other statesmen of distinction, and was himself, at intervals in charge of the American Legation. He was an immediate participant in many important occurrences of Levantine politics.

For many years Mr. Goodenow had retired from active professional life. Few men had a wider personal acquaintance with men influential in public affairs. He had a retentive memory and he delighted in anecdotes about public men, especially about those whom he had met in early life. It is to be hoped that he may have left memoirs which can be published.

Mr. Goodenow was for many years preceding his death a member of the Board of Overseers. He rarely missed a meeting when in this country. By his last will he left to the college the generous legacy of $25,000.

We deplore his death and will cherish his memory.

Alumni Items

The Orient requests class secretaries to send it all the alumni news possible. During the past two months the editor has received a number of letters from alumni containing many suggestions as to the improvement of the alumni department. Some of them have been helpful, and the Orient hopes to be able to put into practice some of the ideas advanced. It is interesting to note, however, that out of a total of about 15 letters—received from men whose kindly and unselfish interest is good evidence of their being among Bowdoin’s alumni—that out of all this number with a single exception not an alumni item was sent in. As we have already taken occasion to say, it is the items of interest to the members of the classes on which we need help. We are very grateful for advice, and as already said, much of it has been helpful, but we shall be still more grateful for items. The chief difficulty of the systematic conduct of a college weekly lies in the annual change of administration. One man or group of men can make one scheme a success, but the next board is likely to have radically different ideas, and, as a result, the whole work is upset. It seems to us that the class secretaries, more than any one else, can improve the situation. Send us advice, but above all, send us some of those little personal items.

As to Freshmen

Considerable criticism is heard about college relative to the attitude taken by a few Freshmen relative to some of the college activities. While a criticism of these matters is hardly worth the attention of the college weekly, the Orient cannot refrain from saying a word in the matter. To be in any degree responsible for the success of any undertaking—be it a relay team or any other organization—is a trust which a Freshman should be proud to have and for which he should be more than pleased to do his best. This does not seem to be the case with one or two men. If this attitude continues there would seem to be a strong temptation on the part of upperclassmen to resort to some old-fashioned methods, which would perhaps do more good than harm.

Orient Advertisements

The students can help the business manager of the Orient in no small degree if they will mention the paper when they make purchases of our advertisers. No man cares to advertise for anything but business purposes and he likes to know that he is getting results. There is no doubt that the Orient brings its results, but advertisers have no positive knowledge unless they are told. A certain Brunswick business man has said that he did not receive a call for some goods advertised in the Orient and therefore concluded that it was not helping him much. On inquiry the Orient found that a very large amount of these very goods are purchased of this very man. There is every reason to believe that the Orient was largely instrumental in bringing the goods to the attention of students, but the fact that the students had not mentioned the paper in connection with their purchases hurt our advertising and the paper.
the Orients. It will help us give you the best possible paper. It is a real way to show college loyalty.

The students are to be congratulated on the series of talks in the Art Building which are to be given by Professor Henry Johnson, soon after the opening of the second semester. These informal gatherings offer a splendid opportunity for men to learn something about Bowdoin's treasures and it is to be hoped that a large number will improve the opportunity offered. The Art Building is always the center of attraction for visitors to the college and the pleasure of a visit to it lies almost entirely in what one may learn of the facts connected with its contests. Not only can these talks be made a source of pleasure, but they can also be made of no small value as a part of a college education.

FIRST MUSICAL CONCERT

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs gave their first entertainment at Harpswell, Jan. 24, under the auspices of the Dirigo Grange. The program was wholly informal, three selections being rendered by each club. The opening and closing numbers were "Bowdoin Beata" and "Phi Chi" which were rendered by both clubs with the usual Bowdoin spirit. Both leaders were highly pleased with the results of the entertainment.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON HOUSE PARTY

The Theta Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon held its annual house-party on January 25. A reception to the older guests was held in the afternoon from three till five. The matrons were Mrs. W. DeWitt Hyde, Mrs. George T. Little, Mrs. Hartley C. Baxter, and Mrs. Alfred E. Burton; Mrs. W. M. Pennell and Mrs. R. W. Eaton poured coffee, while Mrs. Allen Johnson and Mrs. G. M. Elliott served punch. In the evening at eight-thirty dancing began, the patronesses being the same as in the afternoon, and nearly forty couples danced until two o'clock when the house was turned over to the girls for the night. The party was arranged by the house committee consisting of T. E. Hacker, '07, W. B. Drummond, '07, and A. A. Putnam, '08. Among those present at the reception in the afternoon were:

Prof. and Mrs. Henry Johnson; Mrs. Roscoe J. Ham; Prof. George T. Little; Prof. Allen Johnson; Dr. Gilbert Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson Pennell of Brunswick; Mrs. F. V. The delegates from the other fraternities were:

Wm. E. Speake, '07, Alpha Delta Phi; Arthur Harold Ham, '08, Psi Upsilon; Asa Osgood Fike, '07, Zeta Psi; George William Craigie, '07, Theta Delta Chi; Charles Francis Tows, Fraternity Sigma; Richard A. Lee, '08, Beta Theta Pi, and Earl Hagar MacMichael, '07, Delta Upsilon.

LIBRARY NOTES

As many as 350 books have been added to the library within the last two weeks, because many pamphlets which had been sent away to be bound, have returned from the binders, and have been put on the shelves. Among these bound volumes are gifts from President W. DeWitt Hyde, Prof. G. T. Little, '77, Prof. H. C. Chapman, '66, Prof. C. T. Burnett, Hon. J. Williamson, '49, C. W. Pickard, '57, Isaac B. Choate, '62, Hon. Barrett Potter, '78, Prof. Austin Cary, '87, W. T. Hall, '88, J. W. Hewitt, '97, and G. L. Lewis, '91. And among the books of special interest may be mentioned "Manual of Railroads," by H. V. Poor; "Records of the Virginia Company of London," edited by S. M. Kingsbury; "Handbook of Portland and Old Orchard," by J. T. Hull; "League of Peace" by Andrew Carnegie; "Heredity of Hair-Length in Guinea Pigs," by Castle and Forbes; "Trial of Emile Zola," "Law of Railroad Rate Regulation," by Beale and Wyman, and 42 books that have been added to the Longfellow Collection.
NOTICE

The college librarian desires to obtain for the college records information respecting the parentage and early life of Captain Samuel Brown of the Class of 1858, who was killed in the Civil War. He was a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity.

AUGUSTA CLUB

Last Saturday evening the Augusta Club met at New Meadows Inn. After the usual shore dinner, the meeting broke up, with plans to meet again on Feb. 23d, when it is hoped to have some member of the faculty address the club. The present student membership of the club is: Cony, '07; Kingsley, '07; Weston, '08; Heath, '09; Macomber, '10; Lippincott, '10; Martin, '10; Webster, '10; Morrill, '10; Smith, '10, and Weston, '10.

College Notes

Snow, '07, preached at Freeport Sunday afternoon. Morton, '10, was obliged to go home Monday, because of illness.

The Longfellow centennial was celebrated in Augusta last Thursday.

A meeting of the Aroostook Club will be held at the Inn to-morrow night.

McGlone, '10, has been engaged to sing at the Catholic Church every Sunday.

It is said that Ethel Barrymore will appear at the Empire soon, in "Captain Jinks."

A large number of students witnessed "Man and Superman" at the Empire Theatre.

Adjourns are being granted in Professor Lee's courses, on account of his illness.

Kimball, '10, has been appointed alternate to take the examinations for West Point.

Several students went on the snowshoe parties last Saturday and Tuesday evenings.

The review of the Quill, which appeared last week, is deferred until the next issue.

Grace, '10, was called to his home in Saco last Friday by the serious illness of his father.

Stacey, '09, who left college to enter business in Chicago, is expected to return to his studies.

Inhabitants of Brunswick say that this is the coldest winter they have known for nineteen years.

The Aroostook Club dined at the Inn last Saturday night and a very agreeable time was enjoyed.

There is some talk of a branch of the Intercollegiate Civic League being established at Bowdoin.

W. A. Robinson, '07, after spending five weeks at his home in St. John, N. B., has returned to college.

The Brunswick High School basketball team plays Edward Little in the Armory, Saturday evening.

The men who took part in the '08 Speaking were guests of C. W. Snow, '07, at the Inn on Tuesday evening.

"Lew" Dockstader's Minstrels at the Empire proved a great attraction for the students last Friday night.

Several of the fellows went with sleighing parties to the Glee Club concert in Dirigo Hall, last Thursday evening.

Kendrie, '10, played a solo at the Congregational Church, Sunday, and will play in Bath next Thursday afternoon.

The card games of the Massachusetts Club are now being played, but as all the games haven't come on, the results are not yet known.

The Cercle Francais will hold its next meeting Feb. 12 at the Kappa Sigma House, when Monsieur Nicoleau will continue his talks on "France."

The following Seniors have accepted positions with the International Banking Concern for next year: A. C. Chadbourne, C. H. Bennett, L. D. Mincher and G. H. Morrell. Seth Hany, '07, has also been offered a position and may probably accept.
It is a peculiar coincidence that five out of the six men who took part in the '08 speaking were proctors.

Subscription papers to collect funds to send the debating team to Syracuse have been placed in the different fraternity houses.

Several trials in relay were held on the electric car track last Tuesday. This is the first straight-away work that has been done.

The Maine Central Café, which was badly damaged by fire a short time ago, is being repaired and will soon be open for business again.

John Hetherington, Colby, '08, attended the Delta Kappa Epsilon reception and dance, last Friday evening, as the delegate of the Colby Chapter.

Morrell, '09, who was expected to return to college this week, is seriously ill at his home in Gardiner and will not be able to return to college this semester.

Last Friday evening Albert T. Gould, '08, who was recently with Dr. Grenfell in Labrador, gave a lecture on that country, at the First Parish Church in Bangor.

The next meeting of the Faculty Club will be held next Monday evening, in the English and French departments' room of Hubbard Hall. Prof. Woodruff will read a paper on "Mohammed."

Celebrations of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Henry W. Longfellow, Bowdoin, '25, were held in Portland, his birthplace, and Cambridge, Mass., where he spent many years of his life, last Sunday.

There is some talk of forming an Oxford County Club in college. There are a large number of men here from that county and a successful club could undoubtedly be formed, if some enterprising upperclassman would start it.

Carpenters are at work laying the floor for the new dance hall at the Delta Upsilon House. The building formerly used as a stable before the house was moved to its present position is being entirely remodeled inside, and when completed will make a fine dance hall.

Professor Files will conduct a course in "Faust" in German IV. next semester. The course will be open to any student who has taken German two years, but will count only as a half course. The entire course of German IV. is not open to those who have not taken German III.

An orchestra consisting of J. E. Crowley, violin; Miss Sue Winchell, 'cello; Prof. Charles C. Hutchins, clarinet; Fred F. Hubbard, double bass; and Miss Helen Chapman, pianist, has been formed at the Congregational Sunday school, and last Sunday for the first time took part in the exercises.

Owing to the fact that Erskine, '07, expects to be out of college during a portion of the next semester, W. Drummond, '07, who was alternate on the affirmative, will be one of the regular speakers in the Bradbury debate. A. Robinson, '08, has been named as the alternate to take Drummond's place.

The Anasagunticook Snow Shoe Club walked from Harding's Station to New Meadows Inn, Saturday, by way of Ham's Hill. Tuesday evening the club enjoyed a moonlight walk across the Plains. After the walk the party met at the vestry of the First Parish Church, where refreshments were served.

THE FACULTY

Professor Woodruff preached in Elijah Kellogg's church at Harpswell last Sunday.

Prof. Sills, the secretary of the Faculty, has announced that during exams, his office hours will be from 12 to 12:30.

Next Thursday Professor Mitchell will go to Westbrook where he will speak on Longfellow. Friday evening he will lecture on the same subject at Camden.

Dr. Whittier entertained the members of the Men's Club of Brunswick at his home on Maine Street last Friday evening. Professor Robinson gave an interesting talk on Mexico.

Professor Lee has been sick for several days. He was first threatened with pneumonia and the cold left him with catarrh of the inner ear, which has temporarily affected his hearing. It is hoped that no permanent harm will result.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1850

Among the United States Senators re-elected this week has been William P. Frye of Maine—one of the sort who would have had no rival even had the people been directly choosing his successor. Mr. Frye has now served in the Senate longer than any other of its members save three, Mr. Allison of Iowa, Mr. Morgan of Alabama, and Mr. Hale, also of Maine. It was in 1881, when James G. Blaine entered the Garfield cabinet, that Mr. Frye took his seat; and he had been in the House of Representatives for 10 years before that. The younger generation scarcely realizes what a forceful party orator and floor debator Mr. Frye was in the earlier period of his Washington career. No one was in greater demand on the Republican stump 25 and 20 years ago. Mr. Frye was brilliant, with a keen-edged irony and a kind of torrential eloquence when deep feeling stirred him. He disappeared from the list of frequent and ready speakers when he began his long service as president pro tem. of the Senate, an office in which he has made an unsurpassed reputation as a parliamentarian and presiding director of business, but which seemed to entomb the old, militant, dashing Frye of debate. Since his retirement from the chair, the necessity for a proper care of his health has forbidden much participation in the excitement of forensic speaking.

The tradition of high abilities of Maine’s public men has been worthily maintained by Mr. Frye, who, with his colleague, has kept the State in a place of influence for a quarter of a century.—Springfield Republican.

CLASS OF 1876
Professor Charles Davis Jameson, who has recently been appointed to an important position under the Chinese government, is a son of the late General Charles D. Jameson, of Maine, who was a prominent officer in the Civil War. Professor Jameson was born in 1855 in Bangor, where his mother now resides, and was educated in Bangor schools and at Bowdoin College. He was graduated in 1876 and soon went into active engineering, being for three years assistant superintendent of the Memphis and Charleston railroad. He has been in China many years and by reason of his acquaintance with the language and customs and his high standing with the government was able to save the lives of many missionary workers at the time of the Boxers uprising.

CLASS OF 1891
H. H. Noyes, ’91, has recently accepted a call to the Congregational pulpit at Island Falls, Me. He was formerly at New Gloucester, Me.

CLASS OF 1895
Ernest R. Woodbury, ’95, has become principal of Thornton Academy at Saco, Maine.

Harvey Thayer, ’95, is one of the preceptors and also assistant professor of German at Princeton.

CLASS OF 1896
A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Howard at South Paris on Jan. 13.

CLASS OF 1906
William Johnson, ’06, is in California with a surveying party.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

WASHINGTON ALUMNI BANQUET

The annual dinner of the Washington Alumni Association was held at the Raleigh Hotel on Thursday evening of last week. The meeting proved itself a delightful occasion, and, as in the past, was a gathering of notable men such as few colleges can boast. The following excellent account of the gathering, taken from the Washington Star, is sent the ORIENT by an alumnus, and will prove interesting reading to both graduates and undergraduates:

"The happy days of long ago spent at old Bowdoin, were recalled by loyal sons of that famous college at their annual dinner at the Raleigh Hotel last evening. A Bowdoin alumni dinner was never more largely attended by the members of the association and other sons of Maine residing in this city.

"The principal feature of the addresses of the evening was a review of the work and plan of the college by its president, Dr. Wm. DeWitt Hyde, who was a guest of honor of the Washington alumni. Dr. Hyde gave a clear-cut review of the work of the college to-day, and a masterly statement of the ideal characteristics of a college. In the speeches that followed those who had been students at Bowdoin many years ago told of the conditions that existed then and compared them with the latter-day methods, much to the credit of the administration of the college to-day.

"The toastmaster was Dr. Woodbury Pulsifer, whose many bright sallies and clear-cut stories interjected in the proceedings were an interesting part of the entertainment. Dr. Pulsifer was presented as toast-master by Representative Allen. The entertainment was interrupted only long enough to re-elect the officers of the association for another term. Dr. Pulsifer was covered with embarrassment by being forced to renominate himself for the high office he fills, and did not long hesitate in calling for a confirmatory vote before declaring himself and others duly elected. But the legality of the proceeding was not questioned, and he proceeded to call upon Dr. Hyde. The reception Dr. Hyde received was a clear indication of the fact that the Washington alumni of Bowdoin are in full accord with the general admiration and regard felt for Dr. Hyde by all in anyway acquainted with his work at Bowdoin. Dr. Hyde in the course of his remarks declared that to the alumni of this city Bowdoin owes much for the helpfulness that has been extended the college both in financial and in other ways. They had, he said, proved themselves to be generous benefactors.

"The bounty of Col. Wing, the generous gifts of Mr. Crosby S. Noyes, of Senator Frye and of Representative Alexander and others have been of great help to the college," he said. "The contributions intended for the college by gentlemen who are or have been connected with this body are greater than the public is aware."

"Dr. Hyde recounted that the morning after the last dinner of the alumni, Col. Wing had presented $50,000 for a professorship of mathematics. This year from the Garcelon estate $80,000 had been received, and $30,000 more will soon come from the same source, closing up the estate.

"Dr. Hyde then recounted the characteristics of the ideal college, and referred to the manner in which modern college life has been growing in attractiveness and in usefulness to the student. The successful college, he said, is one in which only trained men enter and in which only the studious stay. He told of the constant attention that is paid to the work of the students to see that they maintain a proper standard of excellence in their studies and of the methods adopted to call them to account in case they fail below the requirements.

"Men are ranged up once in every twenty-four hours," he said, "and if they begin to fall behind in their studies that fact is promptly known, and means for correcting the failure to keep up are taken at once."

"It was added that Bowdoin gives its students absolute liberty and then holds them responsible for their conduct. There is no espionage whatever exercised over the student, but if he goes wrong he is called to account. They recognize the difference between laying down just what the students should do and holding him responsible for results."
“Dr. Hyde said he believed that a college should provide a home life, and that is what the fraternities do for the body of students. The fraternities tend to build up a sentiment of exclusion which was the result of men living together and eating at the same table, but he said that such objection was being overcome by efforts that were made to bring members of the various fraternities together in various ways. The fraternity is becoming to be a tremendous moral influence for good, it was declared.

‘You can get a man to do for the sake of his social group with which he is identified what he will never do for himself,’ it was asserted. That, the speaker remarked, was a motive that helped the college much in maintaining a high standard of excellence. Seniors, in order to have their fraternity given a good record, look after the Juniors, and if they find they are not maintaining a proper standard endeavor to urge them to better efforts.

Chief Justice Fuller of the United States Supreme Court was only excused from speaking by the unwritten law as announced by Dr. Pulsifer of the Alumni Association, although they were always glad to hear from him.

Mr. John B. Cotton told some stories of lively interest illustrating the life of the college in his day and recalled characteristics of President Leonard Wood’s which had greatly impressed him.

Representative Alexander of New York amused the gathering greatly by a recital of humorous incidents connected with the history of Bowdoin. The vigorous days that characterized the college fifty years ago, he said, rendered a gymnasium unnecessary.

Gen. Ellis Spear had a vivid recollection of Bowdoin fifty years ago and he said that he felt the greatest affection for the venerable men who had taught the student body in those days.

‘But I say now,’ said Gen. Spear, ‘they were far aloof from us.’

“The modern method of bringing the faculty into sympathetic relations with the students and with their games as well as their studies he believed was in the right direction. He had seen Dr. Hyde, president of the college, pitch quoits with a student. He could not imagine President Leonard Wood pitching quoits or anything else with the boys. He observed young men coming from Bowdoin in recent years with moral purposes in life. He had known men without these moral purposes who had wrecked their lives.

“Dr. A. K. P. Harvey, who had attended the college when a boy, expressed regret that circumstances had prevented his continuance until graduation and contributed a fund of good stories for the entertainment of the members of the alumni association and its guests.

“Representative Stevens of Minnesota regretted that conditions of college life prevent the boys from teaching as they did of old, because in no other way that he knew of were so many lessons of human character learned. He told of the early hours of rising at Bowdoin, of the athletic sports, of the methods of training and of students’ trials and recreations many years ago. Mr. Stevens expressed gratification that the boys of to-day are being impressed with the idea of responsibility.

“Our people,” said Mr. Stevens, “have appealed to the national government for many things they should do for themselves, and for things that their states or their localities should do. I am afraid that the institutions of learning generally are not teaching boys their responsibilities as citizens.”

“He said the scope of the government over national affairs has been constantly growing. It is well if this growth is not to have ill effects that citizens should be taught their responsibility as citizens. He was glad to know that Bowdoin College was doing that.

“Mr. George M. Whittaker of the Department of Agriculture was called upon, and said that he was enjoying his first opportunity to meet the Bowdoin Alumni in this city. He told of the fraternal efforts made by the alumni in Boston to cultivate good fellowship. He was glad to note that to-day students at Bowdoin are placed more upon their honor and responsibility than ever before in maintaining the school of a high standard.

“Rev. Frank Sewall spoke of the work of some of the larger colleges in their post-graduate courses, looking to invention and discovery, and said that while great claims were made for them he was disappointed, in viewing the whole field, to find so little of importance result. He described at considerable length the work and success of the Jacob Tome Institute of Maryland. He said he was glad to know that there were several Bowdoin men on the faculty of that institution.

“Before the close Col. Alexander said the executive committee of the association would be pleased to hear of suggestions by its members for varying the form of entertainment provided at the annual banquet. It had been suggested that they might have a dinner, with ladies present, and if members desired that to be done he would be glad to hear from them.

"Those present were:

THE JANUARY QUILL

Peculiar interest attaches to Prof. Houghton's contribution to the Quill of a paper written immediately after his return from Japan, and while the life of the changing Orient was of absorbing interest to himself.

It may be said that the gift of prophecy was his, since from the mere beginning of revolt, he saw in a vision the wonderfully advanced Orient of to-day.

Prof. Houghton explains lucidly the state of things then existent in the student body. The over-emphasis upon mere scholarship as opposed to activities to which the Japanese are now for the most part wonted. The hardships of self-denial amounting almost to starvation in special cases, have been known to some extent in the sphere of learning at all times and everywhere. Bowdoin has graduated men who "toiled upward through the night," as Longfellow says, putting spirit before the flesh in their zeal and losing life in their effort to find it.

From the spells of superstition and custom thrown about the Oriental, the English-speaking races are happily free to a large extent. Nor will the mystic East ever explain herself to the practical West, she cannot. Yet is certain, the students in our colleges know little of such hardships as Professor Houghton recognized among the Japanese scholars of his day in Tokio. It would be very interesting to learn exactly the progress made in all the particulars suggested in this paper. Does "the worthless mystery called Chinese learning" still occupy much the expanding minds of the present generation? Does the patriotism which achieved such gigantic results in the war still include slavish worship of ancestry? In the very brief time allowed the writer of this slight comment, there remains only to be noted that Time and War have solved many problems while substituting others. Japan is not only the admiration, but is fast becoming the terror of the world.

The January Quill contains three poems. "My Symphony," strikes a cheerful note of one who would please and be pleased as he "rows or drifts" toward "the ocean of truth" and ends with the wish that "Duty be merged in a dream." Does this imply that the practice which makes perfect will become as fascinating as a day dream or, on the contrary, the duty be comfortably lost sight of?

"The Isle of the Blest" by Mr. James N. Emery, 1905, is smooth and musical, but one hopes that a somewhat fresher theme may be selected for his next contribution.

Bowdoin N. Gregson, 1908, furnishes a thoughtful sonnet on "Evening."

"Ye Postman" in his brief review of college magazines of the month, calls attention to the excellency of the verse, especially in the Harvard Monthly, the Yale Courant and Smith College Monthly.

Gray Goose Tracks follow or mark an old road, for the belief that college faculties are quite ignorant of student life as it passes before them is, at some period, shared by every class. A few years out of college convince the thoughtful man that such was not, in fact, cannot be, the case, "appearances to the contrary, notwithstanding."

"For the honor of France," by M. C. Donnell, 1908, deals imaginatively with an historic incident.

The Bowdoin Quill, beginning its second

The Orient is obliged to omit an account of other alumni meetings in this issue, but hopes to be able to do so in the next number.

The second Junior assembly is scheduled to take place on Friday evening of next week and it may not be out of place to call attention to the steady falling off in attendance at these functions. Bowdoin has very few college dances and it was a surprising fact that our assemblies are not more liberally patronized. If the circumstance was indicative of a desire on the part of the students of not indulging in the pleasures of the dance hall or from a desire to keep their expenses small, the fact would perhaps be more praiseworthy than otherwise. It is to be suspected, however, that such is not the case. Few weeks of the winter go by without a number of students enjoying dancing at fraternity houses, at Bath or elsewhere; but when the college assemblies are held there are seldom enough present to pay expenses. That this is so should be a source of regret not only to the Junior Class, but to the college as a whole. These two dances are among the more important college functions, and if they are to be maintained, they should be more liberally patronized. We have but few of these functions; let the students make them what they should be—social and financial successes.

The death of Gen. Isaac W. Starbird, an account of whose life appears in the obituary column, not only removes one of Bowdoin’s sons who made a name for himself in the great Civil War, but also a member of a Bowdoin class whose members took leading parts in that great struggle. One of Gen. Starbird’s classmates was Charles P. Mattocks, who like himself became a brigadier-general before the close of the war. Others who won commissions were Melville A. Cochran, William E. Donnell, George W. Edwards, Almon Goodwin, Thomas H. Green, Frederick N. Huston, Augustus N. Linscott, George E. Moulton, Joseph Noble, Howard L. Prince, Almon L. Varney and Marcus Wight, all of whom won rank as captains, majors, or colonels before the close of the war and several of whom gave their lives in the conflict.
The Lewiston Journal paid the following tribute to the memory of General Starbird: “A brave man and a noble character has gone out from among us. He died in the fullness of his fame, and has left a name that will be treasured in the annals of our State. Other wars may come and other heroes may arise, but none will burst into a greater sunshine of glory than the man whom Maine mourns as one of her noblest sons. His laurels were won by his own inherent greatness and they will never fade.”

Washington Alumni devote considerable space to this issue to the account of the annual meeting of the Washington Alumni Association. For many years Bowdoin's alumni at the national capital have been among the leading men of the nation and the enthusiasm and interest in their Alma Mater is an inspiring thing for any college man to read. For this reason the Orient believes the space devoted to this gathering will be regretted by none of its readers.

THE JANUARY QUILL (Continued from page 241) decade, pleads for greater interest among the undergraduates who are urged to give contributions of the pen and the purse, both very necessary to the continued life of the magazine. The practice of writing, both prose and verse, is important to every student who would be an exact scholar and the charm which one grows more and more expert in the use of his mother tongue.

BEQUESTS RECEIVED

The college has received the balance of the gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Mayhew, of South Orange, New Jersey, in memory of her niece, the wife of Samuel V. Cole, D.D., of the Class of 1874, a member of the board of trustees. This is intended to establish a lectureship at the college.

The college has also just received $81,341.24, on account of the gift of the widow of Dr. Seward Garcelon, late of Oakland, California, establishing a fund in memory of her husband and her brother, Dr. Samuel Merritt, of the same city, each a graduate of the Maine Medical School, bringing the total fund to $352,123.66. The income of this goes one-half to the Maine Medical School, and the other half to the general uses of the college, subject to certain directions in reference to assistance to worthy students of limited means.

College Notes

New Meadows Inn closed Sunday for several weeks.

“Spud” Clark, '06, was a visitor at the college last week.

The snow is deeper on the campus than for several years.

Applications for the Everett Scholarship were due this week.

Buck, '09, has returned to college to take the mid-year exams.

The Colonial Club of Bath has its annual German on Wednesday.

Thomas, '07, has returned to college after a week's visit in Boston.

The water supply of several fraternity houses has been put on the meter system.

C. W. Rundlett, '05, was a guest at the Beta Theta Pi House for several days last week.

Jude, '08, who has been teaching in Alfred the past three months, has returned to college.

Otis, '07, and Ready, '10, who are working in the ice fields, spent a few days at college this week.

M. P. Whipple, '07, was recently initiated into the Alpha Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity.

Owing to the absence of President Hyde, the class in Philosophy III. will not meet until Wednesday.

The chapel attendance has been small of late, many of the men having saved their “cuts” until this time.

Morton, '10, who has been absent from college on account of sickness, returned the latter part of the week.

No reply had been received from Cornell concerning the proposed debate up to the middle of the week.

D. F. Koughan, '09, will be absent from college for six weeks, acting as principal of the Dennyville High School.

Much complaint has been heard about the coldness of Memorial Hall during some of the examinations this week.

“Tom” Barry, who coached the Bowdoin football team two years ago, is now practicing law in Seattle, Washington.

The men from Oxford County who are planning to form an “Oxford County” Club, will probably meet in a few days.

Members of the Phi Chi fraternity of the Maine Medical School held a banquet at New Meadows Inn, Thursday evening.

Many of the fellows on account of the convenient arrangement of exams., were able to secure a few days at home this week.

The Saturday Club has engaged Leland Powers to lecture in Memorial Hall on April 15. The lecture is given under the united auspices of the Saturday Club and the college.

Members of the Senior Class are receiving much advertising matter from teachers' agencies and other employment bureaus.

The second semester of the year opens Monday morning. Students are required to register before 4.30 in the afternoon.

A general celebration by the citizens of Portland in commemoration of the Longfellow Centennial will be held on Feb. 27th.

A large number of men have visited their homes during the past 10 days, taking advantage of the time offered between their exams.

There was an exceedingly small attendance at Miss Harvey's dancing school last Monday night, because of the examinations.

The list of provisional commencement appointments will be issued as soon as the results of the Senior exams. are made up.

Harry Morrell, '09, who was forced to leave college because of ill health, has accepted a position on the staff of the Kennebec Journal.

The graduating class of the Brunswick High School are now working on their entertainment which they will give about the middle of next month. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to defray a part of the expenses of the trip to Washington, which will be taken in place of the usual graduating exercises. Principal Kaharl is coaching the scholars.

A field day of winter sports is to be held on stand-pipe hill to-morrow afternoon (Saturday) by the Anasagunticook Snowshoe Club. Skis and toboggans will be in order. The party starts from the Curtis Memorial Library on Pleasant Street at 2 o'clock, travelling on snowshoes. Refreshments will be had at the Golf Club House later in the afternoon. All college men are invited, and those accepting are requested to bring some contribution to the refreshments.

THE FACULTY

Prof. G. T. Files spoke last Wednesday evening before the Duetscher Verein of the University of Maine.

HOCKEY TOMORROW

The hockey leaves the ice this afternoon to play to-morrow with the St. Paul's School hockey team at Concord, New Hampshire. This game is a hard one to start the season with, because the St. Paul's team is always strong, being this year on Harvard's schedule, and having just returned from a successful trip in New York state. Our team, however, leaves with the best wishes of the college, and no doubt next Saturday afternoon when then play U. of M. on Whittier Field, much interest will be shown in their work.

The probable line-up of the team is as follows: Forwards, Abbott, '10, Hamburger, '10, Dresser, '08, and Lawrence, '07, or Hughes, '09; cover point, Draper, '10; point, Wight, '08; goal, Smith, '10.

ART BUILDING NOTES

George Warren Hammond, Esq., of Yarmouthville, has recently made a very valuable gift to the college of his collection of cut stones and gems. His previous gift of a large series of minerals is exhibited in the Science Building, having been arranged in accordance with a system of Professor Robinson's. The cut stones and gems, however, will be kept with the Hammond Collection in the Art Building. But owing to the difficulty in mounting some of these, it will be a considerable time before they can be put on exhibition.

RELAY TEAM TRIALS

The trials for the relay team, that will race Tufis at the B. A. A. meet, will probably be held to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. The course will be a straight-away over 300 of the car track on Harpswell Street, the runners going from the Kappa Sigma House towards the Gymnasium. Quite a number of men are out for the team, and the places on the team are at present very unsettled.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On January 24 it was necessary to postpone the Christian Association meeting because Rev. James F. Albion, D.D., who was to speak unexpectedly telephoned from Boston that he could not come.

On January 31, Dean A. E. Burton, C. E. '78, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spoke at the second of the series of meetings on the "Ethical Aspects of the Professions." Dean Burton took as his subject "The Ethics of Civil Engineering." He said that civil engineers had no regular ethical code, but are simply "square and honest." They have, however, certain ethical points peculiar to the profession. They can never change their results so as to make them "come out right" for their mistakes unlike those of doctors, are all above ground and open to investigation at every point. They are willing to acknowledge quickly any mistakes they make. They do not feel bound to do a piece of work which they think is wrongly planned, but had rather give up a job than be responsible, as they otherwise would be, for a thing in which they do not honestly believe. They regard all new methods and inventions along their line to be common property, made simply for the general advancement of the profession. Finally they all have a high respect for honesty, and for the great laws of the universe, but only rarely do they have that kind of religious feeling that expresses itself in regular church attendance.

IBIS LECTURE

Frederick Moore, war correspondent of the London Times, during the Russo-Japan war will give a lecture in Memorial Hall on the evening of Feb. 13, his subject being "The Russo-Japanese War." The lecture will be public and it is hoped a large number will attend.

ART BUILDING LECTURES

Professor Henry Johnson, curator of the Walker Art Building, will begin a series of four lectures in the Art Building next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. These informal gatherings offer a rare opportunity to learn of the treasures in Bowdoin's collection and every man in college should plan to be present if it is possible for him to do so.

Alumni Personals

CLASS OF 1877

George H. Marquis was elected, two years ago, Judge of the Third Judicial District of South Dakota. In its issue of January 17, 1907, The Brookings County Press says: "Judge Marquis is enjoying good health this winter and is putting his usual vigor into the work of presiding judge, making new friends every day. Judge Marquis came to the bath here as the successful competitor for the nomination over a very popular local candidate and it was natural that he should be referred by a constituency that was inclined to be critical. However, no judge in this circuit has ever given better satisfaction to all interests, and those who entertained the strongest prejudices are to-day the best friends the Judge has in the county. He may safely figure Brookings in the Marquis column from now on."

CLASS OF 1897

James E. Rhodes, 2d, '97, has moved to Hartford, Conn., where he is engaged as one of the attorneys for the Travellers' Insurance Company. There now are in Hartford, beside
Mr. Rhodes, Dr. E. P. Parker, '56, Dr. P. H.
Ingalls, 77, G. B. Chandler, '90, Dr. W. H.
Smith, '99, Superintendent of the Hartford
Hospital; Dr. H. A. Martelle, '01, House Surgeon at the Hospital, and F. Day, '05, teaching in the city schools, so it is thought of forming a Connecticut Association of Bowdoin Alumni.

Earl C. Davis, who is now pastor of the Unitarian Church in Worcester, Mass., has been the subject of mention in several papers recently because of having accepted a position in a manufactory in connection with his church work. Mr. Davis has decided on this course in order to prevent his parish from holding church functions to pay his salary and believes that he can continue to perform his parish duties in a satisfactory manner.

CLASS OF 1899

A son was recently born to Mr. and Mrs.
W. F. Libby of Brunswick. Mr. Libby is a graduate of Bowdoin in the Class of 99, and during his college days was one of Bowdoin's best pitchers.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Cony
Sturgis at their home in Hthaca, N. Y., on Wednesday, Jan. 30. The young man has been named Cony Sturgis, Jr.

CLASS OF 1903

Clement S. C. Simpson was elected assistant secretary of the Senate at the opening of the present session of the Maine Legislature.

CLASS OF 1904

Myrton A. Bryant, '04, is representing Ginn
& Co. in the Southern States.

A. C. Strong, '04, is in New York, with the International Banking Company.

Galen W. Hill, '04, has recently been appointed superintendent of one of the branch mines of the Enterprise Mining Company, at Enterprise, Iowa.

Walter Keene Wildes of Little Falls, N. J., and Ruth Madeleine Beattie, were married at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, London, January 22. The wedding was very quiet owing to a death in one of the families.
Edna May was maid of honor and Ernestine
Gautier sang a solo.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1862

Gen. Isaac W. Starbird died at his home in Boston on Saturday of last week. Gen.
Starbird was born in Litchfield, Me., in 1839, graduated from Bowdoin in the Class of 1862, being a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. After graduation Gen. Starbird entered the service as a captain in the 19th Maine Volunteers, received his baptism of fire at Fredericksburg, became a major soon after and became colonel of his regiment in time to lead it in the desperate fighting about Petersburg, where he won the rank of brigadier-general.
He led that famous charge of the 19th Maine before Petersburg June 18, 1864, when of more than 900 dauntless Maine boys who went forward against appalling odds at the word of command less than 300 returned. It was a repetition of the famous charge at Balaklava, emphasized under circumstances hardly less tragic. Only a few months ago Gen. Starbird wrote a story on that terrible charge for publication, and it is one of the most thrilling and dramatic recitals of bravery and tragedy to be found in all the mass of literature resulting from the Civil War. After the war Gen.
Starbird studied medicine and practiced his profession in Boston until 1895, when he became head surgeon of the National Home at Chelsea, Mass., a position which he retained until forced to give it up by failing health a year or two ago.

The Boston papers pay the highest tributes to his work in his profession and to his standing as a citizen of Massachusetts for the past 40 years. By the soldiers who served with him and under him Gen. Starbird was especially loved, and he was always active in their organizations and in work for their welfare.
PORTLAND ALUMNI DINNER

The thirty-seventh annual dinner of the Bowdoin Alumni of Portland was held at the rooms of the Cumberland Club of Portland on last Saturday evening and was attended by 69 alumni of the college. The college was represented by President Hyde, Prof. Robinson, Prof. Woodruff and Prof. Sills, and the occasion proved one of the most delightful of recent years.

After dinner, which was served at 7:30, the following toasts were responded to, Robert C. Foster, '01, acting as toast-master:

"Bowdoin, Our Chieftest Toast, May Bowdoin Never Die," President William DeWitt Hyde.
"The Medical Fraternity," Francis J. Welch, M.D. '03.
"What the State of Maine Owes to Her Colleges," George M. Seiders, '72.
"Athletics of Years Ago," George F. Stetson, '98.

The chief feature of the evening was the oration delivered by Gen. Charles P. Mattocks of the Class of 1862, whose subject was "Bowdoin As I Knew Her." He said in part:

"To those who enjoyed the classic shades of Bowdoin, prior to and during the early sixties, my words may be of some little interest as recalling incidents which, perhaps, were long since forgotten. Many of those who were with me in college have now passed over to the great beyond, and it is with mingled joy and sadness that I refer to this interesting and, for some purposes, instructive period of my existence. I entered the college in 1858 and graduated in 1862. None of the professors of my day are now living, except General Chamberlain. The two tutors under whose instruction I studied, and whose lives I helped to make miserable, Tucker and Snow, are still, I trust, both living.

"Our Freshman year was much like the Freshman years of other generations before and since. An occasional ducking to prevent too much swell and swagger upon the part of the novice, and the everlasting "smoke-out" were among the methods of discipline employed at that day.

"In our Freshman year we covered the blackboards with chalk in working out our problems as given to us by good old Professor Smythe, while the professor himself covered his clothing from his chin down, with chalk in his excitement as he watched the progress of the recitation. Tutors Tucker and Snow heard us struggle along in Latin and Greek, respectively. We studied hard, behaved well under the guidance of the ever-watchful Sophomores, and finally entered upon that delightful portion of college existence known as the Sophomore year. We then vented out upon the incoming Freshmen the same pleasantries, insults and injuries which had been bestowed upon us by our predecessors.

"The pranks which we perpetrated upon each other were at times almost unendurable; but I am happy to say that no permanent injury was ever inflicted upon any member of our class or upon others, by us.

"When the Senior year came we, like St. Paul, 'put away childish things' and devoted ourselves to the reasoning of Butler's analogy and Palay's theology. President Woods heard our recitation in Butler, which consisted usually in each student reciting half a page or so of that delightful author. We had for a lesson eight or ten pages and would begin according to the alphabet, the students being seated alphabetically. Each student would recite the page that would naturally come to him. Once in a while Prex would call up a student farther from the head of the class, and then there would be a commotion of the worst kind. Of course we had all read the entire lesson but we knew very little about any of it except the part which we thought would fall to us.

"One of the professors, who afterwards achieved a national reputation for his gallant conduct in the Civil War, was Joshua L. Chamberlain, who was promoted from colonel to brigadier general upon the field of battle by Gen. Grant, and who is highly eulogized in Grant's Memoirs. He had French and German, our recitations in French being had in the Sophomore year and in German in the Junior year. He was a most companionable and agreeable instructor.

"Those who knew Gen. Chamberlain as a college professor, and basked in the sunlight of his most delightful companionship, and afterwards watched his career while in the service of his country, will ever have an affection for him which will not end during life. Like some of the noble German soldiers who left the universities to engage in warfare, he has shown that literary culture and deep scholarly research do not unfit, but rather improve a man for the duties of intelligent service in war.

"The first real exercises we had in the military art were inaugurated by Thos. W. Hyde of Bath, who died but a few years ago. He was then a Junior, who lived in Chicago for a while and had been a member of the famous Chicago Zouaves. He organized a company of students known as the "Bowdoin Guards." He drilled them thoroughly and sometimes almost mercilessly in order to perfect them in the duties of a soldier. The organization afterwards turned out a great many officers, who served in the Maine troops and elsewhere. Hyde himself, in his Junior year, was made a major of the Seventh Maine Regiment, at that time a most unusual appointment for a man so young.

"Before the war ended many of these youthful soldiers followed the example of the men in the regiments, passing to the front before their eyes, and themselves added much to the success of the Maine troops in the war.

"Space does not allow me to give in detail a sketch of the Bowdoin graduates who participated in the Civil War. It would be theme of much interest and might serve a patriotic purpose. As a rule these young men—and they were all young men—added considerable lustre to the already glorious record of old Bowdoin, among the more notable of whom was General Howard, who had taken his full course at Bowdoin and afterwards was a graduate of West Point, and finally instructor thereat. During the Civil War his record was most notable, and he is to-day, I believe, the only man living who had an independent army under his command during the great conflict. Although a desperate fighter he became, by his Christian conduct and character, the Havelock of the American army, and to-day is doing a grand work in the organization of a college among the hardy mountain-ers of North Carolina, whose guest I once was after escaping, as a prisoner of war and trying to make my way to safety among our troops in Tennessee. As illustrative of the general contribution of Maine to the army I will say that my own class numbered in all 53, of which forty graduated. Sixteen entered the military service, and nearly all of them served at the beginning, or before the end of the war, as officers. Our list shows two privates, seven lieutenants, four captains, one lieutenant-colonel, and two colonels, both of whom were breveted brigadier generals.

"When I entered college there was no gymnasium, properly so called, except an old building across the street from the college grounds, in which were set up a few parallel bars, a few rings, and where we had the use of an unlimited number of dumb-bells, Indian clubs, etc.

"Lest some of the younger graduates present may have the erroneous impression that during my own day in college we paid but little attention to literary pursuits, I wish to impress upon them that we probably did quite as much real work in literary matters as our successors have done, and certainly had less of some of the minor vices which now afflict the younger generation. A cigarette-smoking Freshman was then unknown.

"Then, as now, we look back and up to the distinguished graduates of Bowdoin with all the reverence and respect which was due to them and to ourselves. Honored names then, as now, were incentive to persistent and conscientious labor. The distinguished statesmen, orators and poets of previous classes were to us a delight and an inspiration. Bowdoin has exemplified the advantages of a small college as compared with those of a large one, with its many divisions and ramifications. I believe that the cohesion of a few men, following a common purpose and working in union, is stronger and more enduring than combinations of large numbers, where the acquaintance cannot be intimate and where the affection between man and man is too much spread out for the complete welding together of different units to make a forceful whole."

During the evening excellent music was rendered by the Bowdoin Glee Club, composed of the following: Pike, '07; Linnell, '07; Ledydon, '07; W. Crowley, '09; Ham, '08; J. Crowley, '09; Stephens, '10; Crowell, '10.

Those seated at the tables were:
Charles P. Mattocks, `62; Kenneth C. M. Sills, `01; William DeWitt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College; Charles F. Libby, `84; Frank E. Woodruff, William Whittan, `55; Charles O. Hunt, `01; Frederick H. Gerrish, `66; George M. Seiders, `72; Percival P. Baxter, `93; Philip W. Dana, `97; Francis J. Welch, `03; Alfred P. Cook, `97; Charles Eaton, `96; George T. Ordway, `96; C. L. Hutchinson, `99; Charles Thomas, Jr., `94; H. N. Gardiner, `98; Geo. F. Stetson, `89; J. H. Woodruff, `05; H. G. Everett, `04; H. Lewis, `05; W. T. Rowe, `04; H. C. Trott, `04; Leon M. Fobes, `92; John H. Prince, `93; Robert C. Foster, `01; N. Pierce, `98; Charles M. Leighton, `94; Clarence A. Baker, `98; Bion Wilson, `76; Seth L. Larrabee, `75; David W. Snow, `73; Augustus F. Moulton, `73; Luther Dana, `03; Leon V. Walker, `03; Lucien F. Libby, `99; Sidney B. Larrabee, `03; Harold Lee Berry, `01; George E. Fogg, `92; Eben Winthrop Freeman, `95; H. E. Andrews, `94; W. M. Ingraham, `95; Howard R. Ives, `98; Arthur W. Merrill, `87; Robert F. Chapman, `93; Walter S. M. Kelley, `99; W. Bean Moulton, `99; E. G. Abbott, `06; Philip Dana, `06; Eugene L. Dodge, `97; Frederick H. Dole, `97; W. W. Thomas, `94; R. C. Payson, `93; G. S. Payson, `80; F. C. Robinson, `73; Frederick Odell Conant, `80; Henry Storer Payson, `81; Charles H. Gilman, `82; Franklin C. Payson, `76; Alfred Mitchell, Jr., `05.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—Charles F. Libby.
Vice-President—Augustus F. Moulton, Franklin C. Payson, Enoch Foster, Seth L. Larrabee, Charles O. Hunt.
Treasurer—Carroll W. Morrill.
Purser—Harry E. Andrews.
Corresponding Secretary—Percival P. Baxter.
Recording Secretary—Percival P. Baxter.
Nominating Committee—Frederick H. Gerrish, Richard C. Payson, William M. Ingraham.
Executive Committee—Virgil C. Wilson, Philip W. Davis, Guy H. Sturgis.
Dinner Committee—Harold L. Berry, George E. Fogg, Robert F. Chapman.

A NEW BOOK BY LONGFELLOW

Professor Little has been sending out within the past week postal cards concerning a new book by Longfellow. It is the "Origin and Growth of the Languages of Southern Europe and of their Literature," an inaugural address delivered Sept. 2, 1830, by Henry W. Longfellow, then a Professor of Modern Languages at Bowdoin.

The book is of interest as the first extended essay in prose by the poet, of use as a comprehensive survey of the subject, and of value as illustrative of Longfellow's attitude toward literature and poetry. Brief extracts appeared in the biography by his brother. The complete work containing metrical translations makes a volume of 130 pages. It is a foolscap octavo, (4x7), printed with rule border from 8 point old style Roman type on hand made rag paper. Bound in boards with uncut edges, or in cloth with gilt tops, it will be mailed for $2; or in full flexible leather for $3.

The book will appear on Longfellow's birthday, February 27th, but as only 250 copies are to be printed, anyone desiring a copy should order now from Prof. Geo. T. Little, Librarian of Bowdoin College Library.

LONGFELLOW OBSERVANCE

Announcement is made that the college will observe the 100th anniversary of Longfellow's birth on Feb. 27th. The exercises will consist of a poem by Professor Henry Johnson, and address by Professor Mitchell and several musical numbers.

The exercises will take place in Memorial Hall at 11 a.m.

ST. PAUL'S, II; BOWDOIN, 0

Bowdoin lost its first game of hockey last Saturday, being defeated by the St. Paul School at Concord by the score of 11 to 0. The school team showed splendid all-round ability, and with remarkably good team work, were able to roll up a good-sized score.

The Bowdoin men played a good individual game, but their team work did not compare favorably with their opponents. The men do not feel in the least discouraged over the result, as it is well known that the New Hampshire team is one of the fastest in New England and our team could not expect to win the initial game from such an aggregation.

The men speak in the highest terms of their treatment by the school and were much pleased with the trip. The line-up of the teams was as follows:

BOWDOIN: St. PAUL:
Smith, g..........................g, French
Bower, p..........................p, Barrett
Hughes, e..........................e, Campbell
Hamburger, f..........................f, Jennings
Dresser, f..........................f, Hawley
Abbott, f..........................f, McCoy
Lawrence, f..........................f, Blair

Goals—McCoy, 6; Blair, 2; Hawley, 2; Jennings.
Goal Umpires—Bouscher and Hamilton.
students will doubtless take a deep interest. One of the greatest sources of inspiration to a Bowdoin student is the great names that are forever associated with his college, and there are none of which they can be more proud than that of the great poet.

First Hockey Game  Bowdoin will play its first game of intercollegiate hockey on the Whittier Field to-morrow afternoon, and if the weather is favorable, it is hoped and expected that there will be a large attendance of students. Those who have been instrumental in the bringing of the game into prominence have worked very hard thus far and it goes without saying that they need encouragement from the students. Considerable expense is involved in the making of the rink and this, with many other expenses, necessitates the charging of an admission fee of 25 cents,—a tax to which the students should readily respond.

The Small College  The Orient takes the following editorial comment from the Washington Star relative to the recent Bowdoin alumni dinner in that city. The article is of interest not only because it relates to Bowdoin, but also as treatment of a topic of interest to the friends of small colleges in general. The article is as follows:

“The State of Maine is famous for a good many things and among them is Bowdoin College. Maine is proud of Bowdoin and the rest of the world is proud of both, because Bowdoin is typical of the small American colleges. Last night the local Bowdoin Alumni held their annual dinner and in the presence and speech of Wm. DeWitt Hyde, the president of Bowdoin, one of the reasons for the success of the college was revealed. Dr. Hyde in his admirable speech drew attention to the thought, that is getting more and more attention from educators, that the small college possesses qualities for education and character building impossible to the big universities. Dr. Hyde pointed out that the ideal college should be big enough to afford uncramped development along all lines, but yet not so big that the faculty loses touch with the individual student or that any student be not so thoroughly known to the entire undergraduate body as to be responsible to his fellows for the manner in which he lives his life. Dr. Hyde's remarks drew clear attention to the undoubted strength possessed by colleges containing only a comparatively small number of students, and even the big colleges of the day are realizing this fact and the effort at such educational centres is for closer individual touch with the student.”

RELAY TRIALS

The relay trials were held on Saturday of last week, the course being a distance of 390 yards on the car track, starting at the head of Harpswell Street, and extending to a point opposite the old Delta.

The men made an excellent showing and judging from the results of the trials the team should give an account of themselves at the meet. The men who took part and the time made was as follows:

- Atwood, '09, 46 1-5 seconds; Mincher, '07, 46 1-2 seconds; Kimball, '07, 47 1-2 seconds; Colbath, '10, 47 4-5 seconds; Manter, '09, 48 1-5 seconds; Powers, '09, 49 seconds.

Of this number, Atwood, Mincher, Kimball and Manter were selected for the team, while Colbath was named as alternate.

OFFICERS OF THE NEW YORK ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The following officers have been chosen by the New York Alumni Association for the ensuing year:

- President—Edward P. Mitchell.
- Vice-Presidents—Frederick E. Lally, Lincoln A. Rogers, Samuel L. Gross, Henry H. Pierce, Dr. W. O. Plimpton.
- Corresponding Secretary—Almon F. Hill.
- Secretary—Dr. Frederic H. Dillingham.
- Treasurer—Earle A. Merrill.

THIRD COLLEGE TEA TODAY

The third college tea is to be held this afternoon from four until six in the Alumni Room of Hubbard Hall. The special guests will be those who are here for this evening's assembly, and those invited from the Upper Kennebec Valley, principally from Augusta. An account of the tea will be published next week.

SECOND JUNIOR ASSEMBLY TONIGHT

This evening at half-past eight will be held the second Junior Assembly. It is hoped that a large number will be present since this is the last college dance until Ivy day.

HOCKEY TOMORROW

Bowdoin will play the University of Maine team on the Whittier Field tomorrow afternoon in what is probably the first game of intercollegiate hockey ever played in Maine. The game will be played at 2:30 o'clock. The probable line-up of the team is as follows: Forwards, Abbott, '07; Hamburger, '07; Dresser, '08, and Hughes, '09; cover point, Draper, '07; point, Wight, '08; goal, Smith, '09.

PROVIDENCE ALUMNI DINNER

The Bowdoin Alumni Association of Providence held its annual banquet on the evening of Thursday, January 31. Preceding the banquet, Commander Robert E. Peary, '72, gave a lecture in Infantry Hall on "Farthest North." The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides and conveyed some idea of the perils and hardships which the explorer went through on his record-breaking dash for the Pole when he reached 87 degree, 6 minutes, north latitude.

He told of previous dashes for this goal made by Nansen and others and described his ship, the "Roosevelt," to whose staunchness he owed his success. He described the strange animals of the far northern lands and pictured graphically the conditions of the climate and the winter darkness, the worst foe of the explorer, since it often makes men insane.

Commander Peary outlined his trip, showing how he and his party left New York July 16, 1905, and went into winter quarters for the long night on October 16. The sun was not visible from that day until March 6, 1906. In the spring the party set out for the Pole. They advanced over the ice until they reached a large open sea where they waited for more provisions to be brought. The open water froze over while they were waiting and they decided to take advantage of this and push on with what little food they had. These brave men pushed on till they were almost ready to drop, but at last they were obliged to turn back or die. On the return to the ship the party was almost destroyed several times. At one place they had to walk two miles across thin ice which gave way almost immediately after they had reached safety. They joined several provision parties on their way back and at last reached the ship without the loss of a single man.

The alumni banquet was held at the University Club, after the lecture. The speakers were, besides Commander Peary, Dr. John C. Parker, '86, president of the Alumni Association; Edwin Stanwood, '61, who is editor-in-chief of the Youth's Companion; Professor F. C. Robinson of the college, and Professor William Macdonald of Brown University. The vice-president of the association is A. M. Merriman, '92, and the treasurer is Alfred R. Ward, '96.

FOR THE B. A. A. MEET

The Bowdoin relay team will leave to-morrow morning for Boston, where it will meet Tufts in Mechanics Hall at the annual B. A. A. meet. Those who went included Kimball, '07; Mincher, '07; Atwood, '09; and Manter, '09, as the regular members of the team, and Colbath, '10, as alternate. The men will be accompanied by Capt. Shorey, Manager Lee, Robinson, '07, Voorhees, '07, Chandler, '07, and Thomas, '08, are also planning to go, and it is possible that there may be others.
SUNDAY CHAPEL SERVICE

Next Sunday there will be tried a new chapel service which if successful, will be continued for the rest of the year. The service will open with a hymn which is to be sung by the whole college, the choir sitting on the forms with their regular classes. Following the hymns will come the responsive reading, then a song by a quartette, then the short sermon, then a solo or another quartette song, followed by a short prayer or benediction which will close the service.

THE DEUTScher Verein

Owing to the fact that New Meadows Inn has been closed for repairs, the Verein will hold its next meeting, which occurs on March 1, in the debating room of the Hubbard Library. The speaker of the evening is to be Professor Carr of the University of Maine. The members of the Verein are privileged to invite their friends and at the conclusion of Prof. Carr's address the Verein plans to hold an informal reception.

"RESERVES," 14: BATES '07, 6

The Bowdoin Reserves basketball team defeated Bates, '07, in the Armory Hall, Tuesday evening, by a score of 14 to 6. The Bates team excelled in passing, but the effective work of the Bowdoin guards and the ability of the forwards to shoot baskets gave them the game with a good sized margin. The work of Newman, r.f., at guard, and of Valladares, c., for the local team, was the best of the Bowdoin team. Johnson played the star game for the visiting team, he making the entire six points.

The summary:

"RESERVES"

Bates, '07
Valladares, r.f. .......... 1, Boak Jackson, I.f. .............. 1, Hoyt Whitmore, c. ........... 1, Johnson Snow, r.g. .............. 1, Morrill Newman, 1.g. .............. 1, Bowman

MUSICAL CLUBS CONCERT

The Musical Clubs will leave next Wednesday for their first extended trip. They will appear in Ellsworth on Wednesday evening, at Bangor Thursday evening, Oldtown Friday evening and will conclude the trip with a concert in Augusta Saturday evening.

The clubs will also give a concert in Bath Monday evening. The concert that was to have been given in Freeport last evening was cancelled.

CORNELL DEBATE

It was stated at the time of going to press that a letter had been received from Cornell stating that they would be willing to debate Bowdoin at Brunswick on condition that Bowdoin pay all expenses. As this would involve a large sum of money it was believed to be doubtful if the Debating Council would take favorable action, although the matter had not been considered at the time of going to press.

CLASS OF 1887

During the first two weeks of February there was an exhibition of children's portraits and landscapes by Elliott B. Torrey, '87, at the galleries of C. Klackner, on West Twenty-Eighth Street, in New York City.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1846

General Thomas H. Talbot, who was colonel of the First Maine Heavy Artillery during the Civil War, and who served as Assistant United States Attorney-General under President Johnson, died Feb. 11, at his home in Brookline, Mass. Death was due to a stroke of apoplexy. He was 84 years of age. He was born in Machias, Me., and at the outbreak of the war joined the Eighth Maine Infantry. He was made a lieutenant colonel in 1862 and in the same year was transferred to the First Maine Heavy Artillery with the rank of colonel. In 1865 he was promoted to brigadier general for faithful and meritorious service. After the war Gen. Talbot remained in law practice at Portland, Me., until 1870, when he went to Boston. He was prominent in the town affairs of Brookline.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1899 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

A. S. POND, JR.,

Representing HAPGOOD'S
MARKING THE LONGFELLOW ROOM

(The following letter from Mr. Leonard of the Class of 1847, written to President Hyde and dealing especially with the matter of marking the Longfellow room, will be of especial interest at this time.)

642 Franklin St., Melrose Highlands, Mass., February 15, 1907.

Rev. William DeWitt Hyde, D.D., LL.D.,

President Bowdoin College:

Honored Sir—I regret that on account of my age, I shall not dare to venture out to the Alumni meeting in Boston on the 27th inst.

There is one subject that I feel anxious to call to your attention at this time. It is the marking of Longfellow’s old room before those have passed away who know which it was. When I entered College in the Fall of 1843, I think it was Treasurer McKeen who took Mr. Samuel N. Merrill and myself over to the North College to choose between two rooms. We were first shown the room in the third story, north end of North College, back side and end room, and told by him that it was where Longfellow roomed. In the following summer Professor Longfellow came to Brunswick and with Professor Smyth, the father of President Egbert C. Smyth, came to the North End of North College to see Professor Longfellow’s old room. It was near noon, and our class was just returning from recitation. Jasper Strong Whiting, a son of Major Whiting of the U. S. Army, occupied that room and had left it locked and in disorder. He naturally did not hasten to return. Longfellow very courteously asked some one to get the key for him to see his old room. C. P. Roberts of the Class of ’45, got it. Of course, boylike, many of us stood around to see the Professors enter. Whiting in giving up the key, had urged Roberts to keep them waiting until he had put things in better order, but there was no chance to do it. The two Professors were standing at the door when he returned with the key. Longfellow simply passed through the room to one of the back windows and looked out for a moment, and then went out. His whole bearing was that of a gentleman. He did not seem to notice the disorder. He was then very slim; a trifle under middle size and wore, I think, side whiskers. His dress was very neat. The trousers of light color and as the fashion of that time was, strapped down over his boots. I think he wore a Prince Albert frock coat, and a pair of very light tan kid gloves. You remember that in his Hyperion, published not far from this time, he speaks of some old woman in Switzerland or Germany, who spoke of him as “wearing gloves a shade too light for a strictly virtuous man.” In Senator Hoar’s reminiscences and in Rev. Edward Everett Hale’s book, he is spoken of as a dandy. I have no doubt that he was the best dressed Professor at Harvard. He treated the students so courteously that he had the respect of every undergraduate; on one occasion in some disturbance in the grounds, the excited young men would not listen to any of the older professors, but when Longfellow came, they said, let us hear him because he always treats us like gentlemen. He was the first Professor to call them Mr. As to his clothes, he was often in Paris, and like many gentlemen as late as 1852, had his clothes made there because in better taste, and cheaper even after paying the duties. I was provoked the other day in hearing Col. Higginson speak of him as, on one occasion, wearing trousers with the wide stripes running around the legs. Possibly he wore trousers that had a trifle of diagonal, but Longfellow never wore an untasty garment, nor spoke nor wrote a word out of taste. He was born with the finest instincts of a gentleman and never stepped aside from it.

I hardly know what would be the wisest way to designate that room. A strip of brass might be a temptation to some collector of curiosities, while were the name painted in small letters above the door, it might remain undisturbed until the entry was repainted, and then the name could be renewed. Please excuse an old man for my suggestions.

Respectfully,

EDWIN LEONARD, '47.
LONGFELLOW ANNIVERSARY

The plans for the Longfellow Anniversary, which is to be held in Memorial Hall on Thursday, the 27th, are now well along and the indications are that the occasion will one of great interest. As stated last week the exercises will consist of an address by Professor W. B. Mitchell and a poem by Professor Henry Johnson with music by college talent.

The exercises will be held at 11 o'clock and recitations will be suspended from 10.30 until 1.30.

Communication.

To the Editor:

I was very much interested in the editorial recently appearing in the Orient in advocacy of a graduate publication, and in Mr. Edward Stanwood's counter proposition that the Orient devote more space to the Alumni. I have looked for further views on the subject as I regard the matter well worth serious consideration. Whatever tends to strengthen or broaden the interest of Bowdoin men in the college or in one another should receive our hearty support.

I am entirely of Mr. Stanwood's opinion, however, that a publication of the character suggested could not be successfully maintained at Bowdoin, but that the Orient could greatly improve on its own work in this field, could cover the ground and in doing so would materially add to its usefulness as our college newspaper.

The argument against Mr. Stanwood's proposition seems to be that it is difficult to obtain news of Alumni except as it is discovered in the daily papers.

Would it not be possible for the Editors of the Orient to enlist the co-operation of the graduates—to secure a correspondent in the various centers where Bowdoin men are found in considerable numbers, to gather the news—at Augusta, Portland, Cambridge, Boston, New York, Washington. For example, we Bostonians would like to know what our Alumni are doing at Augusta to deserve well of the State and, vice-versa, if you had a reporter in attendance upon the dinners of the Bowdoin Club of Boston I doubt not he would secure many items of interest to them. In fact, the addresses at these dinners are well worth reporting, as for example, Dr. Lincoln's at the November meeting on China, and Mr. Lowell's Jan. 5th on 'Esperanto.' Again not unfrequently, an "old grad" drops in on us from distant climes and in the exuberant joy of meeting some classmate has a tale to tell that all of his old college friends would rejoice to read in the Orient if only some scribe were present to jot down his words.

Is my idea as an amendment to Mr. Stanwood's suggestion worth adopting?

EDGAR O. ACBORN.

TUFTS WINS THE RELAY RACE

Bowdoin lost the relay race with Tufts at the B. A. A. Meet last Saturday night, the Massachusetts college winning out at the end after a series of relays in which Bowdoin was picked for an easy winner. The loss of the race was due principally to an accident for which no one was to blame, Kimball receiving an unfortunate fall in the last race.

The first relay started off with Atwood running his opponent off his feet and finishing 10 yards in the lead. Mincher came next and ran a splendid race, adding five yards more to that which had already been gained by Atwood. Manter was the third runner for Bowdoin and had as his opponent Capt. Powers of the Tufts team, and lost 10 of the 15 yards gained. Kimball came next and with five yards in the lead the race looked to be Bowdoin's, but at this time Kimball fell and gave his opponent a lead and a victory. Kimball's fall was absolutely unavoidable, the floor being very slippery, and there being no less than five men falling during the evening.

An expert who was present at the meet stated that the race was really a victory for Bowdoin and under ordinary conditions would have won. The time was 3 minutes, 19 2-5 seconds.

The other events of the meet resulted as follows:

- 2-mile run—Bonham, N. Y. A. C., 1st; Nebrich, N. Y. A. C., 1st; Frank, N. Y. A. C., 3rd.
- Mile run—Cohn, I. A. A. C., 1st; Reardon, Cambridge Gym, 2d.
- 600-yard handicap—C. Bacon, Jr., I. A. A. C., 1st;
- 1000-yard handicap—W. A. Fernald, Stone's School, Boston, 1st.
- 40-yard dash—Charles Seitz, N. Y. A. C., 1st.
- 10-yard handicap—Flatley, Boston College, 1st.
- 45-yard hurdles—A. B. Shaw, Dartmouth, 1st.
- The Freshman race, won by Harvard, kept the spectators on their feet continually.
nia's colored runner, Taylor, carried his team's colors to victory over Dartmouth.

In the other relays St. Alphonsus A. A., beat Cambridgeport Gym. Association; Maine won from Vermont; M. I. T. beat Holy Cross; the Seniors won the Harvard class contest; Brown beat Amherst; New York A. C. beat the Irish-American A. C. team; Wesleyan beat Williams and Cornell won from Columbia.

W. W. Cox of the Boston Athletic Association with a put of 53 feet 1-4 inches, won the 12-pound shot-put, and A. E. Bartlett, a Worcester Academy boy, took the 16-pound shot.

Bartlett, with a handicap of six feet, hurled the sphere 36 feet 6 1-2 inches.

The last field jump, the high jump, was won by R. H. Allen of M. I. T. (5 1-2 inches), with a height of 6 feet 1 inch; Gideon of B. A. A. (scratch), with an actual jump of 6 feet 1-4 inch, took third place.

BOWDOIN, 4; MAINE, 1

The Bowdoin hockey team won a signal victory over the University of Maine last Saturday afternoon, when it defeated the Orono men by a score of 4 to 1 in the first game of intercollegiate hockey ever played in Maine.

The contest was played on the Whittier Field and was witnessed by a large number of students. It was well played throughout, both teams playing a skilful game, but with Bowdoin showing a superiority over the visitors during the greater part of the time.

During the first half, Maine was able to keep the score even, both sides scoring but one point, but in the last half Bowdoin secured three more and had it not been for the condition of the ice in front of Maine's goal it is probable that the score would have been larger.

The game was pleasing to all and those who saw it believe that the sport is one that should become a permanent part of our athletics. The two teams will meet again to-day at Orono.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday evening, Dr. D. A. Robinson, A.M., M.D., '73, of Bangor, spoke under the auspices of the Christian Association in Hubbard Hall. It was the third of the public meetings which are to be addressed by speakers on "The Ethical Aspects of the Professions," and Dr. Robinson represented the doctors. He said in substance:

A young man should not enter the medical profession with the expectation of getting rich. Fortunes are to be found rather in law or business. Medicine, however, does offer an intensely interesting life work, fair remuneration and the possibility of high social standing. In these days, physicians are entering all branches of social activity, especially politics, in which, as promoters of public hygiene, they fulfill a special mission. Years ago the medical profession failed to keep abreast with the times. For example, doctors continued their leeching, in accordance with ancient precedent, long after the common people knew the folly of it, but in our day, few of the laity can keep the pace of advancing medical discovery.

The American Medical Association has drawn up a code of ethics consisting of ideals of modesty, temperance, responsibility, fidelity, and self-sacrifice. It emphasizes especially the dignity, one might almost say, the divinity, of the medical profession.

Last night the meeting of the Association was called to hear the reports of the Bible Study classes. On Thursday, February 28, Mr. George W. Hinckley of Good Will Farm, will speak in Hubbard Hall at the last of the public meetings on the "Ethical Aspects of the Professions," and will speak on "The Ethics of Social Service."
news, as suggested by Mr. Achorn, and assures them that their contributions will be welcomed. We feel that the alumni associations and residents of cities where there are Bowdoin men can select the correspondents to far better advantage than can the Orient. If the alumni will so select them, we will do our share toward the publication of all contributions.

Sunday Chapel A good word should be said for the change that has been made in the manner of conducting the Sunday chapel exercises. They are more in the nature of vespers services and are naturally more attractive than under the old arrangement. There are more musical numbers and as long as the quality of these is preserved without the sacrifice of any of the other parts of the services, the arrangement will be one that will meet the approval of all. The Orient congratulates those in charge on the change.

Concerning General Talbot The following account of the life of Gen. Talbot, whose death was mentioned briefly in last week’s issue, is taken from an editorial page of the Kennebec Journal. The article is not only a fine tribute to the memory of the deceased, but also contains many facts of interest to our older readers. It is as follows:

"Another brave Maine soldier has been mustered out in the death of John Thomas H. Talbot this week at his home in Brookline, Mass., in his 84th year. It is an interesting coincidence that his death and that of Gen. Starbird occurred so closely together. Both were natives of Maine, both won rank as brigadier generals in the Civil War, both were graduates of Bowdoin College, and both have passed the later years of their life in Massachusetts. Gen. Talbot was born in East Machias in 1823 and came of one of the most prominent families of southern Maine. Gen. Talbot's most conspicuous service in the Civil War was with that famous fighting organization, the First Maine Heavy Artillery, which suffered the largest loss of any Union regiment during the war. He was constantly with the regiment from its muster in 1862, commanded a battalion at Spottsylvania Court House and at Cold Harbor, and was in command of the regiment during the battles of..."
that awful summer of 1864. At Spottslyvania the First Maine Heavy Artillery lost 155 men killed, and 374 wounded, a total of 529, or about 30 per cent. of its strength. It was this regiment which was hurled against the Confederate works at Petersburg with a loss of 632 men killed or wounded out of a total strength of 850, and all of this horrible slaughter occurred within 15 minutes. A few weeks after this battle Col. Talbot took command of the brigade when the brigadier general fell mortally wounded in battle.

"Gen. Talbot graduated from Bowdoin in the Class of 1836. Prominent among his 34 classmates were Gen. Frederick D. Sewall, Judge Charles M. Chamberlain of California, Charles A. Spofford who was speaker of the Maine House in 1857, Rev Edwin B. Webb, D.D., for many years an Augusta pastor, and Dr. John S. H. Fogg of Boston, who gave his native town of Eliot its public library building and the Maine Historical Society a collection of autographs of high value. Last June there were four survivors of this class remaining, and three of them met at Brunswick during Commencement week to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their graduation. They were Gen. Talbot, Gen. Sewall and Joseph C. Pickard of Chicago, for many years a college professor in Illinois and Wisconsin. The fourth survivor of the class, Josiah Pierce, for many years in the United States consular service, is spending his declining years in London totally blind, but he sent to his three old friends a long letter as his share in their reunion.

"After graduating from Bowdoin College Gen. Talbot entered upon the practice of the law in Portland where he remained until he went to the front in 1862 in the First Maine Heavy Artillery. After the war closed he resumed the practice of his profession and for four years was assistant attorney-general of the United States at Washington. After this he practiced his profession in Boston with much success, residing in the town of Brookline where for a dozen years he was unanimously elected to the board of assessors. He was a son of whom Maine had many reasons to be proud, and nobody will more deeply mourn his loss than the surviving veterans of the First Maine Heavy Artillery who faced under his leadership such awful scenes of carnage over 40 years ago."

IBIS LECTURE

The lecture delivered by Frederick Moore, war correspondent for the London Times during the Russo-Japanese war, was held in Memorial Hall on Wednesday of last week. Owing to the fact that Mr. Moore did not have the necessary slides for the lantern, he spoke on the "Conditions in Turkey," instead of the subject advertised. The lecture was largely attended and all were well pleased.
College Notes

Snow, '07, preached at Freeport Sunday.

Piper, '07, is out of college for a few weeks.

Knight, '10, is teaching school at Prince's Point. It is stated that there will be no adjourns to-morrow.

Adjourns in English Literature IV. were given on Tuesday.

Pottle, '09, has been spending the past week in Farmington.

Adjourns have been granted in Philosophy IV. for the past week.

Several enterprising Freshmen recently strung a large advertising elephant in front of the chapel with 1910 painted on it. They should be complimented on the aptness of their new class emblem.

There was much doubt among the students Sunday as to the result of the relay race Saturday evening. Two Boston papers gave different accounts, one saying that Bowdoin won, and the other giving the victory to Tufts.

Mr. A. E. Kemmerer, field agent for the American Stereoscopic Co., was in town last week and interviewed a number of students for the purpose of securing men to sell this company's pictures during the next summer vacation.

The Hebron Academy basketball team was entertained at the Delta Upsilon house, Monday, on their way from Orono where they played U. of M. Saturday evening. The game resulted in a score of 21 to 17 in favor of Maine.

A banjo club was formed at the Theta Delta Chi house on Tuesday evening. There are a number of banjo players in college, and the club has a good membership. It is intended to unite it with the Glee and Mandolin Clubs next season.

The Boston Young Men's Christian Union will hold services commemorative of Longfellow next Sunday evening. There will be an address by Edwin D. Mead of Boston, who will speak on the subject of "Longfellow's Poetry of America." There will also be special music for the occasion.
THE FACULTY

Professor Little was absent on a snowshoe trip this week.

President Hyde has so far recovered as to be able to be out again.

Prof. Mitchell spoke on Longfellow at Gorham, Monday, February 18th.

Professor Woodruff preached in the Congregational Church at Rockland, Sunday.

During the past week Professor Allen Johnson was elected a member of the Public Archives Commission of the American Historical Association. The purpose of this society is to investigate the condition of manuscript records of different states. Previous to Professor Johnson's election Maine was one of the few states whose archives had never been investigated by the commission.

JUNIOR ASSEMBLY

The second of the Junior Assemblies was held in Memorial Hall on Friday evening of last week, and was one of the most enjoyable of the social functions of the year. The attendance was much larger than that at any of the other dances this season, and the committee were able to more than meet their expenses. The hall was tastily decorated with palms and sofa pillows. A large 1908 in white on a brown background was conspicuous. The patronesses received in the southwest corner, which was appropriately arranged. The patronesses were Mrs. Charles C. Hutchins, Mrs. Franklin C. Robinson, Mrs. William A. Houghton, Mrs. Henry Johnson, Mrs. Allen Johnson. Music for the dance was furnished by the College Orchestra under the leadership of Kendrie, '10.

Among the young ladies present were Misses Helen Stetson of Damariscotta, Gertrude Stevens, Edna Stevens of Fort Fairfield, Emma Alden of Camden, Gladys Dresser of Dorchester, Mass., Alice Dennis of Medford, Mass., Grace Gower of Skowhegan, Mae Despeaux of Brunswick, Alice Bryant of Auburn, Frances Wiggins of West Newton, Louise Weatherill of Brunswick, Grace Bascome of Augusta, Willa Packard of Augusta, Emilie Creighton of Thomaston, Sarah Merryman of Brunswick, Gertrude Christopher of Brunswick, Esther Goud of Portland, Barbara Hunt of Bangor, Louise Gray of Oldtown, Gwendolyn Jenkins of Portland, Florence Allen of Brunswick, Florabel Ross, and Annie Ross of Kennebunk, Daisy Hubbard of Brunswick, Louise Edwards of Portland, Margaret Sutherland, and Alice McKinley of Brunswick. Margaret Demming of Hartford, Conn., Ella Thompson of Portland, Abbie Howe and Florence March of Dixfield, Almena Jewett of Bangor, Marjorie Robinson of Bangor, and Helen Cressey of Portland.

DRAMATIC CLUB

During the past week several changes have been made in the cast of characters for the play "London Assurance." J. A. Bartlett, '06, who will coach the play, has kindly consented to take the part of "Lady Gay Spanker," since no undergraduate has been found who is well suited for the place. P. H. Powers, '08, has resigned his part in the club, and H. H. Burton, '09, will take his place as "Pert," and R. Q. Brewer, '09, will take Burton's part of "James." M. C. Demoll, '08, has been selected to play the part of "Mark Meddle," so filling out the cast, and the rehearsals for the play will now go on rapidly. The cast is well balanced and a good production is assured. It is planned to present the play in Bath, and perhaps in Biddeford, before giving it in Brunswick on the night before Ivy.

ENGLISH 7

Debates

March 12. "The Federal Government should adopt a progressive Inheritance Tax, Constitutionality is hereby adopted by Bowdoin College:"

1. To discontinue after Commencement, 1908, the practice of counting medical courses for the degree of A.B.

2. To retain, as the requirement of the degree of A.B., the completion of 38 courses of three hours each, including four courses in Physical Training, except that courses in which a student receives A shall be rated as 1.3, and courses in which a student receives B shall be rated as 1.2.

THIRD COLLEGE TEA

The third of the College Teas was held in the Alumni Room of Hubbard Hall on Friday afternoon of last week. The special guests of the afternoon were the ladies from the Kennebec Valley, a large number of whom were present. In the receiving line were Mrs. William A. Moody, Mrs. Charles C. Hutchins, Mrs. George T. Files, and Mrs. Frank N. Whittier. The ushers were Hazel, '07, Zeta Psi; Goodspeed, '09, Kappa Sigma; Kingsley, '07, Delta Upsilon; Putnam, '08, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Yeaton, '08, non-fraternity; Cleaves, '09, Alpha Kappa Kappa; and Bryant, '09, Phi Chi.

The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Wilmot B. Mitchell, Mrs. Roswell McCrea, Mrs. Franklin C. Robinson, and Mrs. Allen Johnson. They were assisted in serving by Misses Cecil Houghton, Beatrice Hacker, Edith Johnson, Grace Crawford, Alice Lincoln, Lina Knight, Mollie Given, Margaret Wills, Rose Chandler, Marion Drew, May Barker, Frances Rideout, and Allreta Graves.

The next and last Tea will be on March 15.
BRADBURY DEBATE

The Bradbury Prize Debate will take place next Tuesday evening at 7.30 in Memorial Hall, and will be open to the public. The question to be debated is "Granting the willingness of Cuba as expressed by a majority vote at a popular election, the annexation of Cuba to the United States is for the interest of the United States," and the speakers on the affirmative are: F. J. Redman, '07; W. B. Drummond, '07, and R. H. Hupper, '08, with A. L. Robinson, '08, for alternate; and on the negative, A. B. Roberts, '07, P. Kimball, '07, and C. W. Snow, '07, with W. S. Linnell, '07, as alternate.

The judges for the debate have been carefully selected and are Hon. Herbert M. Heath, '22, of Augusta; Mr. E. Rabenold of the Harvard Law School, coach of the Harvard team which defeated Yale last fall, present coach of the Harvard team which will meet Princeton, and ex-President of the Harvard University Debating Council; Prof. R. C. McCrea, Ph.D., Prof. Allen Johnson, Ph.D., and Prof. W. T. Foster, A.M. Dr. Alfred Mitchell, A.M., M.D., Dean of the Medical Faculty, will preside.

OXFORD COUNTY CLUB

The first meeting of the Oxford County Club was held with Weed, '07, at the Theta Delta Chi House on Saturday evening. Nine out of the seventeen Oxford County men in college were present. They were Weed, '07, Chandler, '08, Stanley, '08, Stone, '09, Newman, '09, Taylor, '10, Atwood, '10, Stetson, '10, and Fisher, '10. The other men who were absent are Pike, '07, Giles, '07, Stanwood, '08, Purington, '08, Marsh, '09, Sturtevant, '09, Farrar, '10, and Nulty, '10.

Of the faculty Prof. Chapman and Prof. Hutchins are both from Oxford County.

No officers were elected but a committee was appointed to draw up the by-laws for consideration at the next meeting. This will take place on March 2.

DELTA UPSILON DISTRICT CONVENTION

The New England Convention of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity is being held with the Tufts College Chapter, Friday and Saturday of this week. A smoker is held at Tufts Friday evening, and the business session with a banquet in Boston Saturday morning and afternoon. The Tech and Harvard chapters will assist in entertaining the delegates.

Men who went from the Bowdoin Chapter are Sawyer, '07, Bishop, '09, Cooper, '09, Smith, '09, Harlow, '09, and Cummins, '10.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION ENTERTAINMENT AT LEWISTON

Next Monday the Christian Association will send a party to Lewiston to give an entertainment for the benefit of the Social Settlement of Lewiston. The party has been organized by a committee of the Christian Association of which S. G. Haley, '07, is the chairman. The program will include renderings by quartettes from the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, solos by several members of the Glee Club, readings by Upton, '07, and Haley, '07, a violin solo by Kendrie, '10, and a club swinging act by B. C. Morrill, '10. An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged for the performance.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1892

Roland W. Mann, '92, announced on February 4, that he had entered into a copartnership under the firm name of Hunt, Mann and Saltonstall, for the purpose of carrying on a general banking business and dealing in investment securities. The offices of the firm are at 60 State Street, Boston.

CLASS OF 1893

On December 29, 1906, George S. Chapin, '93, of the faculty of the Ohio State School for the Blind, was married to Miss Pauline Gray, who serves on the faculty of the same school. The wedding was very simple, yet beautiful and impressive, being performed at the home of the bride with only the family and a few friends present. Both bride and groom will remain on the school faculty.

CLASS OF 1895

E. R. Woodbury, '95, who is now principal of Thornton Academy, was a guest at the Beta Theta Pi House recently.

CLASS OF 1899

Prof. Roy L. Marston of Skowhegan has received notice of his appointment as one of the lecturers of the New England Education League. This organization was formed about ten years since, with headquarters in Boston, for the purpose of increasing the educational advantages of the communities of the New England states and with the special object of providing lecturers for towns where otherwise the services of trained specialists on present day topics would not be otherwise obtainable. Twenty of the faculty of Harvard University are on the list of lecturers to which Mr. Marston now receives appointment and other New England colleges are also represented by members of the faculty. Prof. W. B. Mitchell of Bowdoin college and W. W. Stetson, State superintendent of schools, are among the few Maine men in the list. Mr. Marston graduated from Bowdoin in 1899, later studying forestry at Yale and being on the Yale faculty three years. He resigned his position there to come back to Maine and care for the lumbering interests of his father's estate.

CLASS OF 1903

Philip G. Clifford of Portland, recently passed the examination for admittance to the bar and will enter into partnership with George E. Fogg, '02. They will be located in Portland.

Henry A. Peabody of Portland was admitted to the bar at the February examinations and will practice law in Portland, in partnership with his brother, Clarence Peabody.

CLASS OF 1904

George Burpee who has been in Louisville, Ky., has recently accepted a position with Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., New York.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1855

Rev. Benjamin P. Snow, A.M., a graduate of the Class of 1855, and a prominent educator, died at Alfred, Me., February 13, after a brief sickness with pneumonia. Mr. Snow was born in Rumford, Me., February 14, 1831. He attended the schools of that town and entered the college at Waterville in 1851 and the next year entered Bowdoin and graduated from that institution. After graduating he taught in Evansville, Ind., for two years and from 1857 to 1860 he was professor in Latin at Bowdoin. He has also been at the head of the academy in Fryeburg. He also graduated from Bangor Theological Seminary and served pastorates at North Yarmouth, Alfred and Cape Elizabeth. In 1890 Mr. Snow was made principal of North Yarmouth Academy, resigning about five years ago on account of ill health. Mrs. Snow died the same week after a brief sickness.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st. If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 6th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

LONGFELLOW ANNIVERSARY

Bowdoin observed the centennial of her greatest poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, of the Class of 1825, last Wednesday forenoon, in a fitting manner. The exercises took place at 11 o'clock and consisted of an address by Prof. W. B. Mitchell and an original poem by Prof. Henry Johnson, together with musical numbers by college talent. Both of the literary numbers were of rare excellence and were listened to with the greatest interest. The address by Prof. Mitchell was of a character that entitles it to a publication in full, but owing to lack of space we are able to present only the closing pages.

PROF. MITCHELL'S ADDRESS

After sketching the earlier part of Mr. Longfellow's life, Prof. Mitchell said in closing:

With the story of that forty years before 1875 you and all the world are familiar. You recall the first overwhelming blow that fell upon him in the death of his young wife in a foreign land, and the faith with which he met it. You recall the triumphs and sorrows of his life in Cambridge; the success of his teaching there; those happy friendships with Fulton, and Sumner and Agassiz and Lowell. You recall the happiness of his home life when his second wife, the beautiful Mary Ashburton of Hyperion, was the good angel of his household, the congenial companion, the appreciative councillor, the winning and gracious hostess to welcome to their cultured home his many friends. You recall the joys of fatherhood that his three children brought him, his two sons and his three daughters, "grave Alice and laughing Allegra, and Edith with golden hair," those "blue-eyed banditti" that he put down into the dungeon in the round tower of his heart. You recall those literary triumphs when the poet found himself loved and famous because he had sung in beautiful and artistic verse the joys and sorrows which a new people had felt but could not express. And then you recall the tragedy that came into his life—the suffering expressed in that sad but beautiful sonnet, "The Cross of Snow."

In July, 1875, the Class of 1825 held its 50th reunion. Of the 39 members who graduated, 13 survived and 11 were present. The alumni of Bowdoin College and the people of Brunswick will not soon forget that meeting in the Church on the Hill. All who were there tell the same story. The throng that crowded the church was enchanted by the personality of one man. Fifty years before in almost exactly the same spot the 19-year-old boy had spoken his Commencement part on "Native Writers" and praised the literary resources of America. He had then gone forth and proved his thesis by writing Evangeline and Miles Standish and Hiawatha. He now had returned to his Alma Mater, an old man, loved by thousands, whom the rulers and learned universities of his own and other lands had delighted to honor.

It was an historical moment in the life of Bowdoin College, when that aged poet surrounded by ten of his surviving classmates, with the golden sunlight falling on his silver hair, in deep, mellow tones uttered these words:

"O Caesar, we who are about to die Salute you!" was the gladiators' cry,
In the arena standing face to face
With death and with the Roman populace.

"O ye familiar scenes, ye groves of pine,
That once were mine and are no longer mine,
Thou river, widening thro' the meadows green
To the vast sea, so near and yet unseen,—
Ye halls, in whose seclusion and repose
Phantoms of fame, like exhalations, rose
And vanished,—we who are about to die
Salute you."

On the next day after the poem was delivered, that little band of eleven gray-haired men, who had had several class meetings during the week, met in one of the dormitory rooms, talked together as of old and for half an hour were college boys again. Before they left the room a prayer was offered; they went out together under the Thorndike Oak; the benediction was pronounced; and Longfellow and his classmates separated to meet no more in this world.

Such were the associations of Bowdoin's greatest poet with his college. What his place in the hearts of Bowdoin men is——indeed in the hearts of the American people—we all know. What his ultimate place in English Literature may be is a question which only the great mentor, Time, can answer.

He undoubtedly had his limitations. His figures of speech are sometimes fanciful; often his verses smack overmuch of the library; frequently he deals with battles in books rather than with the real warfare of life. Although not an imitator, he is more often the artistic reteller of beautiful tales than the originator of great thoughts. He did not think as deeply as did Browning; he had not the philosophical insight of Emerson. He did not much concern himself with the great questions of doubt and faith which have often stirred the souls of great poets. He was an artist first and a romancer afterwards. He did not try to prove that the Holy Motherhood once lived upon earth; he was willing to paint the Madonna as his imagination saw her. There were also peaks of emotion reached by other poets that he never scaled. He so lacked the ardent temper of the reformer that he sometimes displeased his anti-slavery friends. He was the psalmist rather than the prophet. He was in life very fond of the music of the flute, and it is the soothing note of the flute rather than the blast of the clarion that we hear most often in his poetry. Upon the book plate in his library was his favorite motto: "Non clamor sed amor"—not violence or noise but love. That was the burden of his many songs.

He has been called the children's laureate, for in his verse he celebrated their elemental simplicity and sincerity. He has been called "the people's poet," for he sang the joys and sorrows of common men. He sang the miracles of birth, of marriage, and of death as they are wrought in the common household. He was able by the magic of his song to make the common sacred; and often at his touch overdrudgery and suffering have taken on a new meaning and become divine.

New forces and new methods, new music and new truths, will come into English poetry in the changing years; and Longfellow may some day have to surrender his position as America's Laureate. But it is difficult to think of the time when his sonnets——such as those to "Chaucer," to Keats and to "Three Friends of Mine"——will not measure up to the standards of great poetry, or when Hiawatha, our "nearest approach to a national epic," as it has been called, will not "belong to the great story book of the world." It is difficult to think of the time, as long as children are childlike, as long as "men and women work and win, struggle and lose, love and bury," when some of his ballads, his lyrics, or his idylls will not entertain or soothe or strengthen.

"He the best of all musicians,
He the sweetest of all singers,
Beautiful and child-like was he,
Brave as man is, soft as woman,
Pliant as a wand of willow,
Stately as a deer with antlers.

"For his gentleness we loved him,
And the magic of his singing."

PROF. JOHNSON'S POEM

The following poem, written and delivered by Professor Henry Johnson, was listened to with great interest.

THE SEER

No human eye foresaw
When His restless law
Should add another name
To the great scroll of fame;
And, lo! the child of light
Emerged from out the night
Beneath this northern sky:
"O bright, new earth, 'tis I."

Strong, happy youth, whose fancies rhyme
In laughing song and echoing word,
Matching the wonders of the time,
When life's new melody is heard;
When still we grasp at sun and moon,
And look unawed at starry skies,
Asking of heaven no dearer boon
Than endless childhood's paradise.

Unbidden comes the strange intruder, Death;
Hushed is the noisy play, checked is the breath,
And all the world is hidden in the mist,
For he has chilled the loving lips we kissed,
In vain we ask: we cannot understand
The silent sleep, the unceasing hand;
Sweet music is grown sad, the sweetest flowers
Seem burdened with a speechless pain like ours.

Strong nature rises, and the playing child
Exults to play the man;
Joys in the storm, and knows the wind less wild
Than the deep surges of the beating heart,
Unresting till the magic wand of art
In the good Mother's plan
Gives the right rhythm, and the spirits dance
Obedient to Love's imperious glance.
Thou great Creator of Thy human-kind,
What joy to search for what Thou veilst from sight
To wake in us the eager appetite!
We bring Thee worship of the knowing mind;
We see the tiny fragment of Thy law
Within the ken of eyes that Thou hast given;
We strive with courage where the great have striven;
Not yet for us the inner temple's awe.

But still beyond the truth of outward things
Thou yearnest to reveal the inward grace,
And shinest through the beauty of a face,
And we behold, and all creation sings.
For two, for two alone, the whole world lives;
The dream grows real with pain and happy tears,
While Thou dost teach the lesson of our years,
That he alone is rich who richly gives.

Thrice happy he whose heart could still be brave
When open foes assaulted in open fields,
And honor met the sword that honor yields,
And took the strokes that worthy foe man gave;
When came the day of fickle fortune's flight,
Bearing with her the fools' gold of our thrift
But impotent to take away her gift
Of year-long courage and the clearer sight;

When dread disease inflamed the house of life
In which one dearer than our being dwelt;
And in our terror we afar had knelt
While loving skill met nature's hidden strife;
But bravest of the sons of men is he
Who meets the savage look of clear, cold hate,
Nor hates the hater, nor does hesitate
An instant in his own soul's loyalty.

The day of others' doubt is overcast;
Heaven's silent blessings on the home descend,
The table and the fireside and the friend,
And days of trusty comradeship at last,
How quick to share the thought but half expressed,
To fly around the earth on fancy's wings
And see the marriage of the Thoughts and Things,
The instant's birth of a divine unrest.

If Thou have joined in us the hearing ear,
The seeing soul, the life that dwells apart,
The universe beats with the beating heart,
The music of the atom and the sphere.
We too may hear the never-ending woes,
May suffer with the hopeful souls that rise
To the thunder of the heavenly harmonies
For through all worlds Thy great poet rose.

The mighty soul dwells infinitely far
In her solitude beyond our ken;
She comes to us, we know not how nor when,
And in the seeming shows the things that are.
She roars not though our cry be low or loud,
She heeds not all the folly of our deeds;
She worships in the service of our needs,
To which the heaven once was bowed.

What though we draw more near with measuring rod
And dare the holy stillness to profane,
Or shatter every earthly shrine? In vain,
In vain, for we are blinded by the God.

His prophet, unapproachable, divine,
By gift of grace, beholds the world we know;
He lives within the world, and lives to show
Immortal gold in his new-minted line.

And when the line is ours, and the strong soul
Is hidden in the splendor of That Day,
We pause an instant, wondering, and say:
God speed thee ever to thy glorious goal!

LONGFELLOW'S CLASS PICTURE

By the gift of Dr. William C. Mason of Bangor, the College Library has recently received a set of the silhouettes of the Class of 1825. A mounted photograph, cabinet size, of the silhouette of Longfellow which bears his autograph, will be mailed to any address on receipt of twenty-five cents.

BOSTON ALUMNI BANQUET

On Wednesday evening the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Boston and Vicinity, held a banquet at the Hotel Brunswick in honor of the 100th anniversary of Longfellow's birthday. A remarkably large number of members were present, and the event was a great success. Among the principal speakers were: Prof. H. L. Chapman, '66, Prof. Barrett Wendell of Harvard, Hon. C. F. Libby, '64, of Portland, Dr. F. H. Gerrish, '66, of Portland, Mr. Orville D. Baker, '68, of Augusta, and Mr. Isaac B. Choate, '62, who read an original poem.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On Thursday evening, February 21, twenty members were present at the student meeting held in the Christian Association rooms. C. W. Snow, '07, led the meeting, and G. H. Hull, '07, gave an informal talk on the ideals of a college man. He said that there were about four types of well-meaning, honest college men: the man who is trying to make his own life a happy one, the man who is trying to accumulate knowledge, the man who lives in books of poetry, and the man who tries to do everything for everybody else. The ideal man is one of these extreme types,—for extremeness is insanity—but the ideal is a combination of the "happy-go-lucky" fellow, the "plugger," the "visionary" and the "one who is thoughtful of others," with this whole combination resting on wisdom, which is an appreciation of one's environment, or merely "common sense."

Last evening Mr. G. W. Hinckley, of Good Will Farm, spoke in Hubbard Hall, on "The Ethical Aspects of Social Service." An account of the address will appear in the next issue.
NOT A LONGFELLOW SPECIAL

The Orient of this week devotes considerable space to an account of the Longfellow observance of Wednesday. Were it possible to do so, the Orient would be pleased to produce a special number in honor of Bowdoin’s great poet, as the occasion was one deserving of the recognition. Owing to the cost, however, it cannot be done, and we are obliged to content ourselves by devoting a considerable portion of space to the occasion. We are obliged to omit many other matters of importance, but the event is surely worthy of the sacrifice.

Quizzes at End of Terms

The attention of the faculty is called to the arrangement of quizzes in the closing days of the terms. There is necessarily a large number of quizzes in the closing days, as a great portion of the instructors wish to sum up the work at that time. Nevertheless, an indiscriminate arrangement, as is sometimes the case, puts many students under difficulties and at an unfair advantage. Just previous to the Christmas recess one student in regular standing and taking pretty nearly what would be considered courses belonging to his class, had a total of five one hour quizzes in one day, while many men had three. This is not by any means a great evil, nor does it entail a hardship that the average college man cannot stand. Still, it would seem that a little care in the matter would enable students to do far better work without much inconvenience to anyone. The holding of quizzes at the close of the term is something that has come with the semester system and in some instances has made the work for their preparation almost equal to that for the final examination—which we think should not be the case.

Football Coach

Men in college will be pleased to learn that Coach Ross McClave will handle the Bowdoin football squad next fall. This announcement is pleasing not so much because it marks a return to professional coaching as it is that it marks the return of a man who handled the Bowdoin squad with a degree of success that has seldom been the fortune of our coaches. He held the confidence of the men to a greater degree, perhaps, than any football coach in years and for this reason his return is particularly pleasing. Confidence is the first essential in the coaching of a team and it is, perhaps, not unjust to say that a lack of it was a source of weakness last fall. This statement is not necessarily a reflection on those who handled our team at that time. That there should be a lack of confidence was inevitable at a time when the game was undergoing a change coupled with a change in the coaching system and a return to professional coaching is not necessarily a reflection on the system then undertaken. It is rather the retention of a man who has already been vindicated and whose worth to our squad is beyond doubt. Sometime when the new game has become old and Bowdoin is no longer able to retain McClave it may be permissible to return to the graduate system. In the meantime, the majority of the men in college will be glad of the securing of McClave for next fall.
DEUTSCHER VEREIN

The meeting of the Deutscher Verein which was to be held to-morrow evening in Hubbard Hall, has been postponed until the end of March, because Prof. Carr, who was to speak, has been unexpectedly called to New York until then.

FOOTBALL COACH

Ross McClave, Princeton, '04, who coached Bowdoin’s championship football team in the fall of 1904, has accepted the position of head coach for next fall’s team, and all arrangements have been definitely made for his coming.

Hull, '07, was out of college several days last week on account of sickness.
G. H. Morrill, '07, has been playing with the Colonial Club of Bath this winter.
“Sam” Hitchcock, Coriell, '01, was a guest at the Beta Theta Pi House on Saturday.
Adjourns in several courses were granted last Saturday because of the cold weather.
The meeting of the Chemical Club is postponed to some day, as yet not decided, of next week.
Hamburger is absent from college on account of injuries received in the hockey game with Maine.
There will be a Freshman Class meeting to-morrow to choose a squad leader for the coming meet.
C. F. Robinson, '03, who is practicing law in Boston, was in town from Thursday to Saturday of last week.
A photograph of Prof. Foster with an account of his life, appeared in the Boston Sunday Globe for last week.
On Tuesday evening the Freshman Class attended in a body the Bradbury Debate to make reports on it for English II.
McFadden’s corner store has been re-opened and at present there are a number of bargains in goods slightly damaged by fire.

Coons, '08, delivered an address before the Saturday Club, Saturday evening at its Longfellow Centennial. He spoke on “Longfellow’s View of Life.”
The Massachusetts Club trip to Casco Castle, which was to come off last Monday, was postponed owing to the fact that the cars were not running. The meeting will take place next Monday.
Several of the fraternities will give house parties in the near future.

Frank L. Dutton, '99, of Augusta, was on the campus one day last week.

Wandtke, 'to, has been at his home in Lewiston for several days last week.

Delavina, '08, has returned from a week's business trip in the Western States.

A fine cut of the Musical Clubs appeared in the Boston Globe the past week.

A committee has been chosen by the Freshman Class to select the class cut for the Bagle.

Deming, 'to, has had charge of the hot dog business during the absence of Sparks and Morrill.

Last Sunday's Boston Globe contained an extended account of the life work of Prof. W. T. Foster.

Evans, 'to, and Hobbs, 'to, occupy the Longfellow room in Number 27, North Walthrop Hall, this year.

Snow, '07, will probably be an instructor in Argumentation and Debating at New York University next year.

McDade, '09, has left college for several weeks and will serve as secretary of the board of registration in Lewiston.

Small, 'to, has entered Yarmouth Academy for the remainder of the year—but will return to enter college the coming fall.

The Williams College Dramatic Club in "My Friend from India" drew a number of students to Portland last Friday evening.

Harry Morrill, ex-'09, will go to Seattle, Wash., in the near future where he will be employed upon the staff of the Seattle Argus.

Prof. Mitchell had no recitation in English 2 on Tuesday, requiring instead that the men attend the Bradbury Prize Debate on Tuesday.

Several of the students took part in a Longfellow entertainment given in the vestry of the First Parish Church on Wednesday evening.

March 20th has been set as the date of the Delta Upsilon House Party, at which time the fraternity expects to use its new dance hall for the first time.

The Coffee Club met Monday evening at the Kappa Sigma House, the guests of Duddy, '07, and Oris, '07. Longfellow was the subject of discussion.

There will be no assembly in Music Hall, Bath, on next Monday evening. Miss Harvey will probably hold the last session of the season on a week from that time.

It was erroneously stated in last week's Orient that Harry J. Dugan had been elected captain of the Freshman relay team to run Bates. The item should have read manager, instead of captain.

Carney, '07, Sparks, '09, Manter, '09, Gastonguay, '09, and Green, '09, attended the reception given by the Senior Class of the Maine Wesleyan Seminary at Kent's Hill on Washington's Birthday.

Many of the Freshmen were startled last week by the announcement in a daily paper that each member of the class is to be assessed $100. The report should have said $1.00.

The Bongor Commercial, for last week, contained an extensive account of the glee and mandolin clubs, with especial approbation at the good work done by Upton and Kendrie.

Last Saturday's Lewiston Journal contained an extended write-up of the science department at Bowdoin, illustrated with pictures of Prof. Robinson and the science building, both inside and out.

The Snowshoe Club will meet at the electric waiting room Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, and tramp on snowshoes to the stand pipe. Skis, toboggans and lunches will be in order. Supper at the Golf Club House.

Some one broke into the Science Building a week ago last Tuesday night by forcing a bolt in one of the doors. The marauder took nothing, but his course could be traced by the remains of the matches with which he lit his way.

The first of this week the gymnasiwm instructors began making out the lists of men who will be eligible candidates for leaders of the class squads at the Indoor Meet. At the time of the Orient's going to press the names had not been made public.

The Glee Clubs returned last Saturday night from a most successful trip in the eastern part of the State. The clubs appeared in Farmington last night and will appear in Livermore Falls to-night. They will take trips to Kenebunk and Westbrook in the near future.

There has been trouble about the milk used at the various Fraternity Houses. An analysis by Bagley, '08, and afterward by Professor Robinson, proved the milk to contain formaldehyde. The town authorities are discussing the advisability of appointing a milk inspector.

The arrangements will soon be made for the tenth annual banquet of the Kenebec Bowdoin Alumni Association. There are over a dozen Bowdoin men in the Legislature, including the presiding officers of both branches, and these with Governor Cobb will be asked to participate.—Kenebec Journal.

Last Saturday the Snowshoe Club took a trip to Casco Castle, where they enjoyed a shore dinner and the toboggan slides. Next Saturday afternoon the club will go out to Standpipe Hill, and try their hand at skating, and tobogganing. Refreshments will be taken along with the party and served at the hill.

Last Tuesday at 2:30, Prof. Henry Johnson gave the third of his series of lectures about the contents of the Art Building. He talked briefly about the principal paintings, and objects of interest in the Bowdoin and Boyd galleries. Next Tuesday he will give the last lecture in the series, and it will be on the Boyd and Walker galleries. About 25 students were present last Tuesday and it is hoped that even more will turn out next week.

A basketball team from Brunswick went to Rockland, Friday, playing the Rockland Y. M. C. A. team Friday evening, and the Rockport Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. The Friday game resulted in a score of 20-12 in favor of Rockland, and on Saturday Rockport won by the small margin of one point, the score being 15 to 14. Although the team represented Brunswick, rather than the college, four college men played. The Brunswick line-up was as follows: Wakefield, ’09, r.f.; Jackson, Med., 1.f.; Whitmore, c.; Newman, ’10, r.b.; Nulty, ’10, l.b.; Morton, ’10, went with the team as referee.

On February 21 at the athletic meet of the Lawrence Light Guard Athletic Association in Medford, B. C. Morrill, ’10, won first place in the handicap 16-lb. shot-put with an actual put of 40 ft. 6 1-2 in., which was a foot better than the best put of Stevenson, of Harvard, who is the intercollegiate champion. In the 8-lb. shot-put Morrill took third place with a put of 57 feet 10 1-2 inches. It was in this event that W. W. Coe established a new world’s record with a put of 63 ft. 2 1-2 inches.

THE FACULTY

President Hyde has as yet been unable to meet his class in Philosophy IV.

Dr. F. N. Whittem has been appointed milk inspector by the selectmen of Brunswick.

Professor Files visited Fryeburg Academy, one of Bowdoin’s preparatory schools, last week.

Prof. Foster acted as toastmaster at the banquet of the Roxbury Alumni Association last Friday evening.

Prof. Robinson will attend the regular monthly meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry at Boston, Friday.

A sketch of Prof. Robinson’s life and work was presented in the last issue of the Lexiastion Journal. His photograph and those of several assistants were printed.

On Saturday, March 9, Professor Files will lecture on “Rambles in Switzerland” in Memorial Hall. The lecture is for the Saturday Club and will be illustrated. All members of the college are invited.

A meeting of the Maine classical teachers will be held at the Coburn Classical Institute, Waterville, on Saturday, March 9. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the question of forming a local branch for Maine of the Classical Association of New England, and to take such action as may be deemed advisable. The committee in charge consists of Prof. G. D. Chase of the University of Maine, Prof. Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin, and Edgar Kahrl of the Brunswick High School.

BRADBURY PRIZE DEBATE

The annual debate for the Bradbury Prize was held in Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening. The speakers on the affirmative were F. J. Redman, W. B. Drummond, and R. H. Hupper, on the negative P. Kimball, A. B. Roberts, and C. W. Snow, all members of the Senior Class. The debate was awarded to the affirmative. The affirmative side was able to keep to the preparation of the debate. The question was divided into four issues—economic, social, strategic and political. The affirmative held that the annexation of Cuba would open a larger field for the investment of American capital, would give the United States a more firm hold on the world’s sugar supply, would be of great benefit to our coast shipping, would give us a point of especial strategic value in the Caribbean Sea, due especially to the size of Cuba and finally, that the citizens of Cuba would not make undesirable citizens of the United States.

The negative denied these four issues. They stated that there is good opportunity for the investment of capital in the western and southern parts of the United States, and for that reason it is not necessary or best for Americans to go to Cuba to invest their money. They asserted that the United States already owns or controls enough islands in the West Indies to give her complete control of all entrances to the Carribean Sea, thus making Cuba unnecessary as a strategic point. One-third of the people of Cuba are negroes, a large proportion of the whole population is illiterate and the social conditions of Cuba are far below those of the United States. The negative repeatedly declared that the United States has five times annexed Cuba and finally the negative introduced as an alternative for annexation, a treaty with Cuba by which free trade be established with the transportation of goods restricted to American vessels. This alternative, the negative claimed, would give to the United States all the economic advantages of annexation with none of its social disadvantages.

The rebuttals were good on both sides, the speakers were quick to detect the weak points in their opponents’ arguments and they set forth their refutations in a clear and forcible manner.

The judges were as announced in last week’s issue, except that Mr. Heath’s place was taken by Prof. Robinson.

CERCLE FRANCAIS

The Cercle Francais met on Tuesday, February 18, at the Kappa Sigma House. Although few members were present, Prof. Micoleau gave an interesting talk in French on the geography of France and the industries of its coast towns. After the talk, an informal meeting was held, and it was suggested that the club instead of trying to present the play, “Les Deux Sourds,” present the first act of “Cyrano de Bergerac,” in which no ladies take speaking parts, and in which there will be many actors with short parts. No action was taken on the suggestion, but it will be acted upon at the next meeting when an especially large attendance is desired.

VACATION TRIP FOR BASEBALL TEAM

A new feature has been introduced this year in the development of the baseball team, and a somewhat extended trip is to be taken during the spring vacation, the team playing two games in New York City. This plan has been strongly urged by John Irwin and should be extremely beneficial in developing the men early, where the spring is so backward here. The trip will be opened by a game at Providence and then the team will go to New York to meet Fordham and Seton Hall. All these teams are strong and there is every possibility at present that the spring will be late here, but this early experience certainly should strengthen the team for its later contests. Irwin will accompany the team. About fourteen men will make the trip. Hard baseball work will commence from now on in anticipation of these early games. The final baseball schedule will be announced next week.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION ENTERTAINMENT AT LEWISTON

Last Monday evening a party under the management of S. G. Haley, '07, gave an entertainment in Lewiston for the benefit of the Lewiston Social Settlement, as a part of the regular work of the Bowdoin Christian Association. The entertainment was given before an audience of over 450 in the hall of the Dingley School, and was in every way a success, the program well arranged smoothly, and Morrill being special features.

Between six and eight o'clock a reception was given to the party at the Settlement House, and after the performance the party again went to the Settlement where refreshments were served and everyone was given a good time. The members who represented the Gle and Mandolin Clubs were: Pike, '07; Winchell, '07; Linnell, '07; Leydon, '07; Weed, '07; Kane, '09; Stone, '09; and Pickard, '10. The program was as follows:

PART I.

PRELIMINARY FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

The following provisional football schedule has been arranged by Manager Carl M. Robinson of next fall's football team. The schedule is not final, being subject to change.

Sept. 28—Fort Preble, at Brunswick.
Oct. 5—Exeter at Brunswick.
Oct. 12—Open.
Oct. 26—Colby, at Waterville.
Nov. 2—Tufts, at Portland.
Nov. 9—Bates, at Lewiston.
Nov. 16—University of Maine, at Brunswick.

NOTICE

All members of the three lower classes who play on, or intend to learn to play on the banjo, will please give their names to Hervey D. Bennet, '09, at the Theta Delta Chi House. If enough men respond, it is planned to work up a quartet or octet which next year, as has been done in previous years, may form a part of the Mandolin Club.

MAINE, 3; BOWDOIN, 2

Last Friday afternoon the University of Maine turned the tables on Bowdoin's hockey team at Orono, and won by a score of 3 to 2.

Bowdoin started the game off with a rush and at the end of the first half the score stood 1-0 in her favor. The second half found Maine playing faster hockey and when the twenty minutes were over the score was 1-1. In this half Hamberger was injured, but Maine withdrew his opponent and the game continued with six men on a team.

An extra ten-minute half was played, but still no score was made. Then two five-minute halves were tried but to no avail. But in a third five-minute half Dresser shot a pretty goal and things looked bright for Bowdoin, but Lamb, the Maine forward, followed with another goal, and Hosmer shot the winning goal for Maine.

MEETING OF N. E. I. A. A.

At the meeting of the officers of the N. E. I. A. A., recently held in Boston, it was definitely decided to hold the spring meet in Worcester.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:
G. W. Worthen, Dartmouth, President; R. A. Lee, Bowdoin, Vice-President; T. E. Abbott, Amherst, Secretary; J. H. Tobin, Technology, Treasurer; G. H. Griffith, Brown, H. V. Nye, Vermont, A. Seybold, Wesleyan, and W. Green, Tufts, Executive Committee.

Bowdoin was represented at the meeting by A. J. Voorhees, '07, and R. A. Lee, '08.

BOWDOIN TO HAVE AFFIRMATIVE

Manager Pike of the Debating Council received notice from the Syracuse Debating Council on Tuesday that they would defend the negative side of the question upon which the two colleges will debate. The question is the same as was debated upon at the Bradbury debate, Tuesday evening.

KAPPA SIGMA DISTRICT CONVENTION

The New England Convention of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity was held with the Harvard College Chapter last Friday and Saturday. A dance was held at Harvard Friday evening, and Saturday evening a banquet was held in Boston. Doherty, '07, represented the Bowdoin Chapter.

MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

The Massachusetts Club, which was to have taken dinner, held a meeting, and used the toboggan shoots at Casco Castle last Monday evening, was forced to postpone the meeting on account of the snow storm. The club will hold its meeting next Monday, and will leave for Freeport on the 5:15 Portland car.
BOSTON ALUMNI MEETING

On Wednesday, February 27, the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Boston met to celebrate the one-hundredth anniversary of Longfellow's birth. It was the largest meeting the association ever held, about a hundred and fifty being present. The President of the association, Sylvester B. Carter, '66, presided. President Hyde was to have been present, being kept away by ill health. In his stead Dr. Gerrish of the Medical School spoke briefly on "The College" and read a letter from Miss Alice M. Longfellow, announcing the gift of a Longfellow scholarship to the college by herself and her sister in memory of their father, the poet.

Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard spoke and paid high tribute to Longfellow, whom he said was America's greatest poet. He compared Longfellow's position in this country to that of Vergil in Rome, Dante in Italy, Shakespeare in England, and Goethe in Germany. Mr. Isaac Bassett Choate, '62, read a poem, "Apollo's Guest," which was full of quotations from Longfellow's poems and was very well received. Hon. Orville Dewey Baker, '68, gave a long and studied oration in which he criticised some of Longfellow's translations, but said he was an almost perfect poet in his original poems, "My Lost Youth," he said, was so fine that it had never been unfavorably criticised or parodied.

Professor Henry Leland Chapman, '66, spoke on Longfellow's widespread influence. His audience sat as if enchanted, hardly daring to breathe, lest they lose a word of what he said. When he finished his hearers paused a moment and then, when the spell of his words was broken, burst into a tumult of applause which lasted for minutes together.

Letters of regret were read from a number of alumni who were unable to be present. Charles P. Roberts, '45, one of the oldest graduates, sent a letter which closed with a beautiful and appropriate sentiment. When a letter from Edward P. Mitchell, '71, was read the whole body of graduates at once struck up "Phi Chi." Many present remembered when the writer came down from his room in South Maine and read this song for the first time, just as he had written it.

A notable feature of the meeting was the large number of graduates of the Medical School present. They gave Dr. Gerrish a fine reception and after the banquet crowded around him to renew their old friendship. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Sylvester B. Carter, '66; Vice-President, Dudley A. Sargent, '75, and Edwin U. Curtis, '82; Secretary, Henry L. Chapman, '91; Assistant Secretary, Ellis Spear, Jr., '98.

The poem, written by Isaac Bassett Choate, '62, which has been sent us by a well-known alumnus, was as follows:

APOLLO'S GUEST

"Pindar to supper with the god!" was said,
And then was temple door shut for the night;
On food ambrosial they banqueted,
Apollo and his guest, till morning light,
And there was music sweet
To grace the meat
Beneath the laurel and the myrtle shade,
And there was discourse free
Of victory
Won by swift chariot on the Olympic stade.

Most fitting was it at the Delphic shrine
Apollo bid the singer to his board,
To share in hospitality the wine
In golden cups by hand of Hebe poured;
For that large meed of praise,
In nobler lays
Have, ever since, heroic deeds been told;
Of past still the name
Is linked with fame
Through grace of that high honor done of old.

Song, too, has won its guerdon meet of praise
As well as brave deeds by valor wrought
When Song has helped to shape the Nation's ways,
Has served as true interpreter of thought;
And so the gifted bard
Has his reward,
Apollo's laurel wreath to shade his brow—
To honors of the lay
We chant to-day
O Pride of Bowdoin's heart, be welcome thou.

Still is the current of thy music strong,
Thy "Carillon," aye rippling ceaselessly,
Still lingers with us,—it will linger long.
As words are wedded unto melody,
   In thy low notes are heard
   The singing bird,

   The wind above us in our “whispering pines,”
   Or on the broken shore
   With ocean’s roar
   Sound solemn dirges from thy flowing lifves.

O Son of Bowdoin to that mother dear,
   Dear to her other sons in common bond,
Apollo’s favorite while singing here,
   With Pindar honored in the world beyond,
Youth that was lost to thee
   In poesy
Went as the sunrise kindles into flame,
   How that thy years have rest,
Apollo’s Guest,
   Youth comes once more,—bright immortal Fame.

FIRE IN SOUTH MAINE

Th college was called out late Saturday afternoon in response to an alarm of fire from South Maine Hall. The largest part of the fire was in room No. 8 occupied by John B. Hanrahan, ’10, and Allen Lander, ’10. It is supposed that the fire started in the closet of this room, but from what cause is not known. The room and closet were gutted by the flames, and considerable damage was done by fire in the room above occupied by Jasper S. Stahl, ’09, and Dudley Hovey, ’09. The loss in this room was, however, largely from water, as was the case in nearly every other room in the end. A large part of the plastering in several rooms fell when wet, especially in the rooms on the bottom floor.

It is estimated that the loss to the college will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $600, which is covered by insurance. The inhabitants of the end, however, were not so fortunate as there was no insurance on personal belongings. The greatest personal loss was to Hanrahan and Lander, who lost everything except the clothes they wore. Hanrahan estimates his loss as $200 in clothes, books and furniture while Lander thinks that $80 will cover his loss. In room 12 directly above the fire, Stahl had a fine library which was practically ruined by water and smoke; he says that he lost $200 worth of books and $25 worth of clothing. Hovey estimates his loss in clothing and books as $50. Other men in the end lost a number of minor articles.

A word should be said in recognition of the fine work of the Brunswick fire department. Ten minutes after the alarm sounded two companies were on the spot and to their efficiency and promptness is due the fact that more of the dormitory did not fall prey to the flames. It should also be mentioned that the iron fire escape that was put up last year, proved very useful for men to get down from the top floor without going through the thick smoke.

The men who are obliged to vacate their rooms are being placed in vacant rooms in other ends as fast as possible. As soon as the matter of insurance can be settled the college will begin work in putting the end in shape for habitation again.

WELL-KNOWN BOWDOIN MEN

In last Saturday’s Lewiston Journal appeared portraits and short accounts, of Bridgton Academy’s famous alumni. Foremost of these were to be seen the names of Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. A.; John Albion Andrew, War Governor, and Hon. Paris E. Gibson, U. S. Senator of Montana, founder of Great Falls, Montana, and delegate to the convention at which was framed the constitution of the State of Montana. These men are three of Bowdoin’s well-known alumni.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On February 28th, Mr. George W. Hinckley, who is the founder and general supervisor of Good Will Farm, spoke at the fourth of the public meetings in Hubbard Hall. Mr. Hinckley’s subject was “The Ethical Aspects of Social Service.” He said that there are to-day a great number of opportunities for the young man who is to earn a living, and it is impossible for him to succeed. Mr. Hinckley when a young man had realized that he was not a natural money getter, and he had turned to something else. He had turned to the service of boys who needed his help, and who through his help would aid in bettering and strengthening the nation. To-day he would exchange his position in the hearts and lives of his pupils for no other, and the hand grasp of a grateful pupil is worth more to him than amount of wealth.

There are many men who have spent their lives in getting money, and having amassed a fortune, have found no pleasure in the mere possession of it. This has resulted in many of them turning to philanthropy, and the number of philanthropic institutions in our country has increased so rapidly that it has created a sudden demand for leaders to carry on the good work. So to-day that line of work which Mr. Hinckley made for himself, is open and calling to thousands. The men needed are young, well educated, and morally strong, and for such are waiting salaries in proportion to their abilities, as well as the sure reward of gratitude that has meant so much to Mr. Hinckley.

Last night it was planned to have Mr. Daggett, Sec. of the Maine Y.M.C.A, speak in the Christian Association rooms, and an account of the meeting will appear in next week's Orient. On Thursday, March 14, Judge Levi Turner, A.M., of Portland, will speak in Hubbard Hall at seven o'clock on the "Ethical Aspects of the Profession of Law." A large number should take advantage of this opportunity to hear Judge Turner.

BETA THETA PI "DORG"

The twenty-sixth annual reunion and "Dorg" of the New England Chapter of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity was held in the Copley Square Hotel on Friday evening of last week.

Ex-Governor John L. Bates of Massachusetts, and Wallace C. Sabine, Dean of the Howard Scientific School, with other well-known Betas, attended as guests of honor. The members present numbered about one hundred. Ex-Gov. Bates, president of the association, presided as toast-master. The toast list was as follows:-

W. Raimond Baird Stevens, '78; Stanley E. Gunnison, St. Lawrence, '99; Geo. W. Mansfield, Wesleyan, '88; M. D. Landon, "Eli Perkins," Colgate, '01; Wallace C. Sabine, Ohio State, '86; but as the last three men were unable to be present, Otie Brown, '08, and H. W. Evans, Harvard, '83, were called upon for speeches.

Beta Sigma Chapter of Bowdoin, was represented by eight men, as follows: W. E. Roberts, '07, as delegate and N. S. Weston, '08, as alternate; the others were: L. C. Whitmore, '03; Kenneth Damren, '05; M. T. Copeland, '06; A. C. Chaibourne, '07; L. D. Mincher, '07, and R. W. Giles, '07.

ENGLISH 7

The question for the debate of March 19 has been changed to the following: "Resolved, That the State of Maine should accept the offer of the City of Portland relative to the removal of the Capitol to Portland." Speakers for the affirmative: Baldwin and Scates. Speakers for the negative: Boyce and Robinson. References are reserved on the English 7 shelves.

The Eulogies are to be delivered March 26. A few references are reserved which may be helpful to the men who are preparing eulogies.

On account of the Bates-Clark Debate at Lewiston, April 19, the final debate in the Bowdoin Debating League will be postponed probably until April 26.

The debate for March 12 will be on the following question: "Resolved, That the Federal Government should adopt a progressive inheritance tax, constitutionally conceded. Affirmative: Abbott and Delavina. Negative: Burton and Pennell.

PSI UPSILON ASSOCIATION OF WASHINGTON

Bowdoin was well represented at the twenty-second annual meeting of the Psi Upsilon Association of Washington on February 26, there being five of the alumni of that fraternity present, including John Redman and Congressman Allen. Both of these men were among the speakers of the evening. Mr. Redman was also elected first vice-president of the association.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The alumni of Sagadahoc, Lincoln and Knox counties will meet this evening at the Hotel Knox, Thomaston, for their third annual meeting and banquet. The speakers will include Governor Cobb and Senator Harold M. Sewall of Bath.
Coming Speakers

The students will be pleased to learn of the speakers who have been secured to speak in the college church. All of the speakers are men of marked ability and the privilege of hearing them speak will be a rare opportunity. The students owe many thanks to Prof. and Mrs. Files, whose generosity has made it possible to secure these men.

The Next Issue

Owing to the fact that there is but one more number of the Orient to appear in this volume, the next issue will not appear until two weeks from this date. The paper has appeared regularly the past year, and the result is that the required number is completed at an earlier date than usual. The collegiate year would easily allow 31 or 32 issues a year, instead of 30, but this had never been done in the past, owing largely to the expense, and the present board does not feel in a position to depart from the usual custom.

A Correction

An apology is due to the Orient readers for the many typographical errors that occurred in the extract from Professor Mitchell's Longfellow address printed in last week's issue. By the jugglery of the copyist "counselor" became "councillor;" "Felton," "Fulton;" "tester," "mentor;" "reasoner;" "romancer;" "Holy Mother," "Holy Motherhood;" "even drudgery," "over-drudgery."

A Criticism

A criticism that may well be offered is on the conduct of certain students in chapel. There seems to be a feeling among just a few men whom we almost hesitate to call by that title, that it is a distinction to make themselves conspicuous by causing a disturbance during the conduct of the chapel exercises. It is a distinction, in truth, but of a kind that few men will wish for. It is, of course true that there are only a few men who are guilty. These few, however, succeed in disgusting the many and it is not too much to say that if their action in this matter is a criterion to estimate their general attitude toward the college, that they are and never will be a credit to it. A Bowdoin chapel exercise is something that is forever associated with some of the noblest names in the history of our State and nation and the man who is so far forgetful of these things as to disturb the exercises by noisy demonstrations is unworthy of the privilege of attending the exercises. Let these things be stopped. The many should use their influence to suppress it. Such conduct is unworthy of any student and unworthy of the college.

LONGFELLOW MONUMENT

Under the leadership of Chief Justice Fuller of the U. S. Supreme Court, president of the Longfellow Memorial Association, a movement has been started for the erection of a statue to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in Washington. President Roosevelt is honorary regent, and a personal letter gives the project his hearty approval. Among the other regents are Ex-President Grover Cleveland, President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, Bishop Mackay-Smith of Philadelphia, Gen. Adolphus W. Greeley, U. S. A., Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York.

The authorities have granted a site in Washington on the corner of Connecticut and Rhode Island avenues, and have also voted an approciation for the pedestal.

Individual subscriptions have been received in sums from $1,000 to $10, amounting in all to $10,000, but $15,000 more is needed.

The Executive Committee has asked the well-known sculptor, William Couper, of New York, to prepare model sketches, and it is hoped to erect the statue during the centenary year. Mr. Couper's latest work—a heroic statue of Capt. John Smith, has just been completed, and is to be erected in James-town Harbor.

To aid in the collection of contributions from Boston and vicinity, the following local committee has been formed: Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., Chairman, Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, LL.D., Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Charles Eliot Norton, and Thomas Wentworth Higginson. Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston, have consented to receive contributions, which should be sent to the Longfellow Memorial Association in their care.

WELL-KNOWN SPEAKERS COMING

Through the generosity of Prof. and Mrs. Files Bowdoin students as well as the people of Brunswick, will have an opportunity of hearing some of the best speakers in the country during the remainder of the semester. The speakers and dates as at present arranged are as follows:

Each of the speakers will preach in the College church in the morning, the galleries and seats being open for the students. The speakers will also speak at chapel, but these will necessarily be brief and students will wish to attend the services.

MEETING OF OXFORD COUNTY CLUB

The Oxford County Club held its meeting for the election of officers at the Theta Delta Chi House last Saturday evening. Officers were elected as follows: A. O. Pike, ’07, President; Frank Weed, ’07, Vice-President; Carl Stone, ’09, Secretary and Treasurer. The Executive Committee is Marsh, ’09, Purington, ’08, and Atwood, ’10. A constitution was drawn up and accepted and after the business meeting refreshments were enjoyed. The next meeting of the club will be held at the Delta Upsilon House, March 25.

BANJO CLUB

A banjo club, the first since 1901, was formed at the Theta Delta Chi House last Friday night. The club plans to give a recital the last of the spring and will probably join the musical clubs the coming fall. Either Benner, ’09, or Weeks, ’10, will lead the club.

 MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

Last Monday the Massachusetts Club went to Casco Castle on the 5.15 car, took dinner, enjoyed the toboggan chute and the skating rink. Part of the club came back on the 8.15 car, the rest waiting until 9.15. The next meeting will be held probably at the Inn soon after it opens.

BOWDOIN, '10, TO RUN BATES, ’10

Manager Dugan of the Freshman relay team went to Lewiston, Friday, to confer with the Bates Freshman relay manager and made arrangements for two relay races with the Freshman team of that college. The first will be on March 20 at the Bates Indoor Meet at Lewiston. The distance run will be 200 yards at a lap and four men will compete. The second race will be at the Bowdoin Indoor Meet at the Town Hall, Brunswick, March 22. Here the distance will be 20 yards for a man and eight men will compete.

The Brunswick High School basketball team played the Phi Rho team of the Bath High in the Armory Hall on Wednesday evening. The game was followed by a dance.

Prof. Henry Johnson has made arrangements for those taking or intending to take scientific courses to have a scientific book in French for the second report in French IV.
The Coffee Club met with Prof. Sills this week. The Lyric quality of Tennyson's style in connection with that of Longfellow's, which was discussed last week was again taken up.
The Freshman delegation of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity spent Saturday evening in Portland, where they held a banquet at the Lafayette Hotel and later attended the Jefferson Theatre.

Last Saturday night the Medical Building was broken into. The marauder took nothing, and did no more damage than forcing the lock of the main door. This is the second break within a fortnight.
Mr. Joseph Pavillo, an Italian who has been engaged in religious work among the Italian residents in Maine, will speak in the vestry of the Church on the Hill Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Prof. Folsom will deliver an illustrated lecture in Memorial Hall, Saturday evening, on "Marines in Switzerland." The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Saturday Club, and will be free to the students.
The Snowshoe Club will meet at the Electric Waiting Room Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for its weekly tramp. What will be done will depend upon the weather. If possible the party will take the 2:15 car for Casco Castle and spend the afternoon in tobogganing. Otherwise the trip may be again to the Standpipe and Golf Club House. Bring lunches.
The Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship has been awarded to M. P. Whipple of the Senior Class.

The Theta Delta Chi House party will be held the 29th of this month. The Delta Upsilon House party arranged for the same day will be postponed to a later date.

The Boston Herald last week published an excellent pictures of the musical organizations, and also pictures of Professors Johnson and Mitchell, the old Longfellow House and silhouettes of Longfellow. It also lately published an article on Morrill, and his picture.

The two volumes, "Bowdoin Verse" and "Under the Bowdoin Pines," which John Clair Minot, '96, of Augusta, is publishing, are now in the hands of the binders in Boston and will be ready for delivery in a short time. Much interest is manifested among the alumni in these volumes and in response to a circular letter, sent out by Mr. Minot early in the winter, over 300 copies of each book have already been ordered. These orders have come from almost every state in the Union and several of them from foreign countries, showing that wherever Bowdoin men are, they retain a keen interest in whatever pertains to their Alma Mater. The edition of each volume is limited to 600 copies, and alumni and undergraduates who wish to make sure of copies should not delay their orders. A paper for undergraduate subscriptions may be found at the desk at the library. The books will each be of about 160 pages, illustrated, printed on heavy paper, and bound with gilt tops and rough edges. One will be bound in crimson cloth with gold design and the other in green cloth with gold design.

THE FACULTY

Prof. Little has been ill for the last few days. Professor McCrea was elected to the Brunswick School Board at the town meeting, Monday.

Professor Sills addressed the Faculty Club Monday evening at Hubbard Hall on "European Literature from 476 to 800."

Professor Sills gave an interesting address on Longfellow last Thursday afternoon and evening at the Congregational Church.

Prof. Allen Johnson gave an address in Portland, Wednesday, the occasion being the dedication of the new library of the Maine Historical Society.

On Saturday Professor Sills will attend the convention of the Maine Classical Teachers at Waterville. He will give adjourns in his Latin courses Saturday morning.

Next Saturday Professor Woodruff will attend a meeting of classical teachers at Waterville. That evening he will give an illustrated lecture on Athens at Good Will Farm and the next morning will preach there.

BOWDOIN TRUSTEES

Judge Emery will not only succeed Chief Justice Wiswell as the head of the court but will also fill the place made vacant by his death on the board of Bowdoin trustees. He has long been a member of the board of overseers and it has become a tradition that the Chief Justice of Maine shall be one of the trustees of the college. Four of the past five Chief Justices have been Bowdoin graduates. The other, Chief Justice Peters, was a Yale man but had an honorary degree from Bowdoin and was a loyal friend of the college which he served for many years as a trustee.

THE DUAL MEET

The matter of the dual meet with Tufts which was considered by the faculty last Wednesday, was referred to a special athletic committee of that body. Every student hopes that favorable action may be taken.

IN kERSCHOLASTIC DEBATE

The question for the final debate between Lewiston High and Gardiner High, which will be held in Memorial Hall April 19, has recently been submitted to Lewiston by the Gardiner team. It is "Resolved, That the best interests of the United States require the Passage of the Ship Subsidy Bill." Gardiner is already hard at work upon the question and will be prepared to go to work at once upon either the negative or the affirmative side of the question. Lewiston has not yet made known her choice of sides. Gardiner has also submitted a list of judges from which Lewiston is to select three.

ART BUILDING NOTES

On January 9 there was received from John Leland Crosby, A.M., '53, a pin such as was worn in his day by the members of the Peucinian Society. The pin is oblong, has a gold border, and on a field of black enamel a pine tree with Peucinia over it, 1805 (the date of the society's foundation) under it, and in the corners of the pin, the letters P. L. S. H. standing for the society's motto, "Pinus Loquentes Semper Habemus" (we always have the whispering pines). This Peucinian Society was founded at Bowdoin in 1805, and with its rival the Athenian Society, which was founded in 1808, played a very important part in the history of the college from about 1820 to 1870. During this time the societies grew to include nearly all the members of the college, had club rooms in one-half of the lower floor of Maine Hall, and annually held literary exercises, at which an oration was delivered and a poem read, the positions of orator and poet being considered the greatest possible honor.
an undergraduate could attain. Besides rivalry in their literary exercises, and in debates, they rivelled each other in their libraries, so that after the societies had died out, and the libraries were merged in the college library in 1880, each society was found to own a valuable collection of nearly 5,000 volumes of current books and periodicals.

There is at the Art Building this week a set of reproductions of seventeen of the world's most famous paintings. This collection will remain at Bowdoin until March 25th.

Prof. Henry Johnson gave the last of his series of four Art Building Talks, Tuesday afternoon.

LIBRARY NOTES

The library has purchased few books this month, but among those of interest are: "History of Inquisition of Spain," by H. C. Lea; "Whole Works of Alfred the Great" in two volumes; "The New York Mirror" from 1830 to 1837.; "How to Speak in Public" by G. Kleiser; "Philippine Islands" by Blair and Robertson; "Registers of Islesboro, Castine, etc.," and "Town Register of Otisfield," compiled and published principally by H. E. Mitchell, '07, and about 280 State Documents of Massachusetts.

Alumni Personals

CLASS OF 1850

Gen. Oliver Otis Howard has made arrangements with the Baker & Taylor Company for the publication in the near future of his autobiography. Gen. Howard is one of the few surviving leaders who fought in our civil war. In addition, he is an Indian fighter, having taken part in the Seminole and other campaigns. In the civil war he participated in the battle of Bull Run and many other important engagements. At Chancellorsville he lost an arm. Gen. Howard considers his work as Commissioner of the Freedman's Bureau during the reconstruction period quite on a par with his military service in importance, and in his autobiography he will take up in detail his work in this connection.

Gen. Howard is already known as an author, having written a "Life of Zachary Taylor," "Isabella of Castile," and other books.—Exchange.

CLASS OF 1853

Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, '53, is president of the Longfellow Association this year.

CLASS OF 1875

Professor Edwin H. Hall of Harvard University, who has been seriously ill, following a dangerous surgical operation, is now quite comfortable.

One of the Boston papers a short time ago contained a short sketch of Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, who was formerly at the head of the physical training work at Bowdoin and is now over the Hemenway Gymnasium at Harvard. The article spoke of the high position accorded Dr. Sargent among men of his profession and the recognized value of his books on Physical Training. As a token of his ability the presidency of the American Association for the advancement of Physical Education has been given him.

CLASS OF 1889

Emerson L. Adams is now superintendent of schools of Lincoln, R. I.

CLASS OF 1890

Dr. Walter E. Cummings of the Class of 1890 and a graduate of the Baltimore Medical School, died last Monday in Lewiston. His home was in Dexter and he came to Auburn and Lewiston, where he is well known, only a year ago. He was a man well liked and respected when in college and his classmates will be grieved to learn of his sad death.

CLASS OF 1896

An extremely learned book on "Immunity" has recently been published, and has been recommended to the Library by Dr. F. N. Whittier. It is a collection of studies on the subject and contains three monographs relating to the character and treatment of Cobra Venom, written by P. Kyes, '96.

CLASS OF 1899

Frank L. Dutton was unanimously nominated as republican candidate for mayor of Augusta, last Friday night.
CLASS OF 1905

Edwin LeF. Harvey is on the editorial staff of the New York Globe.

Paul Gould Robbins, ’05, was united in marriage Monday, Jan. 21, to Miss Carolyn Crockett of Brunswick. Mr. Robbins since graduation has been engaged in the service of the Boston & Maine Railroad and is located at Lawrence, Mass., where he and Mrs. Robbins will make their home.

Louis D. H. Weld is taking a post-graduate course in Economics at the University of Illinois, having been awarded a fellowship in that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben J. Ham, of Lewiston, this week announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel, to Donald C. White, ’05, also of Lewiston.

Rev. John E. Newton, ’05, pastor of the Congregational Church at Jewett City, Conn., was on the campus a few days ago.

James E. Emery is devoting himself to literature at his home in Bar Harbor, Me.

Stanley Williams, after spending the summer in New York, in the employ of the International Banking Co., has been sent by that company to their London office.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1905

A great many will be shocked to hear of the death of Henry A. Lermond of the Class of 1905, which occurred Tuesday noon, after a brief illness. Mr. Lermond had been recently operated on for appendicitis and was thought to be progressing favorably, when a sudden relapse took place. He has been teaching sciences at Thornton Academy, Saco. His death will cause much sorrow to a great many in college, particularly in the two upper classes, since he had the affection and respect of all who knew him. He was a member of the Beta Theta Pi and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1905 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries.

It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.

THE FEBRUARY QUILL

The last issue of the Bowdoin Quill consists largely of Longfellow and love. The Longfellow portion is distinctly the more meritorious. Prof. Sills writes of Longfellow's professorship at Bowdoin with a gracefulness that Longfellow himself would have commended, and a reviewer cannot refrain from pointing out the advantage of having as a leading article in a literary periodical a piece of writing that by its luminousness and diction will invite the undergraduate contributor to measure up to its excellence. Prof. Sills' style is limpid; some other styles found in this issue are limping. And lest its Stevensonian quality had been overlooked, the reviewer quotes one deliciously suggestive sentence: Longfellow's translations vary from the excellence of the 'Song of the Silent Land,' which is all poetry, to his great accomplishment in the translation of the Divina Commedia, which is all fidelity. With such men as Longfellow in his literary ancestry, why is not the Bowdoin undergraduate leaving a larger inheritance of literary tradition and aspiration to his posterity?

'Poets' consists of two pellets of verse manifestly alluding to the much be-centennial-ed Singer of the Average Things. They are good, though why it was necessary to fence in sixteen and two-thirds per cent. of the brief contribution with parentheses is a question to be propounded; and even when parentheses are used in verse-writing, ought they not ordinarily to be dashes? It is too bad, moreover, that the writer exchanged imagination for definition in the third line.

With 'The Surecase' love has its first inning, but fails to score very many literary 'runs.' Surely if 'she' is dead, there is 'cause for moan' as the third stanza asks. The 'darkness gray and brown' that environs the 'soul of midnight' is a darkness with which the reviewer is not acquainted. And the alarming unexpectedness with which the last two lines of the poem congratulate the love-lorn swain on the possibilities of 'more fish in the pool,' thus suggesting an entirely new and alien element into the situation, reminds the reviewer of the statement made not long ago by one of our French citizens: "I can tell you how much dat house cost, exactly. It cost one thousand, t'ree hundred, twenty-two dollair, and feefty cent—an' more too, by gar!"

"Brother John" could well have spared its split infinitive, "too spiritual to long endure," and it also exhibits a monotony of sentence-formation. Its author has apparently not yet learned the generous number of permutations and combinations possible between subject, predicate, object and modifiers. But essentially it is a virilely conceived sketch setting forth a worth-while literary subject. "I am so young to live in Hell" is as fine a stroke as anything in the magazine. Is the 'worship of the flesh' in this tale drawn from Fra Lippo Lippi or Walt Whitman?

The author of 'Love' would have hard work to do his composition into prose, the reviewer opines. It takes much clearer thinking to make prose than to make poetry. And yet there is something surely here, behind the words—something big and glowing and divine. But the writer is correct; we get it only "by inference." The verse, interesting and on its way to being good verse, reminds us of those foggy days when there is a milky thickness all around, and yet we know about where the disc of the sun is shining! Of course the italics were not necessary. When Quill poets are not suffering from parentheses, they are likely to be afflicted with italics, it seems.

"The Bottle of Gray Sand" is the best contribution in the number. It is simple, sincere, dramatic. It moves and we move with it. Hence one wishes that Mr. Stahl had not after the fashion of the newspaper syndicate story-writer, introduced at intervals sunset scenery by the inch. When he begins to "gild domes" etc., the writer's muse fails him. And why was not the last sentence better done, when the story as a whole was so well done?

With regard to 'The Question,' another piece of parenthesized verse, the first question is, What did the writer mean to say? Evidently the slovenly proof-writing that disfigures the whole issue—the reviewer searched his Webster in vain for the "tow-peaks" mentioned on page 2—was particularly cruel to "P. J. N." An exclamation point after the seventh line, though, helps to the sense a bit, and the sense is there. But here again the writer "finishes weak." And even more culpable is the bumpiness of the sentence in lines four to seven, culpable because there is no necessity of rhyme to be considered and the other lines show the writer ought to do better. It is not legitimate for even Browning to frame a sentence that jerks along like a freight train starting out of the yard. And yet he does it—and so do lesser poets.

The "Silhouettes" this month might be called a "microscop-ette," it (or they) is (or are) so brief, and fortunately the "microscop-ette" is not on love but on the other theme. As a final word, the reviewer hopes he will not be considered severe if he hints that on the whole the "Tracks" of the "Gray Goose" this month did not lead anywhere especially. In the conduct of this Editorial Department it happens occasionally that the sound of the grinding is not low, but very, very audible. And yet the ideal of "The Tracks" is a happy one. The Quill Board may well pray for some collegiate "Mr. Dooley" who can steep his criticism in humor, and then serve up to us the events of undergraduate life drenched in this attractive dressing, somewhat, let us say, like a walnut ice cream with hot fudge sauce!

In general, the prose and verse are of a worthy order, hence worth this detailed friendly criticism,—worth also having the contributors' names appear in the table of contents. The most successful undergraduate contribution, significantly enough, was not on love, of which subject undergraduates may scarcely be supposed to have a knowledge deep enough to make literature. And above all, what Austin Dobson says of the poets needs to be taken to heart also by the prose writer:

"Phoebus touched the trembling poet's ear
With one supreme commandment,
'Be thou clear!'"

HENRY ALFRED LERMOND, 1905

The death of Henry Alfred Lermond at Portland March 4th came to his classmates with a shock of pain. It was the end of a career which showed great promise of achievement and substantial usefulness. At the time of his death Lermond held the position of Instructor in Sciences at Thornton Academy. He was devoted to the study of educational problems; and his thorough training at normal school and college, his accurate scholarship, and his experience as a teacher had well fitted him for efficient work in his profession. His scholarship was of the type which is painstaking, exact, and sound rather than brilliant and erratic. In college his work was distinguished by maturity of purpose and conscientiousness. Whatever he did was done—not half done, or nine-tenths done, but done completely and on time.

But "Pa," as everyone in the class learned to call him, will be to us not so much the earnest student and teacher as the friend. We knew him as a thoughtful, reliable, helpful fellow, never boisterous but always cheerful, never asserting himself, but always to be depended on at need. He stood for what is best in college life, for work done with enthusiasm, for play that is not idleness, for high and sane ideals, for openness, sincerity, manliness. To the family who mourn our classmate we give our heart-felt sympathy.

STANLEY P. CHASE,
Sec. for the Class of 1905.

INDOOR MEET

Last Friday evening was held the 21st Annual Exhibition and 12th Annual Indoor Meet. It was a success in every way, a large crowd attended, the competition was close, and the events were run off quickly and smoothly, and in a manner reflecting great credit on the management.

There were several features of special interest. The first was the relay race between the Bates Freshmen and the Bowdoin Freshmen. The race was unusually exciting, the Bates team getting a considerable lead which they held until the last two relays, when the Bowdoin team caught up, and won by less than a yard. Another feature was the drill on the Swedish horse in which the college men did well, and in which the Brunswick Grammar and Primary School boys, among whom a young Ethiopian was prominent, drew much applause. The third feature was the breaking of the hall record in the pole-vault by Deming, '10, who cleared the bar at 9 ft. 7 in. The work of the squads was also excellent, the decision for first place being an extremely difficult one, the judges even considering the advisability of calling it a tie between the Freshmen and Sophomores.

The Class of 1909 won the Class Championship Cup and the Class of 1910 won the Prize Drill Cup, each of which the classes will hold for one year. The final score was 1909, 25; 1910, 23; 1908, 10; 1907, 9, and Specials 5.

The following is a summary of the events:
Class Drills—Won by 1910; 1909, 2d; 1908, 3d.
25-Yard Dash—First heat, Larabee, '01, 1st; Mincher, '07, 2d. Time—2 4-5 seconds.
Second Heat—Scates, '09, 1st; Deming, '10, 2d. Time—3 1-5 seconds.
Third Heat—Redman, '07, 1st; Colbath, '10, 2d. Time—2 4-5 seconds.
Fourth Heat—Atwood, '09, 1st; Taylor, '10, 2d. Time—2 4-5 seconds.
Final Heat—Scates, '09, 1st; Atwood, '09, 2d; Mincher, '07, 3d. Time—2 4-5 seconds.
Second Heat—Smith, '08, 1st; Leavitt, '08, 2d. Time—4 2-5 seconds.
Third Heat—Hurley, '09, 1st; Warren, '10, 2d. Time—4 3-5 seconds.
Final Heat—Mincher, '07, 1st; Smith, '08, 2d; Hurley, '09, 3d. Time—3 4-5 seconds.
High Jump—Atwood, '09, and Brigham, '08, tied for first and second; Edwards, '10, 3d. Height, 5 ft. 3 in.
Putting 16-lb. Shot—Gareclon, special, 1st; Newman, '10, 2d; Ashworth, '10, 3d. Distance, 33 ft. 3 in.
Pole Vault—Deming, '10, 1st; Winchell, '07, 2d; H. Burton, '09, 3d. Height—9 ft. 6 in.

RELAY RACES
1908—Smith, Timberlake, Hyde, Purington, Leavitt, Files, Donald, Samborn.
1910—Deming, Colbath, Russell, Crosby, Matthews, Hawes, Waditke, Taylor.
Won by 1910 on foul.
Won by 1909. Time—21 2-5 seconds.
Finals—1909 vs. 1910, won by 1909. Time—21 3-5s. 1907 vs. 1908, won by 1908. Time—21 1-5s.
Brunswick High defeated Morse High of Bath, time 23 seconds, and Edward Little High of Auburn defeated Lewiston High. Time—22 1-5s.

Vol. XXXVI. MARCH 29, 1907 No. 30

Delayed Number This issue of the ORIENT is delayed into the present week in order to contain the result of the Indoor Meet, since it is to be the last issue of the volume and before the Easter vacation.

The New Board The ORIENT takes pleasure in announcing the election of the following editors for the next volume of the paper: Editor-in-Chief, A. L. Robinson; Assistant Editor-in-Chief, H. H. Burton. The following new men have been elected to the board: P. J. Newman, from '09; T. Otis, W. E. Atwood, and W. E. Robinson, from 1910.

Successful Indoor Meet The Indoor Meet of last Friday evening proved one of the most successful in years. This was due to performances and to a general sharp competition which kept interest at a high pitch throughout. The men showed determination and pluck and as was said by those who have witnessed many of these meets, it was one of the best ever held. It offered every opportunity for the display of spirit and for the entertainment of guests, both of which are essential parts of our Indoor Meets.

Mean Business Several times lately, clippings have been taken from the newspapers in the reading-room in Hubbard Hall. That any student should be so mean and selfish as to mutilate these papers stamps him as unworthy of the college whose name he bears. If this thing continues the ORIENT hopes the guilty party or parties will, if detected, be summarily and severely dealt with.

Regarding Athletic Constitution The ORIENT prints a communication in another column relative to the wording of one of the clauses in the constitution and by-laws of the Athletic Council. So far as the ORIENT can learn, the writer is entirely correct and the present reading of the clause referred to is erroneous. As such it would seem that it is the duty of those in charge to see that the section is properly corrected. These things may not always appear of paramount importance, but in the long run it is for the interest of the college that such matters be given careful attention.

In Conclusion With this issue the work of editing the ORIENT passes into new hands. It is with mingled relief and regret that the present board lays aside its tasks and turns them over to their successors—relief from a task involving no small amount of work, and regret that those tasks have not been done better. It has been the purpose of the members of the board to present the undergraduate and graduate side of Bowdoin in the best possible manner. That they have succeeded only in a limited degree no one can feel more keenly than they.

Handicapped, as the editor must always be so long as his editorial work does not excuse from part of the regular college course, together with whatever other limitations that go with the personal element, have contributed to make the task from the highest success which might otherwise have been possible. Still, we may truthfully say we have tried. And if in the many hours of labor that go to make up 30 issues of a college weekly we have in any degree succeeded in voicing fearlessly and fairly the things which should have been voiced, then we shall feel amply repaid.

A COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Orient:

Dear Sir—In looking over to-day a copy of the pamphlet recently issued by the Athletic Council, containing the constitution and by-laws of the Athletic Council and the constitution of the Athletic Association, I was astonished to note the last paragraph on page 14, which reads as follows:

"Managers of different departments of athletics shall be allowed to wear the B of his department on cap or hat only."

The present Athletic Constitution was adopted in the fall of 1902 after a discussion which had continued throughout the previous spring. The provisions of that constitution were all carefully discussed, but none more carefully than those relating to the B's, as appears from the discussion of the matter in the Orient at the time. The clause as to manager's insignia was originally proposed in June, 1903 (Vol. 32, pp. 98-99) and adopted in September and October (pp. 104, 112) to read as follows:

"The managers shall be allowed to wear a B cap with a small M underneath the B. The managers shall be allowed to wear an athletic coat with the insignia of the department."

The foregoing wording did not suit the Athletic Council, and in accordance with its formal recommendations of October 10, 1902 (pp. 120, 124) and December 13, 1902 (p. 190) the following clause was by vote of the mass-meeting of January 29, 1903 (p. 225) incorporated into Constitution:

"Athletic managers shall be allowed to wear the B of their respective departments with one straight line beneath it on cap or hat only."

Even this last-mentioned wording did not suit the students as a whole, however, and accordingly the Orient was led to make an investigation into the customs of other institutions on the point, the result of which was tabulated in an editorial in the Orient on April 30, 1903 (vol. 33, p. 11). This tabulation showed that a large proportion if not a majority of Eastern Colleges and Universities make no distinction between the insignia of managers and of players. The discussion of the subject by the college was renewed on the basis of this information, and the consensus came to be that Bowdoin should observe this custom of many other colleges. At the athletic mass-meeting on Tuesday, June 2, 1903, therefore, on motion of Captain Andy Havey of the baseball team, it was voted (page 61) and unanimously, if I remember aright, that the Constitution should be amended "that managers be allowed to wear the B's of their department without restrictive lines."

Such having been the history of the matter, I am naturally surprised at the wording of the clause in the recently printed Constitution. I can find no record in the Orient of any later modification of the clause in the only way in which the Constitution can be properly amended,—i. e., by a vote at mass-meeting,—and hence it seems to me that the Constitution as printed must be in this respect both in form ungrammatical and in substance inaccurate. Perhaps in view of the vicissitudes through which the clause has passed, clerical errors are not inexcusable; but it is obvious that a diligent effort should be made to correct them, and to promulgate the Constitution in its proper form.

Very truly yours,

Clement Robinson, 1903.

A FORMER BOWDOIN INSTRUCTOR

The following from a recent issue of the Boston Sunday Herald, concerning a former Bowdoin instructor, will be of interest to Orient readers:

Brigadier-General Louis V. Caziarc, U. S. A., who was retired recently after 44 years' service, is another son ofMassachusetts to have a long and distinguished military career to his credit. He was born in Boston, July 4, 1844, and he has gone back to the city of his birth with his family to spend his years of well-earned rest. His last day of active service was marked by the presentation to him by the officers of Fort Adams, where he was stationed as a colonel of the artillery corps, of a handsome silver loving cup. There were no speeches or formalities, the colonel being surprised by his subordinate officers, who simply handed him the loving cup as a testimonial of their
CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

On March 7 the regular weekly meeting of the Christian Association was held in the Association rooms and was addressed by Mr. Cecil Daggett, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., for the State of Maine.

Mr. Daggett took for his subject, "What the World Expects of the College Man," and said that a college man is expected to be a "man," to be one who appreciates the full meaning of life, and to be a Christian.

The Mandolin Club Quartet rendered excellently two pieces as a special musical number.

On March 14, Judge Levi Turner, A.M., '86, of Portland, spoke in Hubbard Hall, giving the last of the series of talks on the "Ethical Aspects of the Professions," his profession being that of the law. About fifty students were present and the talk which Judge Turner filled with stories, was much enjoyed and loudly applauded. Judge Turner spoke of the integrity of the men whom he met in the Cumberland bar, and said that he had found by experience one thing to be true of nearly all the lawyers of his acquaintance; that they are thoroughly honest, that is, that they not only fulfill the letter of an agreement but the spirit of it. He said that of course as in all walks of life, there are some "sharpers" in the profession of law, but these are exceedingly scarce and are well guarded against by all other members of the profession. It is, he said, the business of a lawyer to protect the life, liberty, property, and reputation of his fellow-citizens, and in so doing he must do exactly what he considers just. He must be willing not only to take a client's case, but to refuse his client when in his judgment, the client should not bring suit. He must find and defend the truth, which is the fundamental purpose of all law and litigation.

Aside from speaking of lawyers, Judge Turner gave several practical suggestions to help any young man in establishing himself as most young professional men at some time seek to do, on a good basis in a new community. He should pay his bills. He should live within his means, and avoid lending as well as borrowing money. He should never use as his own the money which he may hold in some capacity for another. He should seek to make friends who shall have confidence in him, for they will be worth more to him than any amount of wealth. Finally, he must estimate things at what they are really worth, he must use common sense.

Last Thursday evening, it was expected that P. Kimball, '07, would lead the meeting, but he was unable to be present, so President Allen took charge as usual, and an informal discussion was held on the subject which was to have been Mr. Kimball's, "What College Men May Learn from Laboring Men." After the regular meeting and after two excellent solos by A. O. Pike, '07, a short business meeting was held at which it was voted that the President appoint a nominating committee of five members, who should nominate two members for each office and post their nominations if possible three days before the next meeting, which will be the last.

At this last meeting, which will be held Friday, Professor Chapman will address the students, and the annual elections will be held.
College Notes

H. V. Goodhue, ex-’07, was on the campus for several days last week.

The Freshmen out for Assistant Track Manager are Hill, Ludvig, McGhine, W. E. Robinson, Russell, Sanborn and Woodward.

J. B. Pendleton, ’09, who is well known as an intercollegiate football referee, was on the campus for a day or two last week.

The club accept his resignation, and decided to elect a manager who was not also a member of the cast. D. T. C. Drummond, ’09, was elected.

Frank Mikelsky’s younger brother, who is now at Hebron Academy, gave a remarkable exhibition of gymnastic feats during the Football Gymnasm hour recently.

Next Friday the Musical Clubs appear in Portland. After the vacation a concert will be given in Brunswick, and there is some talk of a trip to Massachusetts.

Arthur W. Hughes, ’09, has left college, and will not return until next fall. He is at present working at Black River, Saint John’s County, New Brunswick.

At a meeting of the Dramatic Club held recently, W. S. Linnell, ’07, resigned his position as manager of the club, since he had so many calls on his time that it was impossible to do the position justice.

Owing to the fact that the Sportsman’s Show is going on in Boston during the Easter vacation, it will be possible for students to purchase tickets to Boston and return, good for the first ten days in April for $4.85.

Definite arrangements have been made by the Saturday Club of Brunswick to have Mr. Leland Powers speak in Memorial Hall on April 15. Mr. Powers will give a reading in English of the famous French play, “Cyrano de Bergerac.”

On March 7th a meeting of the proctors was held in Banister Hall. Professor Foster acted as chairman. The discussion was mainly about the need of shower baths in the ends. As the expense will be small and the students are impressed with the idea, it is hoped to have two showers installed in each end during the summer vacation.

Professor Foster is intending to publish a pamphlet showing the average expenditures and incomes of the students. For this purpose, blanks have been secured, and their distribution and collection has been placed in charge of member of the course in education. The main object is to show the various means by which men are earning the whole or part of their college expenses. The project is a most worthy one, and as all information is strictly confidential, it is hoped that the fellows will experience the whole work by promptly filling out and returning these blanks.

Some of the undergraduates are showing their good judgment as book collectors by securing copies of the book by Longfellow issued by the College Library on the one-hundredth anniversary of his author’s birth. It will always hold as the first book written by the poet, though the last to be published, a unique position among his writings. The edition was so limited that only a score of copies remain unsold though a month has not passed since it was issued. Judging from the present auction prices of other books written by Longfellow during his professorship, this will double in value within the year. The French and Italian grammars, much less interesting books, now sell at over five dollars each.

THE FACULTY

Professor Sills was elected a member of the executive committee of the Maine branch of the New England Classical Association, which was organized at the Coburn Classical Institute, Waterville, on March 8.

On March 19th, Professor Mitchell addressed the students at Good Will Farm on “Longfellow, the Children’s Laureate.”

REV. ALEXANDER MCKENZIE

On March 17, Rev. Alexander McKenzie, the first of the “Bowdoin College Preachers” whom Bowdoin is to enjoy through the kindness of Professor and Mrs. Files, spoke in the Church on the Hill, and at Sunday chapel. Mr. McKenzie has for forty years been the minister of the First Congregational Church of Cambridge, Mass., has been connected with college students nearly all his life, and for the two years following the Civil War served on the Bowdoin Board of Trustees.

A large number of students attended church and were well rewarded. Mr. McKenzie, with no notes, delivered one of the finest sermons that has ever been preached in Brunswick. He said that life is not made worth while by a person’s being good, the person must also do good. We should think of life, not of death, we will all die soon and surely enough; we are here to live and the more good we do, the more valuable will be our lives. It was perhaps all right for Longfellow at the fiftieth anniversary of the graduation of his class to say, “Morituri Salutamus,” but we who are young, should cry for our motto, “Victuri Salutamus,” “We who are about to live salute you.”

In the afternoon, the chapel was crowded, and Mr. McKenzie again rewarded the students who came. He said that faith to him was one of the greatest of man’s moral relations. It seemed to him the highest possible compliments to a man, to leave him to his own devices and to feel certain that he will do his part to the very best of his ability. It is a high honor to be trusted, and it is a most contemptible shame to fail a person who has placed his trust in you.

ANNUAL MEET MAY 18

At a meeting of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Association held March 9th at the DeWitt Hotel, Lewiston, the date of the annual field meet of the Maine colleges was fixed for May 18th, with Colby College at Waterville. Manager Lee and ex-Manager Voorhees represented Bowdoin at the meeting.
NOTICE

All students who intend to compete for the Philo Sherman Bennett Prize should confer with me at once.

Allen Johnson.

LAST COLLEGE TEA

The last college tea of the season held on March 15th, was the most enjoyable and most largely attended of the year. The receiving committee consisted of Mrs. Wilmot B. Mitchell, Mrs. Allan Johnson, Mrs. Roswell C. McCrea and Mrs. William T. Foster.

The punch tables were in charge of Mrs. Franklin C. Robinson and Miss Chapman, the coffee table in charge of Mrs. William DeW. Hyde, while Mrs. Leslie A. Lee presided at the tea table. A large number of young ladies of the vicinity assisted those in charge of the tables.

The ushers from the various fraternities were: Barton, '07; Upton, '07; Atwood, '09; Kingsley, '07; Stetson, '09; Pike, '07; Roberts, '08; and D. S. Robinson, '07.

There was an unusually large number of out-of-town guests, principally from Lewiston, Auburn, and Bath.

One of the features of the tea was the beautiful decoration of the hall, the use of evergreen and potted plants being most effective.

It must be added that great credit is due the faculty ladies for the success of this tea, the last one of a most successful series.

INTER-FRATERNITY COMMITTEE

On March 12, the Interfraternity Committee met in 7 South Winthrop, to organize for the year. The purpose of the committee is to arrange any interfraternity matters, and it will furnish a direct means of reaching nearly all the student body, in any case where the whole college is concerned.

The committee elected as chairman, S. G. Haley, '07, Zeta Psi, and as Secretary, C. M. Robinson, '08, Delta Kappa Epsilon. The other members of the committee are: D. Sargent, '07, Psi Upsilon; A. J. Voorhees, '07, Theta Delta Chi; N. W. Allen, '07, Alpha Delta Chi; C. F. Stetson, '07, Delta Upsilon; C. W. Snow, '07, Beta Theta Pi; and C. N. Abbott, '08, Kappa Sigma.

The committee considered the date for next year's Initiation Night, and discussed the advisability of stopping or continuing the present pledging system. Both these matters are to be referred to the various fraternities before any action is taken.

COMMENCEMENT APPOINTMENTS

The list of Commencement appointments was announced March 7th. Of sixty-four members of the class twenty-two received appointments, which is an unusual high percentage. The list follows: Allen, Bennett, G. A. Bower, Chadbourne, Cony, Duddy, Erskine, Haley, Hupper, Hatch, Leyden, Linnell, Mincher, Pike, Pope, W. A. Robinson, Russell, Snow, Voorhees, Weed, Whipple, Whitmore.

EXTRACTS FROM A LETTER FROM THE OLDEST LIVING GRADUATE TO PROF. LITTLE

I can send you few reminiscences of my college life. The engaging labors and events of the intervening 60 years render the memories of those four years more or less hazy. They were happy and helpful, however, and I shall never cease to be grateful for them, and for the instructions and good influences of our excellent President Allen and our very able and efficient Professors—Cleaveland, Upham, Packard, Newman and Smyth—Longfellow also, whose teaching of modern languages has been very helpful to me in my work.

Your letter also revives the memory of my classmates—such as Andrews “the grand war governor,” Barker, the eminent physician, and the noble Hawaiian missionary: Field, a successful minister at Bangor, and Fiske at Bath—down to Upham so long my neighbor in New York, and Warren—ten years older than many of us, and whom we dignified as “Pater Omnium.” It was a large class and a strong one, and has done much to honor our Alma Mater and benefit humanity.

As to the future welfare of the college no suggestions occur to me as to its general interests; they are, no doubt, in good hands. One thought, however, presses upon me, springing from my position as far advanced on the ocean voyage of life, fast nearing the other shore, and supremely concerned as to the reception that awaits me there. If any men, making such an inquiry, can find peace in the belief that their good deeds far exceed their ill deeds—even though they may claim that they have been following the example of Christ—I cannot. I must have something more than the “trembling hope” of Gray’s beautiful Elegy. . . . I find repose only in a living faith in Christ, first as my atoning Saviour from sin and its fruits and then as my adored Leader in living a Christ-like life. And I have no dearer aspiration for Bowdoin than that every one of its graduates may possess, when leaving college, such a living faith and lead the consequently noblest life.

Yours very truly,

Wm. W. Rand.

LECTURE BY PROFESSOR FILES

On Saturday evening, March 8, a large number of townpeople and students gathered in Memorial Hall to listen to a lecture by Professor Files on “Rambles in Switzerland.” The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views and was especially interesting from the fact that Professor Files has lately returned from an extended visit in Switzerland and other parts of Europe.

RECENT GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY

Two books for boys by C. A. Burleigh, editor of the Kennebec Journal, have been given to the Library recently by their author. They are “The Camp on Letter K” and “Raymond Benson at Krampton.”

Lucien Howe has presented the Library with a copy of his book on the muscles of the eye.

Mr. Thomas B. Mosher of Portland has given the Library twenty volumes of modern literature which he has published recently.
PEARY’S CLASS REUNION
[Kennebec Journal.]
Commander Peary will get a great welcome by his classmates at Bowdoin when he joins them next June at Brunswick to celebrate the 30th anniversary of graduation. To be sure he will not have the North Pole with him as a decoration for the banquet board, but he will have the record of farthest north and the reputation of as the most persistent and successful Arctic explorer that the world has known. He was on hand at the 20th anniversary of graduation in 1897 and will be present next June if he is in this country. The Class of 1877 is a distinguished and loyal one and will doubtless be prominent in the annual contest for the big bronze and gold loving cup which goes to the class having back the largest proportion of its members. This cup was won last June by ’76, which had present 23 men out of 35 living, beating by one-tenth of one per cent. the Class of ’96 which had present 27 out of 46. Among the best known of Peary’s classmates in ’77 are Governor William T. Cobb, Charles W. Morse, the New York millionaire; Professor George T. Little, the librarian of Bowdoin; William G. Beale, a leading Chicago lawyer who is the partner of Robert T. Lincoln; Hon. Frank H. Hargraves of Buxton; Hon. Carroll W. Morrill of Portland; and Curtis A. Perry, the Boston artist. The class had 43 graduates who are scattered in 15 states. One of them, S. A. Gurdjian, is a native of Turkey and is now a merchant in Constantinople. When the class was back at Brunswick in 1897 for its 20th anniversary it resurrected the “Anna 77,” tombstone which has been transplanted from its original place to the terrace of one of the dormitories and carried it back to a spot in the pines near the observatory. These stones, appropriately marked, were placed in the old days with many solemn rites and ceremonies over the graves where each Sophomore Class in turn buried its mathematical books—the word “Anna” which was most prominent on the stone being an abbreviation of “analytical geometry.” The story of the burial of these books forms a leading incident in one of the Elijah Kellogg’s stories.

SECOND TEAM BASEBALL
The Second Team will play the following baseball schedule during the coming season:
April 19—Biddeford High at Biddeford (pending).
April 27—Edward Little at Anburn.
May 1—Bates 2d at Brunswick.
May 4—Leavitt Institute at Turner.
May 8—Hebron at Brunswick.
May 15—Bates 2d at Lewiston.
May 22—Fryeburg at Fryeburg.
May 25—Kent’s Hill at Kent’s Hill.
June 1—Rockland at Rockland.
June 5—Hebron at Hebron.

DEBATE POSTPONED
Owing to the fact that the date of March 29 which had been set for the Bowdoin-Syracuse debate, is unsatisfactory to the latter, the date has been set ahead to some time after the Easter recess. While it is not yet definitely settled, it seems likely that April 22 will be arranged.

BATES BASEBALL SCHEDULE
April 17—Exeter at Exeter.
April 18—New Hampshire State at Dover.
April 22—Andover at Andover.
April 23—Tufts at Medford.
April 24—Harvard at Cambridge.
April 27—Kent’s Hill at Lewiston.
May 1—Open.
May 4—Bowdoin at Brunswick.
May 8—U. of M. at Orono.
May 15—Amherst at Amherst.
May 18—N. H. State at Lewiston.
May 21—Tufts at Lewiston.
May 25—Bowdoin at Lewiston.
May 30—Bowdoin at Lewiston (exhibition).
June 1—U. of M. at Lewiston.
June 5—Colby at Lewiston.
June 8—Colby at Waterville.

MAINE BASEBALL SCHEDULE
April 20—Ricker Classical Institute at Orono.
April 25—Colby at Waterville (exhibition game).
April 26—(Pending) New Hampshire State at Durham.
April 27—Exeter at Exeter.
April 29—Harvard at Cambridge.
April 30—Tufts at Medford.
May 1—Brown at Providence.
May 2—Wesleyan at Middletown.
May 8—Bates at Orono.
May 8—State Meet.
May 15—Colby at Waterville.
May 18—Bowdoin at Brunswick.
May 22—Bowdoin at Orono.
May 23—Tufts at Orono.
May 25—Colby at Orono.
May 29—(Pending) Massachusetts Agricultural College at Orono.
June 1—Bates at Lewiston.

BASEBALL TEAM
The baseball team will leave Friday on the 5:15 train for three days’ practice on Paddock’s Island near Boston, where Coach Irwin has his summer hotel. On Wednesday the team leaves for Providence to play Brown on that afternoon, then they go to South Orange, N. J., to play Seton Hall, and the following day Fordham University at Fordham, N. Y. The men who will probably go on the trip are Files, p.; Sparks, p.; Lawrence, c.; C. Bower, c.; Hanrahan, b.; Manter, b.; Harris, ss.; Stanford, 3d.; Abbott, if.; G. Bower, c.f.; McLaughlin, sub.; A. L. Robinson, mgr., and Coach Irwin.

ALUMNI BANQUET
The Annual Banquet of the Alumni of Sagadahoc, Lincoln and Knox Counties took place March 8th at the Hotel Knox, Thomaston. Gov. Wm. T. Cobb, Mayor Rodney I. Thompson of Rockland and Prof. Robinson responded to toasts. A meeting followed the banquet.
ART BUILDING NOTES

The Art Building has recently received a gift of a considerable number of valuable coins from Miss V. Manson of Bath, Maine. These coins have been put on exhibition in the Boyd Gallery, and among those of most interest may be mentioned: Some small bronze classical coins from Pompeii, a coin issued by Rome in 268 B.C., a Sicilian Drachma issued in 415 B.C., and several modern Asiatic silver coins. Miss Wells also of Bath, has made the Art Building a valuable present of two other ancient coins. Both are Roman Consular coins that were issued in the first century before Christ, one by the Renian Family and the other by the Julian Family.

KAPPA SIGMA BANQUET

The thirteenth Annual Banquet of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity was held at the Chapter House last Saturday evening, and proved a most successful and enjoyable event. F. A. Duddy, '07, acted as toast-master and the toast list was as follows: Bowdoin and Alpha Rho, C. R. Bennett, '07; The Old Days, H. G. Farley, '03; Kappa Sigma Girls, C. P. Robinson, '08; Our Chapter House, Dr. E. W. Files, '02; Our Alumni, W. T. Rowe, '04; The Future of Alpha Rho, F. V. Delevina, '08. Among the guests of the evening were Smith, '07; Loring, '01; Fenley, '01; Files, '02; Folsom, '02; Farley, '03; Rowe, '04; Haggett, '05.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BASEBALL

At a recent organization meeting of the Bowdoin Interscholastic Baseball League, held in Banister Hall, the following schools signified their intention to become members: Edward Little, Lewiston High, Gardiner High, Brunswick High, and Leavitt Institute. Portland High School was voted into the League, the hesitancy being due to the fact that as it was late in the season there might be difficulty in arranging games with Portland. F. E. Sothard of Lewiston High was elected President of the League, and R. T. Smith of Edward Little was chosen Secretary and Treasurer.

NEW SONG BOOK

The Orient has received from Hinds & Noble a copy of a new song book which will bear comparison with the best books yet published. The edition is entitled "The Most Popular College Songs" and, as the name implies, contains all the best known and most popular college songs. The book is a valuable addition to the collection of any college man.

HISTORY CLUB

On Friday evening, March 8, the History Club met with Hyde, '08, at the home of President Hyde. The club was addressed by Dr. Louis Hatch, of Bangor, and the evening proved both enjoyable and instructive. Dr. Hatch's subject was "The Federal Army in the Revolutionary War."

DR. GRENFELL TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the missionary doctor of Labrador, with whom Adams, '07, and Gould, '08, spent a summer a year ago, will speak in the Church on the Hill, Sunday morning, April 14. Dr. Grenfell is a college man who appeals to college men, and his adventures are well worth hearing.

Alumni Personal

CLASS OF 1857

Rev. Dr. Lewis Orsmond Brastow, who for many years has occupied the chair of professor of practical theology in the Yale Divinity School, has recently resigned from that position after many years of service. He retires as professor emeritus.

CLASS OF 1902

Erwin Giles, '02, was married on Monday, February 18th, to Miss Katherine Towle of Fryeburg, Me.

CLASS OF 1906

Ralph Webber sailed for London, Jan. 2d, to enter the London office of the International Banking Corporation.

Harold Stetson, Bowdoin, is in the employ of the International Banking Corporation, being employed in the New York office.

Leon W. Parker, the son of Albert Parker of Forest Street, and a graduate of Westbrook High School, Class of 1902, and of Bowdoin College, 1906, has won the distinction of being appointed State chemist of Ohio, although he has been a resident of the Buckeye State but a year.

Currier Holman is studying law in the office of his father at Farmington, Me.

Arthur O. Putnam is with the Dodd, Mead Co., and is traveling in various parts of New England in the interest of the firm with headquarters in Boston. He has been a recent visitor at the college.
Chester A. Tuttle of the Class of 1906 has accepted a position with the New England Mutual Fire Insurance Company in Boston.

Hale, '06, and Clarke, '06, have accepted positions as assistant etymologists for the State, with headquarters at Augusta.

Obituary

CLASS OF 1874

Hon. Elbridge Gerry died in Sienna, Italy, February 2. Mr. Gerry was born in Portland August 18, 1853, and was the son of Elbridge Gerry at one time member of Congress from the Oxford District and long a resident of Portland. He was in direct descent from Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Elbridge Gerry, Junior, attended the public schools of Portland, and after taking the regular course at Phillips-Exeter Academy, entered Bowdoin College, where he graduated in the Class of 1874. In 1877 he graduated from the Harvard Law School and was admitted to the bar in Cumberland County, where he entered upon a successful practice. He was on the Governor's staff during the administration of Governor Garcelon. Subsequently he removed to New York City, where he at once attained prominence in his profession. In 1895 he was appointed by President Cleveland, Vice Consul at Havre, France. While he was there, his health failed him and after that time he was, for the most part, unable to engage in active business. He established himself at Sienna, where he resided at the time of his decease. He married Miss Jessie Sharp, daughter of a banker in Indianapolis, Ind., who survives him. They had no children. He leaves two sisters, Alice J., wife of Hon. David Stewart of Baltimore, and Elizabeth C., whose husband was an attaché of the Turkish Embassy at Rome.

Mr. Gerry was a man of brilliant attainments, and, if he had retained his health, would have won distinction anywhere. He had a wide circle of friends, both in this country and abroad, to whom the news of his death comes as a great shock.

CLASS OF 1874, MED.

Dr. James Utley of Newton, died Friday, March 15, at his home on Centre Street. He was born at New Marlboro, in the Berkshire Hills, July 13, 1840, son of Rev. Samuel Utley. In early life he practiced dentistry, but having a love for surgery, he studied it for ten years, graduating from the Bowdoin Medical School in 1874. He was the first surgeon in the Newton Hospital and had a very extensive practice. He was a very prominent Freemason and a life member of the Boston Commandery of the Knights Templars.
THE HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL
Boston, Mass.

With the completion of the new buildings, which were dedicated September 25th, 1906, this school now has facilities and equipment for teaching and research in the various branches of medicine probably unsurpassed in this country. Of the five buildings, four are devoted entirely to laboratory teaching and research. The numerous hospitals of Boston afford abundant opportunities for clinical instruction in medicine and surgery.

COURSE FOR THE DEGREE OF M.D.

A four years' course, open to bachelors of art, literature, philosophy or science, and to persons of equivalent standing, leads to the degree of M.D. The studies of the fourth year are wholly elective; they include laboratory subjects, general medicine, general surgery and the special clinical branches.

The next school year extends from September 26, 1907 to June 29, 1908.

Send for illustrated catalogue; address HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL, Boston, Mass.

See Me About a Position

I want to have a personal talk with every Bowdoin College 1906 man who will be in the market for a good position in business or technical work on or after July 1st.

If you will call and see me at the Brunswick House at any time to suit your convenience from May 4th to 5th, inclusive (afternoon or evening) I can tell you frankly just what the prospects are of securing the sort of position you want and are fitted to fill. I can give you full information concerning a great many of the best opportunities for young college men in all lines of work in the United States and several foreign countries. It will pay you, I feel sure, to see me before deciding definitely what to do after graduation.
